DIXIE HIGHWAY ROUTE CHANGED

WILL BE FROM LATONIA TO SANDFORDTOWN AND WILL CONNECT WITH OLD DIXIE AT DRY RIDGE.

Plans for the new Dixie Highway, as outlined by T. H. Cutler, Chief Engineer of the Kentucky Highway Department, will be a new four-lane divided highway from Latonia and Madison Ave., Covington, south along Madison Pike to Sandfordtown, thence through a valley and along a line east of the present road to Dry Ridge.

The new road will pass halfway between Independence on the east and Walton on the west.

S. M. Billiter, president of the inactive Dixie Highway Association, stated that the road from Florence to Walton should be resurfaced throughout its length of less than eight miles.

Billiter announced his advocacy of the improvement after the Kentucky Highway Department made public plans to relocate the Dixie Highway from Covington to Dry Ridge by moving it to the east of the present road, thereby cutting out Florence and Walton.

Billiter pointed out that the road between Florence and Walton can be widened and resurfaced immediately at a comparatively small cost, but if it is not repaired soon, he said, the present road will be destroyed by heavy traffic.

"The road can be saved if it is resurfaced with asphalt and two ten-foot strips are added," he said. The association of which Billiter is President, inactive in recent years, was largely instrumental in bringing about construction of the present Dixie Highway.

A meeting of the U. S. Highway 25 Association will be held Thursday evening at the Donald Hotel, Williamsburg, for discussion of the proposed new highway from Covington to the Tennessee line.

Ring May Aid In Identifying Body Of Elderly Woman

A gold band ring with the inscription, "Mother's Day, 1915, Will and Sadie," was found Sunday, December 25th by William Lundsford, Verona, who had taken two friends to the scene where the body was found.

Finding of the ring is thought to be the clue that may reveal the identity of the woman whose skeleton was found in a ticket near Verona, Ky., December 2.

The woman, believed to have been between 60 and 70 years old, probably was murdered early in September. She wore a blue crepe dress and jacket. A white shoe was also found in the vicinity and taken to a Cincinnati firm, in hope it also would prove a clue.

BOONE FORMS SCOUT DISTRICT

ELSMERE, ERLANGER DROP FROM KENTON-WALTER
HUFFMAN NAMED DISTRICT
COMMISSIONER.

Gunpowder District, composed of Boy Scout troops of Boone county, Elsmere and Erlanger, was organized Tuesday night, December 20 in a meeting at Town Hall, Florence.

The newest district in the Northern Kentucky Council of Boy Scouts, includes troops of Florence, Walton, Bellevue and one from Erlanger and Elsmere. Despite the fact that there are but 58 scouts in these troops, the new district has a potential scout membership of 1100, it was pointed out.

In forming the new district, Elsmere and Erlanger withdrew from the Kenton District. Boone county had no scout commissioner. The new district will provide for more complete organization in the affected areas.

Walter Huffman, Erlanger, who was elected district commissioner at the meeting, selected a nominating committee of three members who will present a ticket for a district committee at the next meeting, January 17. The meeting will be held at the courthouse in Burlington.

Record 4-H Club Year Completed

A record 4-H club year was completed in 1938, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Four hundred seventy-one of the 501 members enrolled or 94.1 per cent completed their project work. Two hundred forty-one of these members completed 284 agricultural projects valued at $17,373.00.

The above records give Boone county 4-H clubs the largest enrollment the largest number of project completions with the greatest money value in the history of the 4-H club program. The adult 4-H club leaders and the splendid type of boys and girls enrolled account for the major portion of the fine work done the past year.

The 4-H club members and leaders are undaunted in making record breaking history. They are looking forward to 1939 for even greater achievements. The 4-H clubs will begin their organization work in February. Plans are being made for a bigger and better year.

ASSESSMENT IS $216,400 LOWER

FOR STATE PURPOSES THIS YEAR-COUNTY ALSO SUFFERS DECREASE OF $30,190 IN COMPARISON YEAR AGO.

According to the records of the County Assessor the assessment for 1938 will be considerably lower this year due largely to the decrease in valuation of stock and bonds the past year.

The total assessment for State purposes this year was $10,940,995, a decrease from last year's figure of $11,157,400. The total for County purposes this year was $9,171,425, a decline of $30,190 from last year's figure. There were 2,923 listings for poll tax this year and a total of 2312 dogs listed for taxation.

Again this year, as in the past, the state report has been completed by January 1st, the amount of time allowed by the state. This is a very difficult task to complete in the short time that is allowed, but this year the entire county was assessed by one person, all books completed and the state report in by January 1st. This is the first time in many years, (probably since horse and buggy days) that one person has assessed the entire county.

In the past there has always been one or two deputies employed in order that this task could be finished on time, but this year the entire job was handled by Mr. Stephens in the same amount of time.

The County Board of Supervisors will convene the second week in February to examine the above assessment. If anyone is not satisfied with their present assessment, they are privileged to come before this board while they are in session.

In view of the fact of the increased population and property ownership, it is much harder now to complete the assessment in the time allotted as compared with the time this was done in Boone County many years ago. Mr. Stephens stated, that without the fine cooperation from all the people of the county this year, he would have been unable to reach this mark.

Special Series Of Sermons At Bellevue Baptist Church

Beginning January 8, the past or of the Bellevue Baptist Church will preach a series of sermons on "Seven Churches of Asia" each Sunday morning. There will also be a series for the night services from the general subject, "Christ as Prophecied in the Old Testament."

Each Wednesday night at 7:00 p. m. there will be presented at the prayer meeting a series of studies from both old and New Testaments under the subject of "Outstanding Mountains and Their Meaning to Christians."

Mr. Edwin Johnson, State conservation officer, was a pleasant caller at this office Tuesday.

Misses Mary Emily Burcham, Pauline Aylor of Grant and Edith Newkirk, of Butler, Ralph Maurer and William Farrell, and Harold K. Clore, of Lexington were guests of friends in Williamsburg New Year's Eve.

KEEP HIGHWAY 25 IN BOONE COUNTY

There has been considerable talk and comment during the past few weeks of a proposed plan to take U. S. Highway 25 out of Boone County, cutting out both the towns of Florence and Walton. The proposed new highway is to leave Covington at Madison Avenue, through Sandford town and intersect with the old highway between Williamstown and Walton. It is obvious the effect this would have on our two largest towns in the county, as well as all places of business along the present highway. Routing the highway around such towns as Florence and Walton is probably a very good idea, as this would eliminate all the fast through traffic and lessen the danger of crossing the main street in these towns which is a problem at the present time. But under no condition should the people of this county remain silent if plans are pushed for rerouting of this highway.

There have been no contracts let as yet, and so far as we are able to learn, no one in Boone County has been approached for right-of-ways for the new road. It has been suggested that the reason for changing the road was due to the fact officials were unable to secure the right-of-way in Boone County. This, of course, is far from the truth, and we feel sure that no person will stand in the way of an improvement that will be to the advantage of himself and his neighbor.

There will be a meeting tonight (Thursday) at Williamstown, at the Hotel Donald, and a Boone County delegation will meet at Florence at the Building and Loan Building at 6:30 and will go in one group from that point. Everyone interested in this project is urged to be at Florence at the above time, as a large delegation will carry more weight in obtaining the best results for Boone County.

FURS VALUED AT $1,000 STOLEN

Raw furs valued at approximately $1000 were stolen from the farm of M. H. Beemon of the Hopeful Road, Monday night, December 26th.

The thieves made their entrance from the rear of a shed in which the furs were being cured by digging under the foundation. Only choice furs were stolen, the thieves leaving many skunk, opossum and other light weight skins.

Among the furs stolen were 80 mink, 20 red fox, 1 grey fox, 400 muskrat, 40 racoon skins and 30 weasels.

The sheriff's office was notified of the loss early Monday morning, but an investigation revealed that the culprits had left no clues as to their identity.

J. Griesser, of Bond Hill, Cincinnati. The room was beautifully decorated with fern and blooming flowers, and gathered therein were the immediate families of the young couple.

While the wedding March was played by Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, the best man Mr. Everett Newman followed by the groom entered and took their places and came slowly down the winding stairs, the bridesmaid, Miss Louella Cason, sister of the bride, beautifully dressed in light blue tulle with bouquet of cream roses and fern. The living room of her home was rearranged to resemble a church, and was beautifully decorated with white chrysanthemums, white snapdragons, sweet pea roses, and asparagus fern branches. The impressive altar was decorated with lovely white bridal roses on a background of green rose leaves. On either end of the altar burned a tall white taper.

The ever popular Lohengrin Wedding March was played by Mrs. Rena Gann, sister of the bride. The groom's best man was Mr. William H. Vest.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Beulah Vest, sister of the bride, wore a gown of rancho rose crepe. It had a slender bodice, high neckline and Dolman sleeves. A corsage of Gruss An Aachen was completed her costume.

The bride wore a gown of teal blue ribro crepe cut along princess lines. Other features of the dress were: A scalloped pointed collar and neckerchief, puffed sleeves. $63,640.00 PAID ACP FARMERS

APPLICATION FOR PAYMENT FORMS BEING RAPIDLY COMPLETED AT COUNTY OFFICE IN BURLINGTON.

Boone county farmers will receive approximately $63,640.00 in Agricultural Conservation Program benefits for cooperation in the 1938 program, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Application for payment forms are being rapidly completed at the county office in Burlington and will be ready for farmers' signatures in about ten days. Approximately six weeks are required between the time applications are filed and payment is made.

Approximately $48,640.00 of the above payment will be made for carrying out soil building practices and $15,000.00 for tobacco acreage reductions. The soil building practice earnings exceeds the $30,680.00 earned in 1937 by $18,960.00 or 62 per cent. This represents a substantial increase in grass and legumes sown and the amount of limestone and phosphate used on soil conserving crops to protect and build up land.

EXCEEDED.

Boone county farmers are practically assured of electricity during early 1939, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Two hundred eighty-four farmers had signed on Monday of this week and approximately 35 more memberships were in hands of committees to be delivered Tuesday afternoon.

Three members per mile are required before the allotment for line construction can be secured. The remaining 109 members signed and in the office Monday were on approximately fifty miles of spur or side lines. All side lines averaging three members per mile will be included in the original allotment request while those averaging less than three per mile will be eligible to file allotment applications as soon as sufficient signers can be secured. This however will mean delay in getting electricity for these members.

The sign-up has progressed rapidly with the present membership signed in the last thirty days. Preliminary application forms for line construction are to be submitted to the association office at Owenton on Wednesday at 2:00 p. m. The district office reports funds for construction of the Boone county lines have been earmarked and will be available as soon as application forms can be completed.

RING IN THE NEW!

We have come a long way since last told the bells to herald the arrival of a new year. We have travelled many paths and byroads to lead us to the birth of a 1939. Many of us have prospered with this passing of time, others of us can scarcely say we are sorry to bid it adieu, but however our personal feelings regarding the old-the new is before us and we look upon it as bright. This community and thousands like it, have received blessings of civic advantages and face the new year with the hope of added improvements and bounties for the home town.

This closing of the book on 1938 is sad, as we grow older with its passing and life is far too short for most of us. This year has been bountiful, as all years are bountiful in some way, to all of us. The sadness that it has held has only seasoned us for experiences that might await us in other years ahead. We rejoice in the pleasant memories it holds for us and we plan for other glories and gifts in the coming new one. The local and national chapter in this book of years has had items of importance for all of us and we profited in experience in civic affairs, national crises and international entanglements. We are a much wiser people, and let us remember this—in 1939.

As hard as one may try there are always opportunities missed, tasks left undone from one year to the next. We are determined to avail ourselves of every situation which might arise in this new year that would be for the betterment of our homes and our community. We must make a program for civic, government and home improvement and we must stick to that program until completion. There are none to say that it's not a good town, an ideal community and they are proud to be a citizen. But there is no community where improvement is complete. It is our desire to give our message of good fellowship and well-wishing to all the citizens of Boone County and its surrounding territory. We hope that they join in making the new year a shining one in our local history through their willingness to cooperate. Opportunities to better ourselves and our towns lie ahead and if a man looks back over a dying year and cannot say to himself, "I have gained in both spiritual and material things," that man has himself to blame. After all a new year is born a baby with 365 days of life. We hope to have many years ahead to fill with accomplishment and achievement, but time flies.

WATCH THEM BURN!

Keep the home fires burning but watch them burn! When the thermometer sinks to low and the coal bin shows a lot of floor space, the home fires are kept busy. It is necessary to take precaution during any heating season for many fires are caused by overheated stoves and furnaces during winter months. The loss in money due to winter firing to keep the homes warm, runs into millions of dollars each year. The fires that burn alone, in the United States, cause an average loss of $7,500 a day. The equipment of the local fire department may be sufficient to serve the needs of the community but there are always fires that win despite the efforts of men and fire apparatus. Most of us are aware that fire insurance is the best guard against complete loss, but all of us haven't fire insurance. Be on your guard and carefully watch the home fires burn.

NO EXCHANGES

There is a young boy of 18 years in Georgia who says he would not swap his job for any office position that might be offered him. He has a 55-acre farm which he owns and this year he made 200 bushels of sweet potatoes, 250 bushels of corn, 800 gallons of syrup, 5 acres of cotton and a tobacco crop that was profitable. He owns 60 head of hogs, 15 beef cattle, a good cow, a storehouse containing 80 quarts of string beans, 80 quarts of tomatoes and a number of jars of peaches and other fruits. This young man asks for nothing more, is satisfied and pleased with his labor and his earnings. The worry of paying the grocery-man is not for him—he grows his own. But a case like this is not exceptional, it is only brought to the attention of readers to remind them that if it can be done in Georgia it can be done here.

IT IS PRESENT

There is always some one to remark that folks don't think about religion like they did in the old days. They usually follow this up by saying it is a "Godless Age." This is not true, we feel sure and are aware of various instances where the inclination is more for religion than in other years. The average man is as interested in religion as always, and perhaps he doesn't talk about it but the reverence and respect is nevertheless present. There are plays on the stage of religious subjects and trends of thought, there are numerous moving pictures with religious backgrounds and themes. There are many current books, fiction and nonfiction, dealing with the subject of religion. There are new folks joining churches, many of them of this younger generation. We are not living in a godless age as long as man retains his faith in his fellowman and leads an honest and upright life.

A WALKING MENACE

The popular art of arresting the motorist for accidents to pedestrians hit by cars as they walk across the roads and streets, is being modified in some sections. They are looking to the errors on the part of the pedestrian who often is to blame for accidents to auto mishaps. In order to make your highways as safe as possible, checking on the inconsistent and careless pedestrian is as necessary as checking on faulty brakes, poorly marked crossings and drunken drivers.

A case recently noted by this exchange was one in which a man was recovering in a hospital when arrested. He had been fortunate enough to suffer only minor injuries when trying to dodge traffic when the autos had the right of way. If the motorist had not been thoughtful and careful the injury might have been fatal. A policeman who saw the accident placed the entire blame on the pedestrian. This is a worthwhile example which each person should heed.

SCHOOL'S OUT

The failure of the mill levy to pass in an Ohio city in this recent election, due to a dislike for increased taxation by the majority of voters, means that the school children of this city will continue to study in city streets until arrangements can be made to settle financial difficulties. The fact that this levy has been voted down at each election regardless that the schools were going deeper into debt, and regardless of the fact that city schools are in order to operate, has resulted in the closing of these schools for an indefinite period. Arbitration between the people, their teachers, their school board may result in arrangements whereby the schools can be reopened for a period of a month and then be closed again until further taxes can be collected. This is a situation which has not entered into the present educational set-up in our own county, but it does well to realize that in like circumstances might occur if our taxes are not kept up, our teachers paid, our policies above politics. The increased cost of modern education needs sometimes an increase in taxation, but the funds should be carefully proportioned and handled in a business-like way.

PARAGRAPHS

Many a man figures that the average American is a fellow who worries this week about going to the poor house, and next week goes out and buys a automobile. Just because you look down on the other fellow is no reason that the other fellow is looking up to you.

There is many an oldster who can remember when it took only five cents to buy a ham sandwich.

A wit has mentioned, seriously, that the average man needs some one to tell him what to do. And all the time we thought that was the reason he got married.

By this time every man knows whether the mobs got much enjoyment out of his overcoat last summer.

There may be a lot of chronic complainers but this editor has never get heard any one of them complaining about his tax assessment being too low.

Maybe we will live to see the day when all highways will be widened so that two cars can start around you and meet two more cars and tangle six at one time.

There are some heavy women who won't do a thing to reduce except shrug their shoulders when they step off of the scales.

Many a reader went to school where they were taught that "Knowledge is power." Today their children believe everything is horsepower.

About the only rod the modern youngster knows anything about is a steering rod.

PETER COMMEMORATED AND REMEMBERED

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 16:13-23. GOLDEN TEXT—Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.—Matthew 16:16.

"What think ye of Christ?" This question, which was asked by Jesus Himself (Matt. 22:42), is the touchstone that tries men, and answers, organizes, and moves them. The answer to it determines character, condition, and destiny.

As we study the life of Peter and see how he responded to the question, we may not fail to apply the truth to ourselves and to those to whom we minister. This is indeed I. A Crucial Question (vv. 13-16).

With His crucifixion now only six months away our Lord in preparation for it is about to make a more definite claim to Messiahship, and thus to establish the truth in the minds of His disciples. He therefore asks this all-important question about Himself.

First, it is a general query, "Whom do men say that I am?" The answers to this question are the common opinion concerning Christ was a very high one. He had made an impression on the people of His time, and this had been true down through the ages. Even those who do not believe on Him admit that He was "the ideal representative and guide to humanity," or the person before whom everyone would kneel. Even beautiful tributes to His character and leadership are worse than meaningless unless they lead to a personal confession of Him as Lord and Saviour.

The question becomes personal as He asks, "Whom do ye say that I am?" That question no one can escape. We cannot refuse to answer. Neutrality is impossible. Whatever we do or say, or do not do or say, is a decision.

His answer is really the sum and substance of Christian doctrine. He recognized Him as the Messiah, the fulfillment of all Hebrew prophecy, and as the Son of the Living God, the Redeemer and Savior of men, the One whom centers all Christian faith.

II. A Divine Revelation (vv. 17-20).

Peter had been ready to be taught by the Holy Spirit, and therefore made a confession of Christ which was not conceived in the mind of a man but was a conviction born of the One whom centers all Christian faith.

Upon Peter's confession, which was thus really a divine revelation of the person and work of Christ, the Church was established, and Christ Himself being the chief cornerstone (1 Pet. 2:7) with Peter himself as one of the apostles built into its very foundation (Eph. 2:20).

It is His Body, and He is the Head rules over it. The gates of Hades, that is, the wicked power of the unseen world, while they now seem to have great power against the Church, shall not ultimately prevail. We have a victorious Christ.

The giving of the keys, and the authority to bind or loose have been variously interpreted. It would seem to be clear, however, that this was not intended to be any personal power to be used by Peter, and quite evidently not to be transferred by him to others. It was rather the authority to admit men into the kingdom of God as they fulfill His provisions for entrance, and to declare that those who do not enter by way of Christ must be forever barred from His sacred precincts.

III. The Shadow of the Cross (vv. 21-23).

The cross of Christ casts its shadow over the little group as Jesus begins to show to His disciples (v. 21) what He is to suffer as the Saviour of the world. The city of Jerusalem exalted to heaven by its opportunities and privileges is to be the place where He is to be nailed to the tree. "Where roses used to bloom, sin has often planted thorns." Peter in an outburst of affectionate folly tries to hinder Christ from going to the cross, and becomes for the moment the servant of Satan. He "meant well," but it is not enough to have good intentions.

The cross of Christ calls for the cross of the Christian (v. 24). Note well that this does not refer to little acts of so-called "self-denial," but rather to the denial of self. It means that self-will is set aside and God's will becomes paramount in the life (v. 24). It means the abandonment of selfish motives and desires, the losing of life for Christ's sake. Thus only do we find the real fulfillment of life (v. 25).

For God to Decide.

There are those who say, and that continually, that life is too short. That depends. What are you doing with it? For some things it is; for others it is not. In any case, it is not for us to make any declaration on that point. God knows whether it is, or is not, too short. And it is safe to leave that matter with him.—Christian Conservator.

FOOT TEST

by N. TULCH

Foot Comfort Specialist AT PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT (SHOE STORE) COVINGTON

Now friends I am going to ask you to do something which I think will give you the answer to the trouble you are having with your feet.

No, you must do just as I say, so you will understand what is meant when I say . . . Most All Weak Feet Roll Inward. Now, friends take off both shoes right now. Please stand up, both feet side by side about six to eight inches apart with the same amount of weight on each foot.

Now, this is important! Relax all muscles in your feet and legs. About 7 out of 10 of you will find that your feet go down on the inside, some of them all the way down to the floor. You probably have one of the four stages of weak feet . . . first degree, about 1/4 of the way down; second degree, 1/2 of the way down; third degree, 3/4 of the way down; and fourth degree, all the way down on what is commonly known as flat foot.

But, here's the important thing for you to remember, two important things in fact; when your feet roll inward and go down, you are shutting off the nerve and blood supply going into the bottom of your feet. The result is poor blood circulation which often lets chemical deposits or waste matter form at the joints of your feet and lower limbs.

Now, the second important thing is this, weak, inrolling feet also cramp nerves, then through nerve relaxes, some weaker part of the body is usually affected. Remember, when you cramp the nerves in your feet, you cause reflexes to be sent to some other part of the body that is more sensitive and has less resistance. Then old mother nature comes right back at you with backaches, headaches or something worse. If you are not sure about the condition of your feet, go where retained foot comfort specialists will make a thorough scientific analysis of your feet.—Adv.

KITCHEN KINKS

Add one teaspoon lemon juice to water in which rice is cooked to keep it white and fluffy. Add a pinch of soda for each two cups of sugar to help keep syrups from crystallizing. Sprinkle the soda on top while syrup is cooking and don't stir it. A paste of salt and vinegar will keep enamelware clean. Don't forget to wash lids as well as cooking utensils themselves as odor of the dish is likely to cling to a lid and cause to spoil next article cooked beneath it. Brooms, brushes, and mops should be hung on string or screw-eyes fastened to handles so the weight will not rest on the straws, bristles or strings.

PECANS MAKE GOOD HOLIDAY DESSERTS

In discussing holiday desserts, Miss Marie Baskery of the University of Kentucky home economics department, says that pecan cakes are just as popular in Kentucky as fruit cakes. She has found the following recipe a successful one:

3 pounds seeded raisins.
2½ pounds pecans
½ pound candied orange peel.
¼ pound candied cherries.
2 slices candied pineapple.

1 pound butter.
1 dozen eggs.
2 pounds sugar.

1 pound browned flour
1 pound white flour
Two-thirds cup molasses.

1 pint grapejuice
4 teaspoons nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
3 teaspoons baking powder

To the fruit and nuts add half of a pound of the white flour and mix thoroughly. Cream the butter and sugar, then add the yolks of the eggs beaten slightly. To this add the molasses, browned flour and half of the grapejuice, then the dry ingredients, the remainder of the grapejuice and the whites of the eggs beaten stiffly. The fruit and nuts are added last and thoroughly mixed. Place the batter in two six-pound molds which have been well greased and lined, both sides and bottoms, with one layer of greased paper. Bake at 325 degrees for three hours.

TOLERANCE TAUGHT IN NURSERY SCHOOL

By the time he "graduates" at the "mature" age of four years, the average tot in the University of Kentucky nursery school has learned a principle that "lasts a lifetime," says Mrs. Mary Van Cleve, in charge of the nursery school of the home economics department. That principle is that other people in his group have the same rights and privileges he does, and that he must learn to give and take if he expects to live with other people.

Only the nursery school staff and the students in home economics taking work in child care and development, are allowed to assist with the children between 9 o'clock when they arrive at the school and 3 o'clock when they are taken home. They are given daily medical inspection to see that they are well. They then engage in supervised play, rest, eating periods and the normal activities of very young childhood.

The children have opportunity to overcome temper tantrums, undue fears, food dislikes, poor sleeping habits or unfriendly conduct. Mrs. Van Cleve has found that the approval or disapproval of playmates in the group is an effective tonic, and often brings quick results.

"It is easier to learn to respect the rights of others at the age of two to four years, than to learn it later after many unhappy experiences," Mrs. Van Cleve says.

DECORATIVE GOURDS

It is time to prepare for winter table decorations. Shellac some of the small, unusual shaped gourds and squash. Select those free from blemishes and soft spots and paint with clear shellac. Dry thoroughly and they make interesting decorations, looking especially attractive in wooden bowls.

HAMILTON

Conner Carroll and daughter Catherine motored to Florida with Harry Jones and family to spend Christmas week with his aunt, Mrs. Bertha Miller.

Christmas was enjoyed to its fullest in this community, with Santa being so good and most every home had all their loved ones with them.

As we face the New Year, why not forget all unpleasant things of the past and think only of pleasant things and the blessings we have and try to overcome our mistakes, not in our own strength, but in His, from whom all blessings flow.

This community was saddened in the passing of Mrs. Trapp, of East Bend. We extend our deepest sympathy to her loved ones.

36-38 DEGREES GOOD BUTCHERING WEATHER

When temperature is 36 to 38 degrees it is a good time to butcher, says a Kentucky College of Agriculture circular called, "Killing, Cutting and Curing Pork."

Kind of hogs to kill: Well-finished, weighing 175 to 200 pounds. Heavier hogs have too much fat. Keep hogs off feed 24 hours before killing, but allow free access to water.

Temperature of scalding water: For barrel, 155 to 160 degrees; tank, 145 to 150 degrees. A temperature of 165 degrees will set the hair.

The Circular describe butchering equipment, killing and dressing, cutting up the carcass, curing the meat, and making box bacon, sausage, head cheese, scrapple, lard and pickled pigs feet.

Ask county or home agents for circular No. 261, or write to the College of Agriculture, Lexington.

THE FARM AND HOME

The use of cheese sauces often adds taste to foods that the family has grown tired of, according to the home demonstration department of the Kentucky College of Agriculture.

On winter evenings, a cheese souffle or wheel ranch made from cheese makes an excellent one-dish supper.

Mid-winter is the time when it is easy to allow the wardrobe to become dingy if not actually soiled. It pays to have dresses, sport suits, hats and coats cleaned promptly or to clean them at home.

Many farmers use slack time following tobacco stripping to put farm machinery in condition for spring work. It is a good time to have broken parts repaired, especially as it may be necessary to order them from a distance. Also oiling and painting may be needed.

A physical check-up once a year by a physician is a good rule at any age, but especially at people approach middle-age is it desirable. Serious illnesses of degenerative nature may be stopped before they begin, in many cases, if a competent examination indicates what needs to be corrected or watched.

Children at the University of Kentucky nursery school are given milk at every meal, and fruit juice at least once a day. No child should have less than a quart of milk a day. Most children like milk and will drink it without urging.

Farmers who make money from poultry do not relax their efforts during the winter, simply because it is a slack laying period. Money is made only by those who maintain a full ration, sanitary quarters, and plenty of fresh water all the year, combined with good management.

TURKEY HASH NO LONGER POPULAR

Turkey hash not wanted. So announce American housewives in registering their preference for small and medium-size holiday birds. Large birds leave too much left-over meat for hash.

E. Y. Smith, New York turkey expert, recently told a meeting of Kentucky turkey raisers about his experiences on eastern markets. Forty-three percent of housewives prefer the medium-size turkey, that is one weighing 11 to 14 pounds dressed, and 30 per cent of the women want small birds, those weighing 8 to 10 pounds.

Three-fourths of the housewives in some sections also want yellow-fleshed birds, according to Smith. Yellow meat comes from feeding yellow corn. Kentucky women, however, and women in most of the country it is said, don't pay so much attention to the color of the meat as they do to the finish of the turkey. They want well-finished birds.

HUNTING SEASON IS VERY SUCCESSFUL ONE

According to reports received by the Division of Game and Fish from the Conservation Officers and from the hunters themselves, the rabbit and quail hunting season is a very successful one.

On the opening day—Thanks-giving Day—the fields were blanketed with an approximate 4-inch snow, and in many places it was eight and ten inches in depth. This was a blessing in disguise to the rabbits and quail as many hunters who had planned to go into the fields and forests remained by their firesides and those who did brave enough to face the snow and cold, had trouble locating the rabbits and quail. Very few hunters reported killing the bag limit on either bird or animal on the opening day. As a result of this, many rabbits and quail were spared.

Rabbits are reported very plentiful and mink and are enjoying one of the best seasons in recent years. The bird hunters are also having just as much sport as the rabbit hunters because the quail season is reported the best in Kentucky in a number of years.

If sportsmen will observe the laws pertaining to bag limit and try not to become "game hogs," birds and animals that survive the hunting season will be many and will produce many more for the next season, resulting in even better hunting in future years.

TO DISCUSS SOILS, CROP IMPROVEMENT

How to grow red clover; practical experiences in reclaiming worn land; how to briar patch to grass pasture; producing high grade hay; what hybrid corn means to the farmer; making greater use of hay and pasture.

These are some of the subjects to be discussed at the annual Farm and Home Convention at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington the last week in January.

Several Kentucky farmers will relate their experiences in improving crop yields, building up hay and pasture production, controlling erosion, and handling other problems concerning the soil.

IMPROVED LIVESTOCK FOR WHITLEY COUNTY

The livestock improvement program in Whitley county, Kentucky last month included the importation from other states of 14 registered bulls. Eleven Milking Shorthorn bulls and a heifer came from Somerset county, Pennsylvania. The Shorthorns are from heavy-milking stock, but also are of a good beef type, according to County Agent Willmot Carter.

Improvement of the work stock of the county included the purchase last month of three draft mares bred to Mammoth jacks. More than 200 draft mares have been purchased by Whitley county farmers in the past year.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

Edward Parsley, Edmonson county 4-H club member, sold a calf on the Louisville market for $94.50.

In Martin county, three registered bulls were bought last month.

Marion Rogers, Bourbon county is starting a purebred sheep flock.

Lawrence county farmers interested in drs. jags and terracing work are buying tile of high grade.

Twenty-five Mason county farmers are starting poultry records at once.

A poultry flock belonging to A. D. Lee, Garrard county, made a $197-per-hen profit during the past year.

Dr. W. M. Rice, Pulaski county, has a 76-bushel per acre yield of hybrid corn on a 6-acre field.

J. C. Buster & Son, Russell county, purchased a Shorthorn bull to head a herd of purebred cattle.

Jessamine county Negro farmers are slaughtering 100 hogs and making box bacon, lard, and canning sausage.

FLOOR REGISTERS

If you have hot air heat and have several floor registers and there is also a young child crawling around on the floor you will find that placing a piece of fine wire netting inside the register hole and replacing the register, will prevent small articles poked through the register from going on down.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

By David M. Porter
The political calendar of the last year was filled with events that have much bearing on future political history.

The Wallis testimonial dinner to Chandler and the Barkley appreciation dinner opened the fireworks for a hot political campaign. Out of it came the special session and the Chandler-Wallis Welfare bill that helped state institutions. The Barkley overwhelming victory and publicity that made Chandler a national political figure and a Vice President possibility.

The Chandler-Wallis bill was the indirect cause of the Eastern State Hospital investigation and elevated Wallis as a strong contender in the next governor's race.

Two judges of the Court of Appeals died and two new ones were appointed. A Congressman was elevated to a Federal Judgeship and a new one was appointed and then elected.

Dissension developed among educational heads and lines were drawn for the coming race for Superintendent of Public Instruction. Prospective political candidates have put out feelers and the lines are being drawn for the primary this year. The races will be bitterly contested and hard fought and we will bring you the play by play account each week in this column.

CONSERVATION PROBLEMS

Many a snarled and perplexing conservation problem would be solved if all we had to do when we wanted to improve fishing was to put more fish in the streams and if all we had to do to improve hunting was to put more quail and rabbits and other animals in the fields and woods.

Unfortunately, the theory that any scarcity among our game animals is due to a permanently correct-ly simply by adding more animals, and that the more we add the more we will have, does not stand the test of practice.

No one needs to be a wind-blown farmer to know that there's more to raising crops than merely planting seeds and that it would be somewhat foolish to try to grow bananas in Alaska. In agriculture, we do not expect to raise crops simply by scattering seeds about at random, or without determining whether the soil in which we do the planting is suitable for the particular crop we want to grow. Nor do we put our livestock out to pasture on land where there is nothing or an insufficient amount for it to eat.

We also know that we cannot increase production by "choking" with more seeds a field already planned to the limit, or by adding to our livestock if our pasture land is only sufficient for the herd we already have.

Habitat is one of the factors which must be considered in connection with artificial propagation. Another, and one which bears directly on the questions of when, where and how much artificial propagation is justified, and whether it will be effective or only wasteful, is that of the rate of natural reproduction.

Artificial propagation is inevitably limited by financial cost and many other practical considerations, and the number of birds or animals that can be reared artificially is but a fraction of the number that can be reached in natural reproduction.

Quail, Deer, Wild Turkey, Coot, or any other animal or bird can be planted only where plenty of food and cover are available.

If the sections that are well-stocked with game receive additional numbers of the same species, station and diseases are certain to follow.

All these things must be taken into consideration when restocking the fields and streams of Kentucky by the Division of Game and Fish and all sportsmen and landowners should help the Division by making every effort to cooperate in the conservation of land, water, cover and food for our wildlife.

NEW STRAIN OF BROWN LEGHORNS BEING DEVELOPED IN KY.

Cooperating with the University of Kentucky, Herbert R. Helm, owner of Helm's Hatchery is developing a new strain of Brown Leghorns.

Last fall Helm imported from Denmark some of their finest and best production of Brown Leghorns for years it has been known that the Brown Leghorns in Denmark were considered the most profitable of all European breeds. They give unusual livability. In addition the Brown Leghorns of Denmark have been developed for heavy laying just like the White Leghorns have in this country. Also, the Danish Brown Leghorn lays such a large, white egg that their eggs shipped clear from Denmark to the London markets in competition with the eggs produced in England.

First Eggs From Denmark Have Been Set

The first eggs from these Denmark Brown Leghorns were set to hatch on January 9. Regular settings will be made weekly through the year. Helm's hatchery has continuously never closing his incubators. However, for the first year none of the chicks will be offered for sale to the general public, only to special selected cooperators who want to take a part in the development of this new breed. However, right from the start, a limited number of day-old males for flock improvement purposes will be available to those now raising Brown Leghorns.

It is through the interest of Dr. Martin, head of the Poultry Department of the University of Kentucky, that these Brown Leghorns are being developed in this country. Several years ago, while enjoying a boat ride together in Baltimore, Dr. Martin remarked to Mr. Helm that in his opinion the Danish Brown Leghorns were the finest of all breeds and that he hoped some day as his contribution to the poultry industry to develop in this country a new strain of Brown Leghorns based on those famous Brown Leghorns of Denmark. He was so enthusiastic on the matter that the Brown Leghorns that Mr. Helm told him he would finance the importation and that they would start at once developing this strain in America.

Dr. Martin contacted a friend of his, a European Professor in one of the big universities there and to a poultry expert, and this friend personally saw to it that the very best of Brown Leghorns were selected for the importation. A good size pen of select birds were purchased by Mr. Helm and donated to the University of Kentucky. Two different lines will be established, one by Mr. Helm and one by the University of Kentucky, and they will work and cooperate together to develop as healthy and heavy laying strain as it is possible to produce.

On January 10 some of these Brown Leghorn chicks will be on display at Helm's Hatchery at Paducah, Kentucky, and Metropolis, Illinois.

Break crisp cooked bacon left over from breakfast into potato soup. It improves the flavor. . . . Left-over mashed potatoes may be re-heated in a double boiler. When they are hot add two tablespoons of hot milk. . . . Left-over meat, even if there is very little will make a tasty dish if it is added to scrambled eggs, omelets, or rice. . . . Left-over fowl can be sliced, diced and served in creamed or scalloped mixtures or combined with other ingredients for a loaf, timbales or a soufflé.

A BEAUTY HINT

You'll have less trouble keeping your cuticle smooth and free from hangnails if you will avoid using metal instruments in your manicure. Even doctors advise mothers not to use any hard instruments in cleaning under a baby's nails, as it tends to harden the skin.

50,000 ENTITLED TO SOCIAL SECURITY BIRTHDAY

More than 50,000 workers in the area served by the Covington, Kentucky field office of the Social Security Board are entitled to join today in celebrating the second anniversary of the establishment of the Federal old-age insurance system.

This statement was made by Frank B. Decker, Jr., Manager of the Covington, Kentucky field office, in summarizing progress made in this area since the country as a whole since the social security went into effect on January 1, 1937.

"In the nation as a whole," said Mr. Decker, "more than 42,000,000 wage earners have applied for old-age insurance. Our own office, since it was opened on September 8, 1937, has issued more than 8,900 numbers for the residents of the counties which we serve. In addition, it is estimated that more than 24,000 social security numbers were issued by post offices in these eight counties before we began to type numbers in our office in the Coppin Building."

"Any worker who desires to know the status of his social security wage record for 1937 may get this information by applying on post cards which we will supply," Mr. Decker added.

The Covington, Kentucky office stressed the importance of the claims work done in the area which he serves.

"In the year 1938, 418 claims for lump-sum benefits, or money payments, now due under the old-age insurance plan and filed through our office, had been certified for payment," Mr. Decker said.

"The 418 persons to whom these checks, drawn on the Treasury of the United States, were made payable, received a total of more than $19,980. Payments are now being made to workers who reach age 65 after having worked in employment covered by the Social Security Act. Payments also are being made to the heirs or estates of workers who have died since January 1, 1937, after having been similarly employed."

Mr. Decker said that in the nation as a whole more than 265,000 such payments have been certified, amounting to more than $11,000,000. The country-wide average of claims certified in November of this year was $44.96, he added.

The Covington, Kentucky field office is one of 35 in Region V, which includes the States of Kentucky, Ohio and Michigan. Headquarters of the Region is in Cleveland, O. R. Parker being Regional Director.

Gayety Theater News

Friday and Saturday "Partners of the Night"
Sunday and Monday "Sing You Sinners"
Tuesday—"The Mysterious Rider"
Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 11 and 12—"Breaking the Ice"

"Hopalong Cassidy," America's favorite Western hero, finds the road to romance packed with dangers and thrilling adventure in Clarence E. Mulford's "Partners of the Plains," which will be shown at the Gayety Friday and Saturday.

William Boyd again portrays the high-riding cowboy he has made famous in a story packed with action, suspense, and romance.

As the picture opens, "Hopalong" chases a runaway horse across the plains and catches up with unexpected romance in the person of a beautiful but elusive English girl, who has just arrived at the ranch where "Hoppy" is foreman, and which she owns.

Although used to having her own way with everything, especially with her weakling fiancé, played by John Wardlaw, the girl encounters unexpected resistance when she sets out to put "Hoppy" at her feet. After furious battles, in which Miss Gaze even has "Hoppy" arrested as a horse-thief, the both give in to Cupid, and admit they love each other.

"Sing Crosby's latest comedy, "Sing You Sinners," which will be shown at the Gayety next Sunday and Monday, tells the story of a young man who, after being away from the fast-stepping and energetic role he played recently in "Doctor Rhythm," and plants him in a role reminiscent of the one he had in "Walkie Wedding." Bing portrays the happy-go-lucky and never-does-a-thing of a small town family who wins fame for himself and his mad-cap family by persistent nerve, and his incomparable good fortune.

Crosby is supported by an all-star cast. Don't fail to see this big picture.

Gallantry rides the range in "The Mysterious Rider." Paramount's stirring drama of war, devotion and revenge in the Old West, which delighted local outdoor action fans.

Written by Zane Grey and produced by Harry Sherman, "The Mysterious Rider" is without doubt the best thing eight of those masters of range drama has yet turned out. It packs plenty of action, thrills and love as it tells its story of an innocent outlaw who returns from his exile in the desert to save his daughter from disaster and bring to justice the murderer of his friend.

An entertaining mixture of spectacle, romance, comedy and music is the palatable fourfold attraction in "Breaking the Ice," the Bobby Breen starring picture to be shown at the Gayety, Wednesday and Thursday, January 11 and 12.

The spectacle is provided by six-year-old Irene Dare, the world's youngest figure skater; the romance by Edna Costello; the comedy by Charlie Ruggles and the music by Bobby Breen, who sings five hit numbers, three of them composed by Frank Churchill, who wrote the songs for "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

In "Breaking the Ice" young Breen has the most costly and ambitious picture of his career. In it he becomes a new personality; a likeable, yet tough kid, who fights fate with a song on his lips and dynamite in his fists.

PIE POINTS

Before you roll out your pie dough to fit it into pie pans, chill the dough thoroughly. Doing so makes it easier to handle. Never over chill pastry. It will crack when rolled and is then difficult to handle. Roll out just enough dough for one pie crust at a time. Work quickly and roll from the center to the outside. Keep shape as round as possible. Pricking pie crusts to prevent them from blistering during baking must be done through the top, sides and bottom of crust should be pricked at inch intervals. Kitchen scissors are handy to use when trimming edge from pie before baking.

FIRE LOSS IS SET AT $9,000

WHEN TRUCK AND LOAD OF WALLPAPER BURNS ON HIGHWAY 42 NEAR BEAVER LICK FRIDAY.

Loss was estimated at $9,000 in a fire that destroyed a truck and its valuable load of wallpaper in a blaze on Highway 42 near Beaver Lick, Saturday. The truck was owned by the Whitney Transfer Co. The loss was thought to have started from a defective ignition switch. The smoke and gas accumulated in the closed truck body causing an explosion soon after the driver had discovered the fire and made his way to safety.

The gas tank exploded and the tires also blew up from the intense heat. Traffic was held up for some time due to the fire.

State highway patrolmen and volunteers aided in fighting the blaze. The explosion scattered burning portions of the truck along the highway and ignited underbrush along the road.

State Patrolman Nick Winterberg, first officer on the scene, reported that patrolmen did not leave the fire until 5:15 a. m. Saturday, after seven hours' work.

The loss was estimated at $9,000 the truck being valued at $4500 and the load at $4500.

Rabbit Hash Child Injured In School Bus Accident

Little Geneva Hankinson suffered severe injuries last Thursday when she fell from the school bus. According to reports the door swung open and she fell from the bus. She was removed to the home of Remben Kirtley, and Dr. Coe of Union was summoned.

Winterberg Suspended

Nick Winterberg, efficient state highway patrolman, was notified Tuesday of his suspension for ten days pending an investigation into an accident in which he was involved last Thursday.

According to Mr. Winterberg, the tire of his motorcycle blew out as he came to the highway. He swerved to avoid hitting an auto and plunged over an embankment. He was not injured, and damage to the motorcycle was slight.

Citizens of this county were sorry to learn that he had been suspended, even though it was for only ten days, as he is one of the state's most polite and efficient patrolmen. We hope to see him back on his regular run within the next few days.

Radio Revue Opens To Capacity House

The Big Radio Revue Show which is being held at St. Henry's auditorium, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights of this week opened to a capacity audience last night and was well received by everyone there.

The stage at St. Henry has been converted into a hayloft, an exact replica of "Down on the Farm." The show opened to the strains of "She'll Be Coming 'Round the Mountain" and for about two hours there were plenty of good laughs and music of all kinds, mountain type, hill-billy, classical, popular, swing, and sacred.

Many guest artists are appearing on this show from different parts of the State, where Miss Edna Conkel the director of this show has staged similar programs. Miss Edna Conkel is being assisted at St. Henry by Miss Charlotte Dellinger.

The outstanding numbers from this show and others will appear each Tuesday over Station WAVE Louisville, Ky., with Skits Morris and his gang who broadcast daily at 12:40.

FARMERS PLAN AP MEETINGS

PURPOSE OF MEETING WILL BE TO PLAN LOCAL AGRICULTURAL IMPROVEMENT PROGRAM.

Boone County farmers will hold a series of 1939 community agricultural program planning meetings during the next two weeks, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. The purpose of these meetings will be to plan the local agricultural improvement program that the farm people of that community would like to see carried out during the remainder of the year.

Farmers cooperating in this work in the past have rendered a splendid service to the solution of local farm problems. The past year much of the hybrid corn growing work, increased use of winter cover crops, limestone, phosphate and improved varieties and methods of tobacco production, fruit, poultry, dairy, sheep and livestock improvement and other important agricultural projects were planned for and developed thru these local community programs.

Farmers interested in this work and who are willing to cooperate in the solution of these problems are urged to make plans to attend the planning meetings in their community. The dates will be announced the latter part of this week.

The family spent Sunday fishing off Palm Beach.

the men went to Covington to obtain money, leaving the third to watch the weed. The sacks containing the weed were thrown over the fence onto the Southern Railroad right-of-way. Gordon Phillips, foreman of the section crew, who was passing by examined the sacks, and reported to Robert Brugh that the men acted suspicious.

Brugh and Patrolman Conrad found, upon investigation, that the sacks contained marihuana and placed the man watching the car under arrest. He was placed in the Walton jail, and the patrolman and town marshal returned to the car to await the return of the two others.

Edwin Johnson, Brugh and Conrad made the arrest with the assistance of a federal man from Lexington. One of the men was chased approximately a mile before he was apprehended. Town Marshal Brugh, said it reminded him of a rabbit chase.

The weed was valued at $1500, and was being transported to Cincinnati. Marihuana is used in making "cigarettes" cigarettes. The prisoners were turned over to Monroe Thompson, United States Marshal, and placed in Fayette County jail in default of $7,500 bond each on charges they had possessed narcotics.

Acting on information obtained from one of the prisoners, agents went to Nicholasville Tuesday night and seized an additional one and a half bushels of marihuana.

THEY COME AND GO

It was in 1932 that America's Public Enemy No. 1, started serving a ten-year sentence for income tax evasion. There were many crimes laid at the doorstep of "scarface Al" Capone, but the law could act only with the charge state. There were many people, and some of them in this county, who believed Capone would not serve this sentence. His actual term in prison is shortened by good behavior despite the fact he is alleged to be one of the most hated criminals at Alcatraz and has been involved in a number of prison disorders. Capone, whose sentence is up on Jan. 10th, returns to Chicago a man who is affected by these years of imprisonment. A recent examination shows him mentally deranged by his experience and this may confine him for a longer period.

The recent unveiling of a windler posing as president of the nation's third largest drug firm, a man of foreign birth who started in this country smuggling cheese, has wound up a colorful career in the biggest financial coup in our history. He had the admiration and respect of leading Wall Street financiers, was listed in "Who's Who," borrowed millions upon his company's name for integrity and financial soundness, has mingled with the best people under the guise of a citizen of sound standing and vast influence both past and present.

Capone leaves Alcatraz to take up another life where his once powerful gang machine is no more. He enters the ranks of citizenship again, a sadder man. Coster, the one-time Italian cheese smuggler, uses a revolver to end his amazing career. He leaves the ranks of citizenship a wiser man. Do these outstanding examples of the fruits of lawlessness leave us a wiser people?

ADDITIONAL COMMANDMENTS

There are resolutions that are necessary for every citizen in this county to make, and to keep, in order to have his community on an equal footing with neighboring counties. They must be made, or renewed, by each native son. The records of his county may be kept clean. There are ten "musts" that should be included among the New Year's resolutions of every motorist and pedestrian in our county.

1. Keep your brakes in perfect order.
 2. Drive carefully, using hand signals at all times.
 3. Give the pedestrian a chance.
 4. Watch for school zones and school bus stops.
 5. Study automobile traffic rules and obey them.
 6. Pedestrians, look both ways before crossing the street.
 7. Don't "jay walk." Cross at intersections.
 8. Watch traffic lights and signals before crossing streets.
 9. Don't walk around an auto into traffic.
 10. Don't insist upon the right-of-way—the auto may win.
- The nation's high automobile fatality rate can be reduced by the cooperation of all of us, deaths due to carelessness and neglect can be avoided. Lend a helping hand. Keep the commandments.

GUARD THE FARMER

Investigation into un-American activities has unearthed evidence, says Chairman Dies, that Communists will attempt to form a National Farmer-Labor party within the next two years. Over a radio broadcast the farmers of America are warned to guard against such a movement, to be aware of this drive to set up a dictatorship of Communism among the tillers of the soil and the laborers of this nation. Be this fact or fiction, the American farmer is alive to the situation, he is not asleep nor is he unaware of dangers around him as well as within him. He reads his paper, he listens to his radio news. Today's farmer is hard to fool. Of course there are many strange movements cloaked under the label of Americanism, but the farmer and laborer, who are the backbone of this country, can distinguish between intolerance and common sense. Whether Mr. Dies is correct in his statement or if it is only a false alarm, the farmer and laborer can still tell the difference between a soap box and a lecture platform.

CHECK IT OFF

This seems the proper time to make plans for our budgeting for this new year. All of us have hopes, dreams and ambitions to realize in 1939. Before we go ahead with these plans let us see how our slate for the year just past looks for us. The best way to start a year right is to clear up the unfinished business of the old. This is true of debts. The best idea for keeping the head out of water for 1939 is to be sure there is no long overdue account riding the same wave with us, carried from '38. Consider your purse, consider your indebtedness and consider your merchant. The only way to continue to hold the good will of folks is to see that your bills are not carried over from year to year. Start a new year with a clean financial slate if possible.

START TO SAVE

It is of interest to all readers to remark about the yearly Christmas Savings Clubs throughout the nation who distribute a goodly sum of money at this time each year. The last three days of December see $330,000,000 paid to 7,000,000 depositors, which is a distribution about three per cent greater than in 1937. The number of club members shows a six per cent increase. The average check for 1938 was for $47. There are 4,500 banks in the U. S. that have these Christmas Clubs. This seems like a lot of figures when you fully realize that the weekly deposits are very small. However, the constant saving of 25c a week will give you a snug little sum, coming at a time when you need it most.

It would be wise, for those who do not belong to a Christmas Savings Club, to start out the New Year with a banking powder and a center a week to drop into it. It would add up in a short time and you would get the habit. See how much happier your Christmas next year will be with this extra amount to spend for gifts or personal needs. There is no monopoly happiness and we can have it in this county by preparing for the future now. All children should be taught the saving habit, whether it be a penny or a dime. The child that begins at an early age to appreciate the results of foresightedness and thrift will develop into a prudent manager in the economy of government, agriculture, politics, religion, civil and household control.

IT PAYS YOU

No matter what paper you pick up, don't overlook the ads. A recent survey in a farming district, a county about the size of Boone, shows that the readers of the weekly newspaper paid more concern to their local advertiser than to those of foreign shopping centers. The wise buyers know that his advertising merchants are the pointers of economy. Today there are none to say that advertising doesn't pay, with such companies as Wrigley, Campbell and Ford spending millions each year to tell you of the advantages of their gum, soap and automobiles. The nice feature about advertising is that it pays both those who buy and those who sell. It is a two-way gain.

Today, more than ever before, do farm groups realize the success in marketing crops of various sections as a cooperative group. The selling of oranges, strawberries and other citrus fruits makes the largest orange crop in its history this past year. The managing of the cotton, wheat and corn, crop may cause concern to national and local farm leaders, but the special crops of various sections are being handled most effectively. There are groups of farmers with their butter and other dairy products, their apples, pears, cranberries and potatoes. This latter product was given a national production and nine states participated in the support and advertising of the lowly potato. This successful selling is not necessarily the solution of the great farm problem, but it does show the importance of cooperative grading and especially advertising to put the article across to the consumer. The best selling goods on the merchants shelf are the best advertised.

PREVENT IT

If there is one thing of which you can get too much, it's everybody's special remedy for treating colds. There are always pet remedies that have cured the patient and never fails on the friends for an equal cure. Some of these favorites are good remedies but you would probably be a long time deceased if you tried all of them. After all is said and done about it, there is one item that stands out in the cold control situation. That is known as cold prevention. As far as your medical man has advanced he still is a bit reluctant to make drastic statements about the common cold. The fact that it is so common is the big reason we take extra precautions to prevent catching it. The best remedy, the one that seems to be the most tried and true, is to prevent colds through comfortable, sensible dress, good, clean air and a well-chosen diet. What we refuse to believe is that the best cure for a cold is to go to bed until relief is obtained? Two days of complete rest in bed may be the prevention of two weeks of misery on your feet. The association of folks with colds is the easiest way of spreading the complaint around the neighborhood. Use common sense with the common cold.

THOSE WERE THE DAYS

In these days when red flannel is almost an oddity and winter underwear comes in less brilliant hue, we are recalled to the difference now and the times when the decided change of fall to winter meant the change from light weight to heavy, as certain as death and taxes. The winters may not be as severe as in the old days, but there are other changes to be noted as well. One of our readers points to an account book for example. The book shows the purchase of ten yards of red flannel on April 10, 1854. Other entries showed eggs at 8c a dozen, shoes averaging $1.50 a pair, and brooms sold at 25c each. Coffee came at 50c a pound and tea $1 a pound. Candles, gunpowder, fur caps and whalebone for dress stays were listed as necessities. There were no items of cosmetics and silk hose. Wonder if folks were less happy then for not having them?

WE LIKE IT

In reading over an item dated ten years ago that stated American men were ruining their stomachs and digestive organs by indulging in the tooth-some "hot dogs" we were compelled to line it up with a recent bit of hot dog news. The promoters of the Golden Gate International Exposition have figured that the number of hot dogs to be consumed at the exposition, they will reach 273 million. This doctor, ten years ago, tried to take from us the best square meal a nickel can buy, but present day figures show that Americans continue to eat and enjoy them. So often the outcome of what they like most is put on the "mustn't touch" shelf, but it seems that the hot dog is still in favor, at least the carnivals, country fairs, roadside stands, and town "beaneries" can attest to the fact that the stomach of America still likes its hot dog.

REMEMBER THIS CASE

It is always wise to profit by the experience of someone else. It is often a costly thing to be heedless of the outcome of what our eyes to the circumstance that happen to us—! How often you will hear someone say, "you can't tell him anything, he has to find out for himself." Too bad we won't remember. For instance, here is a recent accident that is well worth remembering. Up in Canada a farmer caught the cuff of his trouser leg in his combine while examining it. It took only a few seconds for the unrelenting of the combine and somewhat bruised farmer to find out what it was only his hat and boots. Folks say it gets awfully cold in Canada!

OIL IT!

Don't forget to oil the vacuum cleaner and electric wash. This helps in good condition and they wear longer.

If your carpet sweeper squeaks, apply oil on a feather or from a small can. Use the oil on the bearings and around wheels. Then run the sweeper over a paper to catch the surplus oil. It won't drip on your rug.

POLISHING POINTS

A bottle of furniture polish on a clean dry mop works wonders on polished floors. Always rub with the grain when polishing furniture. It will polish more quickly. Dry chamolms rubbed over highly-polished furniture, which has become cloudy, streaks the surface and does not remove the cloud. Chamolms wet in cold water and wrung dry will give a better polish. Crumpled newspapers are excellent for polishing windows, pictures and mirrors.

INSPIRATIONAL

Wherefore seeing we, also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us.—Hebrews 12.

PETER SEES CHRIST'S GLORY

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 17:1-14. 14-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—We beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father, who is full of grace and truth.

Service in the name of Christ can be nothing but an empty formality, and a disappointing experience of one's inability really to help anyone, unless it is backed by a vision of the Savior in all His glory. To Peter, whose life we are studying, there came such an experience as he went with the Lord to the Mount of Transfiguration. We cannot duplicate that day of days in his life in an actual sense, but we may, as we must, withdraw to that quiet place where we may spiritually see Him whose we are and whom we serve as our transcendent Lord.

1. A mountain-top experience (vv. 1-3).
Too much of the daily life and lack of Christians is in the valley. We need now and then to come up to the high places where we may be spiritually renewed. Jesus is ready to take us as He did the three disciples, "up into a high mountain apart," so that we may be able to move our bodies, but our spirits may soar to sublime heights with Him. There He will reveal Himself in all His glory.

2. A mistaken attitude (v. 4).
Whether Peter was confused by the remarkable experience, or if it was but another expression of his unfortunate tendency to talk when he should be quiet, we do not know. But he is a representative of those who miss the supreme blessing of such a priceless moment by trying to tell God what should be done. Peter's suggestion has been accepted by our Lord there would never have been any redemption for the human race. Sin and sorrow would have reigned supreme in the earth, while he and his brethren enjoyed a season of fellowship with Moses and Elias and their Lord.

3. A divine testimony (vv. 5-7).
God spoke and scattered the confusion of men's thinking by declaring the deity of Jesus, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased. Hear ye him." We live in days of theological and philosophical confusion. We struggle in vain to resolve the moral chaos which has resulted from erroneous teaching by any arguments or by the devices of men. Let us appeal to the Word of God. It is plain, powerful, "sharper than a two-edged sword," and it will cut through all our doubts and uncertainties. "They saw no man save Jesus only."

4. A call to service (vv. 14-18).
Service should never precede vision. Vision is given as a preparation for service.

1. A needy soul (vv. 14, 15).
We live in a world of such desperate need that even the confirmed "all's well with the world" optimists are beginning to see that their rose-colored glasses cannot make them oblivious to its sin and sorrow. The boy was sad, his father was in despair, and these two things set about sum up the need of most of humanity.

2. Impotent Christian workers (vv. 16, 17).
The man brought his son to the place where he had right to expect help to the followers of Christ. But he found them without faith to help him. Little wonder, then, that those around them were still in perverse unbelief. We who profess to follow Christ, and especially those of us who say that we are His servants, should be ashamed of our impotent gestures toward our needy fellow men. There is power with God, power in prayer, power in devoted and faithful service to Christ. Let us claim it!

3. The omnipotent Saviour (v. 18).
Jesus spoke, and the demon departed. The absolute sovereignty of our Lord appears not only on the mount of glory, but shines even more brightly in the valley of need. Words do not suffice to describe Him, and yet we must by both word and life proclaim Him to the world as its living Lord and Saviour.

4. A glorious result (v. 18).
"The child was cured from that very hour."

Here is no partial solution, no "hope to help you" effort to meet man's need. Jesus met the boy's full need and at that very hour. Just so we may tell the sinner that he may come to the Saviour with the full assurance that his sin will be put away, and that by faith he will become a child of God.

Seventy Years' Capacity
Therefore, with the Lord of hosts: Because ye have not heard my words, behold, I will send and take all the families of the North, saith the Lord, and Nebuchadnezzar the king of Babylon, my servant, and will bring them against this land. . . . Moreover, I will take from them the voice of mirth, and the voice of gladness. . . . and these nations shall serve the king of Babylon seventy years.—Jeremiah 25: 8-11.

SERVICE that SATISFIES

La Nola-Morelock Stock Farms pictured herewith make up a show place of dairying and livestock raising in the Central Ohio river valley. Situated in a bend of the Ohio River near Patriot in Switzerland County, Indiana, they are the home of a herd of 100 purebred Jerseys and white-face Herefords. On three farms totaling about 500 acres, including those on which he and his wife were raised, George E. Morelock, eastern district sales manager for the International Harvester Company, is proving that this section is ideally suited for dairying and raising beef cattle.

The foundation stock of registered Herefords is of Domino and Fair x breeding. The Jersey herd is Voluntary and Wonderful Standard, two famous blood strains. Among noted animals on the farms is Bear's Wonderful Snowdrop (shown here with Mr. Morelock), the daughter of Imported Wonderful Snowdrop, a grand champion of Jerseys for several years, and a sire which is a son of You'll Do Volunteer, a famous bull. Chester White hogs and a flock of 1,500 White Rock and White Leghorn chickens are also raised on the farm.

The farms are completely equipped with modern McCormick-Deering tractors and farm machinery, and dairy equipment for milking, cooling, and separating in the dairy. A welcome awaits visitors to the farms, which are on River Road, Highway 56, between Patriot and Rising Sun.

PROTECT PROPERTY BY NEEDED REPAIRS

"Repairs to protect the property to keep the house sound and weather-tight, come first," says Earl G. Welch, extension agricultural engineer for the Kentucky College of Agriculture. "Then consider the repairs and improvements that are desirable and convenient but that can wait without injury to the building."

It is a good plan, says Mr. Welch to make a systematic inspection of the home at least once a year.

In the first list of "urgent" needs, put the repairs that will stop deterioration. First, the roof. Are there any leaks? Any broken shingles? Flashing pulled loose? Sometimes a house settles a little. This may show around the chimney. Chinks must be filled up with mortar or roofing cement and flashing nailed in place.

On the outside walls, a few nails will tighten loose siding and prevent serious damage. Gutters and down-spouts will last longer if they are cleaned and painted.

Next, the foundations of the house. Bricks may be loosened or timbers rotted. Repairs to the foundation are important and cannot be allowed to wait. Window frames can be made firm, solid, and rain-proof. Outside steps are often weather-rotted but are easily repaired.

Outside painting is one of the maintenance jobs that give considerable weather protection as well as improvement in appearance. Wood trim on door frames, window frames, porch floors and roofs require regular painting. Interior improvements can go over until these essential repairs are taken care of.

REGULATE REFRIGERATOR ACCORDING TO CONTENTS

It is useless to set the refrigerator at a rather low temperature and then pack it with hot foods and expect the job to be done efficiently, advises the Kentucky College of Agriculture. Usually the refrigerator is set at normal when it is installed—which means it can be kept partly full of food products and still they will keep cold. If, however, the machine is loaded to the brim with hot foods, and the rate not jogged up a bit, the results may be unsatisfactory. Too often homemakers leave the machine set wherever it was when it was installed. Usually explicit directions come with the refrigerator or as to how to re-set it.

The making of ice cubes is an attractive feature of the refrigerators to many farm women, but it should be kept in mind that this is not the main purpose.

By all means, the milk supply should be kept in the refrigerator, instead of in the old-fashioned cellar, good as that was in its time. Milk may be poured in large crocks or else put in milk bottles, to be placed in the machine. The crocks and jars should be cleaned thoroughly once a day. Do not put onions or bananas in the refrigerator, as other foods quickly absorb their odor or taste.

According to reports that come to the college, many refrigerators and other electric products are being bought by Kentucky farm women as a result of the rural electrification program.

THE FARM AND HOME

Food for the person recovering from illness should never be heavy and perhaps can't be varied to any extent, but it should always be tasty. Serve small portions of the foods allowed. By arranging silver carefully, having clean napkins, and everything within reach, life for the invalid can be brightened considerably.

In using electricity, it is well to remember that it is a great boon, but can also be deadly if improperly used. For instance, no one should stand in a bathroom on a wet towel and reach for the light switch. Have all wires properly covered and then stay away from them.

Consumption of turkey has increased greatly, due partly to the fact that prices are moderate but also because it is no longer known strictly as a "holiday" bird. Turkey is good at Christmas and also just as good in January, March and other months.

Milk and other dairy products have large shares of the vitamins. The average healthy person can get vitamins from dairy products, meats, vegetables and citrus fruits, without resorting to other products. As a rule, the family physician can tell whether concentrated dosages of vitamins are needed.

Fewer and better pictures has come to be the rule in many Kentucky homes, according to Miss Ida Hagman, home management specialist for the Kentucky College of Agriculture. It is also accepted that one calendar is needed in every home, but no more than that.

COUNTRY PASTORS TO MEET JAN. 25

Country and town pastors have been invited to attend a special meeting to discuss problems of the rural church January 25, during the annual Farm and Home Convention at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the Kentucky Rural Church Council.

Speakers will be Dr. R. H. Crossfield, president of Transylvania College; Dean C. L. Christensen of the University of Wisconsin; Dean William S. Taylor of the University of Kentucky; Dr. J. L. Clark, presiding elder of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South; Dr. Geo. V. Moore, head of the College of Bible at Transylvania College, and president of the Rural Church Council; the Rev. Lloyd W. Clark, Canon, Episcopal Diocese of Kentucky; Dr. E. C. Bobbitt, secretary of the Kentucky Christian Missionary Society; the Rev. George T. Kots, McKee, Ky., and Dr. W. D. Nicholls of the University of Kentucky.

BUSINESS RECORDS

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS
Keeping some kinds of records of farm operations is advocated by the department of farm economics at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. They may be just receipts and expenses, or they may be as elaborate as the farmer wishes to take time and trouble to make.

Some farmers make an inventory of their property at the beginning of the year. This includes a list of machinery, feeds, supplies, livestock and real estate. A record of receipts and expenses is more useful if it includes amounts of items sold or bought as well as dollars.

Another matter which farmers find of value includes listing the yields and production of crops, the use of fields, and records of animals.

Some farmers have complete records, showing feeds used for each kind of livestock, kind and amount of fertilizers by fields, products used by the household, and the like.

If a soul is all that we can take with us when we die, there are a lot of us headed for future relief rolls.

Most of us can remember when an application for divorce attracted a lot of unpleasant attention. It is a lot different now.

KENTUCKY 4-H CLUB NEWS

"Every Farm Boy and Girl in Bell county in 4-H club work in 1939"—this goal has been established, due to the large percentage completing projects this year. Leaders in each community are assuming responsibility for this.

Nelson County calf club members sold 15 calves for $1,200, an average of approximately $80 per calf.

Of special importance is the fact that members so managed their calves that the profit per calf ran to $32.

Eighty-eight percent of the Perry county club members taking the strawberry project completed the work. The Hazard Plunket furnished 190 boys and girls with 2,000 plants each to encourage strawberry growing in the county.

WLW Stars Take Gifts For Needy

When Christmas rolled around, admission charges to the WLW "Booze County Jamboree," stage and radio show at Music Hall, Cincinnati, were waived. Instead, those attending brought food and toys for distribution to the city's needy families. Above, Helen Dilley, the yodeling Canadian cowgirl (wearing hat) and Judy Dell of the Drifting Pioneers (right), are shown as they accepted "baskets" of food-stuffs from two young members of the audience. Helen and Judy are heard regularly on "Open House at the Jamboree," aired through WLW Fridays at 10 p. m., EST.

Starts March of Dimes.

Keith Morgan, Chairman of the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday, pins the first March of Dimes button on Arthur Carpenter, Director of Organization for the states of Tennessee, Kentucky and North and South Carolina. Mr. Carpenter received the first button during a call at national headquarters in New York City. All the states under his direction are solidly united in the March of Dimes campaign and in celebrations which will be held January 30 in honor of President Roosevelt's 57th birthday. Left to right, Arthur Carpenter and Keith Morgan.

DeVore Sisters In Stage Appearance

The DeVore Sisters, stars of WLW's "Moon River" program, played a New Year's week engagement at the Shubert Theater, Cincinnati, where thousands saw the beautiful singers of the late hour broadcast. They are shown as they signed a contract in the office of Colonel Arthur Freudenfeld, Midwest manager of RKO. Left to right are Billie, Marjorie, Colonel Freudenfeld, and Ruth. "Moon River" is heard over WLW from midnight to 12:30 a. m., EST, daily.

Hart county Utopia club members made a good yield with hybrid corn. They are having the corn graded and certified and are selling on the local market. First plans were to sell to commercial seed houses.

Henderson county club members sold $3,837 worth of beef calves in 1938, and in addition won $1137 in prizes. Club members in the county now have 15 calves on feed for a show at Evansville, Ind., and 46 for the Louisville show.

Pike County's champion corn grower produced 84 bushels of hybrid corn on an acre. Several boys grew corn that made 50 to 60 bushels to the acre. Approximately 50 boys and girls exhibited corn at a show at Pikeville.

Boys and girls and leaders attended planning meetings in each community in Gallatin county. At some meetings as many as 12 leaders were present, and each accepted responsibility for some phase of club work.

WANTED: BETTER HOME PICTURES

Women in Madison county, Kentucky, in attending a home-makers' course in house furnishings, discovered that they seldom or never looked at pictures hung in their homes; didn't know whether they were appropriate, whether they were hung correctly and properly placed; and in some instances could not remember what pictures they had in their homes.

The course, given under the guidance of Mrs. Eula G. Collis, county home demonstration agent, has for its purpose revitalizing interest in good home pictures, proper framing, appropriate selection and hanging.

HYBRID CORN GIVES OUTSTANDING YIELDS

Two Kentucky farmers who tried growing hybrid corn this year reported yields of 10 to 50 percent over common kinds of corn.

Kentucky white hybrids produced more than 10 per cent over Pride of Saline, the highest yielding common variety, and the best yellow hybrid produced a fourth more than Reid's Yellow Dent.

The average increase over Reid's Yellow Dent was 143 bushels to the acre. Assuming that one bushel of seed plants eight acres, the increase in production from an investment of $8 for Kentucky white hybrid seed, as compared with Reid's Yellow Dent, would amount to 114 bushels, which, at 50 cents a bushel, would be worth $57.

Or, stating the value of hybrid corn in another way, a farmer who has been planting 10 acres of Reid's Yellow Dent could produce the same number of bushels on 7½ acres by using hybrid seed.

Farmers also reported hybrid corn had stronger stalks and stood up better than common kinds, according to W. C. Johnston of the Kentucky College of Agriculture. Also the quality of the hybrid grain usually was good.

R. D. Lewis, secretary of the Ohio Hybrid Corn Breeders' Association, will discuss hybrid corn growing at the Farm and Home Convention to be held at the Experiment Station at Lexington the latter part of January.

DEAR Mrs. Post: On which side of the aisle do the bride's parents and friends sit? A friend tells me their correct places are on the left but does she mean left from the position of the pews or of the chancel?

Answer: They sit on the left side entering the chancel and facing the chancel.

To Be Wed in Brown
DEAR Mrs. Post: I am being married in a street dress in the presence of only a dozen relatives and friends. I intended getting a brown dress since my traveling coat is of mixed browns with a heavy collar, but on second thought perhaps brown would be as unsuitable on this occasion as black. I am referring to the superstition that black suggests bad luck for those in the wedding.

Answer: The reason black is avoided at weddings is that it is the color of mourning. There is no such association with brown. The only possible criticism of brown is that it might seem somewhat less lightened in some way by color at your throat or by carrying bright colored flowers.

Birthday Gift Puzzle.
DEAR Mrs. Post: My sister and I are invited to the birthday party of a neighbor's son. Mother and this neighbor are dear friends but we hardly know the son. Are we each supposed to take birthday presents to the party? We always take presents to other birthday parties but in these cases we knew the hostess or host very well. And yet we would hate to arrive at the party the only ones to be empty-handed. What do you suggest that we do?

Answer: If I were you I would take a trifling present from both of you together—not because it is necessary, or even customary to take a present to one whom you scarcely know, but because he is the son of your mother's friend.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

By David M. Porter

Sometime ago we put ourselves out on a limb by making a prediction on the coming Governor's race. The limb has, through the months, grown stronger and stronger, and we may put ourselves up as fortune tellers for business in the coming year, because events seem to indicate that what we said will come true.

The State political big wigs are divided into two factions. The administration, under Governor Chandler and Keen Johnson, and the anti-administration, under Barkley, Logan and Rhea, with the Brennan faction in Louisville aligned with them.

The present situation is that Lieutenant Governor Keen Johnson will be the administration candidate, although, rumor has it that Dan Talbott is luke warm in this direction. The anti-adminis-

WEAR FEET AFFECT BODY

by N. TULCH

Foot Comfort Specialist
AT PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT (SHOE STORE) COVINGTON

When feet are permitted to protrude inwardly, the bony structure of the foot goes down, shutting off the nerve and blood supply in the bottom of the foot. When you cramp or choke the blood stream, and slow up circulation, there is a lack of bone repair; chemical deposits, or waste matter form at the points. Next inflammation sets in at these points causing pain. That inflammation is often mistaken for rheumatism, arthritis and many other ailments. Also when you cramp the blood supply you shut off the food supply to the nerve.

When nerves are impoverished, muscle tone is impaired because sensory nerves indirectly control motor nerves which in turn control the muscles. When muscles in feet have their tonicity due to impoverishment of the nerves, feet are no longer subconsciously held in normal position.

Surgical shoes give support to the vital arches in the feet releasing cramped nerves and blood vessels to promote better circulation. Gradually as circulation improves, muscles grow strong and regain their tonicity.

With foot health improved the persons feels better all over. Research has shown that no less than thirty-seven diseases are indirectly caused by bad feet.

Don't take chances with your health, happiness and peace of mind. With foot comfort you'll live longer and feel better.—Adv.

HONEY HAS MANY USES IN BAKING

Bakers make much of the fact that they use honey in baking. They do this to keep their products from drying out too rapidly. The same principle works equally well in cakes and other products baked in the home, says Miss Florence Emlay of the home demonstration section of the Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Honey takes up moisture rapidly and holds it, so cakes, steamed puddings, cookies and candies made with it stay moist a long time. But confections and frostings made with honey will remain undecorated soft and sticky and take up more moisture if the air is humid.

One can substitute honey for sugar in a cake recipe, but because of the moisture in the honey less liquid is needed. The amount that the liquid must be reduced depends on the kind of honey—medium, thick or thin, and on the proportion of honey substituted for sugar.

When medium-thick honey is substituted for half the sugar in a cake recipe, reduce the liquid one-fourth. If honey is substituted for all the sugar, reduce the liquid one-half.

Honey may be used in gingerbread, brown breads and steamed puddings. It has much the same consistency as molasses and may be used in place of it, measure for measure. But honey contains less acid than molasses, so leave out the soda if it is called for and increase the quantity of baking powder. For each quarter teaspoon omitted, add one teaspoon of baking powder. Otherwise follow the usual method in the recipe you are accustomed to, including time and temperature of baking.

W. M. STEPHENSON
The Name Josephine
The name Josephine, feminine form of the Hebrew Joseph, has the same meaning—"she shall add (children)." The name commemorates the happy exclamation of the mother of the patriarch Joseph at his birth—"The Lord shall add to me another son." Josephine, empress of France (1763-1814), most famous person ever to bear the name, must have found its meaning at her birth. For, since it was because she bore him no son that Napoleon divorced her.

From what we have seen of gas masks, it is our belief that the Europeans may succeed in making a war look awfully silly.

Men of the Mounted

by Captain G. Elliott-Nightingale
Copyright, WNUSEND A REGIMENT? NO,
SEND FOUR MEN

THE difference between the American and Canadian methods of handling troublesome Indians was clearly demonstrated back in the late nineties when about four hundred Wood Cree Indians, fearing that they would be involved in the violation of a certain treaty between the Cree tribes and the Canadian government, sneaked quietly away from their reservation.

The small groups one night and slipped across the border into Montana. Upon assembling there, the American peace officers and military men told the Wood Cree chiefs that they had better go back to Canada, because Uncle Sam had more Indians than he needed.

The Cree refused to depart and stayed "where they'd camped," threatening all kinds of trouble if they were bothered in any way. The result of this defiant attitude was that a thousand United States cavalrymen were sent across the border and herding them north to the border.

While the party was en route, messages concerning the return of the Cree were hurried through to the Assiniboine authorities, and the Northwest Mounted Police, requesting that an armed force be at the border to take charge of the returning Wood Cree. The messages were to the effect that the Wood Cree were a murderous lot and would take some handling, if trouble or massacre were to be prevented.

Arriving at the designated crossing place on the border, the American colonel of cavalry was quite disappointed at not finding a regiment of red-coated infantrymen through to the Assiniboine authorities, and the Northwest Mounted Police, requesting that an armed force be at the border to take charge of the returning Wood Cree. The messages were to the effect that the Wood Cree were a murderous lot and would take some handling, if trouble or massacre were to be prevented.

Gaiety Theater News

Friday and Saturday, "Hoosier Schoolboy"
Sun. and Monday—"Straight Place and Show"
Tuesday, "Mr. Doodle Kicks Off"
Wed. and Thursday, January 13-19
"Steamboat Round The Bend."

Damon Runyon, the comic writer never laughs. Fellow members of the "Thantatops Social and Inside Straight Club" will tell you that not only doesn't he laugh at their quips, but shows no amusement at his own.

The Ritz Brothers, on the other hand are laughing all the time. Long ago a hold-up man entered their poor Brooklyn home under the impression that it was the First National Bank and tied the boys in bed. They've been un-bounded and gagging ever since. Picture, then, Damon Runyon practically rolling in the aisles (for him) and the Ritzes sitting dourly in the projection room at 20th Century-Fox where Associate Producer David Hempstead ran off a preview of their picture, Damon Runyon's "Straight, Place and Show," which will be shown at the Gaiety Sunday and Monday.

Observers who saw Runyon's customary "dead pan" shattered by a grin several times during the run of the film inquired the reason for such outbursts of uncontrolled hilarity. "Discomfited at having been caught in such a disgraceful exhibition, all Runyon would say was 'It must have been something I wrote.'"

The Ritzes, however, remained long-faced throughout the picture. "That's a swell sign," declared Hempstead. "It means that we have a wov of a comedy. Whenever those Ritz boys finish a picture they feel downhearted because they don't see at the moment how they can do a better one next time. And yet they always do!"

Richard Arlen, Ethel Merman and Phyllis Brooks cut the corners on the swiftly paced romantic triangle. George Barbier and Willie Best are included in the featured cast.

Tuesday

Joe Penner, popular radio and film comedian, dons gridiron attire for his current laugh vehicle, "Mr. Doodle Kicks Off." He plays the lazy heir of an industrial baron whose highest ambition is to direct his own orchestra, although his father wants him to become a pigskin star.

Forced into a football uniform and turned into a gridiron sensation by the combined efforts of the whole college, Penner finds himself in plenty of hot water because his father's promised endowment to the school has prompted the faculty to exert every effort to make him a star athlete. The ensuing climax is hectic and hilarious!

Richard Lane, known as Droopy on the comedian's radio program, seen as a football coach in this RKO radio picture, while pretty June Trals has the feminine lead. Others in the cast are Ben Alexander, Billy Gilbert, Jack Carson and Alan Bruce.

People and Spots in the Late News

MACHINE RAZES CANE... Knives and saws of this mechanical giant, invented by S. C. Thomson of Labadeville, La., cut down 30 tons of sugar cane an hour. Safeguard against labor shortage, it releases 50 to 150 human cutters to labor in sugar mills where they are needed.

MONSTER FROM MARS? ... No, just an ordinary gridiron warrior wearing all the safety equipment demonstrated at National Football Coaches Association meeting in Chicago. Gear is designed largely for practice sessions, where injuries often occur.

$10,000,000 TONIC ... National prosperity formula was seen in "New England Days" campaign during which chain stores bought $10,000,000 worth of Northeastern farm and factory products in 10 days. Arthur H. Rogow (above), chairman of chain committee sponsoring drive, cited it as possible prescription for U. S. business tonic.

UP POLITICAL LADDER ... Harry L. Hopkins (right), former WPA administrator, was elevated to Cabinet as Secretary of Commerce to succeed Daniel C. Roper. At the same time Col. F. C. Harrington (left), army officer who was chief WPA engineer, was appointed to fill Hopkins' old job.

"SYNTHETIC" DEBUT ... Seen on smart socialites at southern resorts this winter for first time were beach tops, such as this marine blue taffeta decorated with hearts, "duranized" with kerosene, new synthetic rubberlike material which makes them waterproof, sunproof, acidproof, odorless and washable.

OLD U. S. 25 HIGHWAY ASSOCIATION TO BE REORGANIZED JAN. 24

One Hundred Attend Meeting of Association At Zimmer Gardens Tuesday Night—Committee Reports Result of Conference

A meeting of Highway 25 Association was called to order by the temporary chairman at Zimmer's Gardens, Florence, Tuesday night, with approximately 100 citizens from Boone, Grant and Kenton counties present.

State Cops Arrest Mercer Co. Men

It is not every day in the week that you hear of two men being arrested in less than two hours' time for driving the same automobile while under the influence of liquor. As odd as this may sound, it was the actual experience of two men from Mercer County, Ky., last Saturday, while on their way home from Covington.

As the story is told, the youth, a son of a Mercer county farmer, and the colored hand, made a business trip to Covington on Saturday or last week-end. While in the Big City the youthful son, Earl Wigginton, had taken several drinks of whiskey and was in no condition to drive a car. The colored man saw the condition, and rather than wait to ride with a drunken driver he started to "thumb" a ride home. He was picked up on the highway not far from Covington by the boy and persuaded to ride home.

They had not traveled far until they were arrested by Patrolmen Yeagerly and Bob Smith, and brought to Burlington, where a charge of drunken driving was placed against the son, Earl Wigginton.

The boy was placed in jail here and his father was notified of his arrest. In the meantime, the car had been turned over to the colored man to be taken home. He had not traveled far on Highway 25 until he was arrested on the same charge and placed in Covington.

Before the father could obtain transportation to come to Burlington to pay the fine of his son, he received word that his colored hand was in Covington jail on the same charge and that the car was in the Crittenden garage.

The father came to Burlington and paid the fine of $104.50 for the release of his son, and then had to go to Covington to obtain the release of his hired hand, who had been in his employ for the last 16 years.

If we saw ourselves as others see us, perhaps we would get a much better idea of what we really are.

TOBACCO MARKET TO CLOSE IN FEB.

ACCORDING TO REPORTS—TOBACCO CROP IS SHORT OF EXPECTATIONS—AVERAGE IS FAIR.

According to reports, tobacco markets throughout the barley belt expect to close the early part of February.

At the close of the fifth week, last Friday, sales were very good, with a considerable amount of the weed being placed on the various floors. Covington's average for the five weeks was $19.50; Lexington $20.63, Carrollton $19.25 and Cynthiana $19.68.

The tobacco crop this year was short of expectations due largely to the light weight of the weed. In many districts of Kentucky farmers and farm bureaus have been holding meetings during the past week to determine the sentiment of the farmers concerning another tobacco referendum. Many farmers stated that the two-thirds majority vote should be ruled out, and let the majority rule.

office in Frankfort. It was stated by Mr. Cutler that records show that U. S. Highway 25 from Florence to Covington carried the highest average traffic of any highway in United States, its rating being approximately 14,000 vehicles daily. He further stated that the new highway would be a super four-lane road and that certain specifications would have to be met in order to keep the road on approximately the same route as the present Highway 25. Those specifications were (1) the width of the road must not be less than 40 feet from curb to curb at any point, 56 feet if possible; (2) there cannot be any grade crossings at any points; (3) there must be no parking on the new highway at any time; (4) all speed traps, constables and undesirable conditions would have to be entirely eliminated.

Mr. Cutler severely criticized the present speed traps that now exist on the present road in Northern Kentucky, and if the new highway is built, all such traps would have to be eliminated. The Federal Government is furnishing one-half of the money for this highway and it must be built according to federal specifications.

Mr. Cutler further stated that contracts had not been let for new road to go up the creek, and that if the persons on the present road would come up to the required regulations, it is probable that the road will be constructed on approximately the same course as at present. If there are any difficulties however, the road will be built on its proposed new route through Sandfordtown.

A motion was placed before the group by A. D. Yelton, of Burlington, that the old U. S. 25 Highway Association of Northern Kentucky be revived for the purpose of carrying on the necessary fight to keep the highway on its present course. Simon Billiter, president of the old Highway Association, announced that he would not be able to act as president of the association, but would take an active part in its operations.

It was then proposed that a delegation made of two men from each of the towns on the present highway, make a survey for new members for the organization and have a large meeting on Tuesday night, January 24th at Zimmer's Gardens for the purpose of electing officers and acquiring memberships. The two men from each of the communities were as follows:

Covington, Simon Billiter and Herman Schuler; P. A. Mitchell, Court of Wooten and Russell Oelmer; Erlanger, Irvin Bramlage and Lloyd Callen; Florence, Ralph Stith and Thos. Dillon; Devon, C. C. Cobb and Mr. Wagner; Richmond, Gaines Robinson and Mr. Callen; Walton, Powers Conrad and Evan Hance; Brant, Ben Elliott and Omer Clemmons; Crittenden, Dr. Harry Mann and Walter Kidwell; Sherman, Clifford Franks and Robt. Adkins; Dry Ridge, John McCoy and E. F. Holbrook; Williamstown, Paul Siskobottom and R. A. Green. Several other communities that were not represented at this meeting will be worked out in the near future.

Irvin Bramlage, Attorney for the cities of Erlanger, Elsmere and Florence stated that steps were being taken now in both Erlanger and Elsmere to eliminate all parking on the main highway, and that in the near future this would be accomplished.

Chas. W. Riley, County Attorney stated that the Fiscal Court of Boone County pledged their full cooperation to this project, and they could be counted on for all assistance possible. This statement was received very favorably by the entire group.

The next meeting of this group will be on next Tuesday night, January 24th at 7:30 (fast time) at Zimmer's Gardens. All persons interested in any way are urged to attend, and members of the fiscal courts of both Boone and Grant County are especially invited. It is to the interest of every person in this territory to take an active part to help keep the highway as near its present course as possible.

HE MUST HAVE BEEN TAKING A COLD BATH Albert Pettit, local grocer, stated Wednesday morning that he saw a fishing worm crawling on top of the snow one day this week. Mr. Pettit said he would not have told the story if he had not had another present to verify his story. The worm must have been out taking a cold bath.

UTOPIANS HOLD CONFERENCE

AT FLORENCE SATURDAY, JANUARY 14, THE UTOPIAN SOCIETY OF KENTUCKY SPEAKERS HEARD AT MEETING.

Fifty-four members of Boone and Gallatin County Utopia clubs met at St. Paul auditorium in Florence, Saturday, January 14, for their annual conference.

William Moore, president of the Boone County Utopia Club, called the meeting to order and introduced Dr. Van de Wall, of Carnegie University, who gave a talk on what the University was trying to do in Utopia communities to develop musical talent. The group, led by Dr. Van de Wall and his assistant sang a few old favorite songs.

After the songs, the girls went to the Baptist Church, where Miss Anna Burnham gave a talk on projects for Utopia girls. Miss Iris Davenport from the University of Kentucky gave a very helpful discussion on "Buying Spring Coats."

The boys' group discussion was led by Prof. Hunt, who spoke on "Disease and Curing of Tobacco," and Prof. Goode, feed specialist talked on "Feed Mixtures, Improvement and Changes in Storage Spaces for 4-H Feeds."

At six o'clock the ladies from the Baptist church served a delicious dinner in the basement of the church. Each one received special favors from Mr. Carl Jones. After returning to the auditorium everyone got acquainted and Mr. Jones led home folks dances which every one enjoyed very much.

Geo. Goode Finds Lost Bird Dog

In last week's issue of the Recorder, Geo. C. Goode carried an advertisement concerning a bird dog, which was lost, strayed or stolen. The bird dog was found Friday on a farm on the East Bend Road.

It was thought the dog had been stolen from Mr. Goode's home near Covington, by hunters, who released the dog on the East Bend road while hunting. The dog left the hunters and ran wild until she was caught by Bob Hayden Wilson. The dog was found one day after the ad. appeared in The Recorder.

CLOSING DATE IS SET BY REA

COMMITTEE—THREE HUNDRED SIXTY-ONE MEMBERS SIGNED UP AT PRESENT—JANUARY 19TH LAST DAY.

Boone County REA sign-up committees reported 361 members had signed up at the closed of the meeting held at Burlington courthouse last Thursday evening, Jan. 12th. January 19th was set as the closing date for the sign-up to be completed.

Mr. Chester Roland, manager of the Owen County Association, ran the proposed Boone County lines last Monday, January 9th. He reported his inspection trip showed that additional work was needed and that many of the side lines could not be approved for allotment unless additional membership in these lines were secured.

A county meeting of sign-up committeemen was held at Burlington last Thursday evening to discuss this report and decide what immediate action should be followed. It was then decided to give prospective members an opportunity to sign up until the 19th and all lines meeting the three members per mile minimum requirement be submitted immediately for allotment. Those falling below the three per mile would have to wait until they had met the minimum membership requirements before extension approval could be secured.

Mr. Earl Welch, agricultural engineer of the college and Mr. Chester Roland, REA manager, spoke at the meeting. Both speakers expressed the opinion that farmers were offered a wonderful opportunity through the REA. They stated the great advantage of farm electricity is not just lights but personal home-conveniences through use of water systems, radio, electric refrigerator, washing machines, tractors and farm power for labor and expense saving equipment. Farmers interested should sign up immediately as it is always the possibility that future funds for line construction may not be available. Those not included in the original line construction will probably have to wait many months before electricity can be made available.

A list of the lines and members per mile as of Monday of this week is as follows:

FARMERS MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY MAKES RAPID GROWTH

$4,898,370.30 Insurance In Force At Present—$8,155.24 Paid Out During 1938 For Total of Twenty-Six Losses

One of the oldest organizations of Boone County is The Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Company, organized in 1878 and open for business on November 30th 1878. The total insurance written by the company the first year was $55,386.33. During the past sixty-one years the company has grown steadily and today the company boasts $1,183,375.00 in insurance written and renewed for the year 1938.

At the time of organization there were only twenty-two members and at the present there are 2,104, a gain that has only been attained by honesty and fairness to all. The company's first officers were: J. A. Jaines, president; R. Conner, Vice President; J. W. Walton, Secretary; R. Randall, Treasurer; directors, John Stephens, J. E. Duncan, W. Watts, D. Bedinger, O. Kirtley, S. Wind, R. Botts, J. C. Jenkins, G. C. Graddy, N. Craven, W. Craven and John Riley. The company was incorporated under a special act of the General Assembly of 1877. The organization has gradually increased each year, and at the present time approximately 80 percent of the property of Boone County is insured with this company.

During the past few years the company has grown materially. Last year the company made a net gain of $152,230.00 over 1937, after deducting $155,095.00 in cancelled policies, requiring the organization to write $307,325.00 in new insurance to show the above gain.

The assessment each year to the policy holders is 20 cents on each $100 of insurance to pay losses and other expenses of the company. This money paid by the policy holders has been efficiently handled in the past, for which has been one of the reasons for the growth of this splendid organization.

At the close of business December 31, 1938, there were 2,104 policies in effect amounting to $4,898,370.30. Losses paid during 1938 totaled twenty-six, with $8,155.24 being paid policy holders. The financial condition of the company is far above par, and all claims are promptly paid when adjuster has made his investigation. The company owns its own office building in Burlington which is free from debt. Losses paid since organization of the company totals $236,519.60.

Present officers of the company, have worked faithfully for the good of the organization and should be complimented upon the growth made during 1938. Present officers are: Hubert Conner, President; John L. Jones, Vice President; F. H. Rouse, Secretary; L. R. Barlow, agent; Peoples Deposit Bank, Treasurer; Directors, Hubert Conner, John L. Jones, E. O. Rouse, John J. Maurer, Hugh Stephens, W. B. Johnson, Walter Johnson, H. J. Stephens, J. W. Connelly, H. L. McGlasson, B. H. Berkshire and F. H. Rouse.

Only one loss has been reported this year, according to F. H. Rouse, present secretary, that of Laura J. Clemmons, of near Devon on January 2.

Many thousands of dollars have been saved by property owners of this county during the past sixty-one years by insuring in this company, all of which has played a prominent part in the growth and upbuilding of each separate community and the county as a whole.

Chambers & Grubbs were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Christmas Seal Sale Successful

The county and state organizations, and county workers wish to take this method of thanking all who bought seals and had part in their distribution, also The Boone County Recorder and Walton Advertiser for the free publicity given the cause.

INTOLERANCE

History has dealt heavily with the Jewish race. They have been a people without a flag or country and maintained their homes in lands all over the globe. There have been many times in the past that the Jews have faced extermination, have been forced to flee for their lives, have been persecuted and spat upon. This is to the disgrace of a so-called civilization. But however severe the treatment, the darkest hour for the Jewish race is lighted by the fact that they, with the Chinese, are the two oldest peoples in the world. They have lived to write the story of their persecutions and of the downfall of those who persecuted them, states one Hebrew scholar. Perhaps due to their wanderings, the Jew has become closer to his race in sympathy, and consequently racial ties are strong.

The future of the Jew in Germany, Austria and Italy is uncertain and likely to be a trial and tribulation to the people concerned, but however the outcome, they will hold on until they can occupy their place under the sun with the rest of God's peoples. There are various criticisms regarding the Jewish race, but intolerance of our fellowman will get us nothing. A splendid example of consideration and benevolence was displayed by a southern negro church whose members subscribed money for the aid of the Hebrew refugees. This is known as tolerance and godliness.

TAXING GASOLINE

Every motorist has helped to pay the gasoline tax for this year just past which amounts to the billion dollar mark. This figure can be more readily understood when it is stated that that amount of money greater than the total wages paid workers in all the factories where automobiles and their parts are manufactured. The gasoline tax and the automobile factory comes from the pocket of you, the motorist. The Automobile Manufacturers' Association states, "high gasoline taxes definitely appear to be a retardant to sales of new automobiles." But from our personal knowledge, the average man who buys an automobile, or who doesn't buy one, does not consider the gasoline tax as much as he considers the original investment and whether he is financially able to make a down payment or if the up-keep and repair will be too much on the pocketbook. We are also informed that the American farm is absorbing more gasoline than ever before. The farms of the U. S. are powered by oil instead of oats. The farm tractor and other motor-driven farm machines have proven their value to increased numbers. Farmers have greatly multiplied their consumption of gasoline both for the use of the pleasure car and labor machines. You have shared in this billion dollar tax.

COUNTING SHEEP

When you can't sleep at night and roll and toss about your bed, give a thought to the elderly Massachusetts man who hasn't slept in six years. There is something bothering you, you can't close your eyes, your nerves are jumpy, restlessness keeps you keyed up and sleep passes you by. It happens to all of you. The old man who has gone without sleep since 1933 is "fit as a fiddle," he says, is a hard worker, walks miles, chops wood, carries water, and gardens for a living in the summer. Lack of sleep hasn't seemed to hurt him. We would laugh, as children, when the old man who slept in his chair would nod and jerk his head as he snored so loudly the women folks would shake him to stop the noise. He insisted he wasn't asleep but simply closed his eyes to rest them. We often fail to realize the length of time we do sleep, for five minutes of wakefulness while a household slumbers, seems like five hours to the man who lies awake. Insomnia is a demon and we haven't one good word to say for him.

CARE FOR THE BIRDS

In the winter it is up to man to feed the birds of the air. There are many of them which come and go, but there are good many of these winged friends which remain in this section the year around. The past summer has been favorable to the birds, they have become more profuse than last year. In cold areas it is necessary to continue to feed the birds until May, but however long it is, the need of thoughtfulness on the part of all of us, is a necessity if we wish to have these creatures with us in the spring. It doesn't make any difference how poor is the table, everyone in this county can spare crumbs for the birds. Don't forget the water too!

MEN AT WOMEN'S WORK

The man who won the national crocheting contest admits he has been fascinated by the art of crocheting since his childhood. The printer might be stumped whether to place an item such as this under the heading of sports or on the woman's page, but there are many men interested in what we term women's work, and are proud of their ability. There are men who know how to knit, some are interested in embroidery. There are fellows who have had a hand in making a hooked rug and others who can "sew a fine seam." There are many amateur men cooks, who delight in the art and boast of the fine bit of cooking they do. This office knows of a man who can turn a collar on his shirt, and neatly too. There are homes where men iron and even bake. Of course, there are men in the county who would not be caught doing any of these things, but there are many wives who will proudly boast of what a handy man her husband is around the house.

ANTICIPATING THE FUTURE

The turn of the year is the economic forecaster's heaven. Within the last fortnight every business publication and economist of consequence has devoted great effort to anticipating the future. Guesses as to details of the business picture naturally vary considerably—but, generally speaking, there is very little disagreement among the experts over the picture which the year ahead holds. Sentiment, voice, they forecast boldly that 1939 will be a year of progress.

Two forecasts are of unusual interest. Paul Mallon reports that "Mr. Roosevelt's battalions of 12,000 men are unanimsly forecasting the first time in New Deal history. Government economists now all expect a mild slackening of industrial activity in the next three months, a sort of readjustment period, they call it to be followed by a spring boom, a forecast of 9% and much stronger fall-winter year end." To put it more precisely, these economists think, according to Mr. Mallon, that industrial production (which is at 105 on the charts at this writing) will gradually taper off, reach a plateau of 97 in March, and that the upturn will set in then, and bring it to the 120 level in the late fall.

Similar, and more particularized views, are held by Roger Babson. In a long optimistic article predicting conditions in 1939, he observes, "Total business by the end of 1939 will be as good as—perhaps even better than—any year since 1929." Jobs, wages, retail sales, stocks and even farm prices should chalk up good-sized gains. There are no "dangers" taken on to my forecast as there were in several times past. . . . Today I can see no reason why the tides of recovery should not carry us vigorously forward—perhaps to new highs since 1929."

Mr. Babson then lists a number of what he regards as strongly favorable factors. These include: A growth of 7,000,000 in our population since 1929; a multitude of new inventions; deferred demand for goods; government spending; low inventories; returned confidence due to less "business bailing"; the pending boom in building.

A survey of a number of other forecasts indicates that the foregoing opinions are typical. Some of the dark spots in the business set-up are brightening. It is believed, for instance, that there will be an improvement in railroad and public utility purchasing, due to expanding demand for power and transportation services. And it is still hoped that Congress will take steps toward eliminating some of the problems that confront these two basic industries.

Best of all, perhaps, is the belief that expansion in manufacturing and mining will create an increased demand for durable goods, and the spur the long dormant heavy industries. If that happens a tremendous amount of employment will be created, and all commerce will feel the good effects. So far, recovery has been largely confined to consumers' goods industries, due in large measure to government relief spending; there can be no real prosperity, as any economist can tell you, until durable goods show a comparable improvement.

Thus the domestic situation is relatively good. The international situation is about as bad as it can be. The United States is very close to a complete severance of diplomatic relations with Nazi Germany. Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the potent Foreign Relations Committee, has announced he favors cutting off trade with the Reich, and many other influential congressmen agree with him. Legislation toward that end will probably be introduced this session. Our State Department has taken the strongest possible stand against German representations—and has gone to lengths that are rarely reached in discussions with a "friendly" power. And in Germany, we controlled press continues its campaign of almost unrestrained abuse directed at this government and the officials in charge. The bells growl that Germany will take steps this year toward acquiring the rich mineral and agricultural lands of the Soviet Ukraine, which, according to almost all the foreign authorities, would mean war with Russia and her allies. Trustworthy polls in England show the British people's distrust of Hitler growing, along with the belief that they will have to fight him one day.

Our relations with Mexico remain unsettled, due to President Cardenas' expropriations of American-owned farming and petroleum properties. And going farther, South and Central America, Fascist influences continuing their steady growth in Pan and South America.

Next European crisis is likely to arise out of Mussolini's demands for certain French possessions. Hitler backs Italy in this—Dalladier says the French will fight.

VACUUM USING

A vacuum cleaner works better drawn slowly over a section of rug a few times than rapidly over the same place many times. Be sure to adjust your cleaner, to the thickness of carpet. Observe oiling directions on your machine. To clean the bag, turn wrong side out and alternate between the two. Do not stretch the wire on your vacuum too tightly when it is plugged into the socket or when wound on handle for storage.

Go To Church

THE OLD COUNTRY CHURCH

By William Winston Gaines
I went again to the country church I knew so well when but a lad; A flood of thoughts of olden days came to my heart.

Thoughts dear and old that made me glad.
The house four-squares, of solid brick;
The garden, green and as of yore;
Stille-blocks had gone, and hitching post,
But pike and hill were as before.

In fancy I could see the folk
Of long ago foregathered there;
The stables, hoops and stove-pipe hats,
And horses, buggies, everywhere.

And I could see the preacher, too,
Grey-whiskered, neat, with solemn frame;
Prophetic, for all he looked And preached the Glorious Master's Name.

The meeting o'er, the neighbors smiled,
And greetings passed with friends
And kin;
And asked of Betty, Sam and Joe,
And if the harvest all was in.

You know, I prize those olden days
Of faith and simple beauties;
When all the people neighbors were
And practiced Christian duties.

PETER DENIES HIS LORD

LESSON TEXT—Luke 22:31, 32, 54-62.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall.—1 Cor. 10:12.

One of the most heartbreaking experiences we have as Christians is to find that one in whom we have had every confidence as a true and faithful follower of the Lord, has denied Him by going out into almost unbelieveable sin. Often it seems that those who, like Peter, have had the loftiest and most inspiring fellowship with the Lord, and who speak with the greatest ease about the love and grace, turn to the most reprehensible of sins.

Let any unbeliever who reads this begin to gloat over the failures of Christians, let him be reminded now of his own sin which needs his attention, and of the fact that though Peter fell, he arose again to victory and usefulness. May it also be said that none of us has any right to be holier than those who are tumbled to a brother who has fallen. "Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall" (1 Cor. 10:12), and let him in broken-hearted sympathy help to restore his stricken brother "in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted" (Gal. 6:1).

Sifted But Not Destroyed (vv. 31, 32).

Satan, who is a far more powerful spiritual being than most folk think, is actively engaged in tempting the Christian. He uses many clever devices. Although he is not supposed to have divine powers, he does have supernatural cunning and knows the weakness of each one of us. He saw the boldness and assurance of Peter and was ready to tempt him at that point. Jesus knew this, and even in this dark hour shortly before His crucifixion He warned Peter, and told him of his weakness. With His warning to give the assurance that though it was to be tried, his faith was not to fail, and that he was to be restored to fellowship with His service when he "turned again," which is the correct translation for the word "converted."

II. Self-assurance and Disgraceful Failure (vv. 33, 34, 54-60).

Peter was sure of himself and of his consecration to the Lord. A man who stands in that place is in grave danger. It is not long before we find Peter, apparently presuming on his own ability to stand fast, in the time of temptation, the enemies of Christ, warning himself by their fire. Someone has suggested that the great spiritual problem of our day is not the conflict of the Church and the world; nor is it to determine how the Church can best serve in the world, but rather what to do about the world which has taken the Church into its hands and did work itself into the Church? The members brought it there after they had gone out and warmed themselves at the world's fire, and fellowshiped with the world in ungodly living.

The denials made by Peter seem almost unbelievable in the life of one who had been in immediate fellowship with the Lord and who had seen His glory. We have here a revelation of the fact that "the heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked; who can know it?" (Jer. 17:9). We agree with Dr. Willbur M. Smith: "This is of the Devil. This is humanity sinking to the lowest plane of base ingratitude. This is shame upon shame." One might have hoped that one denied would bring quick and sincere repentance, but instead it leads the way to a second and to a third. There seemed to be nothing that could stop Peter. For he believed "the Lord turned and looked" at him. This suggests the only effective way to deal with backsliders. Argument, pleading, even shaming them, will do no good. We must lead them to the place where they meet their Lord.

III. The Look of Love and a Broken Heart (vv. 61, 62).

What was in the look of Jesus is perhaps best expressed by Alexander MacLaren: "It spoke of Christ's knowledge, of Christ's pain, of Christ's love."

The backslider needs first of all to realize that the Lord knows all about his hidden things from his family and friends, denying accusations, trying to cover up his guilt. Let him now abandon every such effort. Jesus knows all about it.

The second thing to be realized is that he has added to the pain and sorrow of his Lord. For a believer to turn away from Him is no light matter, to be casually dealt with. He needs to be deeply conscious of the wounding of the heart of the Lord, as well as of the damage done to God's people and His cause in the earth.

But above all it was a look of love. The Lord looks in forgiveness with the backslider. While he never can or will condone sin, He loves the sinner, and especially does He love the one who belongs to Him but who has gone away. What a gracious Lord we do have!

BUS FARE REDUCTIONS ANNOUNCED BY BRAWNER

Mr. H. P. Brawner, General Traffic manager of the Atlantic Greyhound Lines, has just announced widespread bus fare reductions, effective January 15. The cost of travel to literally thousands of places—large cities and cross-road towns alike—will be cut considerably.

Greyhound transportation fares were lower than any other type of transportation, this new reduction is naturally a matter of more than ordinary interest to all travelers.

The public's reaction to the lower rates will undoubtedly first be reflected in an increase of bus traffic to the Florida and Gulf Coast resorts.

Although Greyhound has already augmented its service to these mid-winter vacation areas to care for normally increased business at this time of year, it is expected that still further additions will have to be made to handle extra numbers of travelers who will take immediate advantage of the new rate cuts.

BELL COUNTY LAUNCHES "GRASS ROOTS" PROGRAM

"A grass roots" program opened the New Year in Bell County, Kentucky. Farmers from 16 communities planned to eliminate idle land, reforest thousands of acres, and cover hills and valleys with grass.

A county honor roll will list the names of farmers who cooperate 100 per cent.

Some of the methods to be applied are reported by County Agent R. V. Trooper as follows:

Eighteen hundred farmers and two dozen corporations will launch a tree-setting program next spring and planting will continue until 150,000 acres are reforested.

Woodland owners will be encouraged to list their lands with the State Forestry Division for fire protection. A total of 65,403 acres now are under this protection.

All land devoted to harvested depleting crops will be sowed to cover crops next fall.

All farm boys and girls will be invited to join 4-H clubs.

Many a man wonders why it is that fires start so easily everywhere else but in the kitchen stove.

There are some folks who are willing to try anything once, with the possible exception of work.

CLEAN THE BOX

Your refrigerator can be kept sweet and clean with the use of baking soda. It does not matter whether it be electric, gas, oil or ice, the box can be cleaned inside and out with a damp cloth sprinkled with baking soda or by making a solution of the soda and water.

It is a good idea to wash the ice trays each week with this soda water. You will not have that stale and musty odor in your ice cubes.

We have found out there are two things in this country that are better off when they are let alone. One is the Bible and the other the Constitution. No changes are necessary.

EXPERIMENT STATION DEVELOPS TOBACCOES

In response to inquiries about improved tobaccos, especially root-resistant burley varieties, the Kentucky Seed Improvement Association has prepared the following statement:

"White Burley Number 16 is a variety of tobacco developed at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station about seven years ago. It is the result of years of work of careful breeding and selection. It has proved to be more highly resistant to black root-rot than the root-rot resistant variety White Burley Number 5, which is now widely grown in Kentucky. It is a higher yielding variety than Number 5 and of equal quality. It will outyield any Burley variety now grown in Kentucky on old black root-rot infested soils and has, on an average, given a higher yield of smoking tobacco than other varieties on uninfected land at the Experiment Station the past five years. It matures about one week later than Number 5. Burley 16 averages about two more leaves per plant than other varieties, which has resulted in a heavy yield of lug leaves. It is recommended for trial on new as well as old tobacco land. It is now widely grown in Kentucky, and neighboring states, and is popular because of its high quality and uniform type."

"White Burley Number 5 is a variety of tobacco developed at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station over 10 years ago. It is resistant to black root-rot, is of high quality and yields moderately well. It has proved to be a popular variety in old tobacco land, especially in counties outside of the Central Bluegrass area. It will outyield the commonly grown varieties on diseased land and will usually about equal them in yield on other land. It is now widely grown in Kentucky, and neighboring states, and is popular because of its high quality and uniform type."

"The sleeping sickness disease has now been reported in 39 states, including several states bordering on Kentucky. About 100,000 horses are said to have been afflicted last year, and nine states were added to the list of states reporting losses.

It has been estimated that mosquitoes are one of the carriers of sleeping sickness, which may account for the fact that it is less prevalent in winter. It usually begins to appear in late May or June. A vaccine has been developed which is said to be effective in producing an immunity which lasts at least six months and probably longer. Two injections are given a week apart. Vaccination should be done in early spring, before mosquitoes spread the disease. Kentucky has 232,000 horses and 231,000 mules, according to the census of January, 1938, with a total value of about $32,000,000.

SLEEPING SICKNESS HORSE DISEASE IS FOUND IN KENTUCKY

Sleeping sickness, which has been killing horses in many states, was responsible for the loss of one horse in Central Kentucky, according to laboratory tests made at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington. This is said to be the first authentic case of white disease in Kentucky. Although cases have been reported from Western Kentucky, but there were no laboratory tests to confirm the clinical diagnosis.

EXPERIMENT STATION HAS NO SALES AGENTS

Reports that persons have been posing as representatives of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington in selling services and materials, have brought a statement from Director Thomas E. Cooper to the Experiment Station has no sales agents. The Experiment Station and the College of Agriculture are engaged in the teaching of agriculture, in experimental work, and in agricultural extension work, for which there are no sales agents. Representatives of these institutions have nothing to sell.

SIMPLE TREATMENT SAVES DRAPERIES

Have you wondered what made your window curtains and other draperies wear out so fast? It's not entirely the action of sunlight, though that is hard on window curtains. Perhaps most of us have never considered the possibility that the draperies have been affected by absorption of gases from the air in the house. Sulphur in gases from coal-burning stoves and furnaces, and illuminating gas is destructive to all kinds of bracts. Even when the familiar sulphur or coal-gas smell is not present, there may be some sulphur fumes which combine with moisture to make strong acids. These are often more destructive than the normal wear on curtains, rugs, and draperies.

There is a simple way to protect your household textiles from the gases and at the same time make them more fire-resisting. The treatment does not affect the appearance of most fabrics. Simply dip the fabrics in a solution made of 7 ounces of borax and 2 ounces of boric acid dissolved in 2 quarts of water. In treating water-resistant fabrics enough soap is added to the solution to form a suds. Laundered fabrics have usually lost their sizing, and soap is not needed.

There are other good fire-resisting and gasproofing formulas, but everyone is familiar with borax and boric acid and every drug-store sells them for a small sum, so that it is not difficult to make the solution at home. This borate treatment does not furnish protection against sunlight, but treated curtains suffer no more than untreated ones. Articles laundered or exposed to the weather must have the fire-resisting dip after each laundering or wetting.

VENEER FURNITURE MAY BE SUPERIOR

Almost everyone has had the experience of inspecting a new piece of furniture and hearing the owner proudly say: "This is solid; no veneer."

This belief that furniture made from solid woods is always superior to that made of veneers is rather common but not true, says Miss Ida Hagman of the Kentucky College of Agriculture. One of the finest pieces of furniture in

Night Club Is No Place for Unescorted Women

DEAR Mrs. Post: (1) In a great city such as New York or Chicago, is it considered proper today for two young ladies to go to a night club without men companions? I use the word "ladies" in order to make the distinction clear. (2) And in their home town, which has a population of about a hundred thousand but which has its "gay white world," does your same answer as to No. 1 apply?

Answer: It is not possible to think of ladies as going to a night club—meaning any public one—alone. Whether they would even be admitted at all to them, I am not sure. At a real club, meaning one to which only actual members are admitted and where young women members would be sure to find themselves among people they know (as they would at a neighborhood country club), it might be (though even this is doubtful) quite all right for them to go. These answers apply to both places but in the case you mention it is not likely that they could be members and well known at a private club in a strange city.

Announcing a Birth

DEAR Mrs. Post: It is unusual for parents to handwrite an announcement of a baby's birth on plain white cards? I think something simple like "Mr. and Mrs. John Parents are happy to announce the birth of Mary Lou at St. Luke's hospital" would be nicer than having them printed, or filling in stock forms. And is it all right to mention the hospital as I have, since I would like my out of town friends to send letters to me.

Answer: I would get a box of very small sized white cards, instead of cards, and write exactly what you said. Break the message down this way:

Mr. and Mrs. John Parent are happy to announce the birth of Mary Lou at St. Luke's Hospital Friday, February 10, 1939 WNU Service.

existence, a desk made for Louis XV of France, is made of veneers. Workmen spent in years making it.

Both types of construction have their advantages, says Miss Hagman. She lists the following points in favor of solid furniture: The wood can be carved. If any of the surface chips off, it's the same kind of wood is exposed, and if the piece needs refinishing, it can be sanded, papered or planed down. It has no surface layers to loosen and pull off, an accident which may happen to poorly glued veneer panels.

On the other hand, a well-made veneered or "ply" panel with three to five thin layers of wood glued together, each across the grain of the other, is stronger in some respects than a single board of the same thickness. Usually it will not shrink, crack, or warp to any serious extent. The cores of the veneered parts may be made of softer, lighter, or cheaper lumber, so that the finished piece may be sold for less than a similar article of one solid wood.

The charm of highly figured woods which are not practical to use in thick sizes can be obtained by using face veneers. When very thin veneer is cut from a beautiful figured wood, several consecutive layers will match in pattern so that beautiful symmetrical designs can be developed for such furniture as desk tops, table tops, or bedsteads. Again, curved and irregular surfaces can be produced by gluing veneer together in shaped forms. This would be impossible with solid lumber.

The best advice in starting this New Year, is never to entrust a high-powered car to a low-powered set of brains.

PETERSBURG HOMEMAKERS

The Petersburg Homemakers met at the schoolhouse last Thursday. The morning was taken up with the general business of the club. At noon we all enjoyed a covered dish lunch with Mrs. Perry Mahan and Mrs. E. A. Stott, acting as hostesses.

Mrs. Charles Klopp, president was selected to attend Farm and Home Week.

Mrs. O. S. Watts, leader of Better Speech, had a very interesting lesson. After the Better Speech lesson we made looper clip squares. On January 18th we will have a special lesson on caning chairs with Bullittville leaders giving the lesson. Next monthly meeting will be February 9th.

Farm Leaders Build Program

The community agricultural improvement programs that farm people would like to see conducted during 1939 will be planned by leading farmers in a series of community meetings during the next two weeks, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

The first meeting will be held at Burlington on this Saturday afternoon at 1:30 p. m. Community committees will be notified the time and place of the meetings in their respective communities. Everyone interested in helping plan their 1939 community programs is invited to attend.

The citizen who kicks because opportunity is just beyond his reach, should cultivate a boarding house reach.

PLANT TALK

Germination of seeds planted in the house is hastened by spreading burlap or cheese cloth over the boxes and leaving it until seedlings appear. Water applied on the cloth will seep through and provide moisture without danger of washing seed out of soil. Do not allow house plants that have frozen to thaw too quickly. They should be sprayed with ice-cold water, shaded from sunshine and kept from fire heat until frost has very slowly disappeared.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

By David M. Porter

The Governor was out of the State last week, over in North Carolina, at a Jackson Day dinner. Lieutenant Governor Keen Johnson served as Chief Executive in his absence and was speaker at a Jackson Day dinner in Paducah.

State officials have been commenting on a situation that is growing to an alarming extent. The State cannot be sued for any reason unless the General Assembly votes permission. A number of suits have been brought up before the assembly where a member of that Legislative body was representing the ones who were suing. A bill is planned for the next session to remedy this.

Get out your form sheet for the August races and mark in big letters the name of D. A. Logan for State Auditor. He is serving in the Auditor's office now and has

LIVESTOCK OUTLOOK AND MARKET COMPARISONS

With the close of the year 1938 and the beginning of the new year, the outlook for producers of livestock continues rather favorable. This looks to be especially true during the early months of 1939. Indications point that with the cattle business working more now to a new-crop basis, there will be some evidence of seasonal weakness during the spring months unless there is a decided improvement in the present industrial situation. The fed crop of cattle is relatively short for the winter season and as usual it is expected that the medium and lower grade cattle that are finished for market during the late winter and spring months, will sell relatively close in price to the better quality cattle. Indications point to light supplies of the plainer kinds of cattle. Likewise the demand for feeder cattle continues to be with higher prices in effect than a few weeks ago, and at present higher than a year ago. Market prices on better grades of cattle are quite a bit higher than at this time last year while the slaughter classes of cows are selling half a dollar higher than a year ago and the market on bulls about the same values. In the case of veal calves for the most part market values until recently have been a little lower than a year ago but the market at the close of the year is better than at the close of last year.

Prices Continue Normal

In general it might be stated that livestock prices have made no significant change since last March and April markets. Prices from day to day have been on a rather even keel except in general business conditions have improved as well as the general demand for meats. Supplies of beef in storage are somewhat less than a year ago and not more than half that of the previous 5-year average.

In the case of hogs the storage supplies are slightly less than a year ago and not more than three-fourths that of the previous 5-year average. Lard is the general exception. Supplies of lard on hand are nearly double that of last year and only a little less than the year average. Lard is a factor in present marketing of hogs as seen by the Cincinnati Producer representative selling livestock on the Cincinnati market.

Hog Feeding Ratio Good

The feed-ratio for hogs continues good. Prices have held up reasonably well and are expected to go to good returns through the winter and early spring. It seems advisable that in general hogs should be marketed when ready rather than carrying them to heavier weights. Margins between light and desirable hogs with heavy hogs, will undoubtedly continue to be wide during the next several weeks. For the month of December, 1938, on the Cincinnati market the average daily price for the top weight of hogs was $7.98. A year ago in December the average daily price per hundredweight was $8.67. Both years the top of the market was on lighter weight hogs generally firm 180 pounds down. Top prices of the market in January and February of 1939 were 30c and 25c for the most part the outlook with hogs is favorable in spite of increased receipts for the most of 1939. It is estimated that the total pig crop for the year 1938 was about 15 per cent larger than in 1937. It is further estimated that the number of sows to farrow in the spring of 1939 is 21 per cent larger than the number that farrowed in the spring of 1938. This past fall's pig crop showed an increase of something over four million head more than the previous fall. It is the largest since 1933 and only 3 per cent smaller than the 5-year average of 1929 to 1933. Increases in the pig crop as of December 1st in territory tributary to the Cincinnati market, show as follows: Ohio, 10 per cent increase; Indiana, 13 per cent increase; Illinois, 17 per cent increase; Kentucky 15 per cent increase. These figures are in comparison with 15 per cent increase throughout the United States.

In sows farrowed this past fall, Ohio shows 13 per cent increase, Indiana 14 per cent increase, Illinois 20 per cent increase and Kentucky 19 per cent increase. These figures are in comparison with 16 per cent increase throughout the United States.

These figures would indicate the adaptability of marketing the hogs in the Cincinnati market area early, and not making weights too heavy. The most favorable markets look to be this late winter and late summer. Future marketing of hogs may well avoid late spring and early summer.

SOIL CONSERVATION

The beginning of a new year marks a time when good business men, on farms and in town alike, take stock of their past year's efforts and make plans for the coming year. Mr. H. T. Hesson, project manager of the Soil Conservation Service demonstration project on Grassy Creek, points out that some consideration for soil conservation must be included in the farm plans for the new year if they are to be successfully executed.

The past year was marked with some rains of high intensity which did untold damage to hill farmers by washing fertile soil from their plowed fields, as well as to bottom land farmers who lost many acres of crops to high floods. The occurrence of such rains can never be predicted with accuracy so we must anticipate them each year in our planning, says Mr. Hesson.

In a section where slopes are as steep as those in northern Kentucky, the first step in planning for soil conservation and profitable farming is to arrange the farm in such a way that a minimum acreage is subject to erosion and a maximum acreage is devoted to soil conservation.

On a farm in the Bluegrass hill section of Kentucky recently reported in Kentucky Experiment Station Bulletin No. 364, it was found that land was utilized most profitably when approximately one-sixth of it was used for the production of alfalfa hay; less than one-tenth for intertilled crops such as corn and tobacco; from one-half to two-thirds for good open pasture; and less than one-tenth in brush pasture. Such an adjustment in land use is basic for soil conservation as well as for profitable farm operation.

Reduction in intertilled crops provides for a minimum acreage subject to erosion, but does not protect those acres from washing. Measures recommended for soil conservation on such land include (1) farming the more gentle slopes; (2) plowing the land deep and early; (3) turning under a good growth of vegetation and (4) application of manure to improve the physical condition of the soil and all in preventing erosion.

"Strip cropping, that is arranging for bands of sod between each 12 to 15 rows of cultivated crops, has proven to be very effective in catching soil which may wash from the plowed land if a good sod is present in the control strip. Diversion ditches have been used with good results in removing excess run-off from broad ridges without letting it wash steeper land below.

A real problem of soil and water conservation exists on pasture land in the outer Bluegrass section of the state because of the poor quality of many pasture sods. One of the first steps in planning for better care of pastures is to divide the pasture land into smaller fields and control the grazing on them according to the growth of the grass, instead of letting the stock have the run of the entire farm.

Interseeding of existing pastures with adapted legumes pays big dividends when grazing can be controlled on the seeded area long enough to give the young seedlings a chance. Sweet clover, sown in February, or Korean lespedeza sown in March, show most promise for pasture improvement. Ten pounds of seed per acre counted as one unit of soil conserving practice in the agricultural conservation program in 1938 and it is thought that the 1939 program will be the same in this regard. With the low cost of seed this year this practice can well be increased or initiated on practically any farm in Grant or Pendleton county.

For further suggestions on soil conservation farming you are invited to contact your country agricultural agent or the Soil Conservation office in Paducah, Ky., or contact the CCC camp at Walton, Ky.

Men of the Mounted

FIRST BRUSH WITH THE DUKHOBORS

STARK naked, singing psalms, and shouting biblical texts and warnings, hundreds of men, women, and children were seen strolling across the vast Saskatchewan prairies one chilly October morning. The few settlers that witnessed this scene rubbed their eyes and wondered if the judgment day had arrived. Yet, there they were, hundreds of them, absolutely naked and apparently strolling aimlessly over the prairie just for the exercise and fresh air. Could it be possible that the maniacs of the farthing northland were gathering for a convention? Could it be possible that some unseen power had suddenly emptied a lunatic asylum on the Saskatchewan plains? At any rate, settlers saddled up and rode over to the strange strollers, and asked the reason for the stark-naked parade on such a frosty morning.

"We are looking for Jesus," came the almost unanimous reply. "Well, He's here, all right," replied a settler, "but you don't have to run around like this in order to find Him. Better get your clothes on before you freeze to death." This latter advice, however, fell on deaf ears. The amazed settlers did not know it at the time, but they had encountered a newly-arrived religious sect known as Dukhobors. The sect had its origin in southern Russia a few years before and after years of persecution had been granted permission to come to Canada provided they behaved themselves and did not become public charges. To say that these early Dukhobors were fanatics, is putting it mildly. To the writer, who first encountered them in Saskatchewan, they appeared to be positively unbalanced. Having emerged from unpeppable persecution in Russia, the good old-fashioned Canadian freedom went to their heads, and they began to put their strange religious beliefs into practice.

They took biblical commands literally, and fixing their minds on certain texts, completely ignored other texts. The codes and laws they believed in full and complete liberty in thought and deed, and they even placed their horses and cattle in the same spiritual category as themselves. When it appeared that their horses needed a day's rest, the animals were left in the barn, and the stoutest women were hitched up to wagon, buggy, or plough so that the men could rest. The sect should be called the "Dukhobor" and not the "Dukhobor". Now and then all work would cease, and they would go off on a stark-naked, psalm-singing hike in order to catch up with the naked saints. Their time soon arrived when the Canadian authorities had to take a hand. The Men of the Mounted were given the strange puzzle to solve. And, they solved it, too, but only after years of planning and studying these strange "prairie pests."

Back-trailing this crazy mob, that October morning, the Men of the Mounted picked up every bit of clothing and the naked saints continued unbroken. Now and then all work would cease, and they would go off on a stark-naked, psalm-singing hike in order to catch up with the naked saints. Their time soon arrived when the Canadian authorities had to take a hand. The Men of the Mounted were given the strange puzzle to solve. And, they solved it, too, but only after years of planning and studying these strange "prairie pests."

Of course, they could have used force, or they could have started slapping the naked saints and, as the writer saw one lone Redcoat do a year or so later, but that was not the way of the Mounted under Quakerism. The job had to be done by diplomacy, for they were dealing with unbalanced minds. At any rate, whether it was the increasing cold that changed their minds, or whether it might have been fear, the Men of the Mounted several hours later the two tightly packed mobs began to open up and here there a Dukhobor grabbed for a shirt, a dress, or a pair of trousers. Meanwhile, the Men of the Mounted pleaded, begged, promised and stayed with their charges until they were fully clothed. The done the Men of the Mounted hustled and hustled about for food and drink for their "patients" and when they set it before them the crazy lot went on a bummer spree. This later development, however, did not bring any gray hairs to police heads. The big job had been to stop these crazy people from running around naked in October, and the job had been done. If the Dukhobors now wanted to starve to death, it was O. K. with the Mounted. Nature, however, soon had her way, and after being fed the two Men of the Mounted escorted the Dukhobors back to their prairie huts and cabins and homesteads.

Have you ever noticed that whippersnappers travel much farther than loud noises? There are some married men who have so tired of all they find it is much easier to listen than to argue.

Gayety Theater News

Fri. and Sat.—"King of Alcatraz."
Sun. and Mon.—"Five of a Kind."
Tuesday—"The Citadel."
Wed. and Thursday, Jan. 25 & 26—
"Room Service"

A large cast of screen favorites head by such popular performers as Gail Patrick, Lloyd Nolan, J. Carol Nash, Harry Carey and Porter Hall, and featuring a handsome newcomer, Robert Preston, will be seen in Paramount's thrilling "King of Alcatraz," which will be shown at the Gayety Friday and Saturday.

Robert Florey, who directed "King of Alcatraz," has fashioned a fast-moving, gripping tale from the story of desperate criminals who crash Alcatraz, the world's strongest prison, and pirate a vessel on the high seas, in which they hope to escape to some small central American republic.

The tremendous climax of the film is the scene showing an emergency operation being performed by Miss Patrick on the wounded Nolan, directed by radio by a doctor in another ship hundreds of miles away.

"The Citadel," based on the novel by Dr. A. J. Cronin, has been brought to the screen in a notable picture which will be shown at the Gayety Theatre, Tuesday.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer produced this film at its British studio in Denham, England, with Robert Donat and Rosalind Russell in the leading roles. A cast of more than one hundred players appears in support, principally among them the well-known English players, Ralph Richardson, Rex Harrison, Emyl Williams and Penelope Dudley-Ward.

The dramatic story of a young and obscure physician in the Welsh collieries is revealed on the screen with all the emotional power of Cronin's outstanding novel. A whole village was reconstructed for one sequence and the depths of a coal mine are shown in another. When the mine collapses Donat descends into the pit in one of the most thrilling scenes filmed.

The surgeon's fight to retain his ethical code, his love for the school mistress and their marriage, followed by their struggles together in adversity and wealth, combine to form a work rich in emotional power and dramatic intensity. King Vidor's direction comes close to perfection.

"Room Service" sensational Broadway comedy hit which ran nearly a year and a half, comes to the screen as an uproarious vehicle for the Marx Brothers.

Adapted to the screen by Morris Ryskind, scenarist of "Stage Door," the hilarious comedy revolves around the frolicking efforts of a fly-by-night theatrical producer endeavoring to remain with his entire troupe in a New York hotel as a payless tenant while scouting for an "angel" to finance his show. The cast includes Lucille Ball, Ann Miller, Frank Albertson and six members of the original cast.

Mrs. David Pope, program leader and Mrs. Russell Hodge have been giving very interesting talks on associated country women of the world. The talk in December on Czechoslovakia by Mrs. Lou Crutcher who furnished such a well-dressed Czechoslovakian girl. The country this month was Scotland. The Better Speech program was continued this month by Mrs. Pope who brought out mistakes made by the majority of people.

Two dates were set, the day for canning chairs was set for January 17th. Choir rehearsal will be Friday, January 20th.

After the business meeting Miss Gillespie taught each member the loom work which will be continued in February.

FIRE DESTROYS RESPESS HOUSE

NEAR FLORENCE EARLY THURSDAY MORNING—LOSS ESTIMATED AT $3,000—HEAT HAMPER FIREMEN.

An eight-room, two-story frame dwelling of a tenant on the Highland Stock Farm owned by Rome Respass, near Florence, was destroyed by fire early Thursday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wahlman, who occupied the first floor of the house, were eating breakfast at 6:30 when a man who had noticed the fire when passing the house informed Wahlman the house was afire.

Florence and Elsmere fire departments were summoned, but flames were beyond control when they arrived. The firemen formed a bucket brigade, and help to control the blaze that it would not spread to other buildings. There are two cisterns near the burned building, one eight feet from the back door and another in a field near by, but the heat was so intense, firemen considered it unwise to take the large pumper near enough to the blaze to pump water from the cisterns.

According to Chief Al Hue, of the Florence Fire Department, everything in the residence was saved with the exception of a china closet, piano and heater. Loss was estimated at approximately $3,000.

A large barn containing several valuable horses and several other farm buildings nearby were saved, because the wind was blowing the flames in an opposite direction.

Chief Hue stated that the fire was started from a defective fuse and the blaze was beyond control upon the arrival of the fire departments.

The recommendation was adopted by the group by a unanimous vote. Approximately thirty-five memberships were received by Mr. Billiter before the meeting was dismissed.

Resolutions urging the retention of the present route of the Dixie Highway and its reconstruction as a four-lane highway were adopted and copies to be sent to Governor Chandler, T. H. Cutler, Chief Engineer of the Highway Department, R. C. Humphreys, O. M. Rogers and Mr. Galbraith, United States Road Engineer. Copies also to be sent to all newspaper in this locality.

Be it resolved by the citizens of Kenton, Boone and Grant counties assembled in and met on the Dixie Highway, Ky., that in respectfully

DIXIE HIGHWAY MEETING HELD

THURSDAY BY ERLANGER BUSINESS MEN TO DISCUSS PROPOSED CHANGE OF ROUTE—OFFICERS ELECTED.

A well attended meeting was held Thursday night, January 19, at Burke's Restaurant, by the business men located on the Dixie Highway at Erlanger, to discuss the proposed change of the highway.

Officers were appointed as follows: Dave Castleman, of the Castleman Motor Car Co., was elected chairman; W. H. Folmer, Cashier Community Bank, Sec'y; Franklin Dusing, Virgil Day, Bryce Vallingdham, Ervin Bramlage, and Nick King, were assigned to the various committees.

Motions were made and passed to notify City Council at next meeting that any action necessary to conform to highway department regulation, as to parking, street widening, etc., would be acceptable to them, and further to request Council to pass any ordinance necessary or imperative to keep highway at present location.

The general tone of the meeting seemed to be one of willingness to co-operate in any possible way and the feeling that the individual losses suffered by a few, would be more than compensated by the benefits to all of this community. Another meeting will be held in the near future.

to the Hon. T. H. Cutler, Chief Road Engineer of Kentucky, that in the proposed and contemplated reconstruction of U. S. Highway 25 that the present general alignment through Erlanger, Florence, Walton, Crittenden, Dry Ridge, Williamstown and Georgetown be followed at least from Covington to Williamstown.

We could assign as some of the reasons and factors why this should be done, the following:

1. Approximately one-third of the distance from Covington to Williamstown is already constructed as a four lane highway.

2. Over the remaining two-thirds to be constructed, much of the present right-of-way is already available.

3. That part which is not available, we pledge ourselves to undertake to obtain as a condition precedent to the favorable consideration of this memorial.

4. The proposed highway should be so constructed, if possible, to throw traffic over the present State owned bridge across the Ohio river, rather than over a privately owned bridge.

5. Numerous enterprises have grown and hundreds of thousands of dollars of Kentucky citizen's money have been and are now invested in these enterprises, much of which will be lost should the present highway be abandoned. If for any reason the alignment of the present highway cannot be made to meet the requirements of the present engineering standards, then we would most respectfully suggest that you consider thoughtfully an alignment paralleling the present highway and in as close proximity to the present highway as engineering requirements will permit, and we feel confident that in such an election, if necessary to be made, all elements and factors concerning right-of-way and cheapness of construction can be met as well as in the contemplated highway leading south from Sandfortown.

6. The difficulty in routing traffic from the south end of the present state owned bridge crossing through the City of Covington to intersect the proposed highway through Sandfortown, and vice versa, is obvious and will of necessity result in increased congestion, while the continued routing over the present highway will sooner afford a free bridge, this giving to Northern Kentucky as a whole, a chance for development along economic and industrial lines which have thus far been greatly hampered and impeded by toll bridges.

The next meeting of this organization will be held on Wednesday night, February 1st, at the Walton school, Walton, at 7:00 p. m. (slow time). All interested persons are urged to attend.

POLICE ARREST JOHN R. BOYCE

IN ELSMERE TUESDAY MORNING ON CHARGE OF BREAKING AND ENTERING STORE BUILDING.

John R. Boyce, 38, of Garvey Road, south of Elsmere, was arrested Tuesday morning by Deputy Sheriffs Tom McCough, Gordon Jennings and William Arkenau at his home. It was about the seventh visit deputies had made to Boyce's home armed with a bench warrant charging breaking and entering and which was a year old yesterday.

According to officers, Boyce offered no resistance when confronted with a tear gas gun in the hands of Deputy Jennings and came peacefully with the officers.

Boyce was scheduled for trial Jan. 6, 1938 in Kenton Circuit Court on a charge of breaking and entering the cafe of Andrew Schaefer, 133 Garvey Ave., Elsmere, on Jan. 20, 1937. He failed to appear. His bond, signed by Charles Ewalt was forfeited April 5, 1938.

Following his capture, Boyce was placed in Covington jail.

VANISHING WINTERS

Many of the citizens of Boone County have noticed and remarked that the old-time winters were stiffer than those of today. These have not been the severe winters of twenty and thirty years ago when cold weather brought snow and ice storms with a vengeance that lasted, not for just a day or three, but seemed to hold for the entire season. There now comes to us reports from Moscow that after ten years of research in the Arctic regions, they find the polar ice to be melting and the world's weather growing warmer. This has been the opinion of our own prognosticators for quite some time. Of course there is a certain amount of severe winter weather in various sections, but the duration is less and the average temperature is higher. The reason for this change in weather is a problem unsolved. It may be if we live long enough, say several thousand years, the polar ice will disappear entirely. Some scientists figure that the Gulf Stream is warming things up for us. Others are blaming it upon the sun, and may be both are correct. However, the oldsters about this area can well recall the days of old when there was not a question raised about winters disappearing, for winter used to have a way of making herself felt through force and intensity which was apparent to tobogganists, skaters, fox and geese and snow-fight enthusiasts of local centers.

For those of us who don't believe that our winters are milder, consult the Weather Bureau averages for the past 60 years and they will prove it for you.

homes and body, the gas fumes in closed rooms from heating units, the closed garages with poison pouring from motors, the icy steps and sidewalks that are constant dangers. This is the time to guard against winter hazards. Nearly 35,000 deaths in motor accidents in 1937 and most of them during the winter months means, use care.

UP AND COMING

There has been added shipping this past Christmas by means of the air mail. The air express and mail by this route has increased mightily, as well as the heaviest pre-Christmas air travel in its history. This is attributed to the fact that many young folks away at college have been able to afford the holiday journey from college to home by this route. This is the modern way for sons and daughters to be on tap to shout their greetings and it is a far call from the way our grandparents shouted the same greeting when the trip was made by rail and before that not so much as the modern way. There is a fellow who got a good laugh over the cartoon of the youngster with school book in hand, gazing up at his mother busy in a kitchen where she is surrounded by electric toaster, toaster, iron, percolator, stove, mixer, waffle iron, dish washer, etc. The child inquires, "Mother, What's a Match?" And isn't it the truth?

WHAT WILL BE NEXT?

In one of our southern cities there has been presented an ordinance which would prohibit the manufacture and sale of ice cream or other milk products containing intoxicating beverages. The city director of health wishes to protect the industry itself and also to protect the children of the city from acquiring a taste for alcoholic beverages through the medium of ice cream cones and sodas. The use of intoxicating ingredients in ice cream and milk products seems almost unbelievable. Being sold to children recalls the baleful and despicable character, offering a red apple as a bribe to entice them to Snow White. This is an instance when a part of a fairy story comes to life.

TAKE THE OLD SOAKS OFF THE STREET

One of the most pitiful sights in the world is to see the drunk tramp into court on Monday morning. Physical wrecks, broken in spirit and low in intelligence they come back again and again. The fines they pay and the short terms they serve do nothing whatever to help them. The only way to make them a menace to society, Police pick them up in the alleys and on the back streets by the hundreds and thousands.

It is this type of drunk with which the police office is concerned. He does not arrest the drunk who has a home to go to and can get there without help; there are too many of them. He arrests the habitual drunk, not because he wants him punished but for the protection of the community.

It is astonishing that the American people have not yet undertaken an intelligent and general program to care for these people, who have been ruined by the consumption of a commodity legally licensed for sale and as a source of revenue for the United States, the states and our cities. All of them ought to be removed to farms where they can be rehabilitated under expert care. If kept in these places long enough many of them can be permanently restored to a useful place in society. Those who can not, ought to be permanently held under oversight, and required to earn their own living on the soil or in household tasks. Open air, the sun, steady employment, with a simple diet of fruits, grains, vegetables, nuts and milk will do wonders for many of these people. The jail and the work house do nothing or worse than nothing.

PICKED UP HERE AND THERE
Man an editor can tell how long a fellow has been a writer by the amount of hair he pulls when the printer makes a mistake in his copy.

Telling a man he looks mighty nice pleases him more than telling it to a woman. That's because a man doesn't hear it as often.

A sign of age, is when you have a yen to smoke just when the hero clutches the heroine in his arms.

Today's youth doesn't differ much from yesterday's child, except that yesterday they only asked for a nickel.

One thing nice about babies, they don't insist upon repeating the smart things their parents say. "It doesn't make any difference how good a meal is cooked, a fellow can't really enjoy it if he is surrounded by implements he doesn't know when to use."

Sometimes a decided blond was very undecided in making her decision between henna and platinum.

KENTUCKY'S STAKE IN RAILROAD PROSPERITY

That Kentucky railroads "stand in the front rank among the constructive economic forces of the Bluegrass State" is forcibly pointed out in an enlightening article of interest to every Kentuckian published in a recent issue of "The Railroad Magazine," a monthly magazine of the industrial South.

"Railway purchases," the article begins, "payrolls and taxes exert a powerful influence upon the life of Kentucky. Few states have a greater stake in railway prosperity. Few states are more directly affected by the rise and fall of railway earnings."

"Kentucky ranks fifteenth among the states in population, twenty-second in value of manufactured products, and twentieth in value of farm products. It ranks twelfth in railway purchases and fourteenth in railway employment. "Nineteen thirty-seven was far from a satisfactory year in the railroad business. Traffic was light and earnings were low. Yet, for every dollar that the railroads spent $200,000 in Kentucky. . . . Total railway expenditures in Kentucky for all purposes last year exceeded $72,000,000."

The article then goes on to discuss in more detail the various railroad contributions to Kentucky's economic welfare. It points for instance, that in 1937 no less than 83 different railroads made important purchases totaling $22,000,000 in 377 cities and towns located in 102 of this state's 120 counties. The most important single item that has been bought by forest products second; but the railroad shipping list also included such varied commodities as sand and gravel, gasoline, structural steel, fire brick, paint, asphalt, printing and liquor for sale in dining cars.

Railroad property taxes, which helped to support state, county and city governments, totaled $5,109,000, or $1,338 for every mile of railroad in Kentucky. Excluding social security taxes, $686,000 of this amount was spent on public highways; $1,477,000 on general expenses of state and local government; and $1,714,000 on operation of public schools—enough to cover the annual cost of educating approximately 39,000 Kentucky school children.

Likewise, Kentucky railroads in 1937 paid $45,800,000 in wages to nearly 31,000 employees scattered throughout the state, thousands of them home owners and taxpayers. "Most important of all," the Magazine concludes, "is the role of the railroads as providers of transportation service. Providing uninterrupted passenger, freight, perishable express and mail transportation to our farms, mines, quarries, oil and factories and our communities. . . . day in and day out, month after month, year after year, each railroad is performing a service of fundamental importance to its territory."

PETER DECLARES HIS LOVE

LESSON TEXT—John 21:15-19.
GOLDEN TEXT—Ye love me, keep my commandments.—John 14:15.

"Lovest thou me?" This is the question our Lord asked Peter. It comes to us today. Do we love our Lord? It is a simple question, but also a very searching one. "We may know and do much, and profess much, and talk much, and work much, and give much, and go through much, and make much show in our religion, and yet be dead before God. God want of love." There is no life where there is no love. . . . Knowledge, orthodoxy, correct views. . . . a respectable moral life—all these do not make up a true Christian. There must be some personal feeling toward Christ" (J. C. Ryle).

The instructive story, the center of which is Peter's declaration of love for Christ, presents a picture of a life of true devotion and service to the Lord we love.

I. Fishing at Christ's Command (vv. 11).

Peter had led the disciples in a fruitless fishing expedition (vv. 2, 9). There may have been some believing self-will in his "I go a-fishing." It may also have been the need of food on the part of the disciples who had not yet been sent forth to preach. But in any case they caught nothing until they went to work at the Lord's direction.

Useless and pathetic is the effort of the Church to win men to Christ except as He directs and blesses the work. He knows when, where, and how we ought to fish for men. Let us seek His guidance rather than suffer the disappointment which goes with man-directed campaigns and "drives." As a matter of fact, we need more divine directing and less human driving.

II. Fellowship with the Lord (vv. 12-14).

There are some folk who seem to think that following Christ is a dull matter, devoid of every pleasant contact. Jesus never taught any such thing. He abounded with words of love, even in the times of those despised by men. Remember that He always did it for their spiritual good, not merely for His own enjoyment; and that He always kept the gathering up to His own spiritual level, rather than stooping to any worldly or wicked standards.

Here we find Him with a glowing fire upon which fish is broiling and bread is being distributed. The hungry fishermen. It is just like Him thus to meet in most delightful and satisfying fellowship those who serve Him. Draw up to the fire, Christian friends, who are standing afar off. You may be so timid that, like the disciples, you will not dare to call Him by name (v. 12), but if you will come you will find that the precious fellowship will soon warm your heart.

III. Feeding His Flock (vv. 15-17).
Many (perhaps most) after-dinner speeches and conversations yield little profit. Here is an occasion when each man was to do his case. One wonders whether we would not be wise to take the suggestion and turn our thoughts and those of our dinner guests to spiritual things. Surely it should be so among Christian friends and in a Christian home.

Three times Peter is asked to declare his love for Christ. Such a public confession was quite in place, before the man who had thrice denied his Lord is restored to a place of leadership. The words "more than these" (v. 15), indicate that Jesus was asking of him a high measure of devotion. It is no more than He has a right to expect of us. The expression of love to Christ means practically nothing except as it manifests itself in service. We, like Peter, are to be diligent about feeding His flock whether they be the young and inexperienced lambs, or the mature sheep of the fold. Observe that we are to catch the fish (the unconverted) and feed the flock (the converted). Sometimes it seems that we are trying to catch the Christians to forward some scheme of advancement, and failing to win the unconverted, because we are feeding them spiritual food that belongs to the flock of God.

IV. Following Christ to the End (vv. 18, 19).

The Christian (and surely the Christian worker) is to glorify God even by his death (v. 19). What a significant reply John Wesley made when his followers were criticized: "At any rate, our people die well." Peter was sure to go on the spot, knowing that he faced martyrdom for Christ.

But we are not only called to die like Christians, we are to live for Him. When Jesus "had spoken this, he saith unto him, Follow me" (v. 19). Just as we said that the Church needs more divine directing and less human driving, so we say that the crying need of the Church now is not more leaders, but a greater host of faithful followers of Jesus. Will you, because you love Him, follow Him in life and death?

THERE'S NO MILK IN A BEER BOTTLE

Dr. M. D. Munn, President of the National Dairy Council says: "Between 1924 and 1933 inclusive, the production of milk on the farms of this country steadily increased from eight billion pounds in 1924 to a hundred and two and a quarter billion pounds in 1933, an increase of 17 per cent, all of which was consumed in this country in the form of milk and its products."

"Since 1933 milk production on farms has dropped to ninety-seven and three-quarter billion pounds, or approximately four and a half billion pounds. This is one-fourth of the total gain over a period of ten years, 1924 to 1933 inclusive. "Preserved milk consumption, according to the most complete information available, is at the present time one and one-half quarts (daily) for a family of five, while for the minimum limits of safety it should be two and one-half quarts, and for an adequate optimum diet it should be four quarts for each family of five."

A gentleman farmer is one who doesn't expect to make a profit. The farmer who expects to make a profit is a word we avoid in printing.

MANY WORKERS CONFUSED OVER SOCIAL SECURITY

Confusion still exists among many workers who apply for Social Security Numbers, according to Frank B. Decker, Jr., Manager of the Covington, Kentucky office of this Federal agency.

"Employees could have time for themselves, their employers, and our office staff if they would be more careful in filling out their applications and account numbers," Dr. Decker suggested.

"Out of a total of 7,972 applications for original account numbers received by the Covington office during the last 12 months, 874 of the applications received by mail had to be returned for corrections."

The most frequent errors he listed in three groups: Ages not in agreement with dates of birth; initials given instead of full names; and married names of mothers listed instead of the father's names. During the last 9 months, corrections and name changes were handled by the office here.

Fewer than one-seventh of one per cent of workers who have social security numbers have applied for statements showing the wages credited to the accounts of these individuals during 1937, according to Frank B. Decker, Jr., Manager of the Social Security Board's field office in Covington.

"Our office now has post cards which workers may use to get statements of credits on the wage records of these individuals for 1937," Mr. Decker declared. "But our records show that fewer than 50,000 of the 36,714,000 workers for whom accounts have been established up to last June has asked for wage information."

"In only a few cases, according to reports from Washington, has the Bureau received complaints from workers who believed that the wages credited to their accounts were less than they should be. In those few instances when a discrepancy is indicated, the Bureau immediately begins a search, usually through the field office, for the reported missing wage items."

Mr. Decker added that during 1938, employers throughout the country, according to information received from Washington, not only filed their wage information reports more promptly than they did in 1937, but also used much more care in identifying the persons to whom wages were paid.

"During the first year," he said, "a considerable number of wage information reports filed by employers contained wage items which, because of lack of identifying information, could not be posted immediately to the proper accounts. These difficulties were due in the main to the fact that some employees had failed to furnish their employers with their account number," Mr. Decker said.

SAYS "WELL DONE" WAY TO COOK PORK

Cook pork "well done," warn the cook books. This means, says Miss Florence Imley of the Kentucky College of Agriculture, to keep it cooking until it has lost its pink color, both in the meat and in the juice. Fresh pork is a tender meat and many people, therefore, cook it too quickly, especially such cuts as chops, tenderloin or sausage. Ham, bacon, smoked sausage and other pork products should also be cooked well done.

The danger in eating pork that is not sufficiently cooked is that it may contain parasites that cause a disease called trichinosis. These parasites are extremely small and are not seen except under the microscope. There is no practical way of inspecting pork to locate them. When pork from affected hogs is thoroughly cooked, the destroyed organism is no more dangerous than the devitalized bacteria in pasteurized milk or purified water.

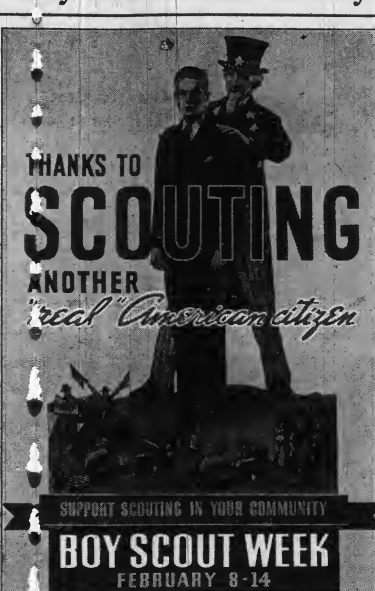

The necessary precautions are simple. It should be remembered that large pieces require much more cooking than small ones, because heat penetrates slowly into the center of the meat as it cooks. Cook approximately 30 minutes to the pound in a moderate oven after browning the outside surface to develop a rich flavor. If a meat thermometer is used, cook to between 180 and 185 degrees. Particular care should be taken to cook pork chops well done to the bone. Make a small incision next to the bone with a sharp pointed knife to be sure the meat and juice are no longer pink or red. A good way to avoid drying out is to brown the outside of the pork chops first and then cover the pan and cook them slowly.

Frozen or cold meat may require longer cooking time, whatever the cut, than meat of ordinary temperature.

THESE HELP:

If every pot, kettle or utensil used in cooking, is washed while hot and as soon as emptied it will save labor. A coat of lacquer on wire clothes line will help in keeping rust stains from soiling clothes. . . If family is large use two pans when making pancakes and fritters. It will save time, supply more people and cakes are better when not crowded. After washing woolen blankets rinse through several waters. Do not wring out but hang up dripping.

MANY CITIES NOW LEGISLATE AGAINST HOME FIRE HAZARDS

Boston, Mass.—The danger of conflagration—fire on a rampage sweeping across an entire city, leveling it off to one charred, tragic pile—has been substantially lessened in more than 500 modern American communities.

A recent survey by the National Fire Protection Association showed that today 549 cities, towns and villages in 31 states have legislated against conflagration by requiring that a new building shall be roofed with any that fire-resistant materials.

Only fire-resistant roofing materials or those bearing a class "C" Underwriters' label, or better—such as mineral surfaced asphalt shingles, or slag-surfaced built-up roofs—can be used.

Roofs Third Hazard Sparks and burning embers on the roof, as NFPA points out, are the third largest cause of residential fires in this country and a prime cause of conflagration. Such historic fires as that which wiped out large parts of Jacksonville, Fla., in 1901; Salem, Mass., in 1914; and Berkeley, Cal., in 1923, were caused by the flames being spread by the combustible roofs in their path.

The use of fire-resistant roofs acts as a fire-stop. The blaze can be confined to its original source.

Even Small Villages Today, even the smallest villages practice fire-resistance protection. 369 towns and villages with population of less than 10,000 have fire-resistant roof ordinances. Among them is, appropriately enough, Safety Harbor, Fla., with a population of 800. Brigantine City, N. J., with a population of 1,000, and Pass, Texas, with 5,100 are also typical.

Reading, Pa., in 1892, was one of the first of the larger cities to outlaw combustible roofs. New York did not forbid their city-wide use until 1927. San Francisco in 1928 and St. Antonio in 1932.

Within the last two years, the following cities have adopted fire-resistant roof laws: Des Moines, Iowa, Gloucester, and Quincy, Mass., Taft, N. J., Wilmington, Del., Jackson and Elizabeth, Tenn., St. Marys, Ohio, Wilmington, N. C., Covington, Ky., and Laredo, Texas.

KENTUCKY FARMERS REPAY FSA LOANS

Lexington, Ky.—Farmers borrowing on the Farm Security Administration under the rural rehabilitation program in Kentucky repaid $48,591 during the one week ending January 13, according to State Director Earl Mayfield.

This brought total repayments to date to $1,296,824.

These loans, made for purposes of rural rehabilitation, are repayable over periods of two to five years. The money is lent to re-employ farmers who cannot get credit from banks or other sources and the loans are coupled with regular advice by County supervisors in approved farm and home practices.

More than one young man has discovered when he started out to "bring home the bacon" that it was an easy matter to get the wrong way by there.

USE OF CREDIT ASSOCIATIONS SHOW INCREASE

The use of production credit associations by Kentucky farmers increased every month of 1938 over the corresponding month of 1937, according to a statement by Walter F. Gahn, President of the Production Credit Corporation of Louisville.

"Farmers in Kentucky received 6,182 loans through their own credit cooperatives compared with 5,125 in 1937," he said. "For the Fourth Farm Credit District, comprising Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio and Indiana, the number of loans made totaled 34,583, an increase of 4,028 over 1937. The volume of these loans made by the 43 production credit associations in the four states amounted to $28,802,000, an increase of 24 percent over 1937."

Membership in these credit organizations has steadily increased since they started operating five years ago, and the associations in the Fourth District at the close of 1938 had 35,255 members, an increase during the year of 3,350 or 10.5 percent. Loans have also increased each year, beginning with a little more than $4,000,000 loaned in 1934, the first year of operation.

MARCH OF DIMES CAMPAIGN NOW IN PROGRESS IN U. S.

Throughout the country a great "March of Dimes" campaign is in progress in connection with the national Infantile Paralysis drive for funds.

Bankers declare this feature of the campaign to be the greatest mass movement of coins in the history of the country.

From every little hamlet and crossroads, from village town and city, a great flood of ten cent pieces is converging on various campaign headquarters and the White House in Washington, Keith Morgan, Chairman of the Committee for the Celebration of the President's Birthday, declared.

In many cities and towns March of Dimes buttons are being sold. School children in thousands of communities are contributing their dimes to the cause. In other communities birthday cards are being sent to the White House, each card containing dimes as evidence to President Roosevelt that the sender is cooperating in the mobilization to stamp out the "malingering."

Counting the millions of coins being contributed is proving a difficult task. Under the system devised by treasury experts, however, every dime contributed to the campaign will be duly counted and the name of the contributor recorded.

This is because fifty per cent of all money contributed in this campaign will be retained in the communities where raised. Thus the dimes rolling into the White House are tabulated according to states and counties.

At the close of the campaign a final check-up will be made. If the people of a certain county in a certain state sent in $20 in dimes to the White House a check for $10 will be sent back to the chairman of that county to be added to the local fund which will be turned over to the permanent chapter as soon as it is established.

chines and coin wrapping machines are being used to keep track of the stupendous tidal wave of dimes now reaching record proportions.

The March of Dimes plan grew out of the suggestion last year by Eddie Cantor, noted star of the radio, screen and stage, that citizens send a dime to the President as evidence of their support of the campaign. As a result $85,000 in the tiny silver coins rolled into the White House during the final week of the campaign.

This year Eddie Cantor heads a "Council of 500," comprising leading celebrities of the entertainment world, all of whom are cooperating.

If everybody in the United States contributed one dime, the amount would be somewhere in the neighborhood of thirteen million dollars.

Two centuries ago, thirteen little states, straggling along the east coast of the yet unexplored continent of North America, were just beginning to for themselves into a free nation. An Act of the Congress of the United States decreed that the first coins minted by the new country should be engraved with "an impression emblematic of liberty."

Today the Goddess of Liberty engraved upon the dime has a new significance. The shining silver coins symbolize freedom of thousands of boys and girls who are bound, not by dependence upon a tyrannical mother country but by the ravaging after-effects of a terrible disease—Infantile Paralysis.

After a recent scandal it seems as if a good many family skeletons finds their way into the daily papers instead of remaining in the closet.

Also, of interest is being shown in the AAA tobacco program in which J. B. Hutson, assistant AAA Administrator, will discuss the AAA tobacco situation as it stands at the present time. Mr. Hutson will speak on Friday afternoon.

THE FARM AND HOME

Following are the number of plants required to plant an acre at various distances: 3 feet, 4,840; 6 feet, 1,210; 7 feet, 849; 8 feet, 576; 10 feet, 324; 12 feet, 216; 15 feet, 144; 20 feet, 72; 25 feet, 36; 30 feet, 24; 40 feet, 12.

Hens from which hatching eggs will be used should have access to a clean range. If such green feed is not had, then feed clover, alfalfa, lespedeza hay to racks in the house. A gallon of milk per hen may be fed in addition to mash and grain.

A cream to polish nickle and silver: Use a pound of whitening, 3 teaspoons of washing powder, 3 teaspoons of olive or castor oil and a cup of boiling water. Dissolve powder in the water, add the oil and slowly stir in the whitening. Mix and put into glass jars and seal.

To panbroil steak: Use steak 1 1/2 inches thick. Place in a sizzling hot pan and reduce to low heat immediately. Continue cooking in the open pan at low temperature about 20 minutes on one side and then turn and cook 20 minutes on the other side.

To cook chicken, prepare as for frying. Place in a pan and put into a hot oven until the fowl begins to brown. Sprinkle with a teaspoon of salt per pound of chicken. Then turn into hot fat. Partly seal glass jars, process and completely seal; or exhaust tin cans, seal and process. Stocking ponds and reservoirs with minnows is recommended as one of the effective methods of preventing small bodies of water from becoming mosquito breeding places. Destruction of all vegetation except grass from low-water level to a point above the high-water level also aids in decreasing the mosquito menace.

POINTS TO CONSIDER
WHEN BUYING SHEETS
Certain facts about such household furnishings as sheets help the buyer to get good value for her money. A good sheet, according to cleaning specialists at the Kentucky College of Agriculture, is firm in weave, is practically free from sizing, is torn rather than cut, free from the bolt, and is hemmed with strong thread and short even stitches, 15 to 16 to the inch. There are five main classes of sheets to choose from. In the muslin there are heavy weight, medium weight, and light weight, then there are flannel sheets and percales.

cause it is made of very fine yarns, as in a percale sheet, although it may be because it is sleazy and poor in quality.

Sizing may make a sheet appear heavy when it is really of light weight and low in thread count. "Pure finish" means the minimum amount of sizing needed to keep the threads from breaking in the looms.

A textile expert uses an instrument to measure the "breaking strength," but the customer must go by the label information on this point, if given. Medium-weight sheets should range from 55 to 70 pounds in the warp direction and from 41 to 61 pounds in the filling.

When a sheet is labeled a "first" or a "standard quality" this means that it is practically free from weaving imperfections, such as uneven yarns, or thick or thin places. Sheets made of one of these first grades should be sold at a lower price than a first. For general use, most people prefer sheets 99 or 108 inches long; for a single bed, 63 inches wide; for a twin bed, 83 inches wide, 72 inches; for a double bed, 81 or 90 inches wide.

FEED TURKEYS WELL

FOR LAYING SEASON
Good feeding of turkeys, in preparation for the laying season, is recommended by J. E. Humphrey of the Kentucky College of Agriculture poultry department. Turkeys lose weight during the laying period, and should be conditioned for laying by good feeding.

LIST METHODS TO

MAKE CELLAR DRY
Causes of dampness in cellars and basements, according to engineers at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, are: Lack of a flat or sloping toward the cellar wall; lack of eaves-troughs; failure to keep eaves-troughs and down-spouts in repair and free of leaves or other debris; ground water close to or higher than the cellar bottom; leaky plumbing, especially water pumps in the cellar; and condensation of air moisture.

The first step is to locate the cause of the trouble. If the land slopes toward the house, regrading is the only way of getting rid of defective eaves-troughs and down-spouts can be cleaned out and repaired, usually without much expense.

Ground water is more of a problem and calls for a 4-inch tile drain along the outside at the bottom of the cellar wall. Although high in cost, if not placed at the time of building, the drains are generally more effective than any expedient applied inside. When the trench is open for placing the tile, there is a good opportunity to waterproof or plaster the outside surface of defective walls. This is commonly necessary with walls of tile or concrete block.

Condensation or sweating frequently causes dampness, which may erroneously be blamed on other factors. During warm weather, cellars are generally cool, oftentimes below the dew point of the air in them. This leads to condensation. Ventilation is the best remedy for this.

BOILER BOOSTER

The hot water boilers of most older houses were never designed for daily showers and tubs for every member of the family, as a result they are frequently inadequate. Their capacities can be effectively increased by wrapping them in a four-inch thick blanket of mineral wool insulation. The wool, being fireproof, can be used without fear that the heat of the boiler will set fire to it. By reducing the heat loss from a boiler by as much as 30 to 75 percent, its capacity is proportionately enlarged.

WET LAND PROBLEMS

CONFERENCE SUBJECT
Management of bottom lands was discussed at a conference of Ohio river farmers at Henderson, Ky. More attention will be given to drainage, crop rotation, growing of legumes and the use of manure, it was said. Corn, a major bottom land crop, is being fed in larger amounts on the river farms, whereas a few years ago much of it was sold. In some instances constant corn growing has tended to reduce fertility. County agents and representatives of the State College of Agriculture interested in land use attended the conference.

NEW GRIDDLES

In order to prepare a new aluminum griddle for use, first wash well in warm water and soap suds. The griddle is hot enough on a gas range when a small piece of paper, placed on top will brown. Lower the heat and start baking. Fry electric stoves, preheat the griddle four minutes, lower heat and start baking. Cakes often stick if griddle is too hot. Wash the griddle after it has been used in hot, soapy water and wipe thoroughly dry before storing.

Modern pork-cutting was taught to interested Franklin county farmers at a recent demonstration.

LOST: MAKER OF GOOD MACHINERY

Lost: name of Kentucky manufacturer who made good farm machinery years ago! J. T. Rowson & Son, Smithsburg, Maryland, have asked the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture to find the Kentucky manufacturer who 40 years ago turned out corn fodder shredder that just rattle is needing repairs. After four decades of shredding corn on the Maryland dairy farm, the knives need replacing; otherwise, the machine is O. K. The name of the Kentucky manufacturer 40 years ago who made the shredder, at Rowson & Son don't know where to get new knives. They describe the shredder as having a cylinder about 7 feet long, and a pulley and balance wheel, and a heavy frame. The knives are set on the cylinder in a spiral form, they wrote J. T. B. Kelley, head of the college's agricultural engineering section, who is puzzled at that manufacturer ever made such a long-lasting farm machine.

CANNED MEAT POPULAR

Canning meats has become a popular way of adding to year-round table requirements of the farm family. Many housewives include in their heavy canning a variety of meats, such as beef, pork and lamb chops; baked steaks, fried chicken, beef and lamb stews, sausage, tongue, liver etc. A new circular called "Home Canning of Meats," published by the Kentucky College of Agriculture, gives many valuable suggestions about canning meat. Copies may be had from county home agents or from the college.

PIKED UP HERE AND THERE

It always seems wrong to call it the "old yea" when it lived only twelve months. But it had enough to age it!

What be it of all that talk about the "old yea" as beautiful? Maybe the "yea" woke up to the fact that it didn't do much for the turtle.

Did you ever notice that when anything new happens, the daily papers always publish the victim as a member of a "prominent family?"

It may cost more to rent than to own, but one thing nice about it you don't get a doggone when the pipes burst.

SHEEP MAKE HANDY FARM MEAT SUPPLY

Lambs and sheep are so easily dressed that it is possible to have this good fresh meat often on the farm. Handy-weight lamb carcasses of 25 to 45 pounds yield comparatively small cuts, all of which are tender. Any surplus that cannot be used fresh or shared with a neighbor may be canned.

Although a slaughtered lamb should have a fair covering of fat over the legs, shoulders, and back, a high degree of finish is not essential for a lamb that is to be dressed for home use. The meat of ewes over 12 months of age and wethers over 18 months is called "mutton." It is usually less tender than the meat from young lambs but is entirely suitable for family use and many prefer its more mature flavor.

Contrary to common opinion, the fell or thin papery membrane covering the lamb carcass does not affect the flavor. It serves the useful purpose of preventing the meat from drying out during storage and when it is being roasted.

AMONG THE COUNTY AGENTS

The Shakertown Pike homemakers club in Boyle county gave canned fruit to the Neighborhood House recently.

An outbreak of illness among hogs in Clinton county was checked by adding mineral mixture to their rations.

Owsley county farmers expect to make large spring seedings of hay mixtures.

"New blood" in their best cattle herds is making a definite improvement in Meade county, where several purebreds have been bought.

Hardin county strawberry growers mulched their berries during December with suitable straw and chaff.

The Bones

AT PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
(SHOE STORE) COVINGTON

With the exception of the dentine of the teeth, bone is the hardest structure found in the body. It is a dense form of connective tissue, impregnated with lime salts, and consists therefore of two parts, an animal and a mineral portion. The former gives toughness and the latter hardness to the bony structure. One-third of bone consists of animal or organic matter and two-thirds of mineral or inorganic constituents predominate, and the bones are brittle, in youth the organic predominates and epiphyseal separation is more common than fractures especially in the long bones of the legs and small bones in the feet. Foot troubles can cause pains in other parts of the body—very often mistaken for rheumatism, arthritis and many kindred diseases. —Adv.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

In studying child development, Hart county homemakers set aside one night a week for family play night. Instead of costly outside recreation, the whole family stays home and reads, carves, uses the workshop, paints or plays games.

Decorating the home in which club meetings were held was a favorite occupation of Western county farm men and women, last month. They gilded, painted or enameled buck berry, sycamore balls, sweet gum balls, pine cones, gypsum balls, and acorns and made attractive patterns.

Superphosphate was applied on 178 hill farms in Lee county last year. Fifty-two farmers reseeded pastures and 56 applied phosphate to grass land. Korean lespedeza seed was extensively used in pasture mixtures, and 214 men seeded lespedeza alone on 1,295 acres.

BATHROOM CLOSETS
A small bedroom is often turned into a bathroom, in remodeling a farm house, after electricity has become available. In most instances a bedroom is larger than needed, and home management specialists at the Kentucky College of Agriculture suggest that a part of the room be partitioned into a storage closet. Many of the older houses are lacking in closets.

Materials Production Rises As America Begins Greatest Building Year In Decade

Washington, D.C.—Watch America build in 1939!

Three major factors indicate that the coming year will be the greatest building year in a decade. A tide of new homes, factories and delayed improvements to existing structures, reinforced by a growing number of slum clearance and low cost housing projects, will carry the 1939 building curve to new heights.

Strong building activity, mounting steadily during 1938, has laid a groundwork for a sustained rise in all types of building. Lowell J. Chawner, chief of the division of Economic Research of the Department of Commerce, has predicted a 40 percent increase in 1939 in residential construction, alone based on 1938 performance.

Three Important Factors
Three tangible factors bear out such a view. They are: 1. The upward trend of building permits; 2. The upward trend of building contracts; and 3. The increased demand for building materials. Described in more detail, they are:

One. The upward trend of building permits. For the first time since February, 1938, the dollar volume of building permits in September exceeded 1937 totals by a healthy 24.2 percent margin, according to the U. S. Department of Labor. At the same time, total building permits for the first nine months of 1938 led 1937 figures for the same period.

Best showing was made by residential building which in October was 11.7 percent ahead of 1937 for the first ten month total.

Two. The upward trend of building contracts. Building contracts whose fluctuations lag behind permits by as much as three months, showed a ten month total ending October, 1938, that was only two-tenths of one percent shy of the corresponding 1937 figure. Total contracts for the month of October alone were 18.9 percent ahead of September and 77 percent ahead of October, 1937.

Building Materials Increase
Three. The increasing demand for building materials and the improved earnings of material manufacturers. Shipments of mineral surfaced asphalt shingles and siding for the first ten months of 1938 led the corresponding 1937 period by 17 percent. This regularly parallels the advance in residential construction and indicates a continuance of house building during the winter months.

Mineral wool insulation, the only major home insulation adaptable to both new and already-built homes, is a good index of the activity in both new construction and modernizations. Mineral wool bats and strips registered an 88 percent third quarter gain over the first quarter. Third quarter production was also well ahead of the same period of 1937.

HOW TO WRECK A VILLAGE

PIE-A-POT and Long Lodge, Cree chiefs and audacious warriors and veterans of many a scrap with other tribes, ruled their villages with an iron hand. They were happy, prosperous and had very little trouble. Shortly after the coming of the "red coated pony soldiers of the Great White Mother," the Pie-A-Pot and Long Lodge tribes of Cree had been given a splendid reservation with timber for game and fish in abundance. There they had settled down peacefully.

And then one day, to the astonishment of all concerned, Pie-A-Pot and Long Lodge ordered their tribesmen to pull stakes for the two tribes were going for a ramble across the country without having any particular destination in view. The handful of white settlers became a bit alarmed, but their alarm subsided when they observed the Pie-A-Pots and Long Lodges were orderly.

In time the Pie-A-Pots and Long Lodges came across a large party of white men digging up the ground and also laying thin strips of iron or steel across the flat prairie. "What is all this?" inquired the majestic Pie-A-Pot. "Oh... just building a railroad," replied one of the white men. "The road is being laid on into the west and when they were about a mile or so past the end of steel the two chiefs ordered the tribes to pitch camp.

Slowly but surely the end of steel crept nearer and nearer to the Cree encampment and it was later discovered that the camp was situated on the right of way of the railroad. As the end of steel moved closer and closer, engineers and men lay down with Pie-A-Pot and Long Lodge, entreating them to move either to the right or left, off the right of way, so that the work could go on without unnecessary delay. The Cree refused to budge and in time refused to parley further with the engineers in charge.

Then, one fine morning Pie-A-Pot and Long Lodge were visited by two red-coated horsemen, a sergeant and constable. The sergeant informed them that they had better move or he would do the moving for them. Pie-A-Pot let out a ninety horse-power howl, and soon the sergeant and constable were surrounded by hundreds of howling, snarling Cree who were exacting 15 minutes to move off that railroad right-of-way. Instantly there was another demonstration of anger and truculence, and the two Men of the Mounted sat the saddles as best they could in the milling mob. As the last tick of the fifteenth minute passed into eternity, the sergeant of the Northwest Mounted Police kicked the right into the midst of that bloodthirsty mob. He forced his way through it and walked right over to Pie-A-Pot's teepee and kicked the keystone down. While the sergeant was so occupied, the constable walked to the next teepee and kicked the keystone of that one down. From one to the other, the constable strode, kicking keystone down until every teepee was flat. Young bucks and so-called "braves" followed close on his heels, pushing against him, making faces at him, cursing him, and doing all they could to annoy or frighten him, but the sergeant kept right on going until all teepees were flat, and in spite of their proximity, not one Cree had dared to strike a blow at the outrageous sergeant. With everything flattened, the sergeant mounted his horse and gave his last order.

"Alright... bustle about a bit... On the move... shove off about your dirty business, whatever it is," all of which was his cockney way of saying "Get going!" Meanwhile, Pie-A-Pot and Long Lodge were so angry they were dumfounded for words. Never had they seen such audacity. One lone man, wearing a red coat, had literally wrecked their village. It is highly probable, moreover, that Pie-A-Pot and Long Lodge realized that if the other men of the Mounted were anything like this sergeant, perhaps the Pie-A-Pots and Long Lodges had better not get into any more arguments with them. These red coats were bad medicine. At any rate, as the chiefs saw the hopelessness of further resistance, they muttered a few words to their tribesmen, and within two hours the Pie-A-Pots and Long Lodges were heading for their reservation. En route Pie-A-Pot chanced to remember that if he didn't get his horse and the Great White Mother would stop sending supplies of food and flour and clothing and that little bit of treaty money now and then. "Oh well, what a day it's been, anyway," he might have said, as he arrived at the reservation.

Kong, immense prehistoric ape who is the menace in the fantastic RKO Radio picture, "King Kong," featuring Fay Wray, Robert Armstrong and Bruce Cabot, is one of the most terrifying villains that ever made a cameraman shudder. Certainly he is the largest.

He is fifty feet tall. His head shakes the earth, and his hands are capable of crushing an airplane to matchwood. His strength had flourished since the time man was born and Hollywood was a grading ground for the brontosaurus and the hypocaust. He ruled by the right of might, the lost island that had been left behind in the windy track of the centuries. But the thing that bewildered Kong, king of his realm, was the never-before experienced emotion of tenderness when he saw Beauty for the first time in the form of a woman. It led him into battle with prehistoric monsters for her and it led him to his doom when he tried to lay New York low—so wide out this, to him, weird thing called civilization.

The remarkable "King Kong," produced by Merian C. Cooper and Ernest B. Schoedsack, sensation of five years ago, is now being welcomed back to the screen. This picture will be shown at the Gayety Friday and Saturday.

Bob Burns fans, who have long been demanding that their favorite star be cast in a big dramatic role and take his deserved place alongside the great portrayals of native American characters, will see their wish come true in Burns' new picture, "The Arkansas Traveler," which Paramount will present to local moviegoers Sunday and Monday at the Gayety Theatre, Erlanger.

Casting aside the bazooka and musical comedy wisecracks, which started him on the path to screen fame, Burns now portrays the most colorful character of his career—a happy-go-lucky wandering printer who edits a country newspaper in order to help a lady in distress and ends up by turning a powerful political regime. While his new role differs from all others Burns has played, it is reminiscent of the homely backwoodsman he portrayed in last season's "Wells Fargo."

The homespun story shows "the Traveler" interrupting his life of wandering in a hobo cavalcade when he arrives in a small town and finds the ladyowner of the local newspaper in danger of being put out of business by crooked politicians. The lady concerned is played by Fay Bainter, one of the first ladies of the stage and screen whose performances in "Jezebel" and "White Banners" won her admirers everywhere.

Weaving in and out of the story of Burns' adventures as crusading editor is tender romance between Jean Parker, playing Miss Bainter's spirited daughter and handsome John Beal, the scapegrace son of the local boss-ruled mayor. Don't miss this big picture.

BULLITTVILLE HOMEMAKERS
The regular monthly meeting of the Bullittville Homemakers was held January 17th at Mrs. Jonas Stevens.

One important thing of this meeting was planning for the Farm and Home Week in Lexington, the week of January 24 to 27. The better speech program was continued this month by Mrs. Sam Roberts. The lesson consisted mostly of the correct use of verbs that express action. Mrs. Burnham Roberts, program chairman, led an interesting discussion on the study of England, Czech, and Canada.

Mrs. Lola Ernest and Mrs. Sam Roberts were appointed by the president, Mrs. J. R. Williams, to attend the fashion show February 14th at Copple's Department Store.

After the business meeting Mrs. Huey Aylor and Mrs. Lola Ernest, taught each member the loom work which will be continued in February.

On January 10th a special meeting was held at Mrs. Fanny Clore's to cane chairs.

On February 22nd the club will meet with Mrs. Albert Willis, for their monthly meeting.

A free lunch will be served and an interesting program, including music and talks by local farm leaders and addresses by representatives from the Production Credit Office at Louisville, Kentucky, will be given.

MODERN HOUSES LOSE TOO MUCH HEAT

New York, N. Y.—Many modern houses lose too much heat during the winter and gain too much heat during the summer, because their owners and builders do not appreciate the value of wall-thick insulation.

"The importance of home insulation," reports Wharton Felt, secretary of the National Mineral Wool Association, "is emphasized by the recent action of the Canadian equivalent of our FHA requiring the use of side wall and top floor ceiling insulation of a designated thermal efficiency in all new houses to be approved by it. The trend towards the use of insulation makes to health, comfort and fuel economy, building or heat codes will eventually require its use in all residential structures."

"The production of mineral wool during the past year has reflected a growing trend towards the use of the thicker, more efficient insulating materials. Production of mineral wool bats and strips for the third quarter of 1938 was 88 per cent ahead of the first quarter, 37 per cent ahead of the second quarter."

Statements of granulated wool—widely used in remodeling and modernization work—were 68 per cent ahead of the first quarter and 123 per cent ahead of the second quarter.

Statistics represent the production of the 25 leading manufacturers—members of the Association producing 85 per cent of the industry's output.

Passed Fire-tests

"The third quarter was also marked by the approval by the National Bureau of Standards, Washington, D. C., of mineral wool as a fire-retardant in wood stud walls and partitions. The Bureau tests gave an ordinary wood stud wall, finished with wood lath and plaster, one-hour fire rating and on finished with metal lath and plaster a one and a half hour rating. These are the only fire endurance tests of any length ever given to a home insulating material."

Up-to-date farmers push pigs along to maturity and then cart them off to market weighing 200 pounds or a little more when five to six months old. But in the half year the pigs had a good time, received liberal feedings of balanced rations, roamed on luscious pasture, had comfortable quarters, and went to market fat, sleek and profitable.

The circular points out two annual peaks in hog prices—one in March or April and the other between late July and early September. It is good management to have hogs ready to sell in one or both of these periods, the fall pigs in the spring, the early spring pigs in late summer.

The value of pasture in reducing the cost of raising hogs is stressed. An acre of good spring pasture may raise 12 bushels of corn and also tankage or other feed, it is said. Many hog raisers grow rape and sudan grass, in addition to mixed grasses, clovers and alfalfa.

ITALIAN RYE GRASS TESTED IN KENTUCKY

Seven hundred and twenty-five farmers in 39 Kentucky counties tried growing Italian rye grass last year in an effort to add another pasture and cover crop. Most farmers broadcast the grass seed on old fields, mainly on lespezes. In some counties the State Highway Department sowed Italian rye grass on shoulders and banks.

Various methods were used last fall in harvesting rye grass seed, including combines and cradles. Heavy Romines of Cork, Metcalfe Co., gathered about 100 pounds of seed from a quarter-acre, with the use of a cradle. Combines are said to work well as rye grass seed harvesters. County agents in 48 counties reported a total of approximately 400 combines in operation last year.

FLORENCE HOMEMAKERS

The Florence Homemakers' club held their regular monthly meeting January 18th at the Town Hall. The lesson "Weaving" was given by Miss Gillespie.

BIG BONE Y. W. A.

The meeting of The Big Bone Y. W. A. was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Garland Huff for an all-day session. After the social program, the meeting was opened by the vice-president in charge, Mrs. Bruce Ryle.

After a short business period, Mrs. Betty Kirtley, program leader, took charge of the meeting. Emma Jane Aylor leading the devotional. A very stirring and inspirational program, "Proclaiming the Gospel to Every People," was presented. Those taking active part on the program included Mrs. H. M. Sue Ryle, Marie Ashbury Beatrice Aylor and Iva Huff.

Next meeting, February 16th, will be held at the home of Beatrice Aylor. Topic: "The Bible Around the World." We welcome all visitors and urge members to try to attend these meetings.

SEVERAL DISEASES RESEMBLE SLEEPING SICKNESS IN HORSES

Forage poisoning, or botulism, occurs among horses and mules in fall and winter. The symptoms are similar to those observed in sleeping sickness, a disease of summer and early fall. Other domestic animals, including chickens, are susceptible to botulism.

As the name indicates, forage poisoning comes from a poison in feeds, especially in tightly packed materials in moist weather, such as silage, baled hay, oats and corn, and immature and moldy corn.

Symptoms of botulism in horses are depression, unsteady gait, and inability to swallow. As the disease progresses, the animal is unable to stand, although it may live for several days.

A serum or antitoxin is used for protection against and treatment of botulism. Treated animals may safely be given feed that contains the botulinus toxin, according to the department of animal pathology at the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station.

In addition to botulism and sleeping sickness there are other diseases of horses and mules that produce symptoms in some respects resembling those of these diseases, points out Dr. W. W. Dimock, head of the department of animal pathology. Positive diagnosis of these diseases from clinical symptoms is not an easy matter, he says. The time of the year when the horse takes the feed and the feed that it is receiving help somewhat in directing attention to which disease the animal has.

In the case of botulism, feeding tests on guinea pigs and chickens usually give conclusive answers. For sleeping sickness, the procedure is to examine the brain, and make animal inoculations.

EARLY LESPEDEZA SUGGESTED

Sowing lespezea in middle winter or else waiting until late March or April is suggested by the Kentucky College of Agriculture circular, "The Lespezeas in Kentucky." It sowed in late January or early February freezing and thawing action will cover the seed sufficiently, the stand will become established early and the plants be in a better position to withstand competition from nurse crops and weeds.

If not sowed in middle winter, the seed should be better waited until late March or April, when the seed can be covered with a harrow or other equipment. Late sowing may be safer where lespezea is sowed with small grain. With oats or alone on prepared ground it is better to sow the seed on the surface and allow rains to do the covering. On hard, bare ground, the use of a harrow or other implement is advantageous. After middle April, when moisture conditions are usually favorable and it becomes increasingly difficult to get a stand.

For maximum yield the first year, 20 to 25 pounds per acre of korean lespezea seed should be sown, with about a third more of korea. Good stands are often obtained with lighter seedings, but the use of more seed is generally profitable. Three to five pounds an acre will give stand enough to provide a full crop the following year by volunteer seeding, even if the first year's growth is postponed.

REPAIR OVERLOADED FLUES

A characteristic falling of many an old chimney is that its one flue frequently serves two or more fireplaces, stoves or ranges. Such a flue cannot function properly; it acts fitfully and results in smoking fixtures. It is also a certain fire menace as it becomes coated with soot and unburnt particles that may be ignited by the heat of the gases in the flue, then to be dropped on to the roof of the house. If the roof is not covered with fire-resistant shingles, a disastrous fire may result. To correct such a condition, block up all smokepipe opening but one, leaving no more than one flue to be served by the flue. Have the chimney cleaned annually, and re-roof at the earliest opportunity with fire safe shingles, such as asphalt shingles, slate or tile.

Tobacco grading demonstrations by a federal grader were attended by more than a hundred Wayne county farmers.

Grant Man Winner Of Top State Rating In Burley Seed

C. C. Worthington, farmer of near Sherman, Grant County, is reported by Robert Hume, County Agent, to have received the highest seed test rating in the State this year for burley tobacco.

Russell Hunt, tobacco specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, Experiment Station, Lexington, made the seed test. He gave high points for root-rot resistance.

Worthington received a 99.9 per cent rating on germination purity and 90 percent on "germination." He grows the Burley 16.

Mr. Worthington stated that he would have plenty of certified No. 16 to supply to farmers of this County at a reasonable price.

HELPING THE BIRDS

Scattering food on the ground for birds during the winter weather is a good practice, but not nearly so effective as helping nature to do the job of feeding the birds, according to Ward T. Darnell, Superintendent of CCC Camp, Walton, Ky.

A wide variety of plants and shrubs adapted to this section can be planted on small areas about the farm so as to provide both "board and lodging" for birds, rabbits, squirrels and etc., and other desirable species of wildlife during the winter period of winter and early spring, he said.

As one phase of its program of soil and water conservation in its erosion control area in Boone and Kenton counties the Soil Conservation Service is using plants and shrubs to serve the double purpose of controlling erosion and providing food for cover for wildlife on small, wooded areas on farms of cooperators in the projects.

By selecting a variety of such plants which mature seed and make food available over successive periods throughout the year, conditions favorable to the development of wildlife can be provided on any farm. Many species of grasses and legumes, small grains, and such shrubs as Pea Trees, Northern Redberry, and Chinese Chestnut are excellent for this purpose.

Gullies and gull spots and other severely eroded areas about the farm make ideal locations for such plantings. Other desirable shrubs for bird-watching include field borders, hedges, fence corners, margins of woods and other waste space not suitable for cultivation.

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER

ESTABLISHED 1875

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1939

VOLUME 63

NUMBER 36

REA PROJECT IS APPROVED

MAP TO BE MADE IMMEDIATELY AND SUBMITTED TO REA AUTHORITIES IN WASHINGTON.

The Boone County REA project, including 377 signers on 111.1 miles was approved as an Association Extension project by the Owen County REA Association Board of Directors on last Wednesday night, January 25th, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. The directors ordered an engineer's map be made immediately and submitted to the REA in Washington on allotment for line construction.

Rev. Will Smith, chairman of the sign-up committee, Edward Rogers, secretary-treasurer, Dolph Sebe, James Pennington, Walter King, Harold Rogers and Jack Dye attended the meeting with the Owen Board of Directors and completed arrangements for acceptance of the project. It is hoped to get allotment approval from the Washington office at the earliest possible date.

Only forty-six signers were left off the proposed line submitted the past week. These signers were too far from the main line or else were on spur lines that would not average 3 signers per mile. These signers still have an opportunity to get electricity on the original project provided they act immediately and secure enough signers to meet minimum requirements.

The engineer preparing the project may begin work on Tuesday of this week. Those on the proposed line and would like to know just how many more signers are required should contact the county agent's office in Burlington immediately. The engineer is expected to complete the map of the line in four days. All lines on the original project must be on the engineer's map.

On March 6th another picture will be shown, "Girl of the Limberlost," with one reel comedy. All pictures shown will be sound pictures. The admission will be 15 and 25 cents.

The public is urged to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Kirkpatrick were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Congleton and family.

TVA PHOSPHATE IS AVAILABLE

TO FARMERS COOPERATION IN AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION PROGRAM FARMERS SHOULD APPLY EARLY.

TVA 47 percent triple superphosphate for use on soil conserving crops is available to Boone County farmers under the Agricultural Conservation Program. Those of last year, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

Phosphate the past few years has given hundreds of Boone County farmers large increases in pasture and hay crops. Strong stands of alfalfa have also been secured where phosphate was used. Each year the available supply has been exhausted before the end of the season and many farmers had waited too late to file their applications.

Farmers are supplied the triple superphosphate in lieu of cash payments under the A. C. Program. The only cash expenditure to the farmer is the paying of $6.00 per ton, cost on the freight and handling charges. Cooperative farmers use the fertilizer only on grass or legume crops and the program is more strict this year in this connection.

Those desiring phosphate in 1939 should file their application at the county office immediately.

Gayety Theater News

Fri. and Sat.—"Man From Music Mountain"
Sun. and Mon.—"Stablemates"
Tuesday—"Sharpshooter"
Wed. and Thurs., Feb. 8 and 9—"Suez"

Gene Autry, the Number One Cowboy of the screen, who will be at the Gayety Theatre Friday and Saturday in "The Man From Music Mountain," a Republic Picture, has just completed a beautiful ranch home in the San Fernando Valley near Hollywood.

The house, a low rambling structure, was designed by the famous actor himself, and has taken a year in the building. It overlooks the entire valley, and is situated in the center of the 10 acre tract that composes the property. Autry's horses, 7 of them, are housed in stables which Gene built himself.

"The Man From Music Mountain" is the exciting story of a ghost mining town that is brought to life through fake mining stock with an unscrupulous Los Angeles broker is selling. How Autry and his pals manage to save the investments of the "suckers" forms a thrilling climax to the action-packed picture.

Gene is supported by Smiley Burnette, Carol Hughes, Eddie Cherkose, Frankie Marvin, Earl Dwire, Edward Cassidy, Sally Payne, Polly Jenkins and Playboys, and many others.

The picture was directed by Joe Kane under executive producer Charles E. Ford.

With the unerring showmanship vision that has been responsible for several of the most entertaining and successful picture series, 20th Century-Fox has again directed its production talent and resources to the creation of a new series of action pictures, dramatizing the exploits of "The Camera Dandies," the first of which "Sharpshooters" comes to the Gayety Theatre.

The heroes of this new series are two devil-may-care newspaper photographers chasing danger around the world. And they're ready on a moment's notice to take their lives in their hands—or maybe a girl in their arms.

Inspired by their love of adventure and, incidentally, a beautiful girl who is governess to the young prince, they utilize their wit and talents in the best of the king-to-be. What follows makes for an exciting and suspenseful story background for the exploits of the two intrepid cameramen and a picture that is heralded as a new entertainment thrill.

When the savage black simoon roars in from the Sahara to provide a climax of terrifying power for "Suez" audiences at the Gayety Theater will witness a spectacle and experience an emotion the screen has never been able to capture before.

Twisting, torturing, "destroying" the devil-wind of the desert is one of the production miracles of the spectacular story of Ferdinand de Lesseps and the building of the great canal that has become the jocular vein of the world.

Darryl F. Zanuck, producer of many of the screen's most memorable pictures, has re-created on the screen the stupendous effort of de Lesseps to tear two continents apart and join the Mediterranean with the Red Sea that ships might sail the desert.

A canal half a mile long, 100 feet deep and 150 feet across was dug by moving crowds in the American desert near Yuma, Arizona, for scenes in the film. Other dramatic sequences were filmed on a 20-acre desert constructed on an abandoned golf course on the 20th Century Fox lot. Royal caravans of Europe and Egypt were built for the film, which is highlighted by the romantic story of the loves that drove de Lesseps to the realization of his dream.

Tyrone Power interprets the flaming heroic role of the canal builder, sharing stellar honors with Loretta Young and Annabella.

NEGRO ARRESTED IN WALTON CRASH

SUNDAY—MRS. WALTER WHITSON SUFFERS BROKEN LEG WHEN CAR OVERTURNS IN WRECK.

Mrs. Walter Whitson suffered a broken leg Sunday, when the car in which she and her husband were riding, struck by the car of Charles Oldham, colored, of Newport.

The accident occurred just north of Walton at the intersection of U. S. 25 and Nicholson Road. The car driven by Oldham, traveling north over U. S. 25 failed to negotiate the curve and the driver attempted to swing the car onto the Nicholson road. The car struck Whitson's car, overturning it, and injuring Mrs. Whitson. She was removed to the hospital for treatment of a broken leg and a broken arm. The car of Oldham escaped injury.

Oldham was arrested by Town Marshal Bob Brugh, of Walton and turned over to patrolmen Conrad and Meagley, who brought him to Burlington Monday morning for trial. He was charged with reckless driving and given the maximum fine of $100.00 and costs when arraigned before acting Judge Carroll Cropper. He was unable to pay the fine and was placed in the Burlington jail.

New Pumper Is Sought By Fire Department

The Florence Volunteer Fire Department are now nearing the point of adding a new pumper to their fleet of fire fighting equipment that will enable them to meet the rural demands of a fire department, and better serve the county as a whole.

Mr. C. E. Blankenbaker, of Florence, has been selected to receive donation on this new machine, and it is the desire of the committee to complete this drive as soon as possible. Anyone desiring to make a donation on this pumper are requested to send their remittance to Mr. Blankenbaker as soon as possible.

Chief A. Hue reports the department has been making fine progress during the past year, and that it has been self-supporting for a period of 1 year. All donations to the department this year have been set aside for the purpose of the new pumper which is expected to be bought soon.

SAVINGS BANK INSURANCE

The state of New York is following the example of Massachusetts in a new system of putting savings banks in the insurance business. The latter state began such a system about thirty years ago and it has been satisfactory. The idea of bank insurance is that it is available for the man who is not financially able to afford large policies, to the man who can only put aside small sums of money at a time. The banks issue policies limited to $1,000 and no one person may buy more than three of them. Up to this time this class of people have been served by an agent who goes from house to house collecting a dime or quarter. This is not satisfactory in many cases being too high in cost and in pressure salesmanship, according to the advance from savings banks the man pays his premiums at the bank and benefits by lower rates. If he cannot meet his payments, instead of losing his policy, he has the privilege of loans or surrendering it in for cash. This plan is not intended to compete with the various insurance companies but is to provide insurance for the man who has been unable to have it in any other way. There are only two states following this procedure at this time but it is believed there will be others before long. Whatever the personal opinion of the policy holders, it is not to be denied that any such type of insurance that can be within the reach of men who haven't been able to afford the other sort, is worth trying.

THE FINGER PRINTS

We are recalled by the recent Foster-Musica affair, the bit of unfavorable comment that arose when the first finger printing was done in order to prove conclusively that this was one sure way of convicting a criminal. How many jibes, jests and denunciations were made, how many caustic remarks were uttered regarding the uncertainty. The head of a great business corporation is arrested and his finger prints are taken as a matter of police routine. There would be few to connect this prominent financial figure with a prisoner of 1909. The finger prints of the two men were identical and the two men became one personality, due to a card in the files of the police. The man who laughed at the early procedure of finger printing when it was in its infancy, today realizes the value of this system. The person who took his past, his birth certificate, his name, his financial rating, his honor, but the finger ends point his way to destiny.

THE SENSITIVE COW

Not that it makes a whole lot of difference to most folks around Boone County who have come to it might be interesting to comment upon the recent findings of a certain university school of dairy research. It seems that the peaceful cow is a creature affected by swing music and Wagner, when it comes to the point of the Jersey or Holstein calmly munching her cud may become a victim of nervous indigestion and curdle the milk over modern jazz music and Lohengrin. There are few of us who take such matters seriously, and we may be wrong in our opinion so lightly over the musical reactions of the cow, for time may prove to us that operative arrangements may be the cause of much curdled milk and cream. The average milk doesn't know much Wagner to hum and if he did the cow might not recognize it for Wagner, and a modern band with its swing and jazz scarcely ever finds its way into the stables of the neighborhood farms. But it is nice to know that the quiet cow has an ear for music and wants it Beethoven!

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

Nothing can replace property destroyed by fire. An insurance policy may provide you with the money to duplicate—but the burned property is gone beyond redemption. It represents a complete economic waste. It is a drain on the resources of the nation. The direct loss by fire has been running in the neighborhood of $300,000,000 a year. It is estimated that the indirect loss is about the total to a billion, at a low estimate. That billion dollars would give employment to a million workmen at $1,000 a year each. It would build more than 300,000 homes costing $3,000 each. It would buy more than 1,200,000 automobiles at $800. It would build 200,000 miles of splendid highway. It would give university educations to 250,000 young men and women. It would provide annual pensions of $50 a month each to 2,000,000 old people. This, then, is what fire destroys—wealth, opportunity, and irreplaceable resources. America's criminal carelessness with fire is one of the blackest spots on our national escutcheon. A fire you never heard of may have deprived you of a job, or an order for your factory. It may have raised your taxes. For fire hits everybody—and it's everybody's business to help prevent it.

NOT A CROWD OF SKINFINTS

It's only human for some persons who are refused loans by a bank to go away cursing banking in general. They paint bankers as a crew of heartless skinflints. However, a banker doesn't refuse a loan because he wants to refuse it, when he does, he does because he must—because either the law or his obligation to his depositors makes it impossible to grant the request. As F. L. Lippman, Chairman of the Board of the Wells Fargo Bank, recently wrote, "There is no real difference between the applicant and the bank as to their interests and final purposes. It is no kindness to a man to make him a bad loan, for if he cannot repay and the bank takes a loss, the borrower himself is ruined. The interests of the two are in fact the same. Both want to make the loan if it is a good loan, but neither at bottom wants to make a bad loan. Inevitably there are some errors of judgment on both sides, but it is the banker who must take the responsibility. If he is too sanguine, there may be a loss for the bank and tragedy and ruin for the borrower."

A bank is just as sound as the judgment of the men who operate it. After all, the money in the bank doesn't belong to the bankers. We will get a much clearer picture of banking if we divorce ourselves of the mistaken notion that bank officials want to squeeze every nickel until the eagle screams. The average banker is eager to make sound loans to build his community. As his town and state grow and prosper, his bank grows and prospers with them. The banker is simply the servant of his depositors. He is bound by rigid rules of law and ethics. And nine times out of ten, when he refuses a loan, there is a sound reason back of it, and he's doing the applicant a favor, as well as saving the bank from probable loss.

PRACTICE PROVES THEORY

What one man can't do, a thousand men, working together with a common purpose, may be able to do. There, in a sentence, is the underlying theory of agricultural marketing cooperation. No individual farmer can bargain with a powerful middleman to obtain a fair price for what he has to sell. But when an army of farmers band together, form a bargaining agency, adequately financed, and staff it with first-class executives, they can meet any buyer on an equal footing. And practice has proven that the theory is eminently practical.

AMERICAN SUPREMACY THREATENED

Roake Carter recently said this: "No man tries to educate and to teach the great masses of people of this nation—including the vast slice of foreign-born in our midst—that it has been the system of competition and free enterprise that has been able to provide the fantastic picture of a man without a job blandly traveling to a WPA project behind the steering wheel of his own automobile!" "The fact is the fact is that American citizens that were it not for these basic fundamentals we would not now be enjoying the freedom to talk, write, travel, produce or buy, that we possess?" "Americans have more radios, automobiles, refrigerators, and similar luxuries than any other people. They enjoy better food, a d life in better homes. They wear better clothes and use better furniture. The ordinary citizen buys and employs for his pleasure and convenience commodities that are possessed only by the rich or other lands."

As Mr. Carter observes, it is free competition, the backbone of private initiative and free enterprise that has given us all this. In America, the man who can manufacture a product better or cheaper than another man has been at liberty to set up his factory, go to work, and get the business through honest competition. The man who can operate a store or a group of stores more efficiently and economically than another, and so give the consumer a better price, has been free to do it, and every one of the land has benefited as a result. There are those who would pass laws to destroy efficiency in the interest of the inefficient. But the progress in America will be at an end, and our much vaunted world supremacy will be doomed.

THE URGE TO ACHIEVE

No one can force such an education or counsel can be substituted for the urge to achieve. Some say—and with reason—that the urge to achieve is dying out. Perhaps it is dying out at the top, but it is coming in at the bottom. As a Frenchman once said: "The stairway of success is ever resounding with the clatter of wooden shoes ascending it and the soft patter of patent-leather shoes coming down."—Walter B. Pitkin in the Rotarian Magazine.

PETER PREACHES AT PENTECOST

LESSON TEXT—Acts 2:12-18, 36-41.
GOLDEN TEXT—Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord of hosts.—Zechariah 4:6.

We need a revival. With one accord leaders of the Church agree on that point although they may differ widely on other matters. So far, and civil leaders agree. One prominent government official recently said that the only hope for the world in this hour of conflict and confusion was a return to the Christian faith of our fathers. He was but one of many outstanding men who have expressed such a belief.

How may such a revival of faith toward God (with the quickening of the believer and the resultant salvation of sinners) be brought about? Certainly it is not in the power of man to produce it, although he does have a vital part in surrendering himself to God's plan and purpose so that He may work again in the midst of His people. Our lesson for today clearly indicates how God worked on Pentecost, namely, through a Spirit-filled people, proclaiming His own Word, with astonishing results following. Will not God work in the same way today if we only give Him a chance?

I. An Amazing Spiritual Experience (vv. 12, 13).

Read the first 11 verses of this chapter and you will learn of the coming of the Holy Spirit upon the disciples—as the rushing of a mighty wind, in tongues of fire, and in the ability to proclaim the Word of God to all men.

There is no use talking about another Pentecost as though God needs to repeat that marvelous day. But the essence of what occurred on Pentecost is the deep need of both individual Christians and of the Church today. In much (one is almost ready to say most) of our Christian work there is not only a failure to recognize the Holy Spirit, but what appears to be an actual ignoring of Him. One of the great experiences of literally thousands of students of the Bible in the writer's care during the years is their sudden understanding of the fact that the Holy Spirit is a person—yes, a convincing, regenerating, directing, energizing member of the divine Trinity, working in and through man.

II. An Effective Spiritual Message (vv. 14-18, 36. See also vv. 19-35).

The characteristics of a real gospel message are found here. First of all, there must be a Spirit-filled preacher. He may be a minister or he may be a layman, but if the Spirit of God is upon him, there will be the right kind of message. That message will not be an essay, book review, or dissertation on social or civic problems, but an exposition of the Word of God. Note that Peter preached and interpreted prophecy—a subject which no preacher should neglect—but that he did so not for the purpose of having a sensational sermon subject, but in order to reveal the glories of the Word and work of God—releasement some preachers need to learn.

The manner of preaching is also important. Peter was definite, earnest and decidedly personal in his preaching. A man who is speaking in the energy of the flesh should beware of such marks upon his preaching, but a Spirit-filled man should rejoice in the holy boldness and assurance which the Holy Spirit gives. He will be delivered from any temptations to be extreme or unkind, but will at the same time be led to say those things which will prick the hearts of people and cause them to turn to Christ.

III. An Appropriate Spiritual Result (vv. 37-41).

We often say that there is very little old-time conviction of sin today, and alas, it is all too true. It is not even the privilege of many spiritually-minded preachers who present a true gospel to see such a response as Peter saw on Pentecost. But that does not mean that the Spirit is not working. God does not hold us responsible for outward evidence of results. He does hold every teacher and preacher responsible for faithful discharge of his sacred stewardship. That includes more than the public ministry of teaching a Sunday School class or preaching a sermon. It means that the individual's life is right with God—no trickery, no dishonesty, no double dealing with God or man; a life yielded to the control of the Holy Spirit. Next comes diligence in study of God's Word, and a willingness to proclaim its truth without fear or favor, in season and out of season.

The Living Word

Christ is the Living Word; so it is the Word of God that has come from God, and has come into this world, and by which all and every operation of God is effected. Where the Word of God is received the soul is begotten of God.

FIGURES RELEASED BY STATE FISH AND GAME COMMISSION, FRANKFORT

The preliminary figures of the income and expenditures of the Kentucky Division of Game and Fish during the year 1938, released by Major James Brown, Director of the Division, show a total operating income of $164,467.28 and expenditures of $185,161.62.

The figures are subject to change by the State auditors, but the general report will be near the proportions of the preliminary report except that the income total possibly will be increased more than the disbursement total will be, Major Brown stated.

The operating costs of the Division were $248,837.76 more than its income, but Major Brown said that the Division still is on a firm financial basis and that a program of restocking and conserving for 1939 will be more extensive than that of 1938. At the start of 1938, the Division had an unencumbered balance on account of more than $40,000 and after the annual audit and complete report is given, the unencumbered balance will be upward of $25,000, Brown explained.

With the increase in the income from fishing licenses brought about by the lowering of the age limit on those who are required to have licenses, Major Brown said he believes the Division's income for 1939 will exceed the $200,000 mark.

The salaries of officials in the Division, Conservation Officers and the clerical help was the main item of expense last year. Salaries totaled $80,000.96. Traveling and operating expenses were $33,967.92. A sum of $18,239.72 was spent for game for restocking. Miscellaneous equipment and expenses took approximately $30,000. The Harlan County game refuge, which was bought by the Division several months ago, cost another $10,000, while wages for various labor added to $25,269.99 and trucks, boats and motors were purchased at a cost of approximately $5,800.

Included in the report were the income figures for the past four years: 1935, approximately $119,000; 1936, $126,891.84; 1937, $142,782.41; 1938, $164,467.28.

Major Brown stated that when he came here to take charge of the Division in 1936, there were 22 full-time Conservation Officers on the payroll. The Division now has 46 full-time Conservation Officers and efforts will be made in the immediate future to increase this total to 60.

The quail restocking program this spring will call for the release of approximately 17,000 birds in the fields of Kentucky. This will be an increase of 5,000 birds over last year when 11,981 quail were released.

The output of the State fish hatcheries was not as large as it was expected to be because of unfavorable weather conditions last spring. Some of the rearing ponds also did not do as well as expected in bringing the pass from fry size to fingerling length due to inadequate aquatic food supply which caused by the newness of the ponds, Major Brown explained.

Given another year in which to increase the food supply these ponds should come into their own this year and the output of fingerling fish should be greater.

Major Brown also stated that he did not think the floating hatchery on Herrington Lake feasible and said that the lake needs a hatchery and rearing ponds on the shore, but attempts to obtain one have met with obstacles thus far.

The Division's seining crew transported 563,845 fish during the year 1938.

A total of only $1,034.98 in fines was received by the Division during 1938 from convictions of game law violations. The new game and fish laws grant the Division a larger percentage of the fines, but the Attorney General has ruled that the section cannot be put in effect until incumbent officers of courts have been replaced or re-elected.

New Firestone Champion Tire

The New Firestone Champion Tire, a product of years' speedway experience and laboratory research. Streamlined and ultra-modern in appearance, this new tire introduces several revolutionary features of design and construction, including a new Gear-Grip tread and a Safety-Lock cord body.

The new tread design provides greater traction efficiency and retains its superior non-skid qualities after many thousands of miles of service. The cotton fibre of the Safety-Lock cord is tightly twisted into a stand of high tensile strength, treated by the patented Firestone Gum-Dipping process, and locked together to form the tire body. This construction affords a new measure of blowout protection.

MODERN METHODS HELP KENTUCKY POULTRY RAISERS

The use of electric lights to produce more eggs when prices are good, and the production of hatching eggs at a premium of 10 cents a dozen, are but two of the modern methods employed by Ronald Bushong, Monroe county farmer, in making poultry profitable.

He related his experiences at a meeting of poultry raisers at the Farm and Home Convention at Lexington.

Even mongrel hens, when well managed, are profitable, Bushong found when he began poultry raising 14 years ago. However, he shifted to purebreds and built brooder houses for 10 cents a dozen, are but two of the modern methods employed by Ronald Bushong, Monroe county farmer, in making poultry profitable.

Bushong hatches 1,600 to 1,700 chicks a year and keeps 500 to 600 hens. He uses moveable brooder houses to keep the chicks on clean ground, which he considers important.

Originally he used coal burning brooder stoves, but now he uses wood burning stoves made from old drums. Home-made starting and growing mashers are fed.

Cockerels are separated from the pullets at about 6 weeks of age. Pullets are housed before they begin laying. Lights have been used for three years in the laying house to help stimulate egg production in winter. Bushong keeps only pullets as layers, selling the hens after the hatching season.

Complete records for 12 years reveal that chickens have never failed to make money on the Bushong farm. They helped him through the worst years of the depression, he says, and were the most profitable farm enterprise during that time.

THE FARM AND HOME

In selecting eggs for hatching, use those that are fresh, clean and egg-shaped, that weigh 24 to 26 ounces to the dozen, that are strong in shell texture, and free from tint in white-egg breeds. Proper storage temperature is 50 to 60 degrees.

Hens kept in the barn and full-fed on idle days may develop indigestion and swollen leg or "Monday morning disease," a condition resulting from too much feed and too little exercise. Idle horses, even in winter, should have the run of pasture fields.

Comfort is the first consideration in selecting sleeping facilities. Bedsteads should be steady and substantial, and springs and mattresses conducive to good sleep. Sheets large enough to stay tucked in and plenty of lightweight covers are important.

It is dangerous to turn on an electric light while the other hand touches the water faucet. It is dangerous to touch any electrical connection while in a wet bathtub. An electric iron, if left connected when not in use, can burn up the house.

Stains on clothing can be removed usually, and should be removed as soon as possible, since changes brought about by drying, exposure to air, washing, soap or ironing may make them difficult or even impossible to correct. There is no universal stain remover.

The orphan lamb may be fed with an ordinary nursing bottle and nipple, giving fresh cow's milk at body temperature. Feed regularly every two or three hours in small amounts, such as two or three tablespoons. Keep bottle and nipple clean.

Two hundred and four Union county homes were electrically lighted for the first time in December.

of Kentucky after it has withdrawn money from the state's unemployment compensation trust fund which on December 1, 1938 amounted to more than $18,000,000.

BAPTISTS TO HOLD TRAINING UNION AT CAMPBELLVILLE FEB. 4-5

The Baptist Training Union forces of Kentucky will meet at Campbellville, Friday and Saturday, February 3-4, for the fourth state meeting of associational officers and workers since January 1, 1936. This meeting will be held to review progress that has been made in the Five Year Promotional Program of Baptist Training Union forces and to make plans for 1939, which is the fourth year of the Five Year Program. Kentucky Baptists are undertaking to establish a graded Training Union in every Baptist church in the state. They are depending on the associational officers for this service.

The program of the conference will start at 10:00 o'clock on Friday morning, February 3, and close at noon on Saturday, February 4. Some of the speakers and conference leaders will appear on the program are as follows: Dr. T. L. Holcomb, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Lambdin, W. A. Harrell, Clay I. Hudson, C. Aubrey Hearn, Miss Elaine Coleman, and B. B. McKinney, all of the Baptist Sunday School Board, Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. Hattie Potts Rogers, Knoxville, Tenn.; Mrs. Aurora Shumate, Birmingham, Ala.; Dr. J. W. Black, General Secretary and Treasurer, Executive Board of State Missions, Louisville; and Byron C. S. DeJarnette, state Training Union Secretary, Louisville.

During 1938 Southern Baptists issued $43,808 Study Course awards through the Baptist Training Union Department. There were more than four thousand new organizations reported during the year and the increase in enrollment was larger than during any previous year.

This record was made possible by the volunteer work of the training Union Association officers in each state in the Southern Baptist Convention. Kentucky has 80 associations. It is expected that the officers from each association will attend the meeting in Campbellville, February 3-4. These officers include director, pastor-adviser, associate director, secretary-treasurer, chorister, pianist, group directors, and Story Hour, Junior, Intermediate, Senior, and Adult department leaders.

The Baptist Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention is offering to finance the transportation expenses of one, two, or three cars bringing associational officers from each association at the rate of two cents per mile for the round for each car.

with the NEW Safety-Lock Cord Body and NEW Gear-Grip Tread

Stronger Cord Body More Non-Skid Mileage

Plus FAMOUS TRIPLE-SAFE CONSTRUCTION

FIRESTONE triumphs again! This time with the new Firestone Champion, the tire that sets the safety standards for 1939. This new tire provides a combination of safety features never before built into a tire. It is a completely new achievement in safety engineering.

From the experience gained on the speedways of the world and in the Firestone laboratories, Firestone engineers have developed a revolutionary new type of cord body called Safety-Lock, which provides amazingly greater strength. This outstanding achievement makes possible the use of a thicker, tougher, deeper tread which assures much greater non-skid mileage. Because of this new Safety-Lock Cord body and Gear-Grip tread, the modern streamlined Firestone Champion Tire establishes completely new standards of blowout protection, non-skid safety, silent operation and long mileage.

The Firestone Champion Tire embodies the famous Firestone Triple-Safe construction — you get the exclusive and patented Firestone construction features of Gum-Dipping, two extra layers of Safety-Lock cords under the tread and Gear-Grip tread design. Never in all the history of tire building has there been such a triple-safe combination to protect you against the dangers of blowouts, punctures and skidding.

Come in today and equip your car with a set of new Firestone Champion Tires — the only tires made which are safety proved on the speedway for your protection on the highway.

MAJOR BROWN MAKES PLEA TO SPORTSMEN

An urgent request for all hunters and fishermen and all interested in wildlife to get in touch with the United States Representative—Robertson, asking that they support the appropriation derived from the excise tax on arms and ammunition, was sounded this morning by Major James Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish.

The Pittman-Robertson Act, passed by the last session of Congress, controls the expenditure of money appropriated by Congress for the purpose of restoration of our wildlife. This money is made available by an excise tax levied on arms and ammunition and must be appropriated each year by Congress, Major Brown explained.

The Act provides for restoration of wildlife resources in the various states through the Biological Survey of the Department of Agriculture.

The government-levied excise tax on arms and ammunition brings in an annual income varying from 3 1/4 to 3 3/4 million dollars, Major Brown pointed out. The money is then allotted to the states according to population, acreage and number of licenses sold.

The Biological Survey estimates that Kentucky would receive approximately $38,000 annually as its part in the restoration of our wildlife.

The last Congress repealed all excise taxes with the exception of this one Act. In spite of this the Budget Commission has recommended that only one million dollars of this tax be appropriated instead of 3 1/2 million.

"This is a rank injustice and I feel certain that if all interested people in our state will write to their Congressmen and Senators this injustice will not go through. Please don't put this off but do it now so that our Congressional delegation will know that Kentucky is interested in this particular bill and wants her share of the tax to restore her natural wildlife resources," Major Brown urged.

P. T. A. MEETING SCHEDULED FOR WEDNESDAY

The regular meeting of the Burlington P. T. A. has been changed from Tuesday night to Wednesday night, February 8th at the Burlington schoolhouse. Every member is urged to attend.

that fully 75 per cent of these feet suffer with painful corns and callouses. 45 per cent tramp miserable miles, tortured with burning metatarsalgia, (pain at ball of foot and heavy callouses) and bulging bunions. Many believe they are suffering with rheumatism and arthritis and spend hard earned dollars in vain for relief. Misguided millions fall for the age-old last straw of steel arch supports, pads, ointments, liniments and gadgets that finally find their way to the attic or ash can while the unfortunate continues to tramp the painful path to foot ruin.

In addition to these tortures that afflict the feet itself, toxin infections, nervousness, irritability and general fatigue, while affects the body above the hips, cause many to age and succumb prematurely.

An amazing discovery developed through foot research has done away with old methods of trying to find relief from foot troubles.

This discovery is changing dreary lives of fatigue and pain from men and women to lives of healthy activity and happiness.—

THE GARDEN

GROUND BREAKING
By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture.

In the past several weeks many persons have been remarking that the robins have come back, or so they think. What is actually the case is that the robins have not left at all, but until lately have been able to find subsistence in the fields. Because such food is becoming scarce, they have begun to frequent dwelling. That is to say, the "appearance" of the robins, now is a sign that spring is just "round the corner," or a signal that gardening should be begun. However, the time is here for preparation for the 1939 gardens-to-be to be started, and the first step is to break ground.

There are many reasons why garden breaking should be done before rigorous winter weather is past, but only a few need be cited. The first is that soil conditioning is brought about, and in two ways. At the summer's close, all the garden contains more or less crabgrass and other weeds, as well as the spent vegetable tops. All this was killed by frosts or freezes and is now a dry and straw mass. Plowed under just before seed-sowing and plant setting are to begin, this material may cause trouble by making the soil so open in texture that it dries out, or by lying in a layer at plow-depth, cuts off completely the rise of deep moisture. However, if this material is turned under early, time is allowed for it to rot down to become humus, a soil conditioner instead of a soil nemesis. The above applies also when stable manure is used on a garden.

The other way soil condition is improved by early plowing is this. Exposed to intermittent cold, the surfaces of the furrow slices freeze and thaw, the soil becoming porous and fluffy, then sloughing off. Finally, all has melted down, and an excellent start has been made toward preparing a seed bed for even the smallest seed.

There is one more important reason why a garden should be broken while there is still freezing weather, and this is that freeze measure of control of insects, as well as of some diseases, is effected.

Some kinds of insects find winter quarters in garden debris on the soil's surface. Others burrow down several inches, where the cold is less severe. When ground breaking is done while the insects still lie dormant, those that winter at the surface are buried and suffocate, whereas those that go deeper to escape unfriendly temperature, are turned up to freeze.

As to diseases, the case is not so clear, but blight and leafspot of several vegetables may be at least deterred from repeating if infected vegetable tops, and weeds which may carry, and do carry, these troubles, are plowed under early, while in fact the "germs" lie dormant.

All the foregoing may be put in to just one sentence, "Plow the garden before severe winter weather is over."

OHIO RIVER TO REACH 58 FEET

SEVERAL ROADS BLOCKED IN BOONE COUNTY—DAMAGE TO PROPERTY IS SMALL IN THIS SECTION.

The Ohio River was expected to reach a crest of 58 feet Wednesday and then to gradually recede, according to weather reports and announcements made over various radio stations. It was announced Tuesday that the river was on a stand-still at Maysville and it was expected to start falling within a few hours.

Little damage has been reported in Boone County. The high water has blocked several roads, some of which are the road both below and above Rabbit Hash, the Petersburg and Bellevue road and the Constance-Bromley road.

Last Sunday the ferry at Constance was forced to stop on one side of Dry Creek to the other due to the high water being over the Dry Creek bridge.

It was reported Monday that the Hamilton school had dismissed classes until after the water receded, as many of the roads were blocked by high water.

There have been very few residents of this county forced to move from their homes due to the flood, and if the river does not exceed 58 feet the damage to this section will be very small.

Young Men's Democratic Club To Meet Monday

The Young Men's Democratic Club will meet Monday night, February 13th, at Jack Holt's, Lima, for their regular monthly meeting. Lunch will be served at this meeting. All members are urged to attend.

Walton was the winner by a score of 42 to 41. Brooks was high point man for the Florence Knights with 23, while McClure, chalked up 26 for the winners.

HIGHWAY ASS'N HOLD MEETING

IN WALTON WEDNESDAY NIGHT OF LAST WEEK—APPROXIMATELY ONE HUNDRED TWENTY-FIVE PRESENT.

Members of the U. S. Highway 25 Association held a meeting on Wednesday night, February 1st at the Walton schoolhouse, with approximately 125 members and interested citizens present.

The meeting was called to order by Powers Conrad, acting chairman at 7:30.

S. M. Billiter, member of the association discussed the possibilities of the new highway being constructed along the same route. He stated that unless the association made immediate plans for obtaining right-of-way easements that it is possible the road would be constructed over the Sandfortown route. Mr. Billiter suggested that the association invite an engineer of the highway department to a future meeting to obtain the exact requirements and to obtain the right-of-way information that the department will expect before the road is constructed.

R. L. Vincent, prominent attorney of Williamstown explained in a talk before the group that the highway department want the fiscal courts of Boone, Kenton and Grant to guarantee right-of-ways through these counties, and that all towns along the route must also guarantee right-of-ways.

The association voted to have 5,000 windshield stickers printed and distributed to the various ruling stations along the highways. Attendees at these stations will place the stickers on windshields of the motoring public. The wording to be printed on the stickers was not decided at the meeting but will be to the effect that the association and the public in general along U. S. 25 want the new road to be constructed over the same route. The stickers are being donated by this paper.

The association met Wednesday night of this week at Crittenden.

NATIONAL LOAN ASS'N TO MEET

IN BURLINGTON FEBRUARY 18—MARTIN GLENN WILL ADDRESS THOSE PRESENT—FREE LUNCH TO BE SERVED.

The officers of the Boone County National Farm Loan Association have issued invitations to all Federal Land Bank and Land Bank Commissioner borrowers to attend the annual meeting to be held in the high school auditorium at Burlington, February 18, at 9:30 a. m. slow time with a free lunch served in the basement of the school building by the ladies of the Parent-Teacher Association.

In addition to the election of a director for three years and reports on the activities of the association for the past year, a very interesting program has been arranged.

Mr. Martin Glenn, assistant to the General Counsel of the Farm Credit Administration of Louisville will be present and deliver an address.

Mr. H. R. Forkner, Boone County farm agent, will explain the 1939 farm program, to be followed by Mr. Russell A. Hunt, field agent in agronomy, College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, who will deliver an address on "The Problems in Tobacco Production."

The officers of the Boone County Association, E. A. Martin, president, John H. Grimes, vice president, B. E. Aylor, Earl Rouse and Thomas Henley, director, with A. B. Renaker, secretary-treasurer, are very anxious to have a large attendance at this meeting by all borrowers whose federal loans are serviced by this particular association and are putting forth much effort to have a worth while program for this day.

The Boone County National Farm Loan Association is a cooperative farm mortgage agency, which has been operating in this community since 1922. It has today 162 members with Federal Land Bank loans outstanding to the amount of $938,700.00. The association also services 122 Land Bank Commissioner loans totaling $258,900.00. Most of these loans are in Boone County with a few loans made several years ago in Kenton County.

This is one of 120 similar associations in Kentucky through which members obtain long-term farm mortgage loans from the Federal Land Bank of Louisville, with the cooperative association endorsing each loan.

The Boone County Association has the honor of being among the class one association of the state, which is due to a large extent to the close attention to the affairs of the association by its officers, and to the debt-paying ability of farmers carrying these loans. No farms are on the books of the association this time and very few foreclosures have been necessary during the life of the Boone County Association.

433 FARMERS SIGN REA CONTRACTS

TWENTY NEW SIGNERS ADDED TO LIST, AND FIVE MILES OF LINE—ENGINEER'S MAP TO BE MADE.

Twenty new signers on approximately five miles of line were added to the Boone County REA project the past week, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. A total of 443 paid applications have been received at the county office to date.

Present indications are that 400 of these signers on 118 miles will be on the original project submitted for allotment. The remaining signers are on lines averaging less than three per mile and will not be included in the original allotment unless the minimum requirements are met before the last of the week when the engineer's map of the line will be completed.

The Roy W. Chanaberry Engineers, Inc., of Louisville has been awarded the contract for preparing the engineer's map to be submitted with the project application to the REA. It will be rather difficult to get line extensions after the engineer's map is completed and for that reason all who want electricity and are not on the proposed line should contact the county office in Burlington immediately and not later than 8:30 a. m. Friday morning.

Local Counties Receive Award

The Northern Kentucky Council, Boy Scouts of America, comprising the counties of Kenton, Campbell, Boone, Mason, Fleming, Robertson, Bracken, Pendleton, Owen and Grant, has been awarded the coveted Walter W. Read Award, Scout Executive Award, announced today. This beautiful plaque is awarded annually by the President of the National Council to every local Council that achieves its approved objectives for the past year in terms of new Troops and Scouts and which has a net increase of total number of Scouts over its record of the previous year.

This is the first time the Northern Kentucky Council has won this award. The award to the Northern Kentucky Council was based on its 40% increase in membership during 1938 when the number of Scouts registered grew from 994 to 1401. During the year 24 new troops were organized of which 17 were in towns not previously having Scout Troops.

FARMERS ORDER ACP PHOSPHATE

IS AVAILABLE TO FARMERS UNDER SAME CONDITIONS OF LAST YEAR—VERONA TO COMPLETE ORDER THIS WEEK.

Farmers are taking advantage of the present triple super phosphate under the Agricultural Conservation Program according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. A car load order was almost completed the first of this week. Farmers in Verona community program planning meeting last Saturday made plans to have a car order for Verona railroad station completed on Wednesday of this week.

Phosphate is available to farmers under the A. C. Program similar to conditions of last year. Phosphate is advanced to growers at $35.00 per ton charged against the 1939 ACP payment to be earned. Credit of $30.00 per ton is given the growers who use the fertilizer on soil conserving crops such as grass and clovers. The farmer also pays the freight and handling charge of $6.00 per ton f. o. b. car.

The farmer agrees to use the fertilizer only on soil conserving crops. A different in last year's uses is that no credit is given if phosphate is used on a soil depleting crop or soil conserving crop in connection with a soil depleting crop. It uses on a soil depleting crop the charge is doubled from $32.00 per ton to $64.00 a ton.

The county agent's office in Burlington is prepared to accept ACP phosphate orders immediately and shipment will be made as soon as car orders totalling to tons are accumulated in the county office.

The State Fish Hatchery located at Ashland is also becoming known as a quail hatchery and is making real progress along that line.

Major James Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, stated that approximately 400 quail were hatched at Ashland last year and that the number should be more than doubled this year.

The hatchery has 1,000 birds on hand at present. A large number of these birds are known as the Northern Bob White Quail and are native to the northern part of the quail country in the United States. These birds are almost a third larger than the native quail and will be used as brood stock at the hatchery this spring. The hatchery contains an incubator which will hold 2,500 quail eggs.

SCORCHED LINENS

It often helps to place linen between two damp Turkish towels and press with a hot iron, to remove scorch. If too badly scorched and lemon juice or sunlight will not help, try 1 cup vinegar, 1/2 ounce soap, 2 ounces fuller's earth and juice of one lemon. Boil well, spread solution and let it dry. Wash the linen and probably the stain will disappear.

COMMITTEE OF SIX REPORTS

The most important third-party contribution yet made toward solving the railroad problem is found in the exhaustive, thoroughly-documented report of the committee of six which the President of the United States appointed to study the general transportation situation. It deserves the widest possible publicity.

It recommends that the government adopt a definite national transportation policy providing for the fair, impartial regulation of each and every mode of transportation.

It recommends revision of the present rate-making rule, and the substitution of a new, flexible rule adequate to meet current conditions.

It recommends complete repeal of the so-called long-and-short haul clause of the Transportation Act—an outmoded clause, which has been extremely damaging to the interests of shippers as well as the railroads.

It recommends a fair and reasonable system of tolls for the commercial use of certain inland waterways, and the elimination of the Inland Waterways Corporation—a tax-supported government undertaking which has proven to be an expensive white elephant.

It recommends the creation by Congress, of a new and independent Transportation Board, to be charged with the duty of investigating and reporting concerning the relative economy and fitness of existing modes of transportation, the extent to which they are now subsidized, and to suggest needed further legislation.

These are the high spots of this splendid, dispassionate report. And certainly they show how Congress can take quick, definite steps in bringing order out of the transportation chaos. The recommendation that legislation be passed to really bring about equality of regulation of all carriers—rail, highway, pipe-line, air and water—is of vital significance. And so is the suggestion that our obsolete, depression-making rule governing rate-making for the railroads be revised.

The enactment into law of some such program as this would do far more than save the railroads. It would lead to an immense amount of spending, investment, employment and general industrial expansion. It would heal one of the sorest spots in the whole economic picture. And, if it is to be effective, it must be done soon.

Gaiety Theater News

Fri. and Sat.—"Touchdown Army"
Sun. and Mon.—"Mad Miss Minton"
Tues., Wed., and Thurs. Feb. 14, 15 and 16—"Out West With the Hardys."

Cummings' role of the coxswain boy from the home town who is turned into a man by his fellow West Pointers marks a turn in his successful screen career. The young Missourian, who got his start by convincing a Broadway producer he was an experienced British actor, has been "typed" in juvenile roles since his arrival in Hollywood a few seasons ago. But his recent performance as the Confederate officer in Paramount's "Lone Star" epic, "The Texans," changed all that and now he plays another he-man role.

Handsome John Howard, familiar to moviegoers everywhere as "Bulldog Drummond," because of his long line of adventure films has taken time off from dubbing to portray an old school Southern Boy and Cummings' chief rival at West Point. Howard scored his greatest hit as Ronald Colman's brooding brother in the sensational "Lost Horizon."

Completing the leading threesome of "Touchdown Army" is pearl-blond Mary Carlisle, the only actress ever picked more than once by Bing Crosby for his leading lady. She played opposite the croon king in "College Humor," "Double or Nothing," and most recently, in "Doctor Rhythm."

When a dizzy, but divine debutante and her seven sleuthing girl friends pit Park Avenue against the police in a baffling double murder case it's panic-time in any theatre! And when a handsome young editor gets fresh, gets slapped, gets sued by said playgirl-romance hits the headlines! This is "The Mad Miss Manton," a heady, headlong mystery-comedy with swiftest Barbara Stanwyck and personable Henry Fonda in the happiest roles of their sparkling careers.

Choosing the wild open space as the locale for their varied adventures in romance and typical American life, the Judge Hardy Family returns to the screen again in "Out West With the Hardys," which will be shown at the Gaiety, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, Feb. 14, 15th, and 16th.

This picture is the fifth in the series on this average American family and carried on with the same stars in another action-filled episode of their colorful delings. The story is replete with hilarious comedy, human and heart-warming pathos, and trials and tribulations. The family goes West as guests on a huge ranch where Mickey Rooney as Andy Hardy finds his nemesis in a little Western girl, played by Virginia Weidler eleven-year-old actress. He leaves Polly (Ann Rutherford) behind in the city but returns to her in the end.

Meanwhile, Judge Hardy (Lewis Stone) finds his mettle tested in keeping the family together and to solve the mystery of some lost water rights. Marian Hays (Cecilia Parker) again falls in love, this time with the ranch foreman, with Gordon Jones in this role. She also eventually returns to her Carvel boy friend, Don Castle.

FEBRUARY TIME TO DIG STRAWBERRIES

It is considered best to dig strawberry plants before March 1, in order that the crowther may have time to lay eggs on plants. The best time to set plants in Kentucky is March, as cool, cloudy weather permits good growth before hot weather. Only healthy stock formed from runners the previous season should be used, says a statement from the horticultural department of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Hundreds of men and women engaged in the centuries-old egg-making industry of Yeovil, England have been forced out of employment by foreign competition.

WEAK FEET AFFECT BODY

by N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist
AT PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
9th and Madison
Covington

When feet are permitted to protrude inwardly, the bony structure of the foot goes down, shutting off the nerve and blood supply in the bottom of the foot. When you cramp or choke the blood stream and slow up circulation, there is a lack of bone repair; chemical deposits, or waste matter form at the joints. Next inflammation sets in at these joints causing pain. That inflammation is often mistaken for rheumatism, arthritis and many other ailments. Also when you cramp the blood supply you shut off the food supply to the nerves, unproviding them.

When nerves are impoverished muscle tone is impaired because motor nerves indirectly control motor nerves which in turn control the muscles. When muscles in the feet have lost their tonicity due to impoverishment of the nerves, feet are no longer subconsciously held in normal position.

With foot health improved the person feels better all over. Research has shown that no less than eighty-seven diseases are directly caused by bad feet.

Don't take chances with your health, happiness and peace of mind. With foot comfort you'll live longer and feel better.—Adv.

DEALERS JOIN IN SEED IMPROVEMENT

The work of County Agent J. L. Miller to "educate" farmers to use good seed has the cooperation of seed dealers in Madison county, Ky. The program, launched three years ago, has begun to bear fruit, says Miller.

In December of each year, Miller sees seed dealers and asks them to cooperate by offering only good, clean adapted seeds. Then he begins to "work" on the farmers, urging upon them the wisdom of buying good seed from reliable dealers.

Because of the favorable price of red clover seed this spring, the county agent is advising liberal seedings where farmers have treated their land with lime and phosphate. He also believes that more bluegrass should be included in grass mixtures, where the land has been treated.

"As we improve our soils we can expect more of them to produce good bluegrass and red clover," Miller said.

IT'S A HIT! The NEW Firestone CHAMPION TIRE

Because IT'S THE ONLY TIRE MADE WITH THE NEW SAFETY-LOCK CORD BODY and GEAR-GRIP TREAD

CAR OWNERS everywhere are acclaiming the extra blowout protection and non-skid safety of the new Firestone Champion Tire. And automobile manufacturers, knowing its outstanding performance, have adopted it for their new 1939 models. On every hand you hear, "It's the most effective tire we have ever had on wet pavement and in mud and snow!" It's the hit of 1939!

The Firestone Champion Tire is a completely new achievement in safety engineering and the result of a new and revolutionary means of locking greater safety into the cord body of a tire. This is accomplished first, by the use of a new type of tire cord called "Safety-Lock," in which the cotton fibers are more compactly interwoven to give greater strength. And then the fibers in each individual cord, the cords in each ply and the plies themselves are all securely locked together by a new and advanced Firestone process of Gum-Dipping, which provides amazingly greater strength—and greater strength means greater safety.

The new Safety-Lock cord construction gives the added strength that makes possible the use of the new thicker, tougher, deeper Firestone Gear-Grip Tread, which provides remarkably longer non-skid mileage. This sensational new tread is called "Gear-Grip" because of its unique design which has more than three thousand sharp-edged angles that grip the road with a sure-footed hold to protect against skidding and to assure a safe stop.

Come in today and equip your car with a set of new Firestone Champion Tires, the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedway for your protection on the highway.

THE TAXES OF THE BREWING INDUSTRY!

The Treasury Department shows expenditures of $26 million dollars for the Civilian Conservation Corps for the fiscal year of 1938. The brewing industry pays over a million dollars a day in taxes.

What Beer contributes to the re-building of America would fill a great volume

Over 400 million dollars in taxes every year. Over 1,000,000 jobs. A market for 3,000,000 farm acres of produce.

The brewing industry would like to preserve for itself and the people the many economic benefits it has created in the past five years. Brewers everywhere realize that this is a question bound up with the proper distribution of their mild and wholesome beverage through retail outlets whose character will be a credit to the community. Obviously, the brewers can enforce no laws.

But they can—and will—cooperate with the local law-enforcement authorities. They will cooperate with every group—friend or critic—to the end that retail beer outlets give no offense to anyone.

Advantages From Growing Hybrid Seed Corn

BOONE COUNTY GROWERS ARE PLANNING LARGE INCREASES IN HYBRID CORN ACRES THIS YEAR.

Within recent years the growing of Hybrid corn has increased by leaps and bounds. Better than 80 percent of the corn grown in the corn belt is Hybrid. Local growers of Hybrid corn have had 15 to 40 percent increase in bushels per acre over open pollinated types of corn.

Hybrid corn develops a stiff, strong stalk with two or more sets of brace roots and stands up well against wind and rain. It develops a strong root system, frequently to a depth of eight feet, and gathers moisture and plant food from the subsoil, making a better drought resisting crop. It also produces healthier plants and superior quality, more uniform ears with practically no barren stalks and few weeds. It matures earlier as the moisture content is reduced more rapidly at the proper time. The stalks are more uniform in height and the ears more on a level and easier to husk.

Hybrid corn can be planted earlier as it resists cold weather better than open pollinated corn, such as extremely wet or dry weather at any stage of the growing season. Hybrid corn will carry more stalks to the hill or closer drilling than other regular varieties.

Hybrid corn is obtained by crossing inbred strains. Greatly increased production is usually the result because the crop has greater resistance to plant diseases, insect pests, and unusually wet or dry seasons. The first year the process is started by selecting plants, with desirable characteristics; plants that stand up well, show resistance to disease, etc.

Instead of letting nature (the air or wind) pollinate the silks from different tassels in the open fields, this function is controlled by man. Paper sacks are used to cover the silks and the tassels, and the pollen from the tassels is placed by hand on the silk of the same stalk. This process is repeated year after year until the undesirable qualities which show in inbreeding have been eliminated and the plants become as much alike as "peas in the same pod" of leaves and the pod, being of the same size, same characteristics. This is inbred corn used for crossing to produce Hybrid corn. Inbred corn may look like poor corn, but the yield increases as inbreeding continues. It is also a slow painstaking process requiring the skill of specialists in that line of work.

First cross or single cross Hybrid seed is obtained by crossing inbred strains of corn. Inbred corn is produced by crossing two inbred strains of corn for commercial purposes; therefore, a double cross is made by crossing two of these single crosses. This is done by planting every fourth row to one single cross or "male strain," and the other three rows to the second single cross or "female strain." Then the female strain is detasselled so that it must be pollinated by the one row of male strain. The ears of the male plants are not used for seed. All of these steps must be undertaken in plots isolated 40 rods or more from any other corn and the detasselling must be thoroughly done rain or shine, or the corn is rendered worthless for seed. The Kentucky Seed Improvement Association inspects all fields of its members to assure growers that "Certified Seed" meets these requirements. The Kentucky Seed Improvement Association also tests samples for moisture content, germination and proper grading into four grades and issues a certificate of certification only after the corn has met the rigid requirements of this organization. The Extension Service recommends that all seed produced by commercial producers should be certified and that no corn be recognized as Hybrid unless certified. Only six varieties which are adapted to Kentucky are recommended to Kentucky growers by the Experiment Station and Seed Improvement Association.

SEINING CREW OF STATE GAME AND FISH DIVISION BUSY TRANSFERRING FISH

The "Seining crew" is one of the branches of the Division of Game and Fish and is under the supervision of Frank Phillips, Superintendent of Hatcheries.

The work of "seining" tell the whole story of the work that is done by this group of men. They begin work the latter part of September and continue through the Fall, Winter and Spring months, up until warm weather sets in. Transferring of fingerling fish from state hatcheries and rearing pools to streams and ponds, open to the public, that are understocked, is the work allotted the crew during the fall and winter months. Reservoirs, ponds and streams that are overstocked are also worked by the men and the fish that are seined are transferred to adjoining streams. The large fish—commonly known as brook fish—are usually returned to the body of water from which taken in order to raise the next year's hatch.

During the spring months the crew goes to work cleaning out the hatcheries and rearing pools and getting them in shape for the season's activities. After the thousands of small fish, measuring an inch or less in length—commonly known as fry—have filled the hatcheries, they are then removed to the rearing ponds where they are cared for during the summer months and then removed from there in the fall to the streams and ponds. During the approximate five-month period in which they remain in the rearing ponds, these fish attain a growth of from three to eight inches in length.

State hatcheries are located at Glasgow, Williamsburg and Ashland. Rearing ponds are located at Somerset, Harlan and Pikeville. Figures on the number of fish that have been transplanted this past fall are not available at present, but Mr. Phillips stated that a total of 69,066 fish were distributed in 14 counties of the 120 in the state over a period beginning last February 9 and ending May 1. The number distributed during the fall and winter months should far exceed the spring total, Mr. Phillips stated.

The Division of Game and Fish depends a great deal upon the support of the sportsmen and for that reason streams are being stocked for the Game and Fish clubs which are cooperating with the Conservation work of both the Division and the League of Kentucky Sportsmen. Mr. Phillips pointed out. The crew is composed of the following men: Frank Phillips, Superintendent; C. Haley, Supervisor of Seining Crew; Elbert Conway; W. G. McConnell; John "Buster" Harrod; Bob Raiser, and Leon Atha.

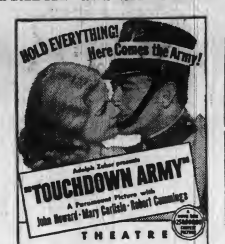

The police exhibit installed at the London automobile show for the Game and Fish clubs which are cooperating with the Conservation work of both the Division and the League of Kentucky Sportsmen. Mr. Phillips pointed out.

The Netherlands paid over $75,000,000 for American products last year.

PRESENT CORN PRICE RETURNS HOG PROFIT

If corn is worth 60 cents a bushel and it takes 6 bushels to produce a pound of gain on hogs on pasture, hogs must sell for at least $450 per hundred to pay the cost of production, according to figures gathered by the farm economics department of the Kentucky College of Agriculture from farmers in the central counties of the state. These farmers used an average of 6 bushels per 100 pounds of gain, in addition to pasture.

If 7 bushels of corn are used to make 100 pounds of gain, hogs must sell for $525 per cwt. to pay out; if 8 bushels are fed, $6 must be received for them; 9 bushels, $6.75 and 10 bushels, $7.50. These figures apply when corn is selling for 60 cents.

The study showed that feed represents 86 to 90 percent of the cost of producing hogs in the Bluegrass region. Corn alone, made up 45 to 61 percent of the cost. These farmers used an average of 4 to 4 1/2 bushels of corn per 100 pounds of gain. With additional feeds, such as barley, wheat, rye, mill feed and distillers' slop, equal in value to 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 bushels of corn. Hence, all harvested feeds and mill feeds were equivalent to approximately 5.2 to 6.8 bushels of corn for each 100 pounds of pork produced when hogs were on pasture.

In the six years studied, hogs on these farms always paid for the cost of raising them and, with the exception of 1933, they returned a profit.

CURL NEWS

One of the highest paid hair dressers, employed at a movie studio, tells how any woman can keep curls in her hair for three weeks. He says in damp weather it is especially hard to keep hair in curl. The solution is to feed the hair by taking a glass of warm water and dissolving in it five teaspoonful of granulated sugar. Dampen the hair with this mixture, make the curls and let them dry. This sugar water as a lacquer and damp air will not affect the hair curls.

113.2 MILES REA LINE SURVEYED

LAST WEEK BY REA ENGINEER —MAP TO BE SUBMITTED TO WASHINGTON WITHIN NEXT TEN DAYS.

One hundred thirteen miles with 374 signed customers were placed on the map of the proposed Boone County REA electric line by the REA engineer the past week. Seventy-one applications on approximately 35 miles of line that did not meet the minimum requirements were unable to be placed on the map at the present time.

The engineer's map with the membership agreements and right of way easements will be submitted to Washington for approval about a week or ten days. It is hoped that allotments to begin line construction will be ready in the next few weeks.

A few signers on prospective lines that are too thinly signed up at the present time still have possibilities of having their lines constructed provided they can bring their number of signers up to the minimum of three per mile. The engineer advised that it still may be possible to include a few miles of those lines in the original project.

Boone County Sportsmen Visit Major Brown Sat.

Several Boone County sportsmen motored to Frankfort Saturday to make their requests known to Major James Brown, director of the State Game and Fish Commission.

The meeting was held for the purpose of making a plea for more game and fish for this area.

Chas. W. Riley spokesman for the Boone County delegation, said that Boone County had more cover quail and better feed than the majority of the adjoining counties. Mr. Riley also revealed to the Major that Boone County issues more hunting licenses than any other county in the state.

The counties of Boone, Kegton, Campbell and Grant were represented at this meeting.

Major Brown stated that there would be 15,000 quail distributed to the various counties of the state early in the spring. Just how many quail will be sent to Boone county was not disclosed, but the delegation was assured that this county will receive a nice allotment.

Major Brown promised to meet with the Boone County Club in the near future.

Utopia Club Will Meet Thursday Night

Boone County Utopia Club No. 2 will hold a regular monthly meeting at Burlington, Thursday evening, February 16th, at 7:00 p. m. according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

William Moore, president of the Utopia Club, will be in charge of the boys' project discussion group and Zelma Stephens in charge of the girls' project discussion group. John Criger will lead the general discussion group with a discussion on the history of Hebron community. Burlington group will be in charge of the recreational program.

Big 4-H Club Year Planned By Members

Boone County 4-H clubs are planning for the biggest 4-H club year in history, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent and Mary Hood Gillespie, home demonstration agent. A goal of 550 members or fifty members in excess of the 1938 goal has been planned. Prof. D. H. Norris, superintendent of school tests, and H. R. Forkner have offered their cooperation in advancing the 4-H club program.

Special emphasis this year will be given to new club projects that will give members more diversified opportunities. Every boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 18 years inclusive who agree to carry an approved agricultural or home economics project will have an opportunity to become a 4-H club member by enrolling in the organization at his community club meeting or at the county office.

1939 Allotment Made For Kentucky Tobacco

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 14.—Tentative 1939 acreage allotments for Kentucky's 119 counties producing burley and 32 counties producing dark-fired tobacco were announced today by the State Agricultural Adjustment Administration officials here. Officials said minor changes may be made later.

Kentucky's burley allotment this year is 277,191 acres, 68.44 per cent of the national burley allotment of 405,000 acres. The state's fire-cured and dark air-cured acreage quota is 53,578 acres.

The county quotas have been released to AAA officers, who are to compute acreage allotments for individual growers before March 1, officials said.

County acreage allotments for Northern Kentucky counties follow: Boone, 2,329; Campbell, 456; Kenton, 1,082; Grant, 4,218.

Lexington Market Close Last Friday

The Lexington looseleaf tobacco market closed for the season after auction Friday, completing the shortest season in the history of the Lexington center.

Lexington, largest looseleaf market in the world, held only nine weeks of sales this year, opening December 5.

Thursday, a total of 79,564 lbs. of burley went over the breaks at seven warehouses, returning $13.46 to growers for an average of $1.95. The season's average was $21.49.

FARMERS ORDER 4 CARS PHOSPHATE

UNDER AGRICULTURAL CONSERVATION PROGRAM FOR PASTURE AND HAY CROP IMPROVEMENT.

Boone County farmers to date have ordered four carloads consisting of 84 tons of 47 per cent triple superphosphate under the Agricultural Conservation program for pasture and hay crop improvement and in earning 100 per cent of their 1939 ACP soil building allowances, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Additional orders are being received daily at the county office in Burlington. Local committeemen will be able to take phosphate orders in the near future.

Farmers may secure triple superphosphate this year under the A. C. Program under similar conditions to those of last year. The phosphate order is charged at the rate of $30.00 per ton against the farmer's 1939 crop year payments which will be made in the early part of 1940. The farmer on receiving the phosphate, pays $6.00 per ton freight and handling charge at the car. Credit in payment of $30.00 per ton or $1.50 per hundred, (same rate as original cost) is given the grower when he applies the phosphate on soil conserving crops as listed under the program.

Cooperators are cautioned this year as to new restrictions in use of phosphate on soil conserving crops. The fertilizer may be used on any grass or legumes, pasture or hay crop other than soybeans or cow peas with full credit provided no soil depleting crop is grown in connection with these crops. This eliminates the use of phosphate on wheat or small grain cut for grain or hay when grain is mature or on small grain sown the fall or spring when grown in combination with a soil conserving crop. Small grain grazed off, not harvested or cut previous to maturity is not soil depleting this year except in the case of 13 farms with special wheat bases. Farmers who use ACP phosphate on soil depleting crops are subject to a $50.00 per ton deduction in payment and in return receive no credit for use of same.

Phosphate has proven a wonderful fertilizer in producing better pasture and hay crops. The same phosphate purchased from a dealer would cost approximately $15.00 more per ton than the total cost under the program. Those who are interested should file their application at the earliest possible date. Growers may receive up to 30 or 90 per cent of their total 1939 soil building allowance in phosphate.

THE CURFEW TOLLS

Has it been so long ago that we heard the curfew that sent indoors the young of America? Time indicates that it has been out of date for a good many years. Memory recalls the importance of it, and the feeling of devilry if we overstayed the curfew by minutes and continued with our play.

There has been a recent revival of the curfew. One large city has been especially bothered with its cases of troublesome youths. A committee decided to enforce the 40-year-old curfew law which bars children under 16 from the streets after 9:30 p. m. The effect was that the first night, at the time the children should be disappearing from the streets, they suddenly put in an appearance in large numbers, as though they had previously arranged the whole proceeding. However, after the co-operation of parents, teachers and police, the youngsters realized that this business of the curfew was to be taken seriously, with the result that the children now stop to ask the time in order to be sure they will be safely home when the curfew tolls.

The juvenile problem has stumped many a wise committee. Various schemes for reducing child criminal problems have left untouched a large portion of the nation's defiant youthful lawbreakers. To begin at an early age by clearing the streets by means of the curfew, may result in a certain control of the situation. After a season of the revival of the old-time hats, bustles and hoop-skirts, we figure the return of the curfew may be one of the wisest revivals yet.

feel that, with the amount of news that reaches us on all sides that is upsetting and sensational, most of it bad, that those reports upholding the faith of our fathers, is good and welcome news.

THE GRANGE AND RAILROADS

The National Grange expressed its standing and that of the farmer regarding the present railroad situation. The organization of the Grange was formed about 70 years ago due to what appeared, to the farmers of the day, a greedy monopoly on the part of the rails. Today, when the farmer has the shipping by truck at his hand, he can be more sympathetic towards the railroads. The America Farm Bureau and the Grange have both made a plea for the private ownership of the rails, if that solution would be of help. These organizations are ready to cooperate and are willing to reverse their original stand. The railroad problem is one that needs much help and consideration from all of us in Boone County. With the modern transportation by truck the railroads have been sorely affected. The field is no longer a monopoly and the suggestion was made by the Grange that Congress might consider relaxing railroad regulations somewhat in order to solve the problem. We shall follow the railroad situation with interest and shall hope for a satisfactory solution.

NO COMICS

Of course we were not surprised when we learned that the propaganda minister of Italy was barring American newspaper comic strips from his country. Somehow or other, we sort of figure that anything is possible in Europe, at this time. The children of the Romans are being taught that life is mostly war and war, and work is not comic strips, except perhaps for the fellow who draws them! These children are educated to should guns as soon as they are strong enough to carry them. To associate war and weapons in the same field as orphan Annie and Skippy, is too far-fetched for our own youth. We are of the decided opinion that these little Romans need a good laugh, and think the American funny paper is one of the best ways to give it to them. Maybe it is propaganda, but we doubt it.

PARAGRAPHS

Have you ever noticed that one of the hardest things to remember is that it is none of your business?

We acknowledge that free speech is a blessing, even if some folks do talk too much. We are rather glad that the high hair-do is on its way out. You couldn't help but feel you had surplused a day when your wife was about to wash her neck and ears.

Subzero temperatures have a knack of reducing the fervor that folks usually show when reading seed catalogs. In these times when everything is low, from temperatures to stocks, a fireplace sifter, even if he loses, is still considered high. Love is surely a funny situation. Many a girl has given up a position which pays good wages to marry into one that doesn't pay any.

Mother isn't as upset about what her daughter knows as she is concerned about where her daughter learned it.

Being that America is the "land of opportunity" maybe that is the reason you hear an occasional citizen knock it.

If you will stop to consider it, the fellow who insists he is boss in his house, is a fellow who will lie about other things as well. Married men may live longer than single ones, but those around here have to pay taxes longer, too.

WAR TOO GHASTLY FOR NATIONS TO RISK AVERS SHAW

There is not the least chance of a world war happening in the near future. That is the firm belief of George Bernard Shaw, distinguished dramatist and author, revealed in an interview with his friend W. R. Titterton for the current Rationalist Magazine. If there were, it would have happened in September, 1938, when there was more inflammatory talk and even feeling than there ever was from the Agadir incident to the bombardment of Liege.

"What would happen first in a world war?" asks Shaw. "The airplanes of A, B, C, and D would bomb the cities of E, F, and G so effectively that the white flag would be hoisted at approximately the same time in the several capitals, and abject pleas for peace would cross each other in the air." The tragic nastiness of this latest development of warfare is that the attack of the civilian population is absurdly easy, he points out. Because adequate defense is impossible, the danger to civilians of wholesale extinction is greater than ever before. Governments of the civilized countries—those well equipped with the latest means of destruction—are well aware of this fact.

"I think that man is on trial," declares Shaw. "If we are proved definitely to be a mistake, we shall be scrapped, and God will use some other creature a trifle less stupid to carry on his purpose. Our opportunities have been great, our stupidities have been monstrous. And, no doubt, war is one of the greatest of these."

But don't delude yourself with the notion that when nations are at peace with each other, they are at peace with themselves, or that slums and unemployment and inhuman working conditions and sweating wages are far more admirable than the miserable squalor or war," he continues. "As long as a war is considered to be a virtue, you will have international war, and you will have all the blessings of peace I have enumerated. I see no signs that, however great a mistake man may be, he is likely to be superseded in the lifetimes of our present national leaders. God works on a big canvas, and we are only an inch or so away from the Siege of Troy, or a war everybody loses, but formerly it was possible for one side to think—for a year or two—that it had won," concludes Shaw. "The single redeeming feature of the next world war, when it happens, is that this will not be possible. In reflecting upon that, perhaps you may find some particle of hope."

BEVERAGE ALCOHOL AND ITS SOCIAL PERILS

LESSON TEXT—Amos 6:1-6; 1 Peter 2:11; 12; 4:15.

GOLDEN TEXT—It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth.—Romans 14:21.

"Hazards in the use of alcohol in a machine age"—this is the topic assigned for our lesson today. It is a good one and worthy of the careful thought of every intelligent citizen. With automobiles alone killing over a hundred persons a day, the obvious connection between alcohol and death on the highway, we might say much about the folly of trying to cut down traffic accidents while we are licensing more and more "taverns" along the road to fill the drivers with the destructive stuff.

There is much that might be said about the social havoc that is being wrought by alcohol. It is bad enough that a man pays 25 cents for a drink, but even worse, that he gives 25 minutes of his life for each indulgence. But the liquor industry covers that up under a mask of festivity, making booze loom like a desirable adjunct to congenial and successful living. It does not picture the bleary eye and the babbling tongue of the drinker, nor does it present the broken-hearted mother, the devastated home, the ragged children, and the empty cupboard. Liquor is one of America's major problems. Let us face it.

The Scripture portions assigned for our lesson rightly emphasize fundamentals, the first being a call to awake from a false sense of security, the second emphasizing that this is a spiritual battle, and the third pointing the way of victory as being in holy living.

I. Foolish Security When Surrounded by Danger (Amos 6:1-6).

Satan would lure us all to sleep in the assurance that "God's in his heaven—all's well with the world." God is in heaven and it is certain that ultimately he will reign over all, but just now the world is in the hands of the Wicked One (I. John 5:19). The people of Amos' day, to whom the message was addressed, had come to a point where they had made themselves at ease when they should have been active, foolishly secure when they should have been seriously serving their fellow men who were in need. The picture is astonishingly up-to-date. Today in our own land the Gold Coast and the slums rub elbows, but few of us realize the play are concerned about those who are not in the eyes of most people the purpose of gaining possessions is to relieve one from the necessity of work and to enable one to evade life's responsibilities.

America needs to awaken to its dangers, and we repeat that not the least of these is the liquor question. We must either win a victory over it, or it will destroy our people.

II. Spiritual Warfare—While at Peace with God (I. Pet. 2:11, 12).

"Fleshly lusts, which war against the soul," says the apostle, "are the object of serious concern on the part of every sincere Christian. There is a battle on, and the enemy of our soul knows how to make the abuse of the normal impulses and appetites of man his strong ally. The rudiments of modern life, the increasing use of stimulants, both natural and artificial, the very luxury in which many live, these things tend to give the flesh and its desires undue prominence, and not infrequently cause even God's children to fall into sin. We are called to a holy warfare, but that does not mean that we live in a constant turmoil. We are, after all, pilgrims and strangers in this world. Our citizenship is in heaven (Phil. 3:20) though we live on earth. In the heart we have peace, and that enables us to fight a good fight against the world, the flesh, and the devil.

III. Doing the Will of God in a Sewer World (I. Pet. 4:1-5).

Essentially there are two opposing principles operative in the lives of men—we either are controlled by God's will, or by self-will. The flesh is really man's personality controlled by his own self-will. It results in the kind of life described in verses 2 and 3. When a man becomes a Christian he should move over into the will of God.

Such a man may be regarded as strange, but as a matter of fact, men will recognize his godliness (see I. Pet. 2:12). Dr. Will H. Houghton tells of "a soldier who after seeing his fellow soldiers make fun of another soldier, who was a believer in Christ. The thing that impressed him was the fact that though they made fun of him, they left their money in his possession for safekeeping!" Do we have that kind of a testimony?

When He Doesn't Worry His Satanic majesty never worries about the man who has come to the conclusion that there is no devil.

DOLLAR A THOUSAND FOR TREE SEEDLINGS

A dollar a thousand for tree seedlings to set on worn land, is announced by the Division of Forestry, Department of Conservation, Kentucky, Ky. Included in the list of species available is black locust, considered by W. E. Jackson, Jr., extension forester for the Kentucky College of Agriculture as possibly the best tree to grow on worn, depleted land.

Jackson says trees can be set anytime now before the buds begin to swell. He recommends spring planting. A small amount of complete fertilizer will help the young seedlings get established. Farmers buying and setting trees can get credit in the Agricultural Conservation program.

MAJOR BROWN URGES SPORTSMEN TO KILL CROWS IN KENTUCKY

The Commonwealth of Kentucky is now playing host to one of the worst predators known to wildlife, namely, the black crow, and its destruction does not stop with the birds and wildlife but branches out into the crops of the farmers, carrying of diseases to the domestic animals of the farmers and numerous other petty offenses that are traced back to them.

Major James Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, stated this morning that the crow has become such a menace to our song and insectivorous birds in Kentucky that their numbers should be diminished to an equality with the rest of the feathered wildlife.

In bringing up the problem of the crow, Major Brown stated that beginning February 15 and continuing through March 15 all sportsmen throughout the state are urged to hunt the crow and decrease the numbers as much as possible before the nesting season begins. Once the nesting season gets under way the numbers of crows will increase still more and will be a still greater menace to the sportsmen.

Gun Clubs, sportsmen's organizations, all other types of clubs or organizations and individuals are urged to cooperate in this drive against the crow.

Several clubs have already begun campaigns against the crow and are offering prizes of various kinds to the sportsman bringing in the most crows over a set period of time.

Crows are more or less clanish and when feeding, usually place two or more guards at strategic points to protect the flock and these hunting them all the more difficult. Large wintering flocks become a problem in some localities as the birds feed upon crops left in the field, and if food is scarce they sometimes become regular visitors at livestock lots. They feed on dead animals and if an animal has died of some disease, they will carry this disease into other sections and cause its spread. They kill and eat other birds, rob the nests in the spring when they contain eggs and catch young rabbits, squirrels and other animals of this type. A crow can destroy the making of a covey of quail or other birds in just a few moments.

"If every sportsman and individual cooperates in this drive against the crow, all wildlife will be benefited considerably and especially the song and insectivorous birds," Major Brown said.

PLANT CARE

To tell when a plant needs water, take a pinch of dirt from the top of the flower pot. If the earth is moist, the plant does not need water. If dry and crumbly, water it thoroughly. There is nothing very ornamental about a dusty plant and during the summer the house plant is apt to be neglected in favor of the outdoor garden. During the winter with heating plants are apt to become more neglected looking than in the summer. The leaves take on a soiled appearance. Don't forget to wipe off the plant's leaves once a week, summer and winter, to let it breathe and live.

MANURE IMPORTANT CROP YIELD FACTOR

By George Roberts, Kentucky Experiment Station

Frequently farmers have been warned that the continued removal of the larger crops made possible by use of lime and phosphate, and the failure to conserve manure would result in a potash deficiency. An experiment at Mayfield, Ky., strikingly illustrates this point. This experiment was begun in 1913 on two sets of plots treated liberally with limestone and phosphate. On one set manure was applied in practical quantities from 1916 to the present. On the other set no manure has been returned.

The average yield of corn thru 1920 was 23 bushels and 33 bushels, respectively. For the same period the yields were 48 and 54 bushels. For the last four years the yields were 56 and 36, respectively.

In 1927 the yield of corn on the unmanured plots treated with limestone and phosphate was almost as low as on plots that did not receive any lime, fertilizer or manure throughout the experiment. The yield with lime and phosphate but no manure was 29.3 bushels per acre. A part of this plot was liberally fertilized in the hill with potash, and this brought the yield up to 52.1 bushels per acre. With lime, phosphate and manure the yield was 52.6 bushels.

Wheat and hay yields also fell off where manure was not used, though not so much as did the corn yields. The average yields of mixed clover hay for the time of the experiment was 3,800 pounds and 3,150 pounds for manured and unmanured land. The difference for the first two rounds of the rotation was 265 pounds of hay in favor of manure, whereas for the whole period the difference was 735 pounds. There was a difference of 3 bushels of wheat in favor of the manured plots.

CLEAN CLEANER CLEANS BEST

A vacuum machine with a clean dust bag and brushes free from threads and hairs does the best cleaning job. For best service the bag should be emptied often and brushed inside and out twice a month. Never wash the bag, as that destroys the finish that keeps it dust-proof. Closely woven cloth a smooth inside surface, and wide opening at both ends help to make the dust bag easy to clean.

Machines that clean not only by suction but also by brushing and agitating, the rug are highly efficient in removing dirt. Straight suction machines may take longer to clean thoroughly, but may have a lower initial cost.

How much dust a machine draws from a rug depends partly on how fast it is pushed back and forth. Most machines clean best if they move at a speed of from 1 to 2 feet a second. For best cleaning, the nozzle of the machine should be about an eighth of an inch from the pile of the rug. Naturally, the machine should not be allowed to pick up pins, tacks, or glass because these sharp objects may poke holes in the bag or chip the fan blades. It is also desirable to keep the machine in a clean place, protected from dirt, rust, or insects that might eat the bristles of the brushes or the felt padding.

Australia will extend its defense network to its territories for the first time.

CLEAN CLEANER CLEANS BEST

A vacuum machine with a clean dust bag and brushes free from threads and hairs does the best cleaning job. For best service the bag should be emptied often and brushed inside and out twice a month. Never wash the bag, as that destroys the finish that keeps it dust-proof. Closely woven cloth a smooth inside surface, and wide opening at both ends help to make the dust bag easy to clean.

Machines that clean not only by suction but also by brushing and agitating, the rug are highly efficient in removing dirt. Straight suction machines may take longer to clean thoroughly, but may have a lower initial cost.

How much dust a machine draws from a rug depends partly on how fast it is pushed back and forth. Most machines clean best if they move at a speed of from 1 to 2 feet a second. For best cleaning, the nozzle of the machine should be about an eighth of an inch from the pile of the rug. Naturally, the machine should not be allowed to pick up pins, tacks, or glass because these sharp objects may poke holes in the bag or chip the fan blades. It is also desirable to keep the machine in a clean place, protected from dirt, rust, or insects that might eat the bristles of the brushes or the felt padding.

Australia will extend its defense network to its territories for the first time.

PETERSBURG HOMEMAKERS

KENTUCKY FARMERS USE BIG TONNAGE OF LIME IN 1938

Kentucky farmers used nearly a million tons of lime materials in 1938, according to a summary of county agent reports to the College of Agriculture at Lexington. A total of 35,496 farmers in 118 counties used $10,214 tons of ground limestone; 3,486 men in 55 counties used 95,725 tons of marl, and 1,349 farmers in 38 counties used 10,037 tons of burned lime.

Only one state uses more lime materials than Kentucky, and Kentucky for several years has applied more lime per crop acre than any other state. Boyd county county farmers last year used 841 pounds of lime materials per crop acre.

The largest tonnage of ground limestone was used in Christian county last year, 1,102 men applying 50,400 tons. Hardin county came next with 35,027 tons applied by 1,850 farmers, and third place went to Logan county, where 700 farmers used 30,000 tons.

Henderson county led in the use of marl, 420 farmers applying 7-000 tons last year. Other counties, using large quantities of marl were Lincoln, 6,800 tons; Montgomery, 6,525 tons; Marion, 6,133 tons; Garrard, 6,000 tons; Allen, 5,300 tons, and Green 5,200 tons.

Johnson county used 2,403 tons of burned lime; Knox, 1,956 tons, and Breckinridge, 1,317 tons.

Lieutenant Colonel Jameson founder of the Automobile Association, was fined $60 in London for careless driving.

Ernest F. Thomas of Durban, South Africa, 75 years old, has challenged any other swimmer of his own age or older.

PERCENTAGE ALLOTTED TO KENTUCKY TOBACCO GROWERS SLIGHTLY UP

Kentucky tobacco growers have been allotted a slightly larger percentage of the national acreage than they received last year, according to the State Office of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration at Lexington.

The burley acreage allotment of 277,191 acres, under the Agricultural Conservation Program, is 69.3 percent of the national allotment of 400,000 acres. In addition to the 400,000 acres, 5,000 acres have been set aside in a national reserve to be distributed among the states for new growers and for adjusting allotments of old growers. Last year's acreage allotment for Kentucky was 68.9 percent of the national allotment, which totaled 452,000 acres for all states.

Kentucky's allotment of fire-cured and dark air-cured tobacco is 83,468 acres, which is 52.2 percent of the national acreage allotment, compared to 52.05 percent last year.

Acreages of burley for other states are Tennessee, 66,468; Ohio, 14,082; Indiana, 11,112; Virginia, 11,292; Alabama, 177; Arkansas, 67; Georgia, 157; Illinois, 45; Kansas, 475; Missouri, 6,094; North Carolina, 112, and West Virginia, 4,345.

Other states received dark tobacco allotments as follows: Tennessee, 51,948; Virginia, 473; and Missouri, 100.

TOBACCO STALKS NOT GOOD BED FERTILIZER

Because they carry disease, tobacco stalks should not be used to fertilize tobacco beds, says Prof. E. J. Kinney in a circular of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture on the production of burley. He recommends the use of fertilizers, however, even though extra fertile land has been selected for the bed. The fertilizer should contain at least 3 percent nitrogen. Little or no potash is required where beds are burned, but it should be included where beds are steamed. Three to four pounds of fertilizer per 100 square feet of bed is a liberal application; it is not advisable to use more than 5 pounds on any soil in Kentucky. The fertilizer should be applied after the bed is burned or steamed, and raked into the soil. The circular, which deals with all phases of growing and curing burley tobacco, has been revised, and copies may be had from county agents or by writing to the college.

KITCHEN KINKS

Add bluing to soap suds before washing glassware. This adds a luster to glasses. To soft-cook eggs, put them in a pan of water that is boiling hot, remove pan from fire and let eggs stand from eight to ten minutes. Metal tea-pots sometimes give a musty flavor to tea made in them. Prevent this by tiring lump of sugar in pot and when ready to use the pot, rinse it in boiling water. Salted meat requires longer boiling than fresh. Put it in cold water, quickly bring it to a boil and then let it simmer.

THE GARDEN

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

The ground broken, the garden may lie until the time comes to get ready the seed bed, some time in March. The gardener, however, may not be idle, but he should improve this interval by putting his plans in order. On how well this is done depends much of the satisfaction that should come from the garden.

The first step is to determine just how much garden space there is, for, on its size obviously hinges its output. In making measurements in order, the family outline should be noted, so that a wholly accurate map can be drawn. On the map should be shown walks, treeshade, possible tree-root competition, the almost inevitable grape arbor down the middle "ear-ly" and wet spring, in fact, any feature that might affect the vegetables. Also shown, should be the location of last year's tomatoes and cabbage, so that these vegetables can be "rotated" to avoid "yellows" and wilt.

Next comes making a "budget" of the garden. The family outline is too small. This may be consulted. Here is shown a list of bushy and cans of vegetables for the winter. Those amounts, doubled, constitute an all-year's budget.

Now, the feet of garden row needed to produce these vegetables should be computed. Records of previous gardens would help, but lacking these, a fair idea may be got from Table 2, Kentucky Extension Circular 309. In this same table are found also vegetable row-spacings, and seed information. It may now develop that the garden is too small. This may be only apparently so, as will be seen on consulting the "days to maturity" column, again in Table 2. By its aid, some crops may be sandwiched between others, and some made to follow others, increasing the "size" of the garden by just that much.

If the garden is found still too small, some of the vegetables must be dropped. Obviously, the first to be deleted should be those that give the least return for the space they occupy. Next, should be those of which the family is not overfond, but sound judgment should prevail, for there are many vegetables whose taste is worth cultivating, if for no other reason than that they represent new flavors to mitigate the monotony that obtains when only a few kinds of vegetables come to the table. The temptation might be to omit some vegetable it has been found difficult to raise, but that is no valid reason; a garden is made the more exciting by a brush or two with insects and vegetable diseases with the outcome successful for the gardener, of course.

Finally, with the garden map filled to its utmost, the seed list may be worked out (again, Table 2) and the seed purchasing, and that much of planning is completed.

Planning II

Among the items that make up garden planning, making out the seed list has been named. This will be being amplified, because the varieties differ enough in behavior for the success or failure of the garden to depend on their correct selection.

A good garden is one that begins producing early and that continues until freezing weather puts an end to everything. To achieve earliness, obviously an early start must be made, requiring intelligent soil management, but also the choosing of the varieties that mature in the shortest order.

Among the earliest crops to go into the garden are peas. Likewise, they were at the first coming of warm weather. Obviously, with a March start, the list would be: Alaska, Gradus, Telephone, named in their order of earliness. Supposing, however, there is delay, at latest, Telephone, should be jacked off, and dependence placed the other two, to mature before the growing weather is past.

Another item is cabbage. The earliest sorts are those whose heads are pointed: Early Jersey or Winnie, but these burst early. The early round-headed is Golden Acre; the earliest list should include a few, by all means. Next come the oblong-headed, Charleston Wakefield, or the round-headed, Copenhagen Market; there should be some of each of these to take up after the earliest sorts are spent. Next in season, comes Early Summer, All Seasons, Succession or Early Flat Dutch maturing in September. An orderly program should contain cabbage of all those "speeds," as it were, to assure usable cabbage all summer.

In the event that "yellows" has cut cabbage yields, or in fact, prevented cabbage growing altogether none of those named should be used, but the varieties, yellows-resistant Early Jersey Wakefield, Marion Market and Yellows-resistant All-seasons used instead, in equal numbers. These sorts are more obtainable as "frost-proof" plants.

Choosing early root-crop varieties is simple; the small beets, turnips, carrots and radishes are the ones to sow in June and July for winter-storing, except carrots, Chantenay, sown no later than May.

As to what bean variety to use to start the season, some confusion may arise, for in the seed catalogues that state the number of days to maturity, all look much alike. If a gardener is fortunate enough to have his bean land ready in April, he should use Valentine or Tennessee Greenpod, as being more hardy than Stringless Greenpod, the variety to use from then on. If the ultimate in yield is desired, change may be made in July, but not before, to Stringless Refugee or 1000-to-1.

TIME TO BEGIN TO FEED TURKEY HENS

It is time to begin to feed a laying mash to turkey hens, in order to increase egg production for the hatching season, says J. E. Humphrey of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. There are good laying mashes on the market, or one can be made at home of 200 pounds of mixed wheat feed, 200 pounds of ground yellow corn, 100 pounds of meatscrap or high-grade tankage, and 5 pounds of salt. Keep in a self-feeder before the birds. Better fertility and hatchability will be had if a quart of fish liver oil is added to each 100 pounds of mash. An average sized turkey hen will eat about a half-pound of mash and grain daily, and a mature tom about a pound. Oystershell or limestone should be kept before the turkeys.

LOCAL FOOT SUFFERERS RELIEVED

History—Mr. T. M. Carpenter—History—Mr. T. M. Carpenter—Symptoms:—Unable to sleep soundly for 18 years. He would wake up six and seven times a night—tossed all night long. Suffered excruciating headaches—pains in leg and back that sometimes necessitated laying off work. His feet did not hurt him.

A friend of his suggested that he have his feet examined because suffering and discomfort in the back and legs might be caused by weak feet. Mr. M. then had a free foot analysis. After wearing a recommended and properly fitted surgical shoe for three weeks the splitting headache left and he was again able to sleep soundly without waking and tossing.

History—Mrs. N. H.—Housewife—Symptoms—feet and legs ached continually. Knees stiffened to such an extent she was unable to walk up or down stairs. Symptoms were similar in every respect to rheumatism and arthritis. After restoring perfect foot balance in the proper surgical shoe, correct posture resulted and normal articulation of joints in the feet and limbs was promoted. Pain and stiffness disappeared and Mrs. H. can comfortably resume her daily routine.

COMMENT. The above two examples, illustrate just the extent of the havoc wrought when feet weaken and sagging arches allow pressure on nerves and blood vessels. The effect of poor posture resulting from sagging arches can so effect the general health, that not only discomfort and agonizing pain results, but time is lost from work and income is reduced—Adv.

Gayety Theater News

Fri. and Sat.—"Illegal Traffic"
Sun. and Mon.—"Listen Darling"
Tues., Wed. and Thursday, Feb. 21
22, and 23 "Men With Wings"

One of the most exciting thrillers of the year forms the climax of the new racket film, "Illegal Traffic," which will be shown at the Gayety Friday and Saturday. It consists of an airplane vs. automobile battle, in which a G-man directs his fellow-operators to a gang of fleeing racketeers and then stops their flight by shooting it out with them from the plane overhead.

Robert Preston, in a leading role, plays the flying G-man, while J. Carroll Nash is the racket chief. The story concerns the efforts of the government to put a stop to the illegal transportation of fugitives from justice by a bogus trucking company.

Instead of an autograph book, Judy Garland has started an autograph automobile in Hollywood. The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer singing starlet arrived at the studio during the making of "Listen Darling" to be shown at the Gayety Sunday and Monday, driving an old cut-down car which she persuaded her mother to buy strictly for autograph purposes.

After obtaining the signatures of Freddie Bartholomew, Mary Astor, Walter Pidgeon and Director Edwin L. Marin on the set of "Listen Darling," Judy parked the machine outside the sound stage, with a sign reading, "Please autograph my car . . . Judy Garland." Jeanette MacDonald, Nelson Eddy, Spencer Tracy, Myrna Loy, Janet Gaynor and Robert Young were among those to oblige.

"Listen Darling" is a rollicking comedy based on Katharine Brush's magazine story of the same name.

The story of three pioneers of the air, whose lives are bound up with the history of aviation during its first turbulent thirty-five years is told in the new Technicolor cavalcade of aviation, "Men With Wings," which will be shown Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

of next week. The leading characters, played by Fred MacMurray, Ray Milland and Louise Campbell, follow the tremendous pursuit of aviation from the Wright Brothers flight at Kitty Hawk in 1903 right up to the present moment. The picture was produced and directed by William A. Wellman, who brought the unforgettable "Wings" to the screen.

SUGGEST WAYS TO AVOID BLUE MOLD INJURY TO PLANTS

In discussing the blue mold disease in tobacco plant beds, at the Farm and Home Convention at Lexington, Dr. W. D. Valleau, plant pathologist at the Agricultural Experiment Station, suggested five practices which will reduce injury from the disease.

The first one is to use a new bed site every year, so as to avoid danger of carrying over the disease in the bed.

The second is to avoid woods or shaded places in locating the bed. Sunshine prevents or delays the development of blue mold.

In the third place, treating small plants in the bed with a bluestone-lime solution, a practice recommended for the control of wildfire and rust or angular leaf-spot, seems to delay the development of blue mold according to the experience of growers in the last two years. Where this material was applied, farmers reported that beds remained free from the disease.

The fourth is to use a new bed site every year, so as to avoid danger of carrying over the disease in the bed.

ease a week to 10 days longer than where it was not used.

The fourth practice suggested by Dr. Valleau is that of removing the tobacco cotton early in the morning and leaving it off until the leaves are well dried. The disease rarely develops on leaves kept dry.

Finally, it is not necessary to discard good-sized plants, if they are needed, just because the bed has become infected with blue mold, says Dr. Valleau. Apply nitrate of soda, followed with clear water to prevent burning, and most of the plants will recover and be ready to set in a week or little more.

PROMINENT WALTON MAN CALLED

Marvin Hudson, Jr.

MARVIN HUDSON SUCCUMBS FEB. 15

WAS WELL KNOWN AND LOVED THROUGHOUT COUNTY—SERVICES HELD FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 17TH.

After a lingering and painful illness, which kept him confined since October of last year, Marvin Hudson, Jr., of Walton, Ky., passed away Wednesday, February 15th, at 10:00 a. m. He was 31.

An admirable character, a loyal friend to all who knew him, a young man who was public-spirited and unprejudiced, a sincere Christian, Marvin, Jr., will be sadly missed in all the circles of home, friends, and acquaintances, with which he was associated in his various walks of life.

The high esteem in which he was held by his many friends was made obvious by the large crowd which assembled at the Hudson home on the Walton-Beaver road Friday, February 17 at 2:00 p. m. for the funeral service, and by the mass of lovely flowers which had been sent as tokens of remembrance, love, and respect.

A quiet, impressive service, such as Marvin, Jr., might have chosen as a farewell gathering for his friends, was made beautiful by the fitting remarks of the several ministers who best knew him, and who spoke sincere words made possible by close friendship. Two appropriate poems, "Abide With Me" and "My Faith Looks Up To Thee" were read by Rev. R. R. Rose, pastor of the Walton Methodist Church, of which Marvin, Jr., was a member. Two beautiful poems were read, one by Rev. Cross, of the Richmond Presbyterian Church; the other, a tribute to Marvin, Jr., was written and read by Rev. C. E. Brown, pastor of Verona Baptist Church. Other ministers who paid tributes of friendship were Rev. Alford, of the Walton Baptist Church and Rev. Irvin of the Walton Christian Church. Prayer was offered by Rev. Bedinger.

Interment was made in the cemetery of the Walton Baptist Church, of which Marvin, Jr., was a member. Two beautiful poems were read, one by Rev. Cross, of the Richmond Presbyterian Church; the other, a tribute to Marvin, Jr., was written and read by Rev. C. E. Brown, pastor of Verona Baptist Church. Other ministers who paid tributes of friendship were Rev. Alford, of the Walton Baptist Church and Rev. Irvin of the Walton Christian Church. Prayer was offered by Rev. Bedinger.

Marvin, Jr., leaves to mourn his passing his devoted parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Hudson; two aunts, Misses Anna and Martha Hudson, of Walton; three uncles, Robert Green, of Beaver Lick, Joseph Green, of Erlanger and William Green, of Madisonville, O.; several cousins and other close relatives, and a host of admiring friends.

To those who witnessed Marvin's many hours of suffering, during which his ever-abiding faith in God, and his patient submission to His will were so apparent, there comes the comforting thought that Death may be very sweet. God said, "My son, your vigil has been long. You've fought an earnest fray. Come now, and join the Heavenly throng. I'll take you home today."

I've tried and tested—you've been true. A brave, hard race you've run; A better place I have for you. Come home and rest—my son. And so the burden passed away. "Peace" replaced the look of strain. And Death seems sweet to me today. Since that fate reveals no pain.

APPLICANTS ON TOBACCO CROP

MUST APPLY BY MARCH FIRST FOR ALLOTMENTS IN ORDER TO COOPERATE IN 1939 AGRICULTURAL PROGRAM.

Farmers growing tobacco in 1939 for the first time since 1934 and who wish to cooperate in the 1939 Agricultural Conservation Program should apply for acreage allotments before March 1st, the closing date, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

Before the County Agricultural Conservation Committee can make an allotment to this type of grower (a new grower) the application must meet the following requirements:

(a) The applicant shall have had two years or more of previous experience in growing tobacco during the past five years.

(b) The applicant shall be living on the farm and shall be the owner thereof or if he is not owner for cash and supplying the machinery, workstock, and finances for the operation of the farm.

(c) There shall be available space on the farm for the curing of tobacco.

(d) The particular farm shall be the chief source of income which the applicant depends for his livelihood and the only farm owned or operated by him on which Burley tobacco is produced.

(e) There shall be 10 acres or more of crop land in the farm. The acreage allotment for any farm which meets the conditions specified above shall be comparable with 75 per cent of the allotment for other similar farms on which tobacco was produced in the period 1935-38, inclusive, or such pro rata part of this allotment as the acreage available for new farms will provide.

The farm yield per acre for new tobacco farms shall be the 1939 community average yield for old tobacco farms in the community or if there are no old tobacco farms in the county the 1939 State average yield.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Benson and child, spent an afternoon last week applying in Covington.

BANKERS ASS'N. OFFERS PRIZES

IN SPEAKING CONTEST—SIX HUNDRED DOLLAR SCHOLARSHIP WILL BE FIRST AWARD TO WINNER OF FINALS.

Mr. Ralph Fontaine, Secretary of the Kentucky Bankers Association, Louisville, was calling on the officials of the Peoples Deposit Bank last Thursday in an effort to create interest among the high school students of Boone County to enter the speaking contest sponsored by the Kentucky Bankers Association in which a $600.00 scholarship will be the first prize to the winner of the state finals, second prize is $100.00 and third prize $50.00.

Mr. Fontaine stated that high schools in other counties of the state had secured 100 per cent and could not understand why the high schools of Boone county had not entered this contest. He said that 90 per cent of the high schools that had enrolled in the contest did not have the advantage of an elocution teacher and that it was not so much the delivery of the address that counted as it was the thought presented.

A conference was held with the county school superintendent and the eight banks of Boone county agreed to offer $500.00 in cash to the three best orators delivered in the Boone county contest, to be divided $250.00 for first, $150.00 second and $100.00 third. The one winning first prize will be eligible to compete with the winners in the other counties in group five, composed of Boone, Bracken, Campbell, Harrold, Fleming, Gallatin, Grant, Kenton, Lewis, Mason, Oldham, Pendleton, Robertson and Trimble counties. The winner in this group will compete in the state finals this summer for the grand prize.

Under this arrangement three Boone county high school students are certain to share in the $500.00 prize offered by the banks of Boone county and do not compete with any one outside of Boone county. The winner receiving the first Boone county prize will later compete in the group contest.

The subject is "The Value of the Bank to the Community."

Any banker in Boone county will gladly take the time to give any student all information concerning the operation of banks. It is suggested that the high school principal select three or four students from his particular school and assist them in securing information from local bankers and have them write a theme on the above subject and then select the best paper written and enter this student in the county contest as the representative of this particular school.

Six high schools in Boone county are eligible to compete and three of them are certain to win the $500.00 in cash offered by the Boone county banks. Let's enter the contest.

ACP COMMITTEE ADJUSTS TOBACCO

ALLOTMENTS FOR BOONE—1104 GROWERS WILL RECEIVE TOTAL OF 2329 ACRES OR A TOTAL OF 2,282,420 POUNDS.

Boone County ACP Committee met at Burlington on Monday and Tuesday of this week and completed the 1939 adjustments of AAA tobacco acreage allotments, for 1939. Eleven hundred four growers this year will receive a total of 2329 acres allotment based on average yield of 980 pounds per acre or a total of 2,282,420 pounds.

The acreage allotments this year are approximately 10 per cent below the 1938 acreage grown in the county due to the general acreage reductions required in the entire Burley belt to prevent the accumulation of the large surplus of Burley tobacco produced the past two years. The acreage allotments are also adjusted on the basis of acreage actually grown in 1938, 1937 and 1936 without regard to former bases. This method of calculation eliminates the so-called dead bases that have not been used the past three years by growers.

Growers will be notified of their 1939 acreage allotments within the next ten days. The allotments affect only acreages in reference to ACP payments for cooperation in the Agricultural Conservation Program for 1939. Growers who exceed their quota allotments will receive deductions in payments of 2 cents per pound times the rated farm yield for the first 10 per cent excess acreage and 8 cents per pound for additional excess acreages. The ACP Program being strictly a voluntary program in which farmers receive benefit payments for not exceeding acreage allotments and for carrying out soil-conserving and soil-building practices, the grower is just not eligible for payments at any time his deductions equals or exceeds his benefits. Growers as a whole favor the ACP acreage quotas and a large majority will cooperate fully in the program.

Members of the 1939 ACP community committee elected by growers to adjust their allotments for 1939 are: H. E. White, Lillard Scott, Sterling Rouse, L. W. Rogers, Charles W. White, C. D. Gaines, El Williams, Hubert Conner, Frank Allen, R. E. Kirtley, P. J. Madden, Robert R. Robbins, Hugh Stephens, Albert Farley, J. D. Pennington, O. K. Powers, L. B. Bradford.

DEMOCRATS TO GIVE DANCE SAT.

AT BILLY HUDSON'S CLUB HOUSE, END OF FT. MITCHELL CAR LINE—PLANS MADE TO ACCOMMODATE HUGE CROWD

The Young Men's Democratic Club of Boone County will sponsor a dance Saturday night, February 25th at Billy Hudson's Club House, on U. S. 25 end of Ft. Mitchell car line. Elaborate plans have been made by the club for the best dance ever to be sponsored by this organization.

Ray Raymond's ten-piece orchestra will furnish the music for the evening. This orchestra is well known throughout the Cincinnati area and is rated as one of the best in the greater Cincinnati district.

Some of the best entertainers in this part of the country have been chosen to appear on the floor show. Virginia Dawn will be on the program as a special entertainer. One of the highlights of the floor show will be the duo skating act, which is very entertaining.

Another feature of the evening's program which has never been seen before in northern Kentucky is a magician, who will entertain everyone present with his many seemingly impossible feats.

The committee in charge of the entertainment has made extensive plans for one of the largest crowds ever to attend a club dance, and every entertaining feature of the program has been carefully selected. Everyone is assured of a pleasant evening.

County Surveyor Returns Home From California Visit

Noel Walton, County surveyor, wife and son, David Gaines, returned to our county Monday morning, after an extended visit with Mr. Walton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Walton, Sr., of Bakersfield, California. He reports a fine trip and beautiful sunny weather while there.

Points in their journey included the range of mountains of Arizona, the picturesque ruins of the old missions in New Mexico, and the redwood forests of California. Also on their return trip they visited old Mexico at Juarez and the historic Texas frontier country at Pecos, Abilene and other Texas towns.

Mr. Walton states that he is ready to take care of all surveying work that people of Boone county want done and will be at home from now on. You can get in touch with him by calling Burlington 524.

IN REMEMBRANCE

To commemorate the birth of the Father of our Country, George Washington, we would best remember him by what he did for this nation, and to review what this nation means to us. George Washington fought for the independence and the freedom of this country. He saw our live in America today have only our historians to tell us of the struggle and victory of this country against the forces working against it. We are enjoying the fruits of it. There are many events in present affairs when we feel that today our problem is more serious than ever before, that the struggle has never been more severe. How can any man, brought up in a system of public schools where instruction and school books are free, a nation where his religion is not restricted, where freedom of the press, of thought and of speech is not being stifled by force and fanatics, how can any man be anything but appreciative of the blessings visited upon Americans?

We trace back to the time of Washington for our original declaration of an independent nation. We honor his birthday with a reminder of our good fortune to be citizens under this flag. We would like to feel that every one thought the same as we do upon this subject. But what about a man saying, "What this country needs is a Hitler?" Such a remark caused another man to reply, "I was born and raised in another country. I can still remember. Americans do not realize. They should appreciate and be very grateful for this country."

To the men of 1776 we pledge ourselves to uphold those things for which they fought, and to make proud the heart of the Father of this Country, by being no less than Americans.

THE BILLBOARD BEAUTIFUL

This paper has taken a stand, for a long time, against the ugly signs, the ugly billboards that dot the highways and obstruct the view of scenic spots. Nature scarcely needs the addition of advertised coffee, cars and cafeterias to enhance its beauty. How many times have local residents been riding along a highway remarking about the loveliness of some roadside picture, when up pops a billboard to hide and mar it, but which informs you fully of the merits of a vanilla or liver pills. The public has put up with increased billboards and until recently have suffered with little direct action. However, billboard advertisers realized the feeling and signs were removed from residential sections in many cases, and billboards were planned to be more attractive. But can a billboard ever be beautiful? Many states say no, and follow this up with laws regulating the erection of outdoor advertising. We have written before of many a summer Sunday ride spoiled by too many signs. Vermont and Virginia, and New York, have their laws controlling the problem. A prominent Florida city had a recent controversy regarding the placing of a prominent sign which was an eyesore to the citizens who prided themselves on the beauty of their city. So the movement grows and will probably spread to other states. The nation is becoming more conscious of its roadside beauty and are anxious to make national highways attractive. It was Ogden Nash who cleverly put it in his "Song of the Open Road." "I think that I shall never see A billboard lovely as a tree. Perhaps, unless the billboards fall, I'll never see a tree at all."

HORSES IN BOOTS!

When you live in a quiet community and are not bothered by the most ungodly sounds that come from the big city, the sound of the early morning milk man with his horse who clops-clops along in the wee small hours, there has been a solution to this problem in London where they have placed rubbery tires on milk wagons and provided gum boots for the horses. This is a step in the right direction although the horse was probably slightly bewildered at the sight and no sound. Perhaps the horse is glad of the rubber when streets are wet and slippery. We live in a great age. Wouldn't your Great Aunt Mary be surprised, if in her day, a horse appeared wearing gum boots?

YOU CAN TELL

Did you ever stop to ask yourself when a grape was ripe, or did you dig right in and start to work on the arbor, judging the color of the grape to guide you? To go on and pull a bunch of grapes or eat each one directly from the vine, then pop each delicious morsel into an anxious mouth with relish. You soon have a pile of grape juice on your feet, or maybe you throw them. To buy the shipped-in berries or to eat those picked by other hands never leaves as pleasant a taste in your mouth. It makes a difference when you pick your own grapes.

It was never hard to distinguish between the ripe and unripe fruit in our own case. Yet, they tell us that there are scientists working now on how to determine when a grape is really ripe. It seems to cause a bit of research when any boy in Boone County could tell them!

THE LOCAL NEWSPAPER

A recent bulletin of the American Newspaper Publishers Association carries word of the newspaper advertising views of Safeway Stores, Inc., a large Western food chain. These views could be profitably emulated by industry and commerce in general.

In brief, the Safeway company believes that newspapers of regular publication, large and small, perform an important public service, and that advertising revenue is essential to keeping the price charged the subscriber low enough to bring the paper within financial reach of every possible family.

The company believes that when the so-called free circulation newspaper attempts to lure advertisers, using a lower rate as bait, it is the beginning of a vicious circle—first, depleting the established publication; next, thru bankruptcy, depriving the community of such news service; encouraging the free distribution paper into becoming a paid circulation and news distributing publication, followed by additional free circulation papers and thus completing the cycle.

SERVICE TO THE FARMER

The primary purpose of agricultural marketing cooperation is to sell on the most favorable possible terms, the produce of the member farmers.

But the leading cooperative marketing organizations likewise perform other important services to agriculture. For example, they have worked with representatives of government in the preparation of legislation dealing with foreign trade and domestic agricultural policy. Thus the farmer has had a telling voice in legislative halls.

Further, they do a great deal to help educate the farmer on any number of matters affecting his business—monetary policy, taxation, production, etc. Some of them publish excellent house organs in which such matters are discussed. All in all, they have proven themselves to be a mighty influence in favor of agricultural progress.

YOU AND YOUR BANKER

"The semi-public character of banking, and its historic vulnerability to popular sentiment and political attack, makes it imperative that understanding of and attention to public attitudes and reactions play a larger part in bank management in the future than they have in the past," says The American Bankers Association.

Few borrowers ever like the man or the institution that lends them money. In addition, a sort of grim legend has grown up about bankers and banking, picturing the former as a rapacious crew of financial pirates, and the latter as an ice-cold institution which controls the nation's purse-strings. As a result, it has always been easy for the unscrupulous politician in need of a vote-getting issue, to make political capital out of the exaggerated and fallacious attacks on our financial structure.

The fact that banking has awakened to this and is taking steps to inform the public as to the fundamentals of its business, marks a move in the right direction. It will, in the long run, serve to improve banking's service to the people. It will clear away misunderstanding that exists in millions of minds. Banking lies at the heart of our economic system and it's time we learned a great deal more about it than we have in the past.

THINGS ONE REMEMBERS

By R. M. Hofer

Items in the daily news which often fail to make the headlines, have a most interesting bearing on the daily lives of most of us.

For instance a six-line dispatch from Berlin states that to relieve the shortage of physicians caused by Nazi ban on Jewish doctors, a drastic reduction in time required for medical education has been granted. Will this help a person with a ruptured appendix?

The assessor of Josephine county, Oregon, announces that public utilities will pay 36.4 per cent of the tax moneys collected by the county in 1939. Under public ownership, such utilities would be tax exempt and Josephine county citizens could add 36 per cent to their tax bill, plus the additional expense of financing such utilities. What a blessing that would be!

Answering questions before the Senate Judiciary Committee which later favored his nomination to the United States Supreme Court by a unanimous vote, Felix Frankfurter said: "It doesn't matter whether the constitution is invoked for ends I like or ends I don't like, so long as those who invoke it keep within the framework of the Constitution. There must be freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of assembly, freedom of religion, freedom of conscience. Civil liberties mean liberties for those we like and those we don't like, or even detest." And that is stating the fundamentals of American democracy in just about its shortest form.

There is now much agitation for taxation of salaries of state and federal officials and employees on the same basis as the income of such private citizens who earn money to pay their salaries. It's difficult to understand how a member of Congress, or a state legislator, or a public employee can ask for or justify such an exemption.

PETER IN SAMARIA

LESSON TEXT—Acts 8:14-25.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come ye, buy, and eat; yea, come, buy wine and milk without money and without price.—Isaiah 55:1.

Commercialism certainly should have no place in the Christian Church. But in an age that will even commercialize a man's love for his mother, it is small wonder that the great holy days of the Church—Christmas and Easter—have become the special object of profit-seeking purveyors of everything from the turkey on New Year's day, Thanksgiving day, Mother's day, Father's day, any day at all, becomes just another opportunity to take a man's money, waste his time, and possibly to destroy his soul. It is high time that intelligent folk make effective protest against such perversion of sacred things.

The Scripture lesson for today tells of one who went so far as to try to buy the power of God for money, that he might use it to get gain for himself, failing to realize that the power of God is a gift and to be used only for His glory.

I. Spiritual Power—the Gift of God (vv. 14-17).

The Holy Spirit who is the third person of the blessed Trinity had called Philip, a layman, and sent him forth to preach in Samaria. Men and women were converted, and when the church at Jerusalem heard of it, they sent Peter and John to give counsel and help to the new converts. Through the laying on of hands these received the gift of the Holy Spirit even as we now receive Him the moment we believe on Christ.

What a glorious truth it is that the believer is indwelt by the Holy Spirit (I Cor. 6:19). Thus even the humblest believer has in Him the One who redeems man, gives grace for holy living, and empowers for service. The greatest power in all the world is consequently available to every true and yielded believer. Gone then are all excuses for weak and careless living. Gone is every ground for claiming that one cannot do more. The power and grace are His, and He gives them to His followers as a gift. Christian friend, are you giving the Holy Spirit of God liberty to infill and use you?

II. Spiritual Power—Not for Sale (vv. 18-24).

Men who put their trust in money are prone to think that one can buy anything. They say with a sneer, "Every man has his price." But they are wrong. There are men and women in the world who cannot be bought, and it is even more certain that the best things in life can give a man have no price tag on them—a mother's love, friendship, fellowship with God, the Holy Spirit's power—these among many others are not for sale.

Simon, a professed believer, recognized that these followers of Jesus had a great power which he thought to buy for his own business as a magician. His was a very gross and blatant effort to do what many have done in the Church, and are doing today, by more skillful and sometimes by under-cover methods. There are those who by holding the purse strings seek to control the message of the preacher, or who use their financial influence to obtain control of church organizations and institutions. Their efforts are doomed to ultimate failure, but the present harm they do to the cause of Christ is appalling. Many a church and pastor would be better off if they could rise up and say with Peter, "Thy money perish with thee."

III. Spiritual Power—for Testimony (v. 25).
Peter and John set the Samaritan believers a good example by permitting the Spirit of God to use them to testify and preach the Word of the Lord in many villages. The Holy Spirit does "the speaking of himself," but guides the believer "in all truth" (John 16:13), and His primary ministry is to glorify Christ (John 16:14). It follows that the outstanding mark of a Spirit-born and Spirit-filled believer is his desire to speak of and to glorify Christ.

Such a testimony will be "not in words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth" (I Cor. 2:13), and will bear fruit for eternity.

A Common Adversary
Much contempt and hatred towards erring humanity would be averted—and instead compassion would be excited—if we kept constantly in mind the humble thought that we have the same common adversary! Indeed, such realization would elicit prayer in lieu of caustic criticism.

The Word Chance
By the word chance we merely express our ignorance of the cause of any action or effect—not that we think that chance was itself the cause.—Henry Fergus.

SEWING MACHINE CARE

If you are having trouble with your sewing machine and it runs with difficulty, remove the shuttle, fill oil can with alcohol and apply freely to all parts where oil has been used, while doing so, run the machine at high speed to heat the machinery, constantly applying alcohol. It will cut out all gummy oil and leave the machine like new. Wipe well. When ready to use again, oil as usual.

The Safety Sensation of 1939!

CHAMPION

The Only Tire Made with the

NEW SAFETY-LOCK CORD BODY

and NEW GEAR-GRIP TREAD...

NEVER before in our experience has a tire met with such instant and unanimous approval as the new Firestone Champion Tire. It's the Safety Sensation of 1939! Our customers have started a word-of-mouth campaign that is making this the biggest selling tire we've ever had. Motor car manufacturers have been so impressed by its superior performance that they have adopted it for their 1939 models.

Why? Because the Firestone Champion Tire is an entirely new achievement in safety engineering.

Stronger Cord Body. This is accomplished first, by the use of a completely new type of tire cord called "Safety-Lock," in which the cotton fibers are more compactly interwoven to assure cooler running and provide greater strength. Then, the fibers in each individual cord, the cords in each ply and the plies themselves, are all securely locked together by a new and advanced Firestone process of Gum-Dipping which provides amazingly greater strength. And greater strength means greater safety.

More Non-Skid Mileage. The new Safety-Lock cord construction provides the extra strength needed for the use of the new, thicker, tougher, deeper Firestone Gear-Grip tread which delivers remarkably longer non-skid mileage. This sensational new tread is called "Gear-Grip" because of its unique design—it has more than 3,000 sharp-edged angles which grip the road with a sure-footed hold to protect against skidding and assure a safe stop.

Drive in today and equip your car with a new set of Firestone Champion Tires—the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedway for your protection on the highway.

INCREASED ENROLLMENT

SHOWN IN ORGANIZATION OF FOUR-H CLUB FOR 1939—BEST YEAR IN HISTORY OF WORK IS PREDICTED.

Boone County 4-H Clubs are organizing with increased enrollment for 1939, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. The members are looking forward to the biggest and best 4-H club year in history.

Petersburg, Hebron, Florence and Grant 4-H Clubs held their first organization meeting the past week. New Haven, Burlington, Taylorsport, Hazlett, Walton and Verona 4-H Clubs are scheduled to hold their organization meetings the last half of this week.

The one-fourth to one acre tobacco project continues to be the most popular project among the farm or home project community clubs. The members are being placed on a more diversified project program. Members are offered their choice of dairy calf, beef calf, lamb, pig, poultry, corn, garden truck crops, tobacco, and flower production projects.

Every boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 18 years inclusive is eligible to become a 4-H Club member on filing his application card in the county agent's office and in carrying some approved farm or home project.

Boys and girls interested in becoming 4-H Club members should enroll in their community 4-H Club, or apply at the County Agent's office in Burlington. There are no membership fees and project outlines and record books are supplied free of charge.

Five hundred one club members the past year produced farm and home products valued in excess of $16,000.00. While the educational value is the first interest of club work, many members made net profits on their projects varying from $25.00 to $200.00.

Boys and girls interested in becoming 4-H Club members should enroll in their community 4-H Club, or apply at the County Agent's office in Burlington. There are no membership fees and project outlines and record books are supplied free of charge.

2521 Operators Sold By Circuit Clerk Since Last July

Circuit Court Clerk, A. D. Yelton stated Tuesday that he had issued 2521 operators license since last July, which was approximately as large as the entire fiscal year 1936-37, when there were only 2536 issued.

Mr. Yelton stated that drivers would be required to obtain new drivers license again in July.

With the new year still in the opening stages, we are wondering who will let it go by without trying to put a new gadget into the Constitution.

10,000 TEXAS QUAILS PURCHASED BY STATE

FRANKFORT, KY.—For the past twenty years there has been a good deal of criticism from the sportsmen and especially the quail hunter in regard to the purchasing of the "Mexican Quail" by the Division of Game and Fish.

Each year the Division purchases all available native Bob White Quail and as that species is limited to approximately five thousand birds per year, the additional birds must be purchased elsewhere. So the Division supplies this deficit with Texas Bob White imported from the high plateau land of Northern Mexico.

The Texas Bob White is found in Texas, New Mexico and the northern part of Mexico and is exactly like the native Bob White with the exception that due to the climate in that section of the country it does not require as many feathers and due to the food that it gets there, its feathers are of a different shade.

When brought to Kentucky the bird, after moulting, takes on additional feathers and becomes the exact color of the Native bird.

The bird which has caused criticism to the Division by bird hunters is known as the Mexican quail or Blue Quail. This bird is found from central Arizona to Western Texas, north to Southern Colorado and over most of the Panhandle of Texas, east nearly to central Texas, and south to the valley of Mexico. The Mexican Quail has a small top-not, is smaller than the Bob-White and is noted for its running rather than its flying. It cannot be pointed by dogs and will not rise in flight which makes shooting almost impossible.

In receiving shipments of the Texas Bob White in past years some of the Mexican Blue Quails were brought in by oversight and it is for that reason that some of the birds have been found in Kentucky. The Division now checks all birds carefully before being received and in that way all such undesirable species of birds are eliminated.

Major James Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, has purchased approximately 10,000 of the Texas Bob White Quail to be released the latter part of March or the first of April by this Division, assisted by the Fish and Game Clubs in Kentucky.

116,000 CORRESPOND FOR U. S. WEEKLIES

Engaged in the gathering of news each week for the 11,652 weekly newspaper in the United States are approximately 116,000 correspondents, according to a figure released recently by the New York State Colleges of Agriculture and Economics. The amount written by all of the correspondents each week, according to the release, is equivalent to 883 books a week, each the length of a typical novel.

And what will be the outcome of the discussions in Boone County concerning farm relief? When all is said and done, it still takes money to lift the mortgage on the old farmstead.

FISH HATCHERY IS DESTROYED BY FLOOD

FRANKFORT, KY.—The Division of Game and Fish was dealt a severe blow when the State-owned Fish Hatchery at Williamsburg, Ky., was washed completely away by the recent floods in that section of the state.

The hatchery contained over 900 brood bass which were to be the nucleus for this year's spawn. All were lost to the Division of Game and Fish and the Cumberland River made the gain. The bass weighed from two to ten pounds each and many good catches should be made in the Cumberland River by anglers during the coming fishing season from the added supply of fish.

Plans are being worked out by the Division whereby the Hatchery will be rebuilt with WPA aid. With the reconstruction of the Hatchery the outlay will be made in such a manner as to safeguard any future floods.

THE GARDEN

PLANNING 111

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

Last week was begun a discussion of the vegetable varieties, to fit them into gardening schedule, basing the decisions on their various growing schedules and on their other peculiarities. Peas, cabbage, beans, the root crops were so discussed; the discussion is continued with tomatoes.

As tomatoes are customarily grown, the plants produced in the tobacco plant bed, and late varieties used, it is rare that many tomatoes are had before August 1, whereas commercial gardeners begin moving tomatoes fully a month before.

If a hotbed or a cold frame is at hand even of modest improvised construction (and it may be surprisingly modest) seed may be started a month before outside sowing is possible and the first tomato picking date hastened just that much.

Obviously, an early variety must be used. Incidentally any gardener may learn of the possibilities of a hotbed or a cold frame, in Kentucky Extension Circular No. 276, obtainable from the county agent or by mail, from the College of Agriculture at Lexington.

The earliest variety is Earliana, but it is not particularly a good tomato, the fruits being "cat-faced" and fibrous. Scarlet Dawn is better. However, if tomato wilt has ever given trouble in a garden, the resistant Break O'Day should be used, or if a really fine tomato is desired, one that ripens evenly to a rich color, Pritchard. If there were only five plants per person, that would be enough.

The main season tomatoes should be produced as heretofore, and if there were no wilt in the garden, Stone or Greater Baltimore could be used. If wilt is suspected, Marglobe should be the variety.

Too often however, there is dearth of tomatoes toward the end of the season, or, at least, the quality becomes poor, the fruits small and acid. To remedy this, another lot of tomato plants should be coming on, to begin bearing about September 1. To have these, seed should be sown, in an outside bed, about May 1, and the plants should be ready to set a month or six weeks later.

Again, Stone or Greater Baltimore may be used, or Marglobe or Pritchard. The Ponderosa is the sort that many gardeners use for late-summer tomatoes, but the variety is not resistant to wilt. Sweet corn, really sweet corn, is missing from quite too many gardens. This may be remedied easily. The season may begin with Adams, which though not sweet, is about the most dependable early garden corn. With it, may be made the first planting of a sweet variety as Black Mexican, Golden Bantam or Indian Gold. Or, because most garden soils are infected with Stewart's disease, or wilt, which which stunts these splendid sorts, the variety should be any of the Golden Bantam hybrids.

Good white varieties are Stowell's Evergreen and the new-comer, Aunt Mary's; Country Gentleman is too much likely to be spoiled by the corn ear worm, which enters freely through the short shucks of this variety.

Sweet corn does not stay in good condition long; therefore plantings should be made every two weeks through May and June, and to the middle of July, beyond which there is not left enough time to mature corn before frost.

Cooperative marketing of vegetables is receiving the attention of Jefferson county farmers.

See how many public benefits brewing has helped create in only five years! How can the brewing industry preserve these benefits for the people and itself?
The answer, brewers realize, lies in with the distribution of their mild, wholesome beverage through responsible retail outlets. Obviously, the brewers can enforce no laws. But they can—and will—cooperate with all law enforcement authorities to the end that retail beer outlets give no offense to anyone.
May we send you a booklet giving interesting facts about beer, and discussing the brewers' self-regulatory program? Address: United Brewers Industrial Foundation, 19 East 40th Street, New York, N. Y.

HISTORY—Mrs. E. F. turned her ankle so easily that even the smallest pebble, would cause her to fall. When stepping off curbs, street cars, or busses, it was necessary to be particularly careful.

Mrs. F. had many serious falls, limbs and feet ached so badly at night that she could hardly sleep.

Mrs. F. had tried every make of shoe she knew of, but still the weakness persisted—she got no relief, until one day a friend who had experienced the same conditions and had been healed, recommended surgical shoes.

After wearing the properly shaped surgical shoe for her foot, and better foot balance promoted, she no longer turned her ankle and strain was relieved on the ligaments and tendons.

She is now completely free of pains and aches in the limbs and feet and can see like a kitten.—Adv.

Fri. and Sat.—"Renegade Ranger"
Sun. and Mon.—"Shining Hour"
Tuesday—"Treasure Island"
Wed. and Thursday, Mar. 1 and 2
—"If I Were King"

Romance and revenge are the twin themes of "The Renegade Ranger," RKO Radio's newest starring vehicle for George O'Brien. The picture deals with a Texas Ranger's difficulties in pursuing, arresting and rescuing a pretty Mexican girl accused of a border killing, and it is said to be O'Brien's most exciting film to date.

David Howard directed the production by Bert Klotz. The cast includes Ray Whitley, Tim Holt, William Royle, Lucia Cilegas, Charles Stevens and other favorites, with Rita Hayworth, lovely Spanish-American actress, as the harassed heroine.

Heralded as one of the outstanding productions of the season "The Shining Hour," with Joan Crawford, Margaret Sullivan, Robert Young and Melvyn Douglas will be shown at the Gaiety Theatre Sunday and Monday.

Based on the New York stage success by Keith Winter the drama presents Joan Crawford in her first dancing role since "Dancing Lady."

"The Shining Hour," is the story of a dancing star who attempts to escape from her surroundings through marriage with a Kansas farmer. The resulting family entanglements provide a plot rich in dramatic action.

The production was brought to the screen by Joseph L. Mankiewicz. Frank Morzage directed.

Time has not dimmed the lustre of Stevenson's name or detracted from his literary reputation. His admirers are legion and each new generation of book lovers multiplies his popularity.

His greatest story, "Treasure Island," no other book has been as widely read or more universally liked. It's the finest adventure story in literature. Its characters are known to millions in every part of the world.

This accurate and truthful account of the author and his most famous book is given you for one purpose.

SEILER MOTOR COMPANY CONDUCTING THREE-FOUR ONE SALE THIS WEEK

Seller Motor Co.'s branch, Covington Used Car Exchange, 1225 Madison, Covington, is now conducting a sensational "Three-Four One" sale, which is advertised in this issue of The Recorder.

Referring to this special event, C. D. Seiler made the following statement:

"We are eclipsing every previous merchandising effort of my company during our 25 years in business. Our entire stock of finely reconditioned, late model cars are priced so low that prices in former used car sales are high in comparison. Nothing but will induce you to buy immediately has been left undone.

"Every car priced over $250 in this sale is equipped with a complete set of brand new Flisk tires. The motor, transmission, differential and wheel bearings of every car are guaranteed for 1000 miles. There is no exaggeration, your dollar does triple duty during our 3 for 1 sale. I urge you to come in at once."

On Feb. 15, the Rabbit Hash Homemakers met at the cream station for their regular all-day meeting. Due to bad weather and illness, only ten members answered the roll call. We were very glad to have several visitors.

Miss Gillespie explained the Courier-Journal contest which is open to all homemakers.

Miss Gillespie and Mrs. Vernon Stephens gave the lesson on "Spring Style Trends."

Mrs. Orville Kelly gave a report of the meeting held in Burlington, Feb. 13th, telling us of some of the things other clubs are doing and what they are planning to do in the near future.

IN LOVING MEMORY

Of my beloved mother, Alberta Muntz, who passed away one year ago today, February 21, 1938. Gone dear mother, gone forever, How I miss your smiling face, But you left me to remember; None on earth can take your place. A happy home we once enjoyed, How sweet the memory still, But death has left a loneliness, The world can never fill. Sadly missed by her daughter, Alma.

GRANT HOMEMAKERS

The Grant Homemakers' Club met Feb. 16, with Mrs. Franklin Clore. There were fourteen members present.

The lesson for the day was "Spring Styles." Mrs. Lillard Scott and Mrs. Edward Rogers gave a report on the Style Show which was held at the Coppel Dept. Store in Covington on Tuesday, February 14th.

"We are continuing our studies on 'Better Speech' under the direction of Miss Marian Rogers. We hope to put into practice a few of the things we have learned."

We had a very interesting study on the countries, France and Germany by Mrs. James Lee McNeely.

There will be a special meeting for weaving held at the home of Mrs. R. S. Hensley on Thursday afternoon of March 8. Everyone interested is urged to be present.

RUG SAVER:

Children usually insist upon playing on the floor. They often play with modeling clay and paints on the rug. A good idea for every home where children play is to make a playboard for the floor.

Take a large wooden board, heavy cardboard, plywood or copperboard, and cover with black oil cloth. Fasten edges with thumb tacks. This is easily washed with soap and water and saves the rug.

COVINGTON'S FORD DEALER MAKES RECORD

For the first half of the month of February 1939, Hicks Motor Company, the new Ford dealers at 627 Scott Blvd., Covington, delivered more new Ford trucks than had been delivered during a similar time in Kenton County since 1934. The number of trucks delivered by them was greater than all trucks sold during the month of January 1939 of all makes in Kenton County.

One of the new trucks delivered to Kenton County Road Department has special equipment used for keeping and maintaining the roads within the county that are not maintained by the State.

A number of the new trucks delivered are of the new 95 horsepower design, equipped with dual wheels, so that they operate under heavy road conditions at economical cost. The Ford Motor Co. is the only builder of low cost trucks that offers this extra power for hauling loads in their equipment.

It is doubtful the large volume of business being done by the dealer is due to the very large trade-in allowances they are able to make on new trucks. This company recently opened a used car and truck lot at 705 Scott St., where the trade-ins on new Ford cars and trucks are being sold at less than usual market prices.—Adv.

KENTUCKY HOMEMAKERS' MARKETS
STANDARDIZED PRODUCT
BUTTER
HOMEMAKERS' MARKET
STANDARDIZED GOODS

Members of homemakers' clubs in Kentucky now are offering standardized products of their farms at cut prices in five towns. The products must score 90 or above and bear the official label assuring purchasers of high quality. At present products offered under the official homemakers' label include butter, eggs, poultry, bread, cake and cottage cheese.

Through the extension division of the College of Agriculture at Lexington, farm women desiring to sell on the homemakers' markets are given training in making high quality products. Only good ingredients are used in making bread and cake. Eggs must weigh 24 ounces or more to the dozen. Chickens must be well-finished, tender and properly dressed. The cottage cheese is of good quality. Butter is made from fresh, sweet cream.

The homemakers' markets are operated Saturday mornings at Bowling Green, Frankfort, Franklin, Henderson and Hopkinsville. This plan of selling has a two-fold educational purpose: the production of products of dependable quality, and assistance to farm women who desire to develop outlets for their products. The program is designed to be helpful to all elements of the community and in all instances has the endorsement of all interests concerned.

Homemakers Advisory Council Hold Meeting

The Advisory Council of Homemakers met at the office of our county agent in the courthouse at Burlington, Monday, February 13 at 1 o'clock to make plans for the coming year.

Miss Lullie Logan, assistant state leader of home demonstration and our own county home demonstration agent, Mary Hood Gillespie had charge of the meeting with the help of our county president, Mrs. Sam B. Sleet.

The work has been so interesting and helpful the last year, it is the hope of the Council that the coming year will be even more helpful and interesting.

May I take this opportunity to welcome the Rabbit Hash Club to our fold. We are always glad to add a new club to our list, this making ten organized clubs in the county at the present time.

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORDER

ESTABLISHED 1875

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY THURSDAY, MARCH 2, 1939

VOLUME 63

NUMBER 40

AAA TOBACCO ALLOTMENTS

APPROVED FOR BOONE COUNTY FARMERS—12.6 PERCENT DECREASE MADE IN ENTIRE COUNTY.

The 1939 Agricultural Conservation program tobacco acreage allotment for Boone county farmers has been approved for a total of 2329. This represents a 12.6 percent decrease from the 2665.7 acres which were allotted last year and which is typical of the acreage reduction made in the entire Burley belt. The reduction was considered necessary in order that the acreages allotted would not produce an over supply of tobacco again this year.

Boone county owners grew only 2281 acres in 1938. The 1939 allotted acres is therefore 21 percent more acres than was actually grown in the county last year.

The new 1939 acreage allotments are based on the acreages actually grown last year and adjusted with the acreage grown the last three years with no relationship to previous bases. This eliminates the situation where growers had larger bases established for their farms but had not been using them.

The new allotments refer only to the agricultural conservation program in which payments are made for not exceeding acreage allotments and for carrying out soil building practices. Deduction in payments are made where growers exceed the allotments. When the deductions exceeds the payments the farmer is under no obligation to anyone but he receives no benefit payments.

The ACP tobacco acreage has no connection with the pounds of tobacco a farmer may sell.

Marketing quotas regulates pounds sold. Marketing quotas under the present set up will not be in effect for 1939.

INTEREST RATE TO BE REDUCED

BY NORTHERN KENTUCKY PRODUCTION CREDIT ASSOCIATION—41 PERCENT TO BE NEW FIGURE.

The interest rate to members of the Northern Kentucky Production Credit Association was reduced one-half of one percent on all money advanced beginning February 24. Mr. Mills, Secretary-Treasurer announced for the Production Credit Association. "This is made possible," said Secretary Mills, "by the continued ready sale of Federal Intermediate Credit Bank debentures to the investing public, which lowers the interest rate and the favorable operating results of the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks and the Production Credit Association during 1938."

Secretary Mills explained that the association discounts the farmers' notes which it takes with the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Louisville. "The new rate will be four and one-half percent per year, and as usual interest will be charged only for the period which the members actually have the money," continued Secretary Mills. "The reduction also is effective in all the other production credit associations throughout the country. This is the lowest rate at which production credit has been made available and the lowest discount rate made by the intermediate credit banks. Based upon the present value of business, this interest reduction will result in annual saving of approximately $800,000 to the 243,000 members of the 535 production credit association in the United States."

The Northern Kentucky Production Credit Association, according to Secretary Mills, last year did a business totaling $261,436. "These loans," he said, "are made for agricultural purposes, and repayments are made at the time when the member is best able to pay from the sale of crops or livestock or other operations financed. Some loans are made on the so-called budget plan, in which members get a commitment from the association to advance to them sums covering certain periods, thus enabling them to be sure of sufficient funds to carry them through their agricultural operations and yet not have to pay interest on the entire amount for the whole season. The budget plan provides for advancing part of the entire amount as needed."

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Clore and family and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Clore, of Grant moved here this week, occupying the home owned by Mr. Asa McMullen.

FARMERS TO HEAR SOIL EXPERT FRI.

RESULTS OF SOIL EXPERIMENTS FOR PAST THIRTY-FIVE YEARS TO BE DISCUSSED BY PROF. ROBERTS.

Soils experimental results of the past thirty-five years will be discussed by Prof. George Roberts, head of Agronomy department of the Kentucky Experiment Station in a meeting at the Burlington courthouse this Friday, March 3rd, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

Farmers in most of the ten local community agricultural improvement programs and the county ACP committees have requested Prof. Roberts to discuss soil improvement practices that are paying Boone county farmers greatest returns and the relative values of these practices as found through years of closely supervised experimental work. Roberts is rated one of the country's outstanding soil authorities. One hundred and fifty farmers heard Prof. Roberts speak at Burlington last year.

The program of the Friday's meeting is as follows:

9:40 A. M.—The 1939 Agricultural Conservation Program, H. R. Forkner, county agent.

10:15 A. M.—Securing greatest returns from the 1939 A. C. Program through seeding grasses, clovers, cover crops and Italian Rye Grass, Wm. C. Johnstone, Crops Field Agent, University of Kentucky.

11:30 A. M.—Hybrid corn varieties for 1939, Wm. C. Johnstone.

12:00 Noon.

1:00 P. M.—Thirty-five Years' Soils Experimental Work Results, Prof. Geo. Roberts, Head of Agronomy Department, College of Agriculture.

3:00 P. M.—Adjournment.

Discussions on hybrid corn and the seeding of grasses and legumes crops for which credit will be given under the 1939 Agricultural Conservation Program will also be discussed at the meeting.

Mrs. M. G. Martin, of Florence, was removed to Christ Hospital, Cincinnati Tuesday of this week and will undergo a minor operation on Thursday.

HAMILTON AND HEBRON WILL TANGLE AT 8:00 P. M.—WALTON IS PICKED TO WIN FIRST PLACE.

The 33rd District Basketball tournament will get under way tonight when the Hamilton and Hebron boys tangle for the first game of the meet at 8:00 p. m. (central standard time), on the New Haven hardwood.

Walton, winner of the Boone County Conference, and undefeated by any Boone County team has been picked by many of the hardwood followers to win the tournament. However, Hebron has shown splendid form in several games recently and many basketball authorities will not predict the outcome of this meet, as all the teams are showing splendid form.

The second game of the tourney will be played tonight, Thursday at 9 p. m., when Walton and Burlington will clash. If Burlington should win this game, they probably would win the tournament, and many fans claim that the Tomcat team is the "dark horse" of the meet.

Friday at 8:00 p. m. the Florence Knights will meet the winner of the Hamilton Hebron game, and at 9 p. m. the New Haven boys will do battle with the winner of the Walton Burlington game.

In the B division Florence will play Hamilton Thursday at 7 p. m., and Walton will meet Burlington Friday at 7 p. m. The winner of the Florence-Hamilton game will play New Haven Saturday at 1:30.

Friday at 7 p. m. Walton and Burlington Reserves will play and Hebron Saturday at 2:30.

This tournament should prove interesting to the hardwood fans, as practically all teams in the district have shown flashes of tournament calibre, and we hesitate to select any team as the tournament winner.

A beautiful trophy will be presented the winner by the Union Deposit Bank.

400 ENROLLED IN 4-H CLUB WORK

TEN CLUBS ORGANIZED AND OFFICERS ELECTED—PLANS MADE FOR 4-H LEADERS' TRAINING MEET.

Four hundred Boone county 4-H club boys and girls have enrolled in club work for 1939, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Prospects are for one of the best or organized 4-H club programs in years. Enrollment in the community clubs is increasing each day.

Ten community 4-H clubs have already organized and elected their officers and leaders for 1939. They are Burlington, Florence, Hebron, Petersburg, Grant, Hamilton, Walton, Verona, New Haven and Taylorsport. Plans are made for the holding of a county 4-H leaders' training meeting at Burlington on Saturday, March 11th and the supply of project circulars and record books will be delivered members at the second series of community club meeting starting Monday, March 13th.

Every boy or girl between the ages of 12 and 18 years, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent, who agree to carry out an approved farm or home project and keep a project record book on same is eligible for membership in the 4-H club. Four-H club work is a partnership between the boy or girl and his or her parents. The members elect local adult leaders to advise with them in their community club and project group organization. There are no membership fees and project outlines and record books are supplied by the college of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. The community clubs conduct a well rounded rural improvement program under the supervision of leaders and the county Extension Service. The four H's stand for the four fold development of the head, heart, health and hands.

IS HE HUMAN?

Haven't you heard folks say, "Human nature never changes" and then turn right around and talk about how much sorrier our youth is now than in the days before the automobile? But whatever your own personal opinion regarding the issue of human nature you must admit it is a sad state of affairs that we haven't enough confidence left in our fellow man that we are surprised when a citizen makes an outstanding demonstration of kindness and applies the Golden Rule in a business deal. The story goes about the man who owns a 3 1/2 mile stretch of railroad that is desired by the city of New York. He has shocked officials by offering to sell his road to the city for what it cost him. The deal is for six hundred thousand and not five to twenty million dollars which the city officials expected him to ask. This generosity is almost unequalled and has left many a man speechless with shock. It is a compliment to human nature that a man who disdains any unexpected generosity and no inclination to bleed his fellows, is looked upon as unusual and outstanding? It may be true that the case is exceptional, but isn't it rather pathetic that we have allowed ourselves to arrive at a place where this case is out-of-the-way? None of us in this country would have blamed the owner of the railroad for making a profit, but we would have done likewise. But did we expect him to hold up the city for all he could get out of it? It isn't much of a compliment to human nature.

LIVE TO 100
Records show that more old people live in the country. This indicates the value of fresh air, light and space in which to turn around. The life span has been longer because someone else lived long in your family, may be true. You read where certain centenarians have been orphans, been ill during youth, careless in eating, have smoked and even drank. But usually these habits and conditions are altered after the age of forty. Animals live longer than their usual lifetime if fed extra rations of lime and all the vitamins. Milk supplies our lime, greens our vitamins and a word to the wise! It is found that people who live to this ripe age of 100 years have a balanced nervous system. This means to keep your blood pressure down and take things as they come. After all, do you want to live to be 100? Let him know it until we need his help. All during the year you pick up news about the good deeds of good neighbors. You hear where neighbors helped a recently widowed woman to get her threatening dog, where farm neighbors built a corn for a sick neighbor. We know of many such deeds of kindness about us, and are aware of the many acts of neighborliness shown.

GOOD NEIGHBOR WEEK?

We take it for granted that every one appreciates his neighbor, but we must neglect to let him know it until we need his help. All during the year you pick up news about the good deeds of good neighbors. You hear where neighbors helped a recently widowed woman to get her threatening dog, where farm neighbors built a corn for a sick neighbor. We know of many such deeds of kindness about us, and are aware of the many acts of neighborliness shown.

There are weeks to honor pineapple, potatoes, candy, and then comes days to honor a Mother, Father, Sweetheart. Why not put aside some time when you pay due respect and tribute to your good neighbors?

WORLD PEACE

The members of the Rotary club in this community, in common with 205,000 other Rotarians in nearly 5,000 clubs in 60 countries of the world, believe that the most solid foundation for the achievement of world peace is international understanding between men of good will. As an important and effective step in this direction, Rotary clubs through the United States have been holding Institutes of International Understanding. During the last few months a total of 70 such Institutes have been held, reaching audiences of more than 500,000. The winter series, which has just begun, will reach even a larger number of persons. The Institute movement started by Rotary clubs two years ago has proved to be of profound significance in bringing to popular attention an understanding of the relationship of world affairs to everyday life. More than 100 such Institutes are being planned for the next few months.

Each Institute has four speakers on four successive weeks and these speakers, all authorities in some particular field of international relations, address high schools during the daytime and public forums in the evenings. Their purpose is to discuss dispassionately the problems involved in international relations and to present factual material enabling hearers to have a background basis for the information of an intelligent public opinion.

NEWSPAPER ADS BEST

Some of the largest users of radio advertising—including a full-sized automobile manufacturing company—have gone off the air. It is significant, however, that not a single large advertiser ever discontinued use of newspaper advertising. Some of them have, in fact, increased their newspaper usage since the first of this year. All forms of advertising have their uses, but many have flourished for a time and died in the years that newspaper advertising has been the mainstay of commercial publicity. People may glance at a sales sign and toss them away; they may pass a billboard a dozen times and each time forget in a minute what they saw there; they may hear an announcement over the radio that appeals to them and forget all about it a moment later. But a newspaper advertisement that appeals to the reader is seldom ignored, and if the details are forgotten it is available for an additional perusal.

Read the ads in this issue of The Recorder. They too are new and important news.

LOVE OF WORK

The United States' greatest contribution to life is the conception that labor is something dignified and desirable for everyone. declares Channing Pollock, distinguished playwright, author, and publisher, in the current Rotarian Magazine. Work is its own reward, he believes, for nobody ever did anything well, or got anywhere, without joy in his job and that is as true of little jobs as of big ones. "We can have neither progress nor prosperity, neither opportunity nor democracy," says Pollock, "while any considerable number of us regard work as an enemy, but what is more to be pitied, we shall find our dignity equally lessened, and our self respect, and our pleasure in living. There are dirty jobs, dull jobs, devastating jobs, but I think there can be few, even of these, that do not give some return outside of the pay envelope," he continues. "It really must help you know that you are pulling your weight, doing your bit, and holding your place in the world—at least it must help the man whose vision hasn't been distorted."

The man who doesn't find his job too dull or too devastating isn't likely to hold it very long, the playwright says, for the majority of successful men started at jobs that may have seemed uninteresting, yet of which they were unashamed and unresentful.

"They were banking on themselves; playing a thrilling game; keeping one eye on the bolts or the washers, and the other on the gold—not necessarily material gold—at the foot of the rainbow," Pollock points out. They could say as J. M. Burrie once did, "The most precious possession I ever had—my joy in hard work."

"It is too bad, perhaps, that so many of us toiled to the exhaustion of other good things, such as enjoyment of leisure and literature and art, but I should say that wise and balanced enjoyment of labor, like wise and balanced enjoyment of leisure, is an art."

"I can't remember any good job I ever did that didn't leave me thrilled, exultant, and almost hysterically happy," he observes. "Of course there's no happiness in the other kind, though, mercifully, we don't have to work for good while doing it. But when one perseveres, and bad work becomes good—that's the thrill that, luckily, comes more than once in a lifetime."

PARAGRAPHS

There are many men who regard the international situation as upsetting to their system as a loose suspender button. Anyone who would refuse to pay his taxes because there are other fellows who don't pay theirs, wouldn't be a very helpful citizen in our country.

A patient suitor is one who waits until he is married in order to do his quarrelling. One thing noticeable about Hope she can be counted on to back on her feet and is ready to fight all over again.

There is the ever-present fear in the heart of each driver in this county, that the time may come when the gasoline tank will be so high people can't go visiting on Sundays. A miracle of today is to find the one radio program that satisfies every member of the family.

We overheard a man say that what the farmer needed was more consumers. One way to tell if we are a civilized people. Take a line standing for an hour to see a game or a movie celebrity, and see how many fist-fights there are when folks nudge for positions.

One of the best ways to see ourselves as other folks see us to stand in front of those triple mirrors when buying clothes. You won't be so self-satisfied. Give credit where credit is due. The weather man means well even if he is abrupt.

OPEN PIECE-BAG

For scraps of materials we usually have a piece-bag. A good idea is to make it of mosquito netting or a lace curtain. When you want to find a certain piece of material it can be seen from the outside and it isn't necessary to empty the entire bag.

PETER PREACHES TO GENTILES

LESSON TEXT—Acts 10:34-48.
GOLDEN TEXT—Look unto me, and be saved, all the ends of the earth; for I am God, and there is none else.—Isaiah 45:22.

"God is no respecter of persons." Sometimes one wonders whether many of us people know about that glorious attribute of the Godhead. One thing is evident, that very few care to practice this divine principle. Just now the world seems to have gone entirely berserk in its proclamation of race superiority. Along with undue and improper recognition of wealth and position, there has always been in the hearts of men a measure of prejudice against other races. These hatreds seem now to have been fanned to a flaming intolerance of such as are not of what some regard as their own superior race. The more definite this intolerance, the more unlike God people really are. Let us weigh ourselves in the balances and see if we too are found wanting.

"To Every Nation" (vv. 34-35). Peter was a Jew, and God now used a vision to teach him a much-needed lesson regarding the carrying of the gospel to the Gentiles. He was told to go and tell us remember it! God's chosen people. However, they were not chosen for their own comfort, convenience, or glory, but that they might be channels for the outflowing of God's blessing to all nations.

Cornelius was typical of those in every nation who are ready for the preaching of the gospel. He was a God-fearing, righteous man, but none the less in need of redemption. God brought this man who was ready to receive the message together with the man Peter who was prepared to preach it, and the result was salvation.

Whatever it may be that keeps us from carrying the gospel to all nations, we ought to recognize as unchristian to put it aside. It may be race-prejudice, for it still persists; but it may be an equally deadly indifference to the needs of others. Let us, like Peter, go to them and open our mouths (v. 34) to them and let them hear.

"Good Tidings of Peace" (vv. 34-48).

The death of Christ for their sins (v. 39). His resurrection from the dead for their justification (v. 40), the coming judgment for sin (v. 42), and remission of sins in His name—these are the good tidings of the message. Note how plain is the truth. Jesus has come and has brought redemption for all who will believe. Now we must choose whether we will Him to be our Judge or our Redeemer. It is a case of "either—or." Either He is your Saviour, or He will be your Judge.

God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved. He that believeth on him is not condemned; but he that believeth not is condemned already, because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God" (John 3:17, 18).

The proclamation of this message of redemption was never completed, even "while Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Spirit fell upon them all" (v. 44). Blessed interruption! Would that we might have made like it in our churches and Bible schools.

"The Holy Spirit Fell" (vv. 44-48).

Notice that He came upon "them" which heard the word" (v. 44). Book reviews, political addresses, discussion of civic or social problems will not bring the result. Forums, clubs, discussion groups, unless they have for their subject the Word of God, need not expect anything like this to happen. But preaching of the Word of God concerning the person and work of Christ, whether it be in a home (like that of Cornelius) or in the great cathedral (and thank God some of them do have such preaching), will result in some soul finding Christ, and receiving the Holy Spirit.

It is worthy of note that these believers gave evidence of their new-found spiritual life by magnifying God, obeying His word, and testifying to others. It is to the credit of Peter and his companions that they recognized the workings of God's grace in the lives of these Gentiles. May we also be quick to see, appreciate, and encourage every true gospel work, whether it be among our own people or with some other race, whether in our church or in some humble abode. "God is no respecter of persons."

Revelation Must Speak

Let Reason count the stars, weigh the mountains, fathom the depths—the employment becomes her, and the success is glorious. But when the question is: "How shall man be just with God?" reason must be silent. Revelation must speak; and he who will not hear it assimilates himself to the first devil, Cain; he may not kill a brother, he certainly destroys himself.—Henry Melville.

HISTORY—Mrs. G. E. M. suffered headaches and neckaches. Her neck ached so intensely at the base of the skull she could hardly see. Days at a time she could not get out of bed because of the severity of the pains. She read one of our ads, telling of the good work we were doing, and decided to see what we could do for her. After a very short time wearing surgical shoes, pain in the head and neck lessened till finally it disappeared entirely and she is completely free of aches and pains, she is well and happy. It is now possible for her to do her own work even when it is necessary for her to climb stepladders. Surgical shoes seemingly worked miracles for her.

COMMENT—Strain on ligaments and tendons naturally has a weakening effect upon muscles. Continued neglect of these conditions may be the cause of your aches and pains. If you are suffering aches and pains in the neck and back, and you have been unable to get relief, come in and let us see what we can do for you. If your ankles are weak and you are constantly rolling them, surgical shoes are definitely the answer to your problem.—Adv.

News

Fri. and Sat.—"Road Demons"
Sun. and Mon.—"Just Around the Corner"

Tuesday—"Dr. Kildaire"
Wed. and Thursday, March 8 and 9
—"Down in Arkansas"

How long does it take you to change a tire? Until you get over that first feeling of disgust and despair, rout the passengers out of the car, struggle with the front seat to get at the tools, probe the dark interior for jack and wrench, remove the flat, contemplate the flat, screw down the jack so it will fit under the car—there's a good ten or fifteen minutes. And then the contest with the stubborn wheel first begins!

Compare this with the swift tire change seen in "Road Demon," 20th Century-Fox's auto-racing film, second in the Sports Adventure series, which will be shown at the Gayety Theatre Friday and Saturday.

In about 30 seconds skilled mechanics switch tires, on the fast racer, driven by Henry Arthur and Tom Beck in the film, and the car is off down the speedway!

Based on what is said to be the most original story idea ever conceived for a Shirley Temple picture, "Just Around the Corner," which will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Gayety Theatre with America's Number One star surrounded by a splendid cast.

The story concerns the hilarious but happy consequences which arise when Shirley confuses a wealthy old banker (whose name happens to be "Uncle Sam" Henshaw) with the lean and bewhiskered gentleman who is the symbol of our national life.

Charles Farrell, Joan Davis, Amanda Duff (a promising newcomer), Bill Robinson, Bert Lahr and others are featured. The screen play is by Ethel Hill, J. P. Mc-Evo and Darrell Ware, from an original story by Paul Gerard Smith.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer helped Lynne Carver celebrate her 20th birthday in a party by awarding her the first leading role of her career. She plays opposite Lew Ayres in "Young Dr. Kildaire" at the Gayety Theatre Tuesday.

Miss Carver was on the role after considerable testings, during which Maureen O'Sullivan and Jean Parker were two prominent candidates. The possibility that the picture may be the first of a series indicates plenty of activity for the little Kentucky girl in the future.

Miss Carver's last appearance on the screen was in "Everybody Sing," after which she took a vacation from acting to become the bride of Nicholas Mayhew. She appeared also as "Sweetheart," "The Bride Wore Red" and "Madame X."

SANITATION NEEDED IN POULTRY RAISING

Cleanliness is a big factor in preventing or checking coccidiosis in poultry, writes Dr. T. P. Polk of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Droppings in the feed or water one way it is spread. Then it may be carried about by persons on feed sacks, water pails and poultry crates, or by animals, birds, insects and flies. Symptoms are pale beak and shanks, ruffled feathers, drowsiness and diarrhea which may become bloody. The sick chicken appears to be cold and should be supplied with more heat.

Control, says Dr. Polk, includes dry cleaning the brooder house each day. Do not use water nor antiseptics to clean the house. Keep the house dry, as moisture favors the development of the disease. Use only a small amount of litter and remove it daily.

The disease, he continues, may be prevented by raising chicks in clean brooder houses on clean ground and away from other poultry.

The brooder house should be cleaned and moved to new ground before use for chicks. This means ground that has not been used for poultry for the past two years.

Feed hoppers and drinking vessels should be so constructed that the feed and water will not become soiled with droppings and other contaminating material.

Clean the brooder house three times a week, and more frequently as the chicks become larger.

Avoid carrying the infection into the brooder house.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Stuffed Cabbage—Mix together 4 cups ground cabbage, 2 cups ground crackers or dry bread, 1 onion ground, 2 eggs (or 4 eggs yolks), salt and pepper to your taste. Form in ball and place in five or six large outside cabbage leaves. Tie up in cheese cloth. Place in boiling water and boil until done, about 1½ hours. (Putting a plate in bottom of kettle will prevent cabbage from burning). Serve with browned butter. You can add carrots or any other vegetable if desired.

AT THE JAMES

WALTON

Friday and Saturday, March 3rd and 4th—"Thanks for the Memory," with Bob Hope and Shirley Ross. The hit song of the year is now the hit picture of the year... Out of the glorious lyrics of "Thanks for the Memory" with their laughs, their heartbreaks, their comedy, their romance comes a picture which will linger in your memory as the grandest story of young folks in love ever to hit the screen.

Sunday, March 5th—"Fast and Loose," with Robert Montgomery and Rosalind Russell. The sleuthing Sloanes are back... In new adventures. Fast and furious is this rip-roaring sequel to "Fast Company." A $100,000 swindle... but leave it to the screen's gayest pair to solve them with a hundred howls for every clue.

Monday, March 6th—"Exposed," with Glenda Farrell, Otto Kruger, Herbert Mundin. Neither bribes... torture... nor gangster guns could stop her scooping camera... until it scooped up a missing jurist... who softened her tough fearless heart.

Tuesday, March 7—"Mr. Moto's Last Warning," with Peter Lorre, Ricardo Cortez, Virginia Field. Moto identified as dead... but the famous Saturday Evening Post sleuth avenges his own murder... putting his wit against a killer's cunning at the bottom of the sea.

Wednesday and Thursday, March 8th and 9th—"Jesse James" with Tyrone Power, Henry Fonda, and Nancy Kelly. The epic story of the most romantic outlaw in the history of America. He was hunted, but he was human... and to the simple folk who knew him, a victim of cruel injustice. There was one—gentle but dauntless—who flung her life away—into his arms.

Applicants For Seed Loans Now Being Received At Co. Office

Applicants for emergency crop and feed loans for 1939 are now being received at the county agent's office, by Henry R. Dicken, Field supervisor of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration. The loans will be made, as in the past, only to farmers whose cash requirements are small and who cannot obtain credit from any other source. The money loaned will be limited to the farmer's immediate and actual cash needs for growing his 1939 crops or for the purchase of feed for livestock.

Farmers who can obtain the funds they need from an individual, production credit association, bank, or other concern are not eligible for crop and feed loans from the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Section of the Farm Credit Administration. The loans will not be made to standard rehabilitation clients whose current needs are provided for by the Farm Security Administration, formerly known as the Resettlement Administration.

As in the past, farmers who obtain emergency crop and feed loans will give as security a first lien on the crop financed, or a first lien on the livestock or be fed if the money borrowed is to be used to produce or purchase feed for livestock.

Where loans are made to tenants, the landlords, or others having an interest in the crops financed or the livestock to be fed, are required to waive their claims in favor of a lien to the favor of the Farm Credit Administration.

until the loan is repaid. Checks in payment of approved loans will be mailed from the Regional Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office at 315 Pine Street, St. Louis, Missouri.

The Hebron fire department will sponsor a minstrel show at the Hebron high school auditorium, on Thursday evening March 16th. Be sure to attend this show.

A Letter

The following letter was received from William W. Aylor, who is stationed at Honolulu, Hawaii, and is a member of U. S. Submarine Detachment:

Submarine Detachment

Honolulu, Hawaii

The Boone County Recorder,
Burlington, Ky.

Dear Editor:

"I don't know any better way to express my appreciation than to write and tell you how much I am enjoying getting The Recorder here in Honolulu. All my mates call me a 'hillbilly' because they know I'm from Kentucky, but I like it, because I tell them, many a good man has come out of the 'sticks of Kentucky,' as they call it.

Several read the Recorder and laughed at names of the different localities and new heading such as Rabbit Hash, Big Bone, Owl Hollow, and etc. They wanted to know how they got such names and I explained the best I could, telling them that the most of them derived from Indian names or were historic places as Big Bone. Some didn't much believe me, so I looked in the library and found a book, "The History of Kentucky" which was presented to the library by Lieut. Martin of the U. S. Navy in 1927, his home was in Louisville, Ky. In this book I found just what I was looking for, a chapter about the finding of the prehistoric animal skeletons and how its name originated from "big bones."

This convinced them that I was telling them the truth. I told them I was born and reared near the creek called Gunpowder, and my home town was Rabbit Hash, with a population of twenty-eight when "Sheeny Craig" missed a day going to Cincinnati. They asked me then, how such names as these originated and I told them the same story my grandfather Stephens told me several years ago, about the creek washing a wagon with a barrel of powder in it, when it was past fording. The wagon belonged to an old storekeeper, whose place of business was located where Hamilton now stands. He had been in Rising Sun, getting grocers and provisions for his store when he was caught in a terrible rain. When he arrived at the crossing, someplace near where the bridge now spans the creek, near Hamilton schoolhouse, the creek was high, but he thought he could cross it and took a chance. His wagon, powder and provisions were all washed down stream, and so the name Gunpowder started. I don't remember whether my grandfather said the old merchant was saved or whether he went down with the powder.

As for Rabbit Hash, he told me the Indians had a big celebration there, lasting for days and feasting on rabbit hash, and so the name Rabbit Hash started.

Some of these "city slicker saloons" still didn't understand because they didn't know what a rabbit or hash meant.

I've done quite a lot of traveling since I joined the navy, but I still believe Kentucky has its share of pretty women. I even made a visit to Hollywood and the women here don't come up to the Kentucky girls. It's what they use on their face that makes them pretty—if you don't believe it, just call on them some time after they have washed their face.

Old shipmate Horton, from Portsmouth, Ohio, said he had always heard that Kentucky had a large supply of "fast horses and pretty women," but I told him he was behind times, it was "pretty horses and fast women now."

My mates don't kid me much on Tuesday, because I told them that was feuding day in the mountains of Kentucky and I'm never in a very good humor on that day, so I guess they took the hint.

The island of Hawaii is very beautiful and especially the hula-hula "gals" but getting the Boone County Recorder from home is much more interesting to me. So I want to again thank you for sending to me and especially thank the person that made it possible for you to send it to me.

I don't care where I go and what I may see, Kentucky will still be home, sweet home to me, and I'll see that nobody makes too much fun of it even though it is a hillbilly state.

Yours truly,
William W. Aylor U. S. N.

CRUISER-TYPE GREYHOUND TO BE ON DEMONSTRATION

Government officials, transportation and travel bureau executives, as well as the residents of fourteen European countries are to get a first hand view of a modern bus, as we know them in the United States, during April, May, and part of June according to an announcement made today by L. H. Ristow, general traffic manager of Greyhound Lines.

Leaving New York on April 3rd bound for England, as the first stopping point, will be a specially constructed cruiser-type Greyhound coach, accompanied by a driver and demonstration crew. Executives of Greyhound Lines have received in the past, innumerable invitations from European transportation agencies to send one of the buses abroad to give natives of their respective countries the type of motor coach used in this country and the trip now is the result.

The principal cities of England, Scotland, Holland, Belgium, France, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia, Germany, Poland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden will be of interest in the return trip to the United States is started.

A part of the equipment on the air-conditioned coach will be a screen and movie projector for the showing of films, depicting the many various points of interest in the United States especially those familiar to Europeans. Specially prepared literature (printed in various languages) on the San Francisco and the New York World Fairs will be taken on the coach for distribution abroad.

To choose the driver who will accompany the coach, a contest is being staged among the drivers in the various eastern regions of Greyhound Lines, each region manager to nominate one driver and from such list of probably 15 men the one with the best record for personal appearance, safe driving, mechanical knowledge, courtesy, and length of service will be chosen to drive the bus on its European tour. More than 15,000 miles of highway will be covered during the 60-day trip through Europe.

Twenty-two persons attended. Those present were Mrs. Fossett, Mrs. Ralph Cody, Mrs. Joe Berkshire, Mrs. C. F. Blankenbaker, Mrs. Mabel Sayre, Miss Stella Lohline, Mrs. Chas. Corbin, Mrs. Garnet Lucas, Mrs. Effie Herrington, Mrs. Archamie Madison, Mrs. Rufus Tanner, Mrs. Bonnie Lyck, Mrs. Helena Judy, Mrs. Geneva Arnold, Mrs. Charlotte Wilson, Miss Jane Scott, Mrs. Wm. Mrs. Sam Sleet, president of the Homemakers of Boone County gave a very interesting report of Farm and Home Week. Miss Mary Hood Gillespie home demonstration agent, was unable to be present, so Mrs. Sleet also gave the lesson on Spring Styles. Under the topic, "Preule To Spring," she gave us an idea of what the dresses, coats, shoes, purses, etc., were to be like this spring, while the topic, "Nodding To Spring" showed millinery that had us nodding approval for the men will find no opportunity to ridicule the hats this spring.

Three countries were studied at this month's meeting. Mrs. Charlotte Wilson gave a talk, her subject, France. Mrs. Ralph Stith spoke on Sweden and Miss Stella Lohline on Nyassaland.

Mrs. Mabel Sayre gave a very concise lesson on "Better Speech." We had brought to our attention the fact that the farmer's wife doesn't set a setting hen, but that she sets a sitting hen.

The Florence Homemakers are planning a St. Patrick's Day supper and entertainment, March 17, at the Town Hall. Homemakers and their friends are cordially invited to come. They are also working on a play to be given sometime in April.

The meeting will be March 24, at the Town Hall. It is a. m. The lesson will be on making Rush Bottoms on chair seats. The roll call will be "What flowers or vegetables I am going to grow this year."

GRANT MAN SHOT BY BROTHER MON.

FOLLOWING ARGUMENT AT THEIR HOME—HIP BONE IS FRACTURED BY .22 CALIBER BULLET.

Bradley Griffin, age 32, of Grant, Ky., was removed to Booth Memorial Hospital Monday to be treated for a bullet wound in the hip, inflicted by his younger brother, following an argument at their home near Grant.

According to Mr. Griffin, all the guns in the house had been locked in a trunk, but that his younger brother, Edgar, had left home the night before the shooting and had returned the following morning with a .22 caliber rifle. The younger brother stated he was going to kill his older brother, and fired one shot that passed over Bradley's shoulder. The next shot entered his leg, fracturing the hip bone.

Bradley was brought to Burlington by motorists from Kenton county who happened to be passing the home shortly after the shooting. After being examined by Dr. M. A. Yelton, he was taken to Booth Hospital, where his condition is reported not to be serious. The younger brother came to Burlington Monday afternoon and surrendered himself to Sheriff F. M. Walton. A charge of shooting with intent to kill was placed against the 22-year-old youth, and he was released on $200.00 bond. The cause of the shooting was not known definitely, as a hearing of the case cannot be held until the older brother is able to appear at a hearing.

Youth Is Arrested On Breaking Charge

A youth, giving his name as Castor Briggs, was arrested Tuesday morning by Sheriff F. M. Walton on a charge of breaking and entering the Florence Methodist church building. He gave his age as 16.

Apparently without proper food and clothing for several days, the boy told his story to officials here, thus: "I had tried for several hours to obtain lodging in service stations and garages along the highway, and had been told that I was not wanted. Having walked a long distance in the cold wind, I had to seek lodging and warmth somewhere. I first tried to sleep on the concrete steps in the rear of the church building, but after several hours became so cold that I was forced to go into the building. I used a knife to take out a glass in the rear door and in attempting to do so broke the glass."

The youth was discovered in the kitchen of the church the next morning by the janitor of the building. He had turned on the gas stove and had the room rather comfortable. He did not try to escape, but told the janitor the whole story. He stated that his mother and father were not together, and that he had no place to call home. He was thumping his way to Pikeville, Ky., where he hoped to obtain work.

He was kept in the Burlington jail for one day and night, and released to go his way.

This was one of the upsets of the tournament, as Hebron was picked as the runner-up in the tournament. Turner was high point man for Hebron with 8 markers, while Hubbard led the winners with 7 points.

In the last game Thursday night Burlington suffered defeat at the hands of the Walton boys by a score of 40 to 28. McElroy was high point man for the Walton five with 16 markers to his credit, while McCure was second with 10 for Walton. Porter and Huey for the losers scored ten and six respectively.

Walton defeated Burlington in the B division for the first game of the evening on the second night. The Walton boys chalked up 44 points while Burlington had 24. Gulley was high point man for the winners with 15, while Ransler was high point man for Walton with 14.

What was said to be the best game of the tournament was witnessed Friday night when the Hamilton and Florence five tangled in the semi-finals. The final score was Florence 30, Hamilton 32. The game was a thriller from beginning to end. Brooks led the Florence attack with 16 markers, while McCure led the Hamilton aggregation with 15 to his credit. The game ended 32 to 30, in favor of Hamilton only after a long distance telephone call had been sent to Ted Sanford, secretary of the Kentucky State Athletic Board of Control, and President O'Donnell of the same board.

The cause for the telephone calls was on account of two score books differing at the end of the game. One book showed the score tied 30-all, while the other, the official book, showed Hamilton 32 and Florence 30.

Walton defeated New Haven by a score of 42 to 16 in the last game of the tournament. McElroy again led the attack for Walton with 14 points, while Williams was high point man for New Haven with 9.

Saturday afternoon Hamilton and Hebron tangled in the B division for final honors, with Hebron winning the trophy. The score was Hebron 30, Hamilton 21.

In the finals Saturday night, Walton won the championship by defeating Hamilton 32-22, ending the tournament.

According to officials, the tournament was very successful, with large a crowd in attendance at each game.

The winners of the district tournament played Wednesday night in the regional, held at Dixie Heights. Due to our paper going to press Wednesday, we are unable to give the outcome. Walton drew Erlanger, and Hamilton drew Newport.

THE SHARECROPPER SITUATION

The problem of the sharecropper is a major issue in the very present panic of land and crop control. The southern states are those most affected by these white and Negro families who move from place to place hoping to find greener pastures and more abundant life. There are many of these moving groups who would constantly shift to other areas despite the present conditions, and the other unfortunate who would remain on one plantation if needed. One of the chief troubles that the landowner no longer needs many of them. The inroads made by the machine over the hand labor is a main issue. There will evolve from this situation some sort of solution, we pray.

There are many wise heads working on this problem of the sharecropper, and one southern newspaper has made a stride in bringing light into dark places. There were a contest started to "Plant to Prosper," a contest interesting to small landowners, sharecroppers, and tenant farmers, with prizes ranging from $450 to $4500. The idea was to continue to raise the cotton crop for the landowner, on the side, start a garden for themselves of vegetables for table and canning. Have a horse, mule, cow and pig and grow feed for them. Plant to prosper and aim for the prize! This contest started out dealing with crop planting and has affected living conditions, good citizenship and makes a more contented and happier south. There are eight states where sharecroppers have enlisted. The first year 1,800 families enrolled.

ed and the goal for 1939 is 60,000. This is a splendid movement, six years ago an idea and today a sweeping thing. It deserves cooperation and congratulations.

THEY AREN'T NEEDED

It won't be many weeks before the season for hooky is in full swing. At least this would have been true in our own hey-day. The arrival of spring brings the desire the pleasures of field and stream, street and alley, the baseball diamond needs attention and marbles are exchanged with noise and clamor. More lads are interested in angle-worms and bamboo poles than in algebra. We discuss the vanishing Indiana, the economic changes and gangster films, but what has become of the old-fashioned truant officer?

There are those minds in educational circles who insist there is not the need for the truant officer in the present day system, for school is made more interesting than it was many years ago and there is not so many youngsters want to skip it. Today they figure that there is some reason for a child to play hooky, and the trouble is usually found in the home, in the school itself or maybe it becomes a case of "being full of life." They call it maladjustment. However, these educationalists of today have replaced the long-faced truant officer, the dread of every child's heart, with a person who studies each case and remedies the cause with care and caution, rather than to scare and to force. There are few cases in Boone county where the truant officer is needed, for with the fine type of school programs and the high type of teachers employed our school keeps up with the ponds, the woods the sport and pleasures of its youth.

HELP WANTED

The attention of many folks was held by a recent picture taken in New York City where a number of women were lying on the floor asleep, awaiting their chance for a position in the health department which pays $4980 a year. There are many who would accept relief do not seek employment but this instance proved that about 175 women were interested in positions open for 12. At four o'clock in the morning of the day before that one named for the filling of applications, the first woman came to take her place. From that time on other women joined in the line. By nightfall there were 65 waiting.

This was the night before the applications were to be received! They were going to stand all night without rest or food if an official had not opened the building and allowed them to remain inside. Such is the desire for a hot toilet that beats in the breast of many a citizen.

ARE YOUR CHILDREN SAFE?

"School authorities too often feel that because they've never had a fire, they're never going to have one," writes T. Alfred Fleming of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, in the Kiwanis Magazine. "This cruel fallacy is a menace to the lives of American school children, for actually there are five school fires a day in this country. We cannot unfortunately, eliminating all of them. But we can, by efficient fire drills, get our children out of burning buildings safely."

Most fire drills, Mr. Fleming observes, "are wretchedly inadequate; some actually dangerous." He describes one school in which, when the fire bell rang downstairs pupils rushed upstairs to get their hats and coats from the cloakroom. A principal once proudly showed him a tubular shoot escape in his modern school. The chute had locked doors at the bottom—and when the janitor was found after a 20-minute search, he admitted that he had lost the keys a year before! In another school, children had to stand on a window sill and swing out three feet to reach the fire escape—and then drop 12 feet from it to the ground. And it is a queer general practice to leave crippled children in their seats during fire drills.

Mr. Fleming wishes to "convert every school official and parent to the Texas system." In that state, the study of fire hazards is included in all school curricula, and two fire drills a month are held in all schools under the direction of student committees. Various drill officers are appointed from the older pupils, and are charged with such specific duties as helping crippled children to escape, seeing that rooms are empty before doors are closed, checking on cloakroom and lavatories to see that they are vacant, and leading lines of children to safety. Here the Lone Star State has set an example that should be immediately followed by other states. America has had enough of ghastly school fire disasters.

INDEPENDENTS FAVOR INDEPENDENCE

The progressive independent merchant in this country is an excellent business man. He has come a long way since the cross-roads day of merchandising—and he's given his customers an unexcelled standard of service. He's met every general competition with success. He's been prompt to adopt methods and equipment that marked an improvement over the old. He's realized that the best way to get new business and to keep it is to give the public a better deal.

The progressive independent doesn't want special favors, legislative or otherwise. He doesn't want the law to step and burden his competitors—he's perfectly willing to take his chances, betting on his qualities of energy, efficiency and ability to pull him through. He knows too what you can't flaunt natural law by trying to prevent progress.

A short while ago the Independent Grocers Anti-Food Tax Council which represents about 50,000 independent retailers scattered over the country, went on record with a significant resolution. This resolution definitely opposed "all agitation for discriminatory tax laws." And it announced that it was preparing educational material to send to retailers, urging that they adopt similar views.

These independent grocers are to be congratulated. They know that to support unfair discriminatory legislation aimed at their competitors, or anyone else, is the most shortsighted of policies—sooner or later some other group will urge similar legislation against them. The independents have grown and prospered because they've had the brains and the ideas with which to successfully meet competition—and they don't need or desire legislative destruction of their competitors.

PULLING TOGETHER

Dr. W. I. Myers of Cornell University, recently observed that "there is a close relationship between farmer and business man. One cannot succeed without the other."

It is apparent that hard times on the farm narrows the market for the products of our factories—even as hard times in industry narrows the market for the products of agriculture. Business leaders are solidly behind any movement which promises to soundly aid the farmer, and help solve his problems. They have, for example, wisely looked with approval on the growing agricultural cooperative marketing movement, and encouraged it.

The welfare of this country depends upon all groups pulling together. Wise farmers and business men know that and work for profitable production and marketing practices.

DICTATORS COME HIGH

One of the favorite tricks-of-the-trade of the dictators is to show how they have ended unemployment and went in their countries, and to argue from this that one-man government is the way to human happiness and prosperity. The government-dominated German press, for instance, is always publishing articles about want and starvation in America, as "proof" of their theory that democracy is a degenerate and out-of-date theory of government.

In the light of that, some figures presented by Paul Mallon, representing "months of careful personal investigation, penetrating guarded dictatorial secrets" are of exceptional interest.

In Russia, according to this survey, the average worker gets $11 a week, and in Germany he gets $12 to $15. In the United States, he gets $23.32.

In Russia, the lowest paid class of workers get 3.60 and in Germany $4.25. In this country they get $4.85 (WPA minimum). And that doesn't tell half the story. The big thing of interest to the worker and where is "real wages"—that is, his pay computed in terms of what it will buy, rather than in terms of dollars, marks or rubles. And here the comparison is even more unfavorable to the industrial slaves of the dictators. A pound of steak costs a dollar or more in either Russia or Germany as against 38 cents here. A pound of coffee costs $12 in Russia and $12.50 in Germany, as against 23 cents here. A dozen eggs costs $1.26 in Russia and 72 cents in Germany, as against 44 cents here. So it goes, down the list of necessities and luxuries.

What is responsible for our world supremacy in the workers' standard of living? You can answer that in three words—the capitalist system, which encourages private enterprise. You can denounce that system all you please, but what else has brought about the industrial progress that has given us more money for less work—and has given even low paid workers things that only the favored official minority in the dictatorships can buy?

FOR PEACE

Whatever the creed of man, the recent passing of Pope Plus XI leaves a sorrowful note in the heart of any true American. This was a great work to do for peace, whose love for freedom equaled his love of religion. There have been numerous times in these last few years that there has been need for the life of the pope. He has been spared to do a great work to continue to further peace among the people of the earth. He has been termed, "The Pope of Peace," and rightly. May his successor have the concern of all faiths and of all men in his heart as did noble Pope Plus XI. We admire his attempt to join the hands of those countries out him and hope the time will come when peace will conquer in reality.

HINT TO STOUTS

Do not wear plaid dresses or ones with large set patterns of figures. If you have a fat arm don't wear puffed sleeves. Don't wear your dresses too short. Do not have too much trimming. Stout people do not look slender in satin materials. They call attention to curves. Watch your hats for these modern affairs are too extreme for most women of any weight.

PETER DELIVERED FROM PRISON

LESSON TEXT—Acts 12:5-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Prayer was made with out ceasing of the church unto God for our deliverance.

"Prayer Changes Things," says a popular modern "folk-wisdom" wrought by prayer than this world dreams of," is another much-used quotation. Still another is, "Satan trembles when he sees the weakest of God's people kneeling and praying the truth. Prayer seems to be such an interesting topic for discussion, and yet so seldom do we have it." The teaching of God's Word and the testimony of thousands of His children down through the centuries, yes, even our own experience, demonstrates that the greatest power for good that we can wield is prayer. God give us grace to use it in our daily walk and life and for His glory!

I. Prayer for a Prisoner (v. 5).
The members of the early Church knew what to do with their problems and troubles. They prayed. The same solution is available today. Whatever else we may do by way of planning and working, it must follow prayer if we are to succeed. We really can do anything else until we have prayed.

Troubles may be a blessing if they drive us to our knees. Peter was in jail for the gospel's sake. Prayer had been made for his deliverance, and yet the last night had come and he was still not free. However, his friends prayed on. God had given them faith to believe and the conviction that they should continue to pray for him. Under such circumstances we must never cease to pray, even though the very "zero hour" has come. "Man's extremity is God's opportunity."

II. Deliverance by God (vv. 6-10).
God does answer prayer. Some people are so busy with their own lives that they believe that prayer is merely a subjective exercise, a sort of spiritual exercise, which does the individual who prays certain good, but does not reach God or change things. How would they know? What happened to Peter, and the hundreds of thousands of other definite prayer answers throughout the centuries?

The answer in Peter's case was so remarkable that even he thought he was only dreaming. Apparently God gave him persecuted servant's sleep that night, while he kept Peter's friends alert in prayer. But when Peter found himself outside the prison he knew something had happened.

There are many interesting things to note in this incident. Observe that what Peter could do for himself God did not do, but what Peter could not do, God's angel did. Note also that when God works, He spiritually unlightens knowledge nothing of it. The guards did not know what had happened until morning. Consider also that the angel took Peter as far as the open street, then left him to himself. God may meet a special need by miraculous intervention, but that does not mean that from then on we are to live by constant miracles. There are many practical and precious spiritual lessons which we may learn from these verses.

III. Results of Answered Prayer (vv. 11-17).

God does not answer prayer or perform any of His mighty works simply to make people marvel or to add to someone's comfort. It is true that He does thus manifest His loving consideration for us, and that men do marvel at His greatness, but there are other purposes in the workings of His grace and power.

In this case the first result was the freedom of His witness. He had been in prison and that was for God's glory; now he was to be free, and that too was to be for His glory. Then, His deliverance was a great testimony, not only to those who were praying in the upper room, but to God's people down through the ages. Answered prayer is one of the great testimonies to the Christian faith.

Fellowship resulted from Peter's liberation. He went at once to meet with his fellow believers. Although he did not tarry long with them, he did share with them his remarkable experience, and admonished them to tell the others. "God has done something for you, share the good news with your brethren."

Service also resulted from this answer to prayer. Peter was not delivered that he should go about the city boasting that he was too strong for Herod's jail. Nor was it merely that he might go from place to place to lecture on his unusual experience. He was set free to go about his normal life of witnessing for Christ. We are "saved to serve." The normal expression of a life in Christ should be service for Him. God delivers us from trouble, sorrow, even death, that we may serve Him.

A CLEANING TIP

To remove spots from wall paper and window shades, fill a small cheesecloth bag with cornmeal and rub the soiled surface. There is often a large grease stain on the wall where a couch has rubbed or where heads have rested. This can often be removed by the use of blotting paper and a hot iron. The heat draws grease through the blotting paper.

Letter Presented Fiscal Court By John L. Vest

The following letter was presented to the fiscal court at their monthly meeting held in Burlington Tuesday, and was written by John L. Vest in behalf of the U. S. 25 Highway Association. The letter follows:

Walton, Kentucky
March 7, 1939

To the Fiscal Court of Boone County: Gentlemen: On January 8, 1939, there appeared in the Kentucky editions of all Cincinnati newspapers an announcement to the effect that U. S. Highway No. 25 would be relocated and built as a super highway running south from Sandfordtown, passing through Kenton County approximately midway between the present U. S. Highway No. 25 and Kentucky Highway No. 17, thus missing Boone County entirely.

Within a short while following this announcement, meetings of various citizens of Kenton, Boone and Grant counties were held and at a meeting held at Florence on January 31, 1939, an organization styled "U. S. 25 Highway Association of Northern Kentucky" was formed, and the undersigned was elected as its President.

Prior to this meeting a committee of three, Hon. Simon M. Billiter of Covington, Hon. R. L. Vincent, of Williamstown, Kentucky, and the writer went to Frankfort and discussed with Mr. Cutler, Chief Highway Engineer of Kentucky, proposed reconstructed highway. At that meeting the committee maintained that the present general alignment of U. S. Highway No. 25 should be retained, making such changes only as approved modern engineering standards rendered imperative.

Various reasons why no radical changes should be made have been published in the newspapers in the form of resolutions passed by this organization, and these resolutions are already familiar to each member of this Court. Copies of these resolutions were mailed to the Governor of Kentucky, the Highway Commissioner of Kentucky, the Federal Engineer of Highways in Kentucky, the Chief Highway Engineer of Kentucky, and the Advisory Commission of the Fifth District of Kentucky.

In a letter received from the Chief Highway Engineer in answer to our communication forwarding these resolutions, Mr. Cutler says in part:

"Dear Mr. Vest: I wish to acknowledge receipt of your letter of February 4th, and also the copy of resolution passed by the citizens of Kenton, Boone, and Grant counties, urging that in the reconstruction of U. S. 25 the present general alignment through Erlanger, Florence, Walton, Crittenden, Dry Ridge, Williamstown, and Georgetown, be followed, and enumerating various reasons why the present alignment of U. S. 25 should be followed.

"Of course, if we could get the right of way necessary for a first class highway along the present alignment we would have no excuse for leaving this alignment for another, even if the other were considerably better. We appreciate very much the arguments presented by you. What we have felt, after a considerable study of the situation, is that it would be impossible for the local people to furnish sufficient right of way to build a line that the traffic on that route deserves."

From the foregoing excerpt, it is manifest that the question of rights of way constitutes a very essential part of the successful failure in the continued maintenance of the present alignment of U. S. 25.

The question of rights of way is one over which this Court has exclusive jurisdiction and it is for this reason, that I, for and on behalf of the Association of which I am President, ask that this Court favorably consider the question of obtaining the necessary rights of way to warrant the retention of the present alignment with necessary changes.

To place the newly reconstructed highway literally upon the present alignment is, of course, conceded by all to be impractical from an engineering standpoint, as standards of construction have kept pace with the accelerated speed of modern automobiles. These necessary changes will, of course, necessitate additional rights of way, some of which may be donated, and some of which will have to be procured by purchase of the necessary land.

In order that individual members of this Court may feel justified in the expenditure of what might be thought by some of their constituents to be unnecessary and even perhaps unjustified and extravagant spending, permit me to call your attention to some statistical information, which may have escaped your observation, and which when called to the attention of some of your constituents who might otherwise oppose the procurement of the necessary rights of way, will convince the entire population of Boone County that the procurement of the necessary rights of way, at the most economical price possible is not unwise spending, but on a last analysis is sound business and a wise investment for the future.

Let us appraise the facts as they really exist. The contemplated highway when completed, so far as Boone County is concerned, will lie wholly in Florence and Walton precincts and some citizen or taxpayer living in those parts of the county remote from these precincts may believe that the present U. S. 25, having been built, that further expenditures in these two precincts are unwarranted.

With the assistance of our efficient Tax Commissioner, I am able to state that in the years set out below Florence and Walton precincts have paid and will pay on the real estate and tangible personally subject to county taxation the following percentages of all county taxes, viz:

1929—33% plus.

1939—36% plus.

The C. N. O. & T. P. Railway lying wholly within Florence and Walton precincts and that part of the L. & N. R. lying in Walton precinct contributes slightly in excess of ten (10%) per cent of all county taxes, so it will readily be seen that for the year 1939 these two precincts (Florence and Walton) will pay of one half of all the taxes paid in Boone County, the total being a little over 47%.

Careful consideration should therefore be given the question of rights of way rendered necessary by such changes in the alignment of U. S. 25 as modern engineering standards render necessary.

One other statistical fact should be brought to your attention. If these necessary rights of way be not acquired the road will be removed entirely from Boone County, and this in my judgment will materially affect the future of Boone County when considered as a whole from an economic standpoint. My reason for making this statement is that during the period from 1934 to 1939 the combined assessed valuation of Florence and Walton precincts (through which

U. S. 25 passes) have increased from $3,027,145.00 to $3,321,500.00, or an increase of $294,355.00 an average of almost $60,000.00 per year. If the remaining precincts had increased their total assessments correspondingly, U. S. 25 might not be considered an asset of marked advantage. But as a statistical fact the total assessed valuation of the remainder of the county has decreased from $5,957,529.00 in 1934 to $5,849,945.00 for the current year or a decrease of $107,574.00, an average of a little more than $21,000.00 per year.

If it may be assumed that the reconstruction of U. S. 25 as a divided four-lane highway along its present alignment will have the effect for the next ten years to continue to increase the assessed valuation of Florence and Walton precincts at the same rate prevailing for the past five years, this will add to Boone County's tax duplicate more than a half million dollars, and while the present prevailing tax rate is applied to that increased assessment it will produce more than $3,500.00 per annum additional taxes to the amount now collected. Of course, it can not be definitely stated that such an effect will follow, but I future except by the past.

On behalf of United States 25 Highway Association of Northern Kentucky, I ask that this Court accept this communication, and that such such publicity as this Court may deem proper, in order to elicit the opinion of citizens and taxpayers from all parts of the county, so that at a meeting of this Court to be held in April of this year a definite course may be formulated and promulgated looking to the acquisition of such rights of way as may become necessary for the reconstruction of U. S. 25, if and when reconstructed along its present general alignment.

In closing permit me to bring to the attention of this Court that in the campaign of 1926, when the present existing bond issue was carried, and when it was then thought that U. S. 25 was the "last word" in road construction, and it was then thought that Florence were both "finished" so far as roads were concerned that the vote in Florence precincts on that bond issue were 250 for and only 214 against and only 19 against.

The people of Boone County are eminently fair on all propositions and when it becomes properly understood that the acquisition of the needed rights of way is a problem for Boone County as a whole and not that of Florence and Walton, the entire people of Boone County will be approved by all citizens of the County in the same ratio as that in which Florence and Walton voted on the bond issue for the remainder of the county.

With kindest personal regards to each member of this Court, and with an abiding faith that ultimately a correct solution of this pressing problem will be had, I am, Very truly yours,

JOHN L. VEST,
President.

AT PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT

The normal heart, you know, beats about seventy-two times a minute and pumps about six ounces of blood with each beat. Now, in fast walking, or at the rate of four miles an hour—which is how fast you should walk to do you some good—you'll find the normal heart will INCREASE its beat ten times to the minute, pumping six ounces of blood at each beat, gives sixty ounces per minutes or 3600 an hour, which is 225 pounds. You can easily see that 225 ADDITIONAL pounds of blood pumped DAILY through your veins means just that much more life to your whole body.

There's no use of my telling you to get out and walk if you are having trouble with your feet, because I know you don't do it, BUT—I tell you how to get rid of those aching, paining feet, first—there's nothing to keep you from walking every day and benefitting your health by this word.

It has also been found that millions suffer without knowing the reason why—these headaches, those leg pains, and even sleepless nights may be caused by the shoes you are wearing.—Adv.

Gaiety Theater News

Fri. and Sat.—"Submarine Patrol" Sun. and Mon.—"Thanks for the Memory"
Tues., Wednesday, Thursday, March 14, 15, 16—"Sweethearts"

The never-told-before drama of the heroic "Splinter Fleet" climaxes John Ford's Award-winning career in "Submarine Patrol," the film Darryl F. Zanuck produced for 20th Century-Fox and which will be shown at the Gaiety Friday and Saturday, to be hailed as one of the greatest pictures of the year.

The sub chasers are a branch of the Navy that have received comparatively little notice and yet saw some of the most exciting action of the Great War. Manned by the strangest crew of civilian odds and ends ever to board a fighting ship, the "Splinter Fleet" provides a powerful dramatic theme worthy of Director Ford's robust, forthright technique.

Richard Greene, Nancy Kelly, Preston Foster, George Bancroft, Slim Summerville, John Carradine, Joan Valerie, Henry Armetta, Warren Hymer, Douglas Fowley, J. Farrell MacDonald and Maxie Rosencorn are included in the stellar cast.

They touched your heartstrings when they sang "Thanks for the Memory"

Memory" in "Big Broadcast of '38" After they had sung it, the country took up the words and sang it too. "Thanks for the Memory" is a story of motor trips, and burning lips and burning love and prunes. How lovely it was. They refer to Bob Hope and Shirley Ross, whose rendition of that song inspired the new romantic comedy, "Thanks for the Memory," which will be shown at the Gaiety Theatre Sunday and Monday.

In this new comedy, Bob and Shirley are seen as newlyweds, struggling to make their way in the world despite their friends, who think that every night is party night at the home of the newly married couple. As the story unfolds, their friends make it difficult indeed for Bob to settle down and write the real American novel in addition to his daily work as a salesman.

A new Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy and a new warmth, color and comedy spirit in musicals makes itself manifest in "Sweethearts," fifth co-starring musical of the famous singing team, which will be shown at the Gaiety Theatre Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, March 14, 15, and 16th.

Technicolor has given both singers a more vivid personality, while the up-to-the-minute story devised for them by Dorothy Parker and Alan Campbell from the Victor Herbert opera provides the stars with comedy characterizations which should win them legions of new followers.

In "Sweethearts" Miss MacDonald and Eddy portray two Broadway musical comedy stars who are husband and wife in private life. Their quarrels, temperamental outbursts and jealousies, together with their joint attempt to outwit a producer who wants to prevent them from accepting an offer from Hollywood, make for a comedy which is rich in laughter and at the same time replete with beautiful and original song and dance presentations.

SPORTSMEN TO GIVE BANQUET

AT BURLINGTON SCHOOLHOUSE SATURDAY, MARCH 25TH—APPLICATIONS TO BE RECEIVED FOR QUAIL.

Sportsmen of the Boone County Fish and Game Protective Association will complete plans Friday night of this week for a banquet to be held at the Burlington schoolhouse on Saturday, March 25th. This meeting will be open to the public.

Major Brown, director of the State Fish and Game Division, of Frankfort will be the principal speaker, and in the event that he is unable to attend, he has promised to send Steve Wakefield, his assistant, who is a splendid speaker.

This meeting is being held for the purpose of explaining to the landowners, counties upon which they will be able to obtain an allotment of the 400 quail to be sent Boone County April 1st.

In an article carried a few weeks ago in this paper, it was stated that no birds would be placed on posted land. We have been informed that this statement was incorrect, and that birds would be placed on posted land, provided that the land is not closed entirely to the hunters. If landowners will comply with the state law, those who have posted their farms will be able to receive an allotment.

The law states that hunters must obtain written permission from the landowner before he hunts on said landowner's farm.

Many farms in our county were posted last year, but for only for the purpose of keeping undesirable characters off the farmer's land. Approximately 90 percent of the farmers having land posted last year allowed hunting, whenever the hunter asked for permission.

Committees are being chosen from various sections of the county to distribute the birds, and an equal distribution is assured. The points in distribution shall be, that the birds be placed where there is plenty of food, cover and water.

Farmers in this county may fill out applications blanks at this meeting for the number of quail they would like to have distributed on their farm.

According to Major Brown, the club will receive each allotment of quail April 1st, and each allotment will be distributed to the communities will distribute the birds to farms where applications have been made. Each landowner receiving birds will be required to sign a receipt for the number received by him.

The banquet will be served by the ladies of the Burlington P.T.A. at the schoolhouse at 7:30 p. m. Tickets are now in the hands of the following committeemen: Barnett Franks, Allen Gaines, of Walton; Dr. C. E. Unio, Chas. W. Riley, Hebron; Justin Dolph, Petersburg; Dave Gaines, Petersburg; Courtney Kelly, Burlington; Wilson Conner, Rabbit Hash; Lillard Scott, Grant; Lennie Busby Florence; Everett Jones Hamilton; and Rod Hughes, Verona.

SCOUTS APPEAL FOR DONATIONS

GUNPOWDER DISTRICT COMMITTEE EXPLAIN OBJECTS OF SCOUT MOVEMENT—VOLUNTEER WORKERS BUSY.

The Gunpowder District Committee, Boy Scouts of America, will open a county-wide drive for sponsoring members on Monday, March 13th, and end on March 27th.

Scouting is a character building and citizenship training program for boys and cannot be self-supporting without being prohibitive to boys who need it most, thus it becomes a civic obligation, and the district committee, Kirtley Cropper, chairman, solicits the support of all citizens for this worthy cause.

Volunteer workers are canvassing the communities and it is urged that these workers be given a hearing and all the financial aid possible, realizing that one is helping to build better citizens of our youth. Mr. Daniel D. Schwab, finance chairman of the Northern Kentucky Council, of which our district is a part along with seven other districts throughout ten counties in this part of the states, states: "Surely no finer or more workable code of conduct was ever devised for boys than the Boy Scout movement. Service to God, country, and fellow human beings, the will to make and keep themselves physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight; these are the fundamental things in Scouting, underlying a program of worthwhile activities, and progressive practical instruction... such training during a boy's formative years must produce God-fearing responsible citizens that protect our communities in the years to come."

Local funds raised will be used locally in supporting the present Scout units through service and training rendered by a professional field executive who shall devote his time to extending the Boy Scout movement throughout the district and aid in organizing new Scout units in the district. Leaders for these Scouts will be trained secretarial service, dealing with keeping records, providing postage and literature will be maintained along with selection and enlistment of new leaders, organizing new troops, etc., maintaining present units and providing transportation for field service. A year round program of activities and outdoor programs will be provided for the local Scouts and new leaders along with the present will be trained in given service to boys through the district.

Local workers are as follows: Robert Core, E. M. Poston, Rev. R. Lee James and J. Kirtley Cropper, all of Burlington.

ARE STRICTLY VOLUNTARY—COOPERATORS WILL RECEIVE BENEFIT PAYMENTS FOR NOT EXCEEDING ALLOTMENTS.

Growers the past week were notified of their 1939 Agricultural Conservation Program allotments are advised that these allotments are strictly voluntary and that by cooperating, they will receive benefit payments for not exceeding allotments and for carrying out soil building practices.

Considerable misunderstanding as to allotments has been experienced by growers, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. The tobacco allotments are based on the 1938 acreage grown and adjusted with the 1938 allotments and an approximate 14.6 per cent adjustment for the entire Burley belt. This means that in practically every case the growers' tobacco acreage allotment is slightly below that of last year. This as a reduction so far as the program is concerned may be of good reason in that the 1938 allotted acreage, with below average yield produced several million pounds more than the amount consumed or a surplus. The allotted acreage this year should not produce a surplus of pounds.

Tobacco growers may still grow as many acres as grown last year in most instances and secure as much payment. For example—a grower last year was allotted 3 acres and grew 2.9 acres. This year he was probably allotted 2.8 acres and with an average of 2000 lbs. per acre. The grower would receive 9.8 cents per pound times 2600 lbs. or $25.28 tobacco payment. He may grow this 10 per cent excess of his allotment or 2.9 acres again this year and still receive $14.50 tobacco payment plus the soil building allowances and other payments. In other words, the deduction is very small, yet growing 10 per cent in excess of the allotment, but is four times greater if the allotment is exceeded by more than 10 per cent.

Growers are also being notified this week of the general depletion of crop acreage allotments (corn, oats, wheat, etc.). There is no payment on the acreage of these general depleting crops and any growers may produce 20 acres total, or the allotment set up for them if it is in excess of this amount. There is a deduction of $5.00 per acre for exceeding the allotment, or 20 acres whichever is the larger.

Farmers that grew an average of 3 acres or more of truck crops in 1938 and 1937 will have notices of special truck crops allotments for their farms. These farms will receive $1.50 per acre for each acre in the allotment but are subject to $20.00 per acre deduction in payments if the allotment is exceeded. The ACP committeemen are planning to hold a series of community meetings in the near future. The committeemen will meet with each grower and discuss with him how his allotments are calculated and outline ways of getting maximum benefits from the program.

CCC Renders Good Service To Farmers

The CCC camp at Walton has been able to render many Boone county farmers a splendid service in planning and soil improvement according to H. R. Forkner, county agent.

Mr. Ward T. Darnell, superintendent of the camp, states that the organization can assist approximately sixty new farms this year. Certainly every farmer who thinks he might be interested in the CCC service should contact the Walton camp, Phone Walton 104, and talk with Mr. Darnell, Mr. Redmond or other helpers on just how they may be of assistance. The camp has introduced in the county several new ideas on soil conservation, including strip cropping, crop land fencing and etc. New interest has also been created in fence construction which is one of the greatest livestock needs in the county.

MAKING FARMING PAY

Two years ago an Ohio business man began an experiment dealing with making farms pay if farm boys were properly trained. This manufacturer from Ohio felt his plan of selecting twenty young men from 18 to 23 years of age, all anxious to own and operate his own farm with government and private colonization, would make farming pay its way. Each boy lives in a dormitory, studies production of farm products and cattle feeding under direction of experts. Each boy is paid a weekly wage. The second year they re-ceive tracts of land, own homes but still get a good salary. Ten new youths were added to this "back to the farm" movement, each year. The third year they are permitted to lease 80 acres and can purchase the land later on.
They are encouraged to market their products cooperatively. This attempt has been in working order for two years and only one boy has left the farm. One must bear in mind that the success of the movement so far is due to the fact that these lads are selected from farm families. They come from homes where farming is inherited, where love of the soil, putting up with hardships, struggling for a paying farm, has been in-bred. The idea of taking a boy who knows nothing about farming, who has been raised in the city has no training and instruction regarding planting, without the desire to be a farmer, without the deep respect and regard for the land, is where colonization has failed in most cases. We hope that this gesture to try to make farming pay and to educate the youthful farmers will succeed.

FAIR WARNING

There comes at this time a warning concerning the employment situation at the New York World's Fair. There will be very few jobs for the young boys who come from all points of the country, hoping to get employment. Of course there will be openings for soda counter clerks, hotel page boys and so on, but there are more than enough unemployed youths in the Metropolitan area to take care of these openings. The barest living expenses during the Fair will be from $12 to $15 a week. For a boy who will not heed these words of wisdom, if such there be in Boone county, it is advised that a chap should bring enough money for one month of job seeking, and fare back home!

SIGNS OF SPRING

Winter is still with us, and heavy in many places, but the seed catalogs are beginning to find their way to many a dining room table.
The illustrations of spring hats and printed dresses caused many a thrill to shake the feminine form. There comes the annual news regarding the baseball training camps, the increased fitness or slipping of some hero of the diamond who practices under southern sun. Along about this time of year those winged creatures start making preparations toreturn to their northern homes and start house-building. Housewives in Boone county start getting cleaning implements in order and laundering the cloths for window-washing and the cleaning of woodwork. Winter snows and colds begin to give way to signs of future garden spading and house painting. Spring is sweet! The smell of earth after the shower, the sight of a violet and anemone warms the coldest heart. The picture of a rake is more inviting than that of a coal shovel. The air of spring replaces the odor of furnace smoke and we are jubilant that March is here and spring is not far from us.

THE UMBRELLA MAN

The appearance of Neville
Chamberlain, with his ever-present umbrella clutched in his hand, causes us to remind the citizens of this county that we don't see so many of these umbrellas around town as we used to see. You recall the old days when the General stood in each hall and are still used in some homes but more likely to be found in an attic or antique shop. So many folks today walk in the rain and shine, bareheaded, that the umbrella is not so popular. A Georgia town repealed a dollar-a-day license fee from the umbrella repairman. The main reason was because no councilman owned and used an umbrella or had a neighbor who carried one.
They decided the repairman de-

MOTORING MANNERS

Did you ever stop to wonder what driving a car does to most motorists? We are alluding to their conduct as gentleman or as ladies. There seems to be something about getting behind the steering wheel of an auto that brings out our worst nature and the most docile and gentle of us turn animal. The average driver assumes a rather hostile air concerning the motorist who tries to pass him. The kindest fellow on foot can be the nastiest when behind the wheel. Haven't you heard a driver remark that the other fellow doesn't know how to drive and should lose his license? Some of the sweetest-faced girls can work the meanest sort of foul when crossed by another motorist.
You can meet one of these ladies at a gathering and find her polite, cordial and friendly, but meet her on the road in an auto, and she acts like a life-long enemy. The quickest-mannered people in a parlor often develop into the nation's loudest horn-blowers. What causes such a condition? We can't explain it, but look out for it!

DO IT NOW

Why wait until spring cleaning time is upon you housewives in this county to do some of the odds and ends of jobs that might as well be done now while you have more time to do them? It isn't necessary to wait until the windows are so dirty that painting is possible to open windows partially and the air from top and bottom of the window will dry your painted article during this early month.
There are various patching jobs needed attention which ought not to be put off until later. Look to your hardware and your plumbing demands! Your neighbors will marvel at your using your time to such good advantage, and when spring cleaning does come to your house, you will be mightily glad these other small duties are out of the way.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

By David M. Porter

It has been my privilege during the past few years to know a statesman of the real gentleman and in every sense a man.
"Politics" is a game of subterfuge.
Often in the heat of the combat, it is hard to follow the ethics of the game of life.Custom has made most politicians adopt tactics for which they would be ashamed outside their political life. But this custom has not affected Hubert Meredith, who filed for renomination for Attorney General last week.I am printing here a private letter written by General Meredith to the members of his staff shortly after he announced his candidacy.
This letter was not written for publication, nor is it a mere political gesture. It was with much surprise that General Meredith learned that the news commentators of three big radio stations appraised him in his stand and read excerpts from this letter in their newscast recently. Because they have already done this, I feel at liberty to give you this letter.
Let me emphasize the thought that the work of this office is a thing apart and wholly unconnected with my proposed race for re-election. There is no relation between the two propositions and they must be kept entirely distinct.
The race must not interfere in the remotest degree with the carrying on of the business of the office."Let it be distinctly understood that each of you is entirely free to vote as you please and support the candidates of your choice. I have no desire to influence you in these matters. I feel that you and all others should be accorded the perfect right to do your own voting. I write especially to emphasize the fact that the cogulation of your political employment will not be made dependent upon the way you vote. I write at this time in order to set your minds at rest upon this proposition. Let me tell you in all sincerity if you see fit to vote and work against me, you will never be discharged on that account. I could never retain myself respect if I should be guilty of using a job in an effort to coerce someone to support me.
If others connected with the administration who might have something to say about your future should be more exacting with you, you may be sure that I will understand and that we shall always continue to be good friends, unless you will it otherwise."

Lesson for March 19

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and arranged by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.PETER EXHORTS TO CHRISTIAN
LIVINGLESSON TEXT—1 Peter 3:13-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—But as for which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation.—1 Peter 1:15.Christians are not only "the called and chosen," but are also "called saints" (Rom. 1:6, 7). Peter had the same thing in mind when he said (in v. 9 of our lesson) says that we "are thereto called." Let us remember that when we are tempted to say that we "do not profess to be saints," "Dr. James Denney once remarked how odd it would look to see in the New Testament the statement, 'I don't pretend to be a saint.' It would be tantamount to saying, 'I do not take the call of God very seriously and I do not profess to live up to it.' When God calls, our answer is not a matter of indifference and . . . not a matter of presumption. It is not a life for which we volunteer, or on which we adventure our own notions or wishes. We have to carry through our own resources; it is a life for which we have a divine summons, and that summons is to live as the followers of Christ (a testimony). All believers are called to live a consistent, powerful, useful Christian life, and God makes such a life possible.I. Living for Christ (v. 8-12).
To live for Christ one must be born again into the position of a true believer. Peter was not so foolish as to urge that his readers try to live a Christian life without first being born into the family of God. He therefore lays a foundation for his exhortations by discussing in the early chapters of his letter the position of the believer. Then he gives specific instructions to certain groups, leading up to the general plea for Christian life and testimony.1. Among brethren (v. 8). Knowing what Christ has done for us, it ought well to be assumed that all of us are brothers and sisters. We are one another and do nothing but that which would promote Christian fellowship. But human nature prevails even in the Church, and sometimes displays a selfishness which Hence we need to consider this instruction of Peter that we cultivate unity, sympathy, and love among the brethren. Observe that this is not just a suggestion, but a command to take or leave. It states our obligation to one another as Christians. Whatever others may do or say, let us be clear that we have obligations to one another as Christians. Let us with unbelievers (v. 9-11).
God has called us to live peaceably with all men. We will not cure evil by returning for it more evil.
If our ungodly neighbors or fellow workers mistreat us by word or deed, we are not to retaliate in kind. We are to control our tongues —how much we need to learn that lesson. We are not to be tricky and deceitful, not to look for a fight, but to seek peace.3. For our own good (v. 12). What blessed assurance we find here for the believer. The eyes of the Lord are upon both the good and the evil in the world. He knows. Consider also the promise of "blessing" in verse 9, of seeing "good days" in verse 10, the assurance of peace in verse 11. It is not only honoring to God, but good for us to live as Christians.

II. Suffering for Christ (v. 13-18).

Peter was writing to those who were bearing bitter persecution because they followed Christ. Perhaps some were tempted to say then as they do now, "If there really is a God, if Christianity amounts to anything at all, certainly believers would not be permitted to suffer at the hands of enemies of Christ." Let us be clear that being a Christian in no way exempts us from the common experiences of humanity, nor does it assure us that we will not have to bear persecution and suffering. But (and here is a point of greatest importance), we are able to meet such difficulties in the name of Christ without fear or discouragement, for God is with us.1. Not afraid (v. 13, 14). The martyr spirit has not died out in the earth, and there are those in our day who stand unafraid before dictators and rulers who would destroy them because of their loyalty to Christ. "Be not afraid."2. Not discouraged (v. 15-17).
The one who knows God's Word (and every Christian ought to know it) can give answer (v. 15) concerning his faith. Note that if we are punished for our own wrongdoing we may well be depressed, but if we meet persecution with a clear conscience (v. 16) we need feel no discouragement.3. Not alone (v. 18). The path may be dark and difficult, but one thing we know, our Leader, Christ, walked an even darker and more desolate road. He it is who is now with us, yes, in us. Remember that "Christ also hath once suffered" (v.
18) and go on your way in victory.CONSTANCE CHURCH OF

There is a natural law constantly at work in the tissues of the human body. We must understand that bone, muscle and nerve consist of millions of ever changing tiny bodies called cells. These cells are held together with the tissue fluids and substances of the body.

Therefore bone, muscle and ligament respectively share the influence of this law, that constant tension causes wasting especially in the feet when the body weight which they carry about and support is not evenly distributed and balanced throughout the twelve major bones of the foot framework.

If ligaments are stretched, due to long and careless standing especially those which hold the weight-supporting and key bones together, these ligaments finally yield in about the fifth or sixth year to strain and abuse, and pull away from the bone attachments.

The rest which the night affords is not enough to counteract continuous strain during the day.

This same law holds true of the muscles and tendon attachments of the feet which lift the body weight on the metatarsal heads or pivots. On the other hand, constant pressure causes wasting of tissue.

If the muscles do not hold the weight-bearing joints of feet in proper dovetailing and interlocking action, these joints become deformed, misshaped and deformed because of the pressure of the body weight upon their point surfaces.

When we consider that we drive hundreds of tons of aggregate weight into the twelve major bones of each foot every day that we live it is easily understood why feet degenerate.

Can you be well with unhappy feet? Those headaches, those backaches, those leg pains may be caused by the shoes you are wearing—Ad.

WEEK'S BEST RECIPE

Cheese Roll Biscuits—2½ cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon soda; 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ cup lard, 1 cup buttermilk, 1 cup American cheese (grated). Mix and sift dry ingredients. Cut in lard. Add buttermilk, mixing lightly with a fork. Turn dough on floured bread board, knead lightly and roll. Sprinkle grated cheese over dough and roll up like jelly roll. Cut in three-fourth-inch slices. Place, cut side up on well greased baking sheet and bake in oven preheated to 425 degrees. Cook for 40 to 45 minutes. Makes two dozen biscuits.

NOTES ON EGGS

Eggs do not need coldest spot in refrigerator. If eggs are properly cooked, they lose none of their food value. Cook slowly at moderate, even heat. Do not cook soft-boiled eggs over fire. Put them in pan of water that is boiling hot, remove pan from fire and let eggs stand from 8 to 10 minutes. Never leave egg whites after being beat stiff. They will flatten and beat up again. To keep yolks and whites intact when poaching or when serving whole, break each one separately into a small dish or saucer before putting into cooking pan.

A GOLF GAME

Use a medium-sized round rubber ball for a golf ball, a short pole or walking stick or yardstick can be used for a golf club. Each play has only three strokes. One player at a time "tees up" and in the middle of the floor is played a wastepaper basket or a large pail. By gently striking the ball he attempts to get it inside the basket. Those who succeed in this getting the inflated ball inside without using more than three strokes, wins the prize.

A MATTER OF MATTRESS

Care for your mattress in order to assure yourself of sleep and service for the mattress, itself. There should be a changing of its position on the bed, every week. One week the top should be shifted to the bottom and the second week turn the mattress over. This means a complete turning every 14 days. Air your mattress every two weeks. All that is necessary is to open windows before you make the bed.

SOME GOOD ADVICE

If your vision is not normal, or you suspect eye-strain, let us give your eyes a careful examination. It may prevent more serious trouble in the future.

Program Conductors

Of Homemakers' Clubs

Hold Meet Last Week

Program conductors of local clubs had a meeting last week in the office of Mary Hood Gillaspie, home demonstration agent. Mrs. D. M. Pope, county program chairman, presided at the meeting. She asked for reports of the local conductors.

Leaders reported that the Better Speech outline is being studied in eleven of the clubs of Boone county. They also reported that their members were enjoying the study of countries belonging to the Associated Country Women of the World. Most of the clubs have reports of three foreign countries at each monthly meeting. Written reports, accompanied by interesting pictures and maps are made into a scrapbook.

Program conductors decided to have a county-wide scrapbook contest at their annual meeting next fall. This contest will conclude the study of the Associated Country Women of the World.

Children Warned Not

To Fly Kites Near Electric Lines

The advent of the kite-flying season brought a warning from Manager R. M. Hall of the power company about flying kites near electric power lines.

Every year a number of children lose their lives as result of this practice," said Mr. Hall, "in spite of the fact that the hazards have been pointed out repeatedly in power company advertisements."

He urged parents to cooperate in preventing tragedies of this kind by instructing their children as follows:

1. Never use wire for a kite string or kite frame.

2. Never use tinseel or metallic string.

3. Never use metallic cloth for a kite tail.

4. Never fly kites with wet string or in wet weather.

5. Never climb poles to remove kites entangled in wires.

6. Never poke sticks to dislodge kites from wires or try to pull them down by their tails.

7. Never fly kites in streets because of the automobile hazard.

8. To be absolutely safe, always fly kites in open fields away from electric lines, roads and highways.

"If a child follows the practices of flying kites away from electric lines, he will be in no danger," Mr. Hall states, "but if he disregards this safety rule and his kite becomes entangled in a power line, he should under no circumstances attempt to remove same as he may fall from the pole or receive a fatal shock. Our local office should be notified and a lineman will be sent to take down the kite and restore it to its owner. There is no need for a children to risk his life."

The recent statistics show us that the death rate is falling. It doesn't make any different how lousy the show or dull the book, you usually want to finish it just to see how it turns out!

Fri. and Sat.—"Up the River."
Sun. and Monday—"Thanks for Everything."
Tuesday—"Dramatic School"
Wed. and Thursday, March 22 & 23—"Man to Remember"

"Up the River" announced as a hilarious combination of music, broad comedy situations and prison football, will be shown at the Gayety Friday and Saturday, with a cast featuring Preston Foster, Tony Martin, Phyllis Brooks, Slim Summerville, Arthur Treacher and Bill Robinson. Most of the action takes place within the walls of a mythical state penitentiary where the happy inmates boast of a radio in every cell and gates that are practically revolving doors. The picture was directed by Alfred Werker.

A cast of high and low comedy experts, combined with some of the loveliest red and blonde beauty on the screen, was tackled a fresh and original idea in "Thanks for Everything," and has whaled it away into one of the most entertaining pictures of 20th Century-Fox has ever turned out. The Gayety Theatre is enjoying the presence of this scandalously funny picture and the bubbling antics of its cast of glamor, wit and witwit that includes Adolphe Menjou, Jack Oakie, Jack Haley, Arlene Whelan, Tony Martin, Binnie Barnes, George Barbier and Warren Hymer.

"Thanks for Everything" expounds the droll idea that there is such a thing as a Master Average Man in this, our great country. Its plot, through its plotless—same in every cell and gates that are practically revolving doors. The picture was directed by Alfred Werker.

Do Not Fly Kites Near Electric Wires

Boys and girls, flying kites near electric wires is dangerous! Don't take chances. Follow these suggestions and be safe:

- 1 Do not use wire or metallic kite strings.
- 2 Do not climb poles to get tangled kites.
- 3 Do not poke sticks at kites caught in wires or try to pull them down by their tails.
- 4 Do not use metal kite sticks.
- 5 Do not fly kites with wet string or in damp rainy weather.
- 6 Fly your kites in parks, playgrounds or pastures, clear away from power lines.

If kites become entangled in wires, call our office at once. Our employees know how to remove them without endangering anyone or causing an interruption to electric service.

Serving as an inspiration to all young people fired with ambitions to become great actors and actresses, "Dramatic School" will be shown at the Gayety Theatre next Tuesday.

With an impressive cast headed by Louise Rainer and Paulette Goddard, "Dramatic School" takes the world into the little known classrooms of a typical dramatic school in Paris where the daily life and struggles of two more dramatic students are revealed for the first time.

A technique which heightens dramatic effect was employed to film "A Man to Remember," featuring Anne Shirley, Edward Ellis, Lee Bowman and William Henry.

Although the use of flashbacks is not new, this method of presenting a story serves as the very basis of the dramatic plot of "A Man to Remember."

The story, opening with the funeral of its central character, a country doctor (Edward Ellis), moved to the offices of his lawyer, where all the creditors are assembled.

As the procession is passing to the cemetery, the incidents of the kindly doctor's career are vividly outlined in a series of smooth-flowing sequences, each suggested by documents in the physician's personal possession.

Anne Shirley is cast as the doctor's ward who fall in love with his son, Lee Bowman, an ambitious young neurologist who believes he has outgrown his father's town.

PETERSBURG HOMEMAKERS

Much enthusiasm was shown at the March meeting of our club last Monday. The lesson was the Hong Kong grass chair seats.

A very interesting group met at the schoolhouse with chairs and stools to be worked on. Work was started at once on three chairs and five stools, and all were completed by one stool, and it could have been finished.

At the noon hour we had our business. Miss Gillespie and president Klapp gave us the highlights of the advisory council. A vote was taken as to what the club would like for the next year. The modern kitchen was voted the most popular with rug making a close second.

Miss Gillespie had to leave shortly after the business, and work was resumed on the chairs and stools.

Miss Gordon had quite a nice recreational program for the ones who did not work on the weaving. We were glad to add the name of Mrs. B. H. Berkling to our roll. Next month the roll will be answered by an old proverb. Mrs. Stanley Bonta and Mrs. May Snyder will be hostesses next month.

FIRE DESTROYS BRADY HOME

LATE MONDAY AFTERNOON—LOSS ESTIMATED AT $5,000—DEFECTIVE WIRING CAUSE OF BLAZE.

Flames believed to have been caused from defective wiring completely destroyed the home of Pete Brady near Bellevue Monday afternoon before aid could be summoned.

The 9-room frame house, valued at $4,000.00, was the property of Mrs. Sarah Cutcherson, of Santa Barbara, California. This is the second house to burn from this location in the last thirty-one years. Mr. Brady stated that he had just finished supper, and had gone to the front yard to work on the flower bed. There was no fire in the house other than a very small fire in the cook stove, which was almost out when the evening meal was finished. Not more than twenty minutes after they had gone into the yard, they noticed smoke coming from the roof and as soon as a door was opened, the whole house seemed to be on fire.

Nothing was saved from the house except a shotgun and a fishing rod that were reached through a window. The loss on the furnishings was estimated at $1,000 which were not insured.

Mr. and Mrs. Brady are making their home for the present at the tenant house on the Courtney Pope farm, and will remain there until arrangements can be made for new quarters.

Twenty-three Boone county 4-H club leaders attended the conference held at Burlington last Saturday, March 18th. The leaders rendered a splendid program on ways and means of improving the 1939 4-H club work.

Prof. D. H. Norris, Supt. of Boone county schools, and president of the 4-H council, presented the challenge that confronts the nation today to solve the youth problems of training our boys and girls and placing them in lines of profitable endeavor. Our farm youth problem today is to keep more of our boys and girls interested in country life so that they will remain on the farm. The villages today are overcrowded. Renaker, cashier of Peoples Deposit Bank; Mary Hood Gillsapie, Maurice Williams and H. R. Forkner were among the speakers on the program.

Ten Boone county community 4-H clubs this year have enrolled 443 club members under the supervision of 58 adult leaders. These members are carrying a total of 307 projects. RETIRED FARMER COMMITTS SUICIDE

AT HOME IN PETERSBURG MONDAY MORNING—WAS WELL KNOWN THROUGHOUT BOONE COUNTY.

Owen Allen, 80, of Petersburg, committed suicide Monday morning by shooting himself in the heart with a .32 calibre revolver at his home.

The body was found in his room by his son, Bryan and Mrs. Dollie Flannigan, housekeeper.

Dependancy over ill health and the death of his wife six years ago was thought to be the cause of the shooting, according to reports. Mr. Allen underwent an operation several years ago and had not been in good health since.

Mr. Allen was well known throughout the county, having been an active farmer until retirement several years.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Claude McWethy, of Lawrenceburg, Ind., and two sons, Charles Allen, of Indianapolis, and Bryan Allen, of Petersburg.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Petersburg Christian Church, with interment in the Petersburg cemetery.

Woods Sale To Be Held This Saturday

The sale of C. K. and Robert Woods which was advertised to be held Saturday, March 11th, was postponed on account of the death of C. K. Woods, which occurred on the day the sale was to have been held.

Col. Lute Bradford, who was employed as auctioneer, stated that this was the first time in his twenty-five years of auctioneering that the owner succumbed before the sale.

The sale is being held to settle the estate of C. K. Woods, who died March 11th. Many articles are being offered at this sale, such as farming implements, livestock and feed.

BANQUET PLANS ARE COMPLETED

BY BOONE COUNTY SPORTSMEN AT MEETING HELD LAST FRIDAY—LARGE CROWD EXPECTED.

Banquet plans were completed Friday night at a meeting held by the Boone County Fish and Game Protective Association at the court house. The banquet will be given at the Burlington schoolhouse on Saturday night, March 25th, at 7:30 p. m.

Tickets are in the hands of precinct committeemen throughout the county and are being sold for 50 cents each. A complete meal will be served by the Burlington P-T-A.

Farmers and sportsmen from all sections of the county are expected to attend this meeting, at which time Major Brown or Steve Wakefield, possibly both, will be the speakers of the evening.

The Boone County club will receive 400 native Bob White quail on or near April 1st, according to Major Brown, and at this meeting farmers may apply for an allotment of the birds, and new members will be signed up at the same time.

Conditions upon which farmers may obtain birds will be explained at this time, and general information concerning the distribution of the quail will also be outlined by the speakers.

All who are interested in the conservation of wildlife are urgently requested to attend this meeting and to become a member of the club.

The Boone County Fish and Game Club has made much progress during the last two years in educational and conservation work, and if there had been no club in this county, we would not have been able to obtain this number of quail. It is the duty of every sportsman to become a member of this organization.

COMPANY MANNERS

Word reaches us that the British Ambassador has been asked by some Englishmen, to request President Roosevelt to suggest to us in America to behave properly when King George and Queen Elizabeth visit us this summer. Now we don't know just how they expect us to act but we figure on welcoming royalty to our country in the usual American way. We may not have the manners of the English but we have a feeling that the King and Queen will like our land and the folks they meet. Americans are themselves, informal and democratic with visiting titled heads. Of course there will always be people who act foolish when confronted by royalty. But most of us will be ourselves. To ask our President to control our conduct is sort of absurd, for his hands are full trying to control our political behavior without attempting to adjust our social behavior. The chief objection haven't a special sort of code of manners that is put on for the company.

SMALL PURSE DIETS

We don't need a survey to tell us that the low-paid workers buy food that "sticks to the ribs" and pays not so much attention to that type of food which contains the most needed minerals and vitamins for health. When you have a very small income and each penny counts, the vital foods that are rich in health-building are not given much consideration as they should be. The report of the survey showed that folks, allowing $1.25 a person a week for food, had only half as much milk, one-third as much butter, eggs, green vegetables, meat, poultry and fish, as the budget that allowed $3.75 a week per person. It doesn't take an outstanding mind to reply that the larger the income the more varied and wholesome is the food. We are all pleased to get a quantity of fresh vegetables on our plates instead of a constant diet of potatoes, rice, grits, navy beans and so on. But in order to have these vitamin-strong foods a lot, we must be able to afford them. Who wouldn't rather have fresh strawberry shortcake with whipped cream instead of dried pineapple? Our suggestion is, it wouldn't take much to check your grocery list and see if your family is getting some of the proper foods, whatever be your weekly budget.

STRING-SAVERS

When in this county hasn't a string-saver some place in their family? There are some of us who poke fun at them, but today they come into their own. In Cleveland, Ohio, there has been formed a Royal Society of String-Savers and its members call themselves collectors. The fact that all of the officers of the new national organization, live in the Cleveland area, may mean that the society is centralized in this section. But there are string-savers covering the globe! We have stamp, doll, bottle and hundreds of other sorts of collectors, why not a string collector? There may be many noteworthy occasions when string plays a prominent part. Probably there are rare pieces of string as there are rare coins. Long may they save.

HATS FOR MEN

We have been in a constant headache that appeals to the masculine sense of outrageous indignation. But we get our minds off of the ladies lids and consider the news that America has 12 "best-dressed men." They were named by a hat industry. According to them, a best-dressed man must own twelve hats, which means a hat for everything: high silk sports, straw, Panama, homburg, derby, snap brim, and so on! This covers the needs of men for their social functions but doesn't take into consideration the good "old fishing hat that Mother has tried to burn and the hat that Father wears to the barn, to carry out the ashes, and to hoe in the garden.

"TEMPLE OF RELIGION"

At the World's Fair in New York there will be an exhibit of all the different faiths known to man. The investment of $250,000 is understood by the public. John D. Rockefeller was the patron for this building. It is hoped that this "Temple of Religion" will give added attention to all faiths and increase attention to religion. It is to be seen. There is always the hope that good men of various faiths will have an influence on others not inclined to religion. In the Chicago fair in 1893 there was a similar exhibit called the "Congress of Religions." This proved an interesting exhibit rather than a powerful influence. But whatever impression this temple holds, it acknowledges the force of religion in the life of the world.

A BANKING JOB TO BRAG ABOUT

When a bank fails, it is headline news. What does this mean to the headlines is the immensely important fact that only a microscopically small proportion of failures result in any loss to bank depositors.

In the overwhelming majority of instances, the assets of closed banks, plus assessments made against the stockholders, are more than sufficient to pay off all deposits. And today, with practically all banks carrying Federal deposit insurance on all accounts up to $5,000, the chances of loss to depositors is so remote as to be hardly worth considering—some 98 per cent of depositors are covered by this insurance.

American banking has discharged its public obligation in the finest conceivable manner. It has been far more responsible for this nation's epochal industrial and social progress than most of us realize.

END-OF-SEASON WARNING

How safe from fire hazards will your home be for the balance of the time you run your heating plant?

A chart sent out by the National Board of Fire Underwriters shows that fire losses take a decided spurt at the end of the cold weather season. It isn't necessary to look far to find the cause of the time you run your heating plant. This. Household have been running their heating plants steadily since the first cold snap in the fall. Defects are apt to develop in stoves, furnaces or chimneys. Chimney flues may become clogged with soot.

A fire prevention engineer gives suggestions for avoiding fires from defective heating systems at this time of the year. He warns against forcing furnaces or stoves and says that if you can't get enough heat from them, it will pay you to call in a heating expert. He suggests that householders check over their heating systems to look for such defects as broken parts, holes in the smoke pipe, burnable materials near the smoke pipe or any dirty or defective chimneys.

If you don't feel entirely sure that your heating system is safe, it is best not to wait until you have let the fire go out in the spring. In fact it may be decidedly dangerous in blustery weather. Heating plants, particularly, are a menace to life, because they are so apt to occur in the early morning hours or at night.

Act on this suggestion for safety's sake!

EDUCATION DOWN ON THE FARM

The farmer of the future will be far better prepared to grapple with the problems he must face than his predecessors.

The reason for that is education. Farm organizations, notably the agricultural marketing cooperatives, have given great attention to farm youth. Young men and women who look forward to careers in agriculture are given specialized training not only in land utilization and the raising of crops and livestock, but in those economic matters that so vitally affect farm income. When the time comes for them to take over, they'll be ready.

SPRING CLEANING

Spring is the time for house cleaning. It is the time for cleaning out old bird boxes and putting up new ones. Bluebirds and robins have returned and are long other familiar bird neighbors will have arrived to brighten our landscape and bring cheer and sunshine into our hearts. Let us not be found lacking in our duty to these useful dooryard friends, for they mean much to us both ethically and economically.

The time also has come for cleaning to begin their spring house cleaning of the countryside, and many are the fields which are wastefully burned over in order to remove brush and weeds. This practice, according to some farmers, is desirable, at least in some cases. However, there is always danger of such a thing as not being properly controlled.

While the preservation of top soil is the farmer's only salvation on the one hand, on the other the preservation of some cover plots in a field are essential to wildlife. First, if controlled very often destroy all food and cover along fence rows, and even spread into surrounding woodlands, laying their flocks entirely bare. Instead of brush piles it would be far better to remove them to some unused or inconspicuous corner of a field, or to some eroded gulley, where they will not interfere with agriculture and will serve as retreats for rabbits, quail, and other wildlife.

Every sportsman owes it to himself and to his future sport to spend a day or two now and then in familiar coverts. He owes it to himself to see that the wildlife which lives there is given a chance and is protected from its enemies.

Spring is also the time for sportsmen's associations and other conservation groups to start planning their wildlife program for the balance of 1939. A lot of good will be accomplished if organizations systematize their work. For instance, now is the time to secure cooperation of local lawyers and others in the conservation of wildlife.

Each member in an organization should also be given a certain territory to cover from the standpoint of vermin control, and should visit or patrol that territory as often as possible from now until next hunting season. He should see to it that the game in this section is given protection.

Clubs should also arrange with farmers to plant many small plots of grain food mixtures to provide food for wildlife.

Until the majority of members in a club realize that an organization cannot get anywhere on the "let George do it" system, and that the important events are not the social events or the annual banquet, but the quarterly club will start taking its rightful place in its community and be of greater benefit and aid to the Division of Game and Fish in its program of wildlife conservation.

CLEAN CURTAINS

Consider these points when buying a curtain: whether it is strong and well built, adjustable to all sizes, plus are rustproof. . . . When taking curtains off of the stretcher, write measurements on paper and place it in top corner of curtain where it won't be seen. This saves time when ready to stretch again. When hem of curtain sticks together when ironed, put a thimble over end of curtain rod and then push through the hem. The rod won't cut and tear the curtain.

PETER INTERPRETS CHRIST'S SUFFERINGS AND DEATH

LESSON TEXT—1 Peter 1:17-23; 2:20-23.
GOLDEN TEXT—For Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God, being made of sinners, but without guile, the Spirit—1 Peter 2:18.

A witness is one who knows by personal experience about that which he testifies. Certainly no one can speak with more propriety or assurance concerning the sufferings and death of Christ than Peter. As one of the inner circle, he witnessed His trial and in all probability His crucifixion. He was first at the empty tomb. Furthermore, he could speak as one who had in a moment of weakness denied the Lord and who had come by way of doubt and despair back to his faith in the Saviour. It is not only appropriate that we should study Peter's words on this subject but it is also possible that we shall find with which to close our three-month study of the life and work of Peter. For all that he said and all that he did, our hearts are moved only by his faith in a redeeming Christ.

I. Christ—the Saviour (1 Pet. 1:17-23).

It is highly important that we meet the flood of smoothly phrased recognition of our Christ as the Master which at the same time denies Him as dying Redeemer. Hence we stress

1. A redemption by blood (vv. 17, 20). This is a subject that all those who know God and "call on him as Father" (v. 17) approach in that reverential attitude which we call the "fear of God," which is not a cowering fear but a loving reverence. In that spirit we should proclaim that apart from the shedding of Christ's blood there can be no redemption of sin. Money and other material things can only purchase other material and corruptible things. Our redemption could be bought only by the precious blood of Jesus Christ (v. 19, 20).

2. A life of faith (vv. 21-23). The faith and hope of the Christian are not a mere belief in the future of arm of flesh. Our assurance is not in man or his devices. The gathering of riches, the increase of armaments, the acquisition of new territory or foreign conquests, the faith of men who know not God rejoice in such assurances of safety, but our faith is in God.

This life of faith is not an inactive thing, a settling back into a comfortable, but effortless appreciation of God's great gift. It leads to obedience to the truth; fervent, unfeigned love of the brethren; purity of life (v. 22). Being born again means living in newness of life in Christ.

II. Christ—the Example (1 Pet. 2:20-25).

Christ is not our example in the sense that we are to attain to eternal life by imitating Him. He is our example in His life. That would be manifestly impossible, for we would have to begin where He began—He was without sin. But we all have sinned and we are to glory in God by bearing it patiently for Christ's sake. Nothing is a stronger testimony for Christ than a true Christian spirit in time of trial and sorrow.

1. Our suffering (vv. 20, 21). One of the serious problems of life is suffering, and as we suggested last week, being a Christian does not grant us any immunity. If we suffer because of our own sin, we must expect to bear the result patiently; but even above that, when we find ourselves suffering for well-doing, we are to glory in God by bearing it patiently for Christ's sake. Nothing is a stronger testimony for Christ than a true Christian spirit in time of trial and sorrow.

2. The suffering of Christ (vv. 21-25). Our minds turn to Isaiah 53 and Psalm 22, as well as to the Gospel narratives, as we think of our Lord's suffering. As we read the words, "Christ . . . suffered for you," we join the saintly expiator of the Word who fell upon his face sobbing, "For me, for me, He bore it all for me." How can anyone reject Him? How can you, unsaved reader of these lines, any longer turn this loving Saviour away?

These are trying days for the soul of man. In many parts of the world Christians are tasting the bitter cup of persecution. The day may come when we must meet the same fate, and even now we know what it means to bear the scorn of unbelievers. Shall we become fearful or embittered in our hearts? No, "consider him that endured such contradiction of sinners against himself, lest ye be wearied and faint in your minds." Ye have not yet resisted unto blood, striving against sin" (Heb. 12:3, 4). But He did! Wonderful Saviour!

A BIRTHDAY REMEMBRANCE

In loving memory of my sister, Laura Porter Huey, who went away July 1, 1937.

There are those who miss you sadly, And find time long, since you went, And we think of you daily and hourly, And try to be brave and content; But our tears are shed in silence; As we breathe many sighs of regret, For you were ours, and we remember Tho' all of the world forget, And so we attend the school of sorrow, The Master teaches there; And tho we receive no degree for knowledge, We hope to meet again "Up There"

Mr. and Mrs. Larry White and 11-pd Junior and Ray.

WEAK FEET AFFECT BODY

N. TULCH
AT PEOPLES FOOT COMFORT
(SHOE STORE) COVINGTON

When feet are permitted to protrude inwardly, the bony structure of the foot goes down, shutting off the nerve and blood supply in the bottom of the foot. When you cramp or choke the blood stream and slow up circulation, there is a lack of bone repair; chemical deposits, or waste matter form at the joints. Next inflammation sets in at these joints causing pain. That inflammation is often mistaken for rheumatism, arthritis and many other ailments. Also when you cramp the blood supply you shut off the food supply to the nerves.

When nerves are impoverished, muscle tone is impaired because sensory nerves indirectly control motor nerves which in turn control the muscles. When muscles in the feet have lost their tonicity due to impoverishment of the nerves, feet are no longer subconsciously held in normal position.

Surgical shoes give support to the vital arches in the feet relieving cramped nerves and blood vessels to promote better circulation. Gradually as circulation improves, muscles grow strong and regain their tonicity.

With foot health improved the person feels better all over. Research has shown that no less than eighty-seven diseases are indirectly caused by bad feet.

Don't take chances with your health, happiness and peace of mind. With foot comfort you'll live longer and feel better—Adv.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

By David M. Porter

Spring has come to Frankfort. Jonquels are blooming, and from our office we can see children flying kites on the Capitol lawn, but the liturgy that goes with Spring is not in evidence here for a political campaign is not far off and the politicians are pondering. (It's good for them.)

It is a question of no small proportions whether to announce for office now or to wait until later. There are many arguments on both sides and it is hard to tell which is the better choice.

If candidates declare now, it gives their enemies a longer change to shoot at them and the opposition a chance to build up. On the other hand, if they wait too long some other candidate may have secured the support of the local politicians and political powers.

The factions are not going to slate tickets this election. The election will be close and the candidates for Governor cannot afford to antagonize the enemies of possible candidates on a slate by supporting those candidates.

By the time you read this, John Y. Brown may have formally filed his paper for the Governor's race, and George Hatcher of Ashland is toying with the idea of running for Secretary of State.

Random Shots
Circuit Judge Northcutt and Governor Chandler are having words over gambling in Kenton County. Judge Northcutt was for Chandler for Governor, against him for Senator, and faces an election this August. He wanted the Governor to intervene in the investigation.

James Cammack filed for the Democrat nomination for Judge of the Court of Appeals for the 5th district.

There is one thing about a tract-or. You can't breed it.

Gaiety Theater News

Fri. and Sat.—"Law West of Tombstone"
Sunday and Monday—"Artists and Models Abroad."
Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday & Friday—"Kentucky"

Much of the real humor and humanness of the Old West, as distinguished from the conventional screen treatment ordinarily given to our frontiers of fifty years ago, is embodied in "The Law West of Tombstone," which will be shown at the Gaiety Friday and Saturday.

The film is startling because, instead of weaving its story about a series of breathless rides and incessant banging of guns, it presents an intelligent, graphic and eminently natural picture of its period and of the colorful people of that period.

Harry Carey is the central character—a boastful old braggart but a terror with a Colt—who on sheer nerve and impudence sets himself up as dictator over half of Arizona with a lonely law book and his six guns as his authority for dispensing justice.

The 1939 season has started out on the right foot with something new and exciting in screen musical comedy! It's the new Jack Benny picture, "Artists and Models Abroad," which will be shown at the Gaiety Sunday and Monday.

Buck Benny—equally at home on stage, radio and screen—is at his wisecracking best in a hilarious story about the escapades of screwball American vaudeville troupers stranded at the Paris Exposition. He is given ample assistance by a topnotch cast, which includes Joan Bennett, co-starred as Benny's new leading lady, the Yacht Club Boys, as some of the troupers, Mary Boland, as a social climbing American dowager and other stars.

Against the glamorous background of the Paris Exposition, "Artists and Models Abroad" follows the adventures of Benny and his flat-broke gang of American hoofers. The gang, incidentally, includes a score of the loveliest girls seen on the screen in many a season and bears out Producer Arthur Hornblow's reputation as "Hollywood's Ziegfeld."

For the first time in the history of the Motion Picture, the Kentucky Derby will be seen on the screen in full natural color when "Kentucky," the 20th Century-Fox Technicolor production featuring Loretta Young, Rich Green and Walter Brennan will be shown at the Gaiety Theatre, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, March 28, 29, 30, 31st.

In the many years that news-reel companies have been filming the running of the Derby, no shots have been made in anything but black and white.

The huge Technicolor cameras have now captured every glint of brilliant color to be found in America's premier turf classic. With the aid of race officials and stable owners, Director David Butler was given every facility to make this one of the most dramatic sporting events ever filmed.

"Kentucky," a romance of the Blue Grass country, is said to have captured the glorious tradition of that state, and a love all fire and pride is the glamorous theme of the story. Loretta Young and Richard Greene are seen as the two young lovers who are born to the traditional enmity between their families which has carried over since the Civil War.

Walker Brennan, Academy Award winner, also has a sizable role in the film. He portrays a testy old southern gentleman who knows more about horses than anyone in Kentucky. As Loretta Young's uncle in the film, he turns in what is reported to be the finest performance of his career.

The film was adapted from the famous book, "The Look of Eagles" by John Taintor Foote, who collaborated with Lamar Trotti in preparing the screen play.

The man who never speaks ill of anyone won't need a monument to mark his resting place. He'll be remembered!

AT THE JAMES

WALTON, KY.

Friday and Saturday, March 24 and 25—Walt Disney's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." No words can describe its beauty, its charm, its glow, its tremendous appeal to the heart of man. Nothing like it has ever been seen before. It is so utterly different from everything the screen has ever known—so refreshing, so wonderful, so deeply thrilling. That every man, woman and child in the world owes it to himself not to permit anything to keep him from seeing it.

Sunday, March 26—"The Young in Heart," with Janet Gaynor, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Paulette Goddard. Don't pass up love. It may never come again. She wouldn't say "yes" until he stopped churning and went to work—the strongest test love has ever been called upon to face.

Monday, March 27—"Tom Sawyer Detective" with Donald O'Connor, Robt. Kent and Gene Travis. An entertaining picture with plenty of thrills and action, and excitingly different.

Tuesday, March 28—"Steamboat Round The Bend," with Will Rogers and all star cast. You will want to see this beloved actor again in one of his finest and best remembered pictures.

Wednesday, March 29—"Going Places," with Dick Powell and Anita Louise. They sing, they swing. You're going to get laughs, you're going to get thrills because you're going places.

Thursday, March 30—"Devil's Island," with Boris Karloff and Nedda Harrigan. It took a century to reveal it. . . but the hushed-up story is out at last. Blistering in its revelation. . . blasting to high heaven the tortured truth about 56,000 men without women in "the prison without a heart." It's stirring—it's sensational—it's screened for the first time.

FLORENCE MAN SHOT BY POLICE

IN CINCINNATI SATURDAY—ROBERT SHELDON CHARGED WITH PETIT LARCENY AND POINTING FIREARMS.

Robert Sheldon, 20, Florence, was arrested Saturday by Cincinnati police on charges of tampering with an automobile, petit larceny and pointing firearms.

According to reports Sheldon was tampering with an automobile owned by Jack Ratner, Cincinnati, which was on a parking lot at 424 Elm St. Patrolman George Condit attracted by Sheldon's action asked him what he was doing, and he replied that he was trying to start the car. The policeman asked to see the keys and Sheldon replied "Wait until I get out of the car."

The youth came out, fighting, striking the officer in the face with the butt of a .25 caliber revolver, knocking him down. Sheldon then started to run down on Elm St.

Officer Condit drew his gun and fired two shots, one of which dropped Sheldon. He got up and darted into a doorway nearby.

Two other patrolmen were attracted by the shots and upon investigating found Sheldon crouched in a doorway, gun in hand. The patrolmen fired three shots, one of which struck Sheldon, who surrendered.

Police said the gun Sheldon was carrying was empty.

The youth's condition was reported as fair at General Hospital, where he was taken following the skirmish.

Bellevue Church To Present Play Thursday March 30

For years you have thrilled to the brilliant novel of Lena Rivers written by Mary J. Holmes and it has been regarded as a classic by many of the larger publishing companies.

Ned Albert has outdone all his future efforts as a playwright and has captured all the thrills, pathos, laughs and tears and crowded them into a simple dramatization of the play which played for years on Broadway and as a stock show played nightly to capacity crowds, nor were those in cities the only ones to share this treat. Those who were acquainted with Show Boat history can tell of the joys they experienced in seeing this fine piece of work presented.

Now it is your opportunity to watch and hear this story brought to life in the finest, cleanest, play to be presented by the young people of the Bellevue Church of Christ, under the capable direction of Russell Rogers and in conjunction with the Ladies' Aid Society at the Old Fellows Hall, Bellevue, on Thursday, March 30, 1939.

The public is cordially invited to attend this entertainment.

Walter Brown and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Cropper called on Mrs. Walter Brown, who is a patient at Christ Hospital, in Cincinnati, Saturday evening.

BANQUET DRAWS LARGE CROWD

STEVE WAKEFIELD IS PRINCIPAL SPEAKER AT GATHERING—TWENTY NEW MEMBERS ADDED TO CLUB.

One hundred and fifty farmers, sportsmen and citizens of Boone, Kenton and Campbell counties, attended the banquet given at the Burlington schoolhouse Saturday night by the Boone County Fish and Game Protective Association.

Following the banquet, Chas. W. Riley, president of the local organization gave a brief talk outlining the purpose of the club and the purpose of the banquet. He then introduced Steve Wakefield, assistant director of Division of Game and Fish, Frankfort, principal speaker of the evening.

Mr. Wakefield, gave a very interesting talk concerning the distribution of birds which will be sent to this county April 1st. He pointed out that all birds should be distributed equally in all sections of the county and that they should be released on land where there is plenty of feed, cover and water.

George Brendt, of Kenton County gave a brief talk, stating that in the event Kenton County could not furnish ample territory for the birds to be sent them, the club in that territory would be glad to send their surplus to Boone County for distribution.

Mr. Murphy, editor of Affield and Astream, a Post column, talked on the value of newspaper cooperation in educating the people of Kentucky in conservation work.

Dr. Boltz, of the Dixie Gun Dog Club expressed his thanks for the invitation to attend the meeting, and related a very interesting story, which was enjoyed by everyone.

Following the banquet, approximately twenty new members enrolled in the club and many farm-ers made application for birds.

Mr. Wakefield, who arrived in Burlington early Saturday afternoon, Ed Johnson, state conservation officer, and Chas. W. Riley motored to various parts of the county during the afternoon. The drive was made to acquaint Mr. Wakefield with the wonderful cover and feed for wildlife in this section, which he stated was far above his expectations.

FARMERS ATTEND MILK HEARING

IN CINCINNATI MONDAY AND TUESDAY—MEETING CALLED DUE TO CERTAIN MARKETING PROBLEMS.

Boone county was well represented with farmers at the Federal Milk Marketing hearing held in Cincinnati on Monday, and Tuesday of this week. The questions of supporting the Federal Market Administrator and a fair price paid producers for milk were the chief subjects of discussion among producers.

The Federal hearing was called because of certain marketing problems that have arisen the past few weeks. An outside dealer came into the market cutting the retail price of milk to nine cents per quart. Others dealers reduced their prices to meet competition and the dealers in turn attempted to cut the price paid to producers to make up this loss of revenue. The administrator would not permit this cut because of previous market agreements. The dealers in turn brought civil suit to oust the administrator.

Boone county dairymen as a whole strongly favor the maintaining of the administrator and the holding of a fair equitable price to producers.

Phosphate Should Be Ordered Early

Farmers desiring to use 47 per cent super phosphate supplied under the Agricultural Conservation program should file their orders at the earliest possible date, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. The available supply is expected to be exhausted in the near future.

The reason for the likely short supply this year is attributed to other states using a much larger amount than formerly. Kentucky has received an allotment of just so many tons and when this allotment has been ordered by growers, the supply is exhausted. Other counties in the state have recently ordered large amounts. Boone county farmers to date have ordered 159.3 tons thru the county office in Burlington.

Those who expect to use ACP phosphate this fall should order now as the fertilizer may be stored until needed and the supply in all probability will be exhausted before fall seeding. Growers may receive up to 90 per cent of their soil building allowance in phosphate at a rate of $30.00 per ton. Credit of $30.00 per ton for use is given when the fertilizer is used on soil conserving grass and legume crops. Special penalties are charged if the phosphate is used on corn, wheat or other soil depleting crops.

The county office, Phone Burlington 412, will be glad to receive all orders. Application forms will be mailed on request. Phosphate has proven one of the best fertilizers on grasses, clovers, alfalfa and other soil building crops.

ACP Committee To Meet Here Saturday

The Boone County ACP committee will meet at Burlington Saturday morning, April 1st at 9:00 a. m. All farmers having grievances or appeals on allotments or other matters are invited to meet with the committee at this time.

Walton Man Held On Conversion Charge

Emil Rivard, Walton, was held to the Kenton county grand jury Thursday on a charge of converting $300.

Nina Herzog, Staffordburg road Kenton county, states in a Kenton County Court affidavit that Rivard converted the money to his own use on or about last October 20, while acting as administrator of the estate of her brother, Jerome Lipscomb.

Laurence J. Gammon, Campbell county attorney, represents Mrs. Herzog. He said the $300, part of the Lipscomb estate, is not now in the bank where it was supposed to be on deposit.

Rivard's bond of $300 was signed by his brother, Ray Rivard, Covington butcher. The charge was filed Feb. 8. Judge John B. Read had issued a rule February 1 directing Rivard to make an accounting of the estate.

WARD YAGER ANNOUNCES

FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE—HAS HELD OFFICE AS COMMONWEALTH ATTORNEY FOR PAST TWELVE YEARS.

Ward Yager, Warsaw, officially tossed his hat into the political ring this week as a candidate for the office of Circuit Judge in this district, composed of the counties of Boone, Carroll, Gallatin, Grant and Owen.

Mr. Yager has served the people of this district as Commonwealth Attorney the past 12 years, which office he has efficiently filled. He is well known in the district, and can probably call more people by name in these counties than any other man in the district.

Mr. Yager is the first to officially announce as a candidate for the Circuit Judgeship, but it is generally understood that he will have opposition.

He graduated from the University of Kentucky law school, and married Ruth Graham, daughter of W. B. Graham, of Gallatin county. He has served as a prosecutor and attorney since 1920.

An official announcement of Mr. Yager will be found on another page of this issue.

Mr. Yager makes the following statement to the citizens of Boone county:

For twelve years you have honored me with the office of Commonwealth Attorney, and to the discharge of my duties I have given my very best. I have been rigorous in the enforcement of law, and at the same time have made an honest effort to give a square deal to all.

I am now 47 years of age, and feel that I am in the prime of life, and that my experience as Commonwealth Attorney and as a practicing lawyer qualifies me for the office of Circuit Judge. I therefore announce as a candidate for Circuit Judge of the District, the counties of Boone, Carroll, Gallatin, Grant, Owen, subject to the Democratic primary, August 5, 1939.

If elected I will do my very best at all times to merit the confidence of the people, by an honest administration of justice.

Again I want to thank my friends for their confidence in me and kindness in the years that have gone.

WARD YAGER.

DO AND DIE

Not so long ago a Michigan woman saw a dog struggling in an ice choked river and immediately went out in a rowboat to save the dog. She had to use an axe and a shovel and it took her two hours to free the animal. As she was bringing the dog in to shore and safety, he bit her cheek. There was a scar but she paid no attention to the injury and as a result of this neglect the woman is dead of hydrophobia.

This rescue was a noble deed and showed a great love and kindness for animals. In going to the aid of this stray dog the true nature of the woman was revealed.

BANGS AGAIN

Along with spring garden plans we are informed that fashion decrees that the female of the species is in for a "bangs" time. How long ago was it that our women folks in Boone county each had her bangs, becoming to her or not? After going through this session with their heads piled high in curls on their heads, nape of neck bared to the curious gaze of critical eyes, the new trend is in letting the hair down, and bangs ring over all. The hair may be woman's crowning glory, but there are a lot of women who let their glory run away with their good judgment.

They first wear the hair up, and then it comes down. It may be in a page boy style or a wind-blown bob. It may flow in an age of constant change but it sort of takes the starch out of a fellow trying to keep up with "fashion dictates."

Consider the coverings they use on the head and hair and you get the trend of the times. Today it may be a peasant scarf and tomorrow a sailor hat or the gay nineties. We may live in an age of constant change but it sort of takes the starch out of a fellow trying to keep up with "fashion dictates."

THE OLD LAMP

More farms getting electricity has led to more modern conveniences. In a recently added district where electricity has entered the homes, one woman remarked, "Thank heavens, we can do away with the dirty old oil lamps." It recalls to many of us who use electricity today, the oil lamps of old, and as we remember them they weren't dirty! The oil lamps that were taken upstairs at night were brought down next morning to have the chimneys polished and cleaned. The wicks were adjusted and trimmed. This procedure was a daily ritual. A newspaper was used to remove the soot, and that was the task that was odious to the housewife. But, as memory swings back to the oil lamps we recall them as clear and clean and "homey."

CAPITOL COMMENTS

By David M. Porter

The volcano of politics is about to erupt and spew out some startling developments.

The Rhea faction is going to announce for John Y. Brown, but the Louisville machine may not be so enthusiastically for him, remembering his "Micky's mice" statements in a previous campaign.

Frederick A. Wallis may shortly announce as a candidate for Governor and wind up with the nomination.

The Administration may run a candidate against General Hubert Meredith to their sorrow.

Dr. D. H. Hanson of Osgood Rock, Clay County is candidate for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, and Mr. Bagby of Grayson, filed for Lieutenant Governor as we intimated two weeks ago in this column.

Major W. H. Hansen has been program on a Highway Safety program to reduce the alarming number of accidents on the highways. We'll tell you more of this later.

The Unemployment Compensation Commission is worried over a shortage of funds for administrative purposes as their appropriation for the fiscal year is almost exhausted.

If the Federal Government doesn't put up the money and the State fails to, the only other recourse will be to assess the employers to carry on the administrative costs from March 31st.

Mrs. Emma Gray Cromwell is back from Florida and may announce for State Treasurer soon.

Charles D. Arnett says he is for Barkley for President and more money for old age pensioners. We are opposed to sit down strikes and Hitler ourselves.

The Department of Revenue is making photostatic copies of all Kentucky federal income tax returns, so be sure you are right, and that everyone has to file a State income tax report, regardless of whether you have earned enough to pay a tax or not.

And that there is a penalty of ten dollars if this report is not filed. The deadline is April 15th.

DEER RELEASED IN

KENTUCKY COUNTIES

All deer propagated on state game farms have been liberated in Letcher, Pike, Harlan and Whitley counties. Major James Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, announced today.

Only enough white-tail deer were retained at the Jones-Keeley Game farm in Princeton, Ky., to be used as brood stock for future propagation.

The Letcher Fish and Game Club obtained six deer from the Division and these animals were placed on display near the court house over the week-end for the citizens of the county to view.

Milburn Polly and Arnold Collins, two members of the Letcher club, drove across the state to Princeton to bring the deer to Whitesburg.

The mountain counties have some of the strongest game and fish clubs in the state and more interest in the conservation of wildlife is being shown by these clubs than has been noted in the central section. If interest could be aroused in the Bluegrass, northern, southern and western sections to a pitch that it has reached in the mountains, game propagation would be doubled and even tripled and other wildlife would be greatly benefited.

SAUL BECOMES A NEW MAN

LESSON TEXT—Acts 9:1-12, 17-19.
GOLDEN TEXT—Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new.—II Corinthians 5:17.

The conversion of Saul is admittedly one of the most conspicuous in Bible history. When two brilliant English lawyers, Lord Lyttelton and Sir Gilbert West, set out to disprove the truth of Christianity, they selected the resurrection of Christ and the story of Paul's conversion as the focal points of their proof. Working independently, they came together to compare notes and find that the two had both become Christians since they had become convinced of the truth of the Scriptures.

The two events may well stand together as evidence of Christianity, for only on the ground of regeneration can the change in Saul be accounted for, and only on the assurance that he met the risen Christ on the Damascus Road can we account for his conversion. This is a great lesson, let us make the very most of it.

I. A Bold Persecutor (vv. 1, 2). As our eyes are turned to the brilliant and zealous young Jew, Saul, "yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord. The persecutor of the church had been a persecutor of the church in that city but had scattered the disciples abroad, and thus the witness had been spread. The death of the godly Stephen, to which Saul had given his approval, had only increased his determination to destroy those who were "of the way" of Jesus. Looking for new victims to persecute, he carried with him to Damascus letters from the high priest at Jerusalem, giving him authority to imprison the followers of Christ. But on the Damascus Road he met Christ Himself, and is stricken to the earth.

II. A Converted Sinner (vv. 3-9). Stricken down by a brilliant heavenly light, he finds himself talking to the Lord Jesus. He hears from His holy lips the solemn indictment of those who persecute God's people—"Why persecutest thou me?" He who lays unkind hands, or untrue accusations upon God's people, heeds beware, for so closely is our Lord identified with His people that when they suffer, it is He who bears the hurt.

In a single sentence the Lord disposes of the persecuting zeal and the sinful skepticism of this proud young Pharisee, and Saul enters into Damascus not as the haughty persecutor, but as a man trembling and astonished at his own sin. He spends three days shut in with his own soul and God, not seeing, not eating, not drinking, not touching of earth, but entering into communion with God. By God's grace the old life is pulled up by the roots as it is displaced by the new life of Christ Jesus.

III. An Obedient Disciple (vv. 10-12). Ananias was the "I am here, Lord" type of Christian to whom the Lord can confidently commit His important business. All we know of him is what is contained in this chapter, but it is a very beautiful and enviable record. God is able to work directly on any human soul and accomplish His ends (as He did with Saul on the Damascus Road), but His usual manner of working is through faithful human agencies. One wonders how much would be accomplished for God if every Christian were as willing and ready as was Ananias to do the Lord's bidding in seeking out and helping a struggling soul.

The greatest of all Christian leaders, the apostle Paul, was led out into his life of loyalty and service to Christ by a humble layman. Repeatedly God's Word by precept and example stresses the vital importance of personal work on the part of laymen and women. The leaders of Christian work during the coming generation are now in the Sunday School classes of our churches, perhaps in a little wayside chapel in the country, in the village church, in the mission or settlement house, or in the great city church.

IV. A Converted Brother (vv. 17-19). The fears of Ananias that Saul might still be a worker of evil (vv. 13) are soon overcome by God's assurance that in the praying Saul He had prepared for Himself "a chosen vessel" (v. 15) to bear the gospel to the Gentiles and to kings, as well as to Israel.

It is interesting to observe that Saul knew nothing of that subtle hypocrisy known as being "a secret believer," for at once he made open confession of his faith in baptism, and "straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues that he is the Son of God" (v. 20).

Secret Prayer Life. It is possible for a Christian to accomplish more for the Kingdom of Christ by a faithful secret prayer life than by the most active life without it.—John R. Mott.

SEWING MACHINE COVER

Spring is a good time to make a slip-cover for your drop-head sewing machine, which is not such an attractive piece of furniture. Make a new one for it. Take a board the size of machine top, tack flounce on it. When machine is in use the top is easily removed. Or you can put flounce on band around edge of machine and paint the top of machine with a pretty shade of enamel. Hang a mirror over your machine and you have a dressing table.

TO REMOVE FAT

It is possible to remove fat from hot broth by dropping some ice cubes into the broth. The fat will congeal very shortly and you can easily remove it. The cubes can be removed, as well, before they melt and dilute the broth.

JULIA ANN YORK

Julia Ann York, daughter of Wm. Elliott and Lucy A. Tugate was born January 8, 1874, departed this life March 18, 1939, age 65 years, 2 months, 10 days.

She was united in marriage to John W. York and to this union five children were born. Her husband and two children have preceded her to the grave.

Three children Maude Waters, Union, Ky., Mattie Kruse, McVie, Ky., and Fred York, Indianapolis, Ind., are left to mourn her passing. She also leaves eighteen grandchildren, five great grandchildren, two brothers, one sister and a host of other close relatives and friends.

She united with the Christian Church at Taylorsport, Ky., where she remained a faithful member until her death.

Her illness extended through a period of many years, but she always bore her burdens quietly, never complaining. We saw her fading like a flower—But could not make her stay; We nursed her with tender care, But still she was called away; For all of us she did her best, May God grant her eternal rest. —Mattie Kruse.

VERONA

Spring came in nice, and had unusually warm weather through the Equinoxial period. Perhaps the Equinoxial storm has been delayed.

Mrs. Nell Hunt and Mrs. Lora Stephenson remain on the sick list.

The funeral of Mr. John N. Ellison and Mrs. Ida Mudgeon Ellison was attended by a large crowd at the funeral home of J. L. Hamilton last Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. They were both members of New Bethel Baptist church.

Bro. C. E. Brown preached the funeral service by Bros. R. F. Demolsey and A. K. Johnson. They were both born a few miles from Verona and spent almost their entire life near here, living in Kansas a short time. Uncle Jack and Aunt Ida, as they were familiarly known had been married over 61 years and departed this life, he at 82 and she at 79 in only a few hours of each other. She died Saturday night and he Monday morning, and this was the way they had wished it could be. The never raised any children and by their passing was the going of an entire family at one funeral, and the only time it ever occurred at New Bethel cemetery. The nearest it ever happened was in the death of uncle Jeff and Aunt Susie Griffith and they died just a few days apart.

John N. Ellison was the last child of the late Jonah Ellison and Aunt Ida a daughter of the late William Dugan, both pioneer citizens of this community. She leaves one sister, Mrs. Price Bran, of Louisville and both leave several nieces and nephews.

By their going the community has lost good true friends, neighbors and citizens.

J. L. Hamilton charge of the funeral arrangements.

Those who attended the funeral from a distance were Mr. J. E. May, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hamilton, Mrs. May Wilson, Mrs. Gertrude King and mother-in-law Mrs. Turley, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Leary, Mr. and Mrs. Omar Ellison and daughter and Mrs. Ellison and Mr. Dud Whitsun and daughter, of Covington.

Mr. and Mrs. Claud Ford and Mrs. Mildred Margalin, of Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bran and mother, of Louisville, Mr. and Mrs. William Crouch, of Glencoe, Mrs. Fattie Wilford and son, of Florence, Mrs. Robert Harris and family, of Lexington and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Renaker, of Fairmouth.

The remains of Elmer English, son of Geo. English were brought to Walton Saturday from Detroit, and taken to the home of his aunt Mrs. Ida English, where it remained until Sunday afternoon.

His funeral was held at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon in Walton Baptist Church. Bro. A. K. Johnson preached the funeral to a large crowd of sorrowing relatives and friends. He was laid to rest in New Bethel cemetery. He leaves to mourn his death a father and wife and many other relatives and friends. Chambers and Grubbs had charge of the funeral.

FOOT TEST

Now friends I am going to ask you to do something which I think will give you the answer to the trouble you are having with your feet.

No, you must do just as I say, so you will understand what is meant when I say . . . Most All Weak Feet Roll Inward. Now, friends take off both shoes, right now. Please stand up, both feet side by side about six to eight inches apart with the same amount of weight on each foot.

Now, this is important! Relax all muscles in your feet and legs. About 7 out of 10 of you will find that your feet go down on the inside, some of them all the way down to the floor. You probably have one of the four stages of weak feet . . . first degree, about 1/4 of the way down; second degree 1/2 way down; third degree, 3/4 of the way down; and fourth degree, all the way down on what is commonly known as flat foot.

But, here's the important thing for you to remember two important things in fact; when your feet roll inward and go down, you are shutting off the nerve and blood supply going into the bottom of your feet. The result is poor blood circulation which often lets chemical deposits or waste matter form at the joints of your feet and lower limbs.

Now, the second important thing is this, weak, rolling feet also cramp nerves, then through nerve relaxes, some weaker part of the body is usually affected. Remember, when you cramp the nerves in your feet, you cause reflexes to be sent to some other part of the body that is more sensitive and has less resistance. Then old mother nature comes right back at you with backaches, headaches or something worse. If you are not sure about the condition of your feet, go where retained foot comfort specialists will make a thorough scientific analysis of your feet.—Adv.

Gayety Theater News

Saturday—"Flirting With Fate," Sun. and Mon.—"Mad About Music," Tues., Wed., and Thursday, April 4, 5, 6—"Stand Up and Fight."

Joe E. Brown always has difficulties in his picture and his new comedy is no exception.

In "Flirting With Fate," which will be shown at the Gayety Saturday night, more things happen to the mammoth-mouthed comedian than would happen to an ordinary person in a lifetime. The star plays the role of manager of a touring vaudeville troupe in South America. In the space of one week the following things happen to him:

He drinks and poison and discovers it is only native firewater. He is held up by South American bandits, led by Leo Carrillo.

He has many other experiences which you will have to see.

Deanna Durbin, who unleashed her surprising soprano voice in police stations, in bed and in concert halls during her first two pictures, sings on bicycles, on railroad trains and in church choirs.

In her new Universal film, "Mad About Music," which will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Gayety. She warbles four selections all told. Three of them are by Jimmy McHugh and Harold Adamson. The fourth is by Charles Franclos Gounod, his famous "Ave Maria." Deanna sings these four numbers to the accompaniment of locomotive whistles, bronze bells, harmonica ensembles and a famous European choir.

The McHugh-Adamson compositions which Deanna vocalizes are "I Love To Whistle," "Chapel Bells" and "A Serenade To The Stars." Miss Durbin's fellow students at a girls' school in Switzerland provide a whistling musical support as they bicycle along to class.

It's a picture you can't afford to miss.

The outdoor action melodrama, dear to the hearts of film fans ever since the days of such early western stars as William S. Hart, William Farnum and Tom Mix, comes into its own again with Wallace Beery and Robert Taylor as its protagonists. In "Stand Up and Fight," which will be shown at the Gayety Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 4th, 5th and 6th.

Teamed for the first time, Beery and Taylor co-star in a story of Western Maryland in the 1850's, when the railroads and stagecoach lines were engaged in a bitter struggle for right-of-way as the population of the United States surged westward. Semi-historical in theme, "Stand Up and Fight" presents a period and locale new to motion pictures, but presenting all the elements of the best of the action Westerns including two bare knuckle fights between its stars, a saloon brawl, jail dynamiting, a race between train and stage coach, a covered wagon wreck and a series of gunfights.

Florence Rice wins her most important assignment to date at Taylor's leading lady in the adaptation of the Forbes Parkhill novel.

WOMAN ENDS LIFE WITH .22 RIFLE

AT HER HOME IN ERLANGER—ILL HEALTH REPORTED AS BY HUSBAND.

Mrs. Ada Whitcomb, 46, of 321 Commonwealth Ave., Erlanger, committed suicide Monday afternoon when she fired a .22 caliber rifle into her stomach.

Her husband, George Whitcomb, who has part-time employment was away from home, leaving shortly after lunch for work. When he returned home at 5:30 he found his wife seated in a chair with a bullet hole through her stomach.

He rushed from the house as Dr. Riffe was passing in an automobile. "My wife has just killed herself," he told the coroner. Upon investigation, Dr. Riffe said she had probably been dead several hours.

Mrs. Whitcomb had been in ill health for some, which was said to be reason for the act.

Mrs. Whitcomb was a former resident of Boone County, having resided at Linaburg for several years.

Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, George Whitcomb, Jr., Middletown, and Russell Whitcomb, who is with the United States Navy and a daughter, Mrs. Eugene Thomas, Cincinnati.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. today at the Tallaferrero funeral home, with Rev. R. D. Martin, pastor of the Erlanger Baptist Church officiating. Burial will be in Highland cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of Philip Tallaferrero Erlanger funeral director.

Boone County Leads In Increased Revenue To State Fish And Game

E. M. Johnson, state conservation officer stated last week that from the year 1937 to 1938 his district showed an increase of $1,000, leading all other districts in the state.

Superintendent of Warden, Mr. Bosworth called a meeting of all state game wardens at Cynthiana last Thursday for a meeting, at which time general conservation of wild life was discussed. During the discussion comparisons were made as to increase in revenue in the various districts patrolled by state-employed wardens, which showed that Mr. Johnson's district led with an increase of $1,000.

This increase no doubt is due to the efficient work of Mr. Johnson, who is very active in all sections of this district.

BY BOONE COUNTY FARMERS COOPERATING IN 1939 AGRICULTURAL PROGRAM—$12,907 RECEIVED IN PHOSPHATE.

Checks totalling $17,802.04 for 586 farmers cooperating in the 1939 Agricultural Conservation Program, were received at the county office the past week, according to H. R. Forkner, county agent. Farmers in addition to this amount received $12,907.20 worth of phosphate in lieu of cash payments.

Less than one-half of the checks for participation in the 1938 program on tobacco and soil building practices have been received. Growers however, are being notified as fast as their checks arrive at the county office.

Growers are advised that for 1939 they will have to sign an application before their farm will be checked for payment. This is a change from last year and earlier information has been no closing date for signing this application. Committeemen are assisting cooperators fill out this form when they receive their 1938 checks.

Growers desiring phosphate under the 1939 program should file application immediately. One hundred fifty-eight tons of phosphate have been ordered to date and five car loads have been delivered. The available supply is expected to be completely exhausted in a very few weeks. Growers desiring phosphate for fall seeding should order immediately.

CCC TO OBSERVE 6TH BIRTHDAY

OPEN HOUSE TO BE HELD AT WALTON CAMP APRIL 11—EXHIBIT ON SOIL CONSERVATION WILL BE SHOWN.

Two hundred 40-acre farms are lost every day in the year through soil erosion.

But, according to Superintendent Darnell of CCC Camp, Walton, that rate of soil loss is going to decline materially in farmers coming their fight against erosion.

Mr. Darnell pointed to April 5 on the calendar. That date is the sixth anniversary of the Civilian Conservation Corps, and that date, six years ago, marked the beginning of the nation's first organized drive against soil washing.

Celebrating the anniversary, Camp Walton plans to hold open house on April 11, 1939. m. Ceremonies will be under the direction of Mr. Darnell and Lt. Wehr, Commanding Officer. An exhibit portraying the Camp's work in the soil conservation field has been prepared for visitors. Entertainment will consist of Tour of Camp, Moving Pictures, Exhibits of various work done by Soil Conservation Service and Tour of Field Work.

"The fact that 120 farmers in Boone, Kenton, Grant and Gallatin counties are cooperating with the camp shows that they realize that soil erosion is an acute problem in this vicinity," Mr. Darnell said, in announcing the open house. Dr. H. H. Bennett, Chief of the Soil Conservation Service, recently pointed out that we are losing the equivalent of two hundred 40-acre farms every day thru soil erosion. We are going down hill in respect to our soil, and most people do not realize the seriousness of the problem.

Dr. Bennett estimates that the country has lost 20 billion dollars through soil erosion, and a like amount will be lost within the next 50 years if erosion is not checked. Fortunately, Boone, Kenton, Grant and Gallatin county farmers are doing their part to end this alarming wastage.

According to figures released by the superintendent, work done by the camp since its establishment of July 17, 1935, included strip cropping, buffer striping, fencing, gathering limestone, building diversion ditches, tree planting and mulching.

Lt. Wehr joined Mr. Darnell in inviting everyone to attend the open house.

PRASE GIVEN KEEN JOHNSON

BY STATE CAMPAIGN MANAGER LYTER DONALDSON IN OPENING LOUISVILLE HEADQUARTERS.

Louisville, Ky., April 5th—Opening headquarters in the Kentucky Hotel for Lieutenant Governor Keen Johnson of Richmond, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, J. Lyter Donaldson, of Carrollton, said here today that the formation of a Johnson-for-Governor campaign organization "is in response to an overwhelming demand for an honest, trustworthy and unwavering Democrat as a candidate to lead the Democratic party to certain victory in November."

Mr. Donaldson, a banker, attorney and farmer, served as a member of the Kentucky State Highways Commission under three Governors, a part of which time he was chairman of the commission.

"The Democrats of Kentucky want unity and harmony, now and in 1940," Mr. Donaldson said, "and for that they need Keen Johnson."

Mr. Donaldson said that there had been no occasion for a formal announcement on the part of Mr. Johnson up to the present. "It is a sign of weakness," he said, "for a candidate to announce his candidacy every few days."

"Mr. Johnson has conducted himself in a manner that the dignity of the Governor's office requires. He has had unusual experience as Lieutenant Governor and Acting Governor and as secretary of the Democratic State Central Executive Committee. He is not trying to promise himself into the Governor's chair to gratify personal ambition. A good way to judge how a Governor will act when he is elected is the manner in which he conducts himself during a campaign."

"We are not trying to trump up any sideshow ballyhoo, for the real sentiment in behalf of Mr. Johnson on the part of the rank and file of loyal Democrats is so pronounced that it is apparent at every hand. Indications of support for him have come from all parts of the State due to the confidence in his integrity, his independence of thought and action and his record as a level-headed, straightforward public officer, always willing to sacrifice personal interest for the unity and harmony of his party and the welfare of his people."

BOONE COUNTY WILL RECEIVE 400 BOB WHITE QUAIL SATURDAY, APRIL 8

Will Be Distributed By Sportsmen of Local Fish and Game Protective Association.

Boone County will receive their allotment of quail Saturday, according to Edwin Johnson, conservation officer, who notified A. E. Stephens, county chairman Tuesday, that the birds would arrive in Burlington, early Saturday.

These quail were obtained thru the efforts of the Boone County

Fish and Game Protective Association and will be distributed in all sections of the county by various committeemen.

Wherever birds are released on a farmer's land he will be required to sign a receipt, showing that the birds were released by the committeeman.

"These quail will be reared on farms open to hunting, and in territory where the bird supply has been depleted. Farmers who refuse to allow hunting will be unable to obtain any of the quail sent to this county. Quail are purchased from the sale of hunting licenses, and therefore the hunters are paying for the birds. Committeemen are requested to come to Burlington where each member will receive his share of the allotment. Members are requested to bring their boxes in which to distribute their birds.

This is the first year that birds have been distributed in this manner, and it is up to the sportsmen of this county to see that they are placed on land which contains plenty of feed, cover and water. If this type of distribution proves successful, we are informed that the practice will be continued.

PEACE

The pulpit and press, school-room and platform have resounded through the many years with the words of peace and love. There are instances when the echo has been heard, that the need has been felt, that the words have carried weight, but this was only temporary and the echo died away.

The power of the great of the earth is not equal to the call. The heeding of the lowly ones falls too far short to stop the onslaught. What manner of man will we hear when he calls, "Peace?" One man said it, and the light of an Easter morn brings its echo again to us, a world in grave need of its comfort. When a loving voice, many Eastern mornings have spoken the words of wisdom, "Peace be unto you," the sound fell through the ages to be repeated among the peoples of the earth. But to what avail! The love and fellowship of man for man, has not vanished from the world. It is there for us, who are too engrossed to remember that the wisest man has showed us the way.

We arise with the radiance of an Easter morning in our hearts, and the lesson of an Easter teaching in our homes. Is it not possible for us to carry this lesson into the rest of the year's calendar? The resurrection and the rebirth, the chance to live again, is given to us all. There is no man in Boone County who would not improve himself, his morals, his entire existence, when given another chance. Life again, with its foundation based on peace, is satisfying picture to a hate-inspired world. It is Easter that reminds us of the need to remake, remodel and remove. We would wash the world clean and pure ourselves of petty hates, unfair practices, smallness in deceit and intrigue both individual and international. We have wanted many a time to remove the unpleasant and undesirable things in our lives and to begin again with a fairer and wiser hand. Throughout the year we slumber in self-satisfaction and self-pity. We awake on Easter morn to righteousness, of love instead of hate, of a new life in a rebirth. Must we be born again to high aspirations with its keynote of love and peace to die again until another Easter morning awakens our spirit?

For those of us who desire and seek the answer of what lies beyond, for those of us who wish the light and the truth, we have it with us though we do not consider it. Spoken by Him, "Peace be unto you."

FARM AND THE JEW

One of the chief criticisms of the Jew has been the impression that he was not a producer, that he was interested in being the middleman in a business transaction.

It has been said he lives only in the cities, too keen in driving business bargains and in obtaining the largest share of business profits. These have been mentioned with the shake-up in Germany. Propaganda all about us will cause one to lose good judgment. There may be folks, with a less keen business mind, who live in rural regions that the Jew has declined to consider. But before making any statements concerning the farm and the Jew in Germany, consider the report of the Jewish Agricultural society in our country, which shows that there has been a steady expansion of the Jewish farming community. During last year, 1,222 persons have sought the aid of the society in our country, which shows that there has been a steady expansion of the Jewish farming community. During last year, 1,222 persons have sought the aid of the society in obtaining jobs on the land. This is an item to count on.

TOO CLEAN

Most every family has a woman in who makes her home a comfortable and the family uncomfortable, by her constant use of cleaning. You would swear some women folks would prefer to be laid out with a mop or a broom rather than a lily, the way many of them spend their lives in the dust. Consider the little 70-year-old lady who stood on her veranda with a broom while her house burned. Each fireman, before entering the house, got his feet brushed so he wouldn't track any dirt inside. The house wasn't burning down, it was only a chimney fire but the fire fighters didn't get the floor dirty by tracking into the house. There is many a local can who feels he literally gets his feet swept before he dares enter his home. Cleanliness may be next to godliness, but sometimes it is uncomfortable being so close.

NOT TOO MUCH

The various means of local families is often a topic of conversation and comment. We often wonder how so and so can afford this and that. Did you know that the average delicatessen and delicatessen spends from $1,200 to $1,500 a year? This would figure a suit about every four years for Father, seldom a telephone for the family. Mother sending $3 for a winter and a summer hat and the food would be lacking in delicatessen. And America's living standard leads the world. This would indicate that we have much. When they speak of over-production it doesn't mean too many suits for Dad and hats for Mom and green vegetables and steam heat.

Selective Cutting
Improving Timber Land

The complete erosion-control program which farmers are carrying out in the Soil Conservation Service area near Walton, Kentucky, is helping farmers to solve their wood problems as well as their feed problems, according to Ward T. Darnell, Camp Superintendent.

Just as the increased use of close growing hay crops and improvement of pastures to control erosion has simplified the feed problem, better woodland management is helping farmers to get the most effective return from their woodland. Instead of the old practice of clear cutting a portion of their woods each year to get fuel wood, farm lumber, and posts, farmers are protecting their land and improving their timber stand at the same time by selective cuttings. The removal of disease, slow-growing, and misshapen trees for fuel and farm lumber promotes the more rapid growth of straight, healthy trees for a future timber crop, he explained. Protection from damage by fire and grazing maintains a protective ground cover, and insures the establishment of a full stand of trees. Many farmers are planting small areas of black locust trees on their farms to provide a supply of durable fence posts for future use. This will eventually eliminate the necessity for frequent replacement of fence posts and will thus conserve both time and labor on the farm. Mr. Darnell pointed out that all erosion-control practices tend to provide a better farm program by reducing the outlay of cash for farm needs that can adequately be met at home, Mr. Darnell added.

MUSSEL FISHING OPEN
APRIL 1ST, SAYS BROWN
Frankfort, Ky.—Mussel fishing will be opened in all public waters in Kentucky with the exception of the Ohio River on April 1st. Major James Brown, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, said today in a statement for the press.

Licensees for mussel fishing can be issued only by the Director and then only upon application. The license fee for residents is $3 which shall entitle the holder to operate one boat only. The fee for non-residents is $5.00 for one boat. An operator desiring to operate more than one boat shall be required to secure a separate license for each boat. The holder of a license while taking, catching or killing mussels for commercial purposes shall have his license with him ready for exhibition, and shall exhibit same when required to do so by an authorized officer. Major Brown stated. The license entitles the holder to operate on any shell bed, provided (that) not more than four boats may operate to the mile of shell bed.

On or before the 31st day of December of the year in which any license is issued, the holder must make a written report to the Game and Fish Division for the purpose of stating the total weight of mussels taken, caught or killed under such license, the names and location of the waters from which such mussels were taken and the amount received for shells sold. Upon failure to make such a report, the Division shall not issue another license until such report shall be filed.

The Division of Game and Fish is empowered to make such rules and regulations governing the operation of boats in the taking of mussels as it may deem best for the proper enforcement of the law. In order to prevent the depletion of the mussel beds and to insure correct propagation of the mussels the Division has the authority to close any beds to operators at any time and for any period that they may deem necessary, and during such closed season of any bed or beds it shall be a violation of the law for any one to take mussels from such beds. When order is issued closing any mussel bed or beds due notice of such order shall be published in at least three consecutive issues of some newspaper published in the county where the bed or beds are located, Major Brown stated.

PAUL PREACHES THE RISEN CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—Acts 13:16, 23-31, 38-39; 1 Corinthians 15:12-20.
But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the firstfruits them that sleep.—1 Corinthians 15:20.

From time immemorial man has stood questioning the close of life, somehow feeling that as Tennyson expressed it:

Thou wilt not leave us in the dust;
Thou madest man, he knows not why;
Thou saidst he never should die,
And thou hast made him; thou art just.

But nowhere in nature was there written the assurance that death did not end. In fact it was not until Christ won His victory over death that there was any real certainty that there was life beyond the grave.

Christianity is the only faith that rests upon the resurrection of its founder. Other religions place pride in the monuments at the graves of their founders. Christianity alone presents an empty tomb. Since only God can give life and raise the dead, it is the only faith that has the right to the glorious claim that Christianity is the one true faith—a victorious living faith.

Resurrection truth

I. Makes the Preacher Bold (v. 16).

Barabbas and Paul had been set apart by the Holy Spirit and by the Church for missionary work, and on their first journey had reached Antioch in Pisidia. In the synagogue on the Sabbath day they were asked to speak to the people. Paul arose in holy boldness and called upon them to hearken to him. What is the important message which gives this preacher such assurance? The resurrection of Jesus Christ. It is true that the sermon he gives presents much other information as it logically and tactfully leads up to his high point, but that point is the resurrection and the redemption which it assures.

II. Makes the Gospel Clear (vv. 23-31, 38, 39).

Reviewing Israel's history, Paul declares that of the seed of David God had "according to his promise raised unto Israel a Saviour, Jesus; but that they slew Him. Now if that were the end, we would indeed have no more hope. But God raised Him from the dead" (I Cor. 15:19). Our hopes of salvation, with Israel's hopes, were bound up in Christ. But a dead Christ could save no one. He said, "We must have a living Christ. Had Paul's message stopped there it would have been a hollow mockery. But what, what is it we read? 'God raised him from the dead' (v. 30). Blessed truth! Glorious foundation for the proclamation of the gospel so aptly epitomized in the words of verses 38 and 39. Now it is clear that we have a victorious, living Saviour and a gospel to preach that is the 'power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth.' (Rom. 1:16).

III. Makes the Future Certain (I Cor. 15:20-28).

Man comes to the years of maturity and suddenly faces the shocking fact that the life to which he gives so much, for which he labors and sacrifices, is but for a brief span of years, perhaps at the most "three score years and ten, and if by reason of strength they be fourscore years, yet is their strength labor and sorrow" (Ps. 90:10). He sees that friends and loved ones must part at the grave. Is this the end? The answer to that question comes to us today from the empty tomb in the garden through the words of Paul. Listen to their majesty—rejoice in their beauty and assurance: "But now is Christ risen from the dead." Hallelujah! And that's not all. He has "become the firstfruits of them that sleep" (v. 20), which means that all those who are asleep in Jesus will be brought forth in due season.

The resurrection of Jesus transformed the grave (as a friend of mine expresses it) from a dark hole in the ground where hope ends, to a highway, going down, it is true, through the valley of the shadow, but lighted by the victory of Jesus over death and bordered on both sides by Easter lilies. This is "brought to pass the saying that is written, 'Death is swallowed up in victory'—a victory that makes us 'undefeated, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord' (I Cor. 15:54, 58). It is Easter. Christ is risen! Let us rejoice!

God's Garden

God Almighty first planted a garden; and indeed it is the purest of human pleasures. It is the greatest refreshment to the spirit of man, without which buildings and palaces are but gross handicrafts; and a man shall ever see that, when ages grow to idleness and elegance men come to build stately sooner than to garden finely, as if gardening were the greater perfection. — Francis Bacon.

FARMERS PROFIT BY BETTER BOOKKEEPING

"A pen is one of the farmer's most important agricultural implements the farmer has, FSA County Supervisor W. O. Blackburn said today.

Unless accurate records of expenses are kept, it is difficult to tell whether the farmer has used his money to best advantage during the year. Wise spending of the farm dollar is stressed for all farm families co-operating with the Farm Security Administration in its Rural Rehabilitation program.

The more abundant life frequently is obtained from the way money is spent rather than the amount made, Mr. Blackburn said. Wise homemakers often can make a small income buy all the necessities and some luxuries.

Mr. Blackburn pointed out that in the past too much money has been spent by farmers for food, leaving only a small amount for clothing, education and medical care. The FSA encourages a live-at-home program with credit and advice for low income farm families.

"When money spent for food is reduced 10 per cent, it means that much more for magazines and books for the farm home or some small personal luxuries for the farm wife," he said.

With the aid of the Farm Family Record books, FSA families have eliminated the guesswork as to where their crop money went. For the first time many families are able to tell exactly where every cent was spent and why. Thrifty farmers have begun to raise all the meat and vegetables necessary for an adequate diet at home. They find that farmers only need to buy salt, coffee, flour and sugar.

The relearning of this valuable lesson that some farmers forget in the days of high prices for cotton and tobacco is being reflected in the improvement of their homes and outhouses.

18,000 QUAIL NOW BEING RELEASED IN KENTUCKY

Approximately 18,000 quail are now being released in the fields of Kentucky, Steve Wakefield, Assistant Director of the Division of Game and Fish, announced today.

The Division is releasing 15,000 birds and this number will be supplemented by approximately 3,000 Bob White purchased by individuals and clubs over the state.

The birds will be released in 106 counties of the state. Where a county has an organization of sportsmen, the birds will be released by the club under the supervision of the local Conservation Officer. In the counties where no club is to be found, the Conservation Officer is handling the quail-releasing.

Wakefield stated that no Mexican quail would be released but that the Division had purchased 10,000 Texas Bob White quail to supplement the 5,000 native birds which the Division was able to purchase from private hatcheries and individuals in this state.

With the cooperation of the organized sportsmen, the Division will release the birds much more rapidly this year than in the past and for this reason the death rate of the birds should be cut down considerably. Many birds which were held in cages for any length of time and the Division is trying to eliminate this loss by releasing the birds immediately upon receipt.

Wakefield announced that he was being released in the quail-releasing club met with Mrs. Jonas Stevens for the day.

The meeting was called to order by the president Mrs. J. R. Williams. The roll call was answered by giving the name of some new members and a member planned to grow this year.

Mrs. Williams, president, appointed a finance committee composed of Mrs. Lola Ernst, Mrs. Jonas Stevens, Mrs. Albert Willis, Mrs. Lula B. Hume and Mrs. Haynes Bruce. It is the duty of this committee to raise money for the club.

By motion and second the club members adopted the "Little Sister" plan. This plan is for each member of the club to adopt some lady outside the club as a little sister, and after each club meeting inform her of what the club did. The meaning of the "Little Sister," is that the Homemakers' club may reach more homes. After lunch our members got down to business and hard work. During the afternoon with long-kong grass we put rush bottoms in three stools and one chair.

One new member was admitted into our club, Mrs. Mildred Ligon.

NO EXHIBIT FOR KENTUCKY AT SAN FRANCISCO FAIR

Kentucky will have no exhibit at either the New York or the San Francisco World's Fair this year. G. M. Pedley, State director of the Division of Publicity said today. The statement said:

"While the legislature passed an act transferring $5,000 to the fund of the Highway Department to be used for renting space and constructing an exhibit at the New York exposition, the attorney general subsequently ruled such transfer of funds to be unconstitutional and there are no other means open to the State to provide necessary money."

"Saturday, August 19, anniversary of the Battle of Blue Licks, Last Battle of the Revolution," has been chosen as the date of a Kentucky Day celebration at the New York Fair and a program is being arranged for this occasion by Grover Whalen, president of the Fair, Governor Chandler and the Division of Publicity. This program will be given wide publicity in the press and via radio well ahead of date.

"A Kentucky Day celebration will also be arranged at the San Francisco Fair, date to be announced later."

Plans Being Made By 4-H Clubs For Spring And Summer Activities

Boone county 4-H club members are making definite plans for this spring and summer, in their third series of meetings now being held, according to H. B. Drake, assistant county agent. These plans include arrangements for the spring rally to be held in Burlington, Saturday, May 13th. The club members along with their parents and friends from the entire county will spend the day in having a good time, giving and watching demonstrations, judging contests, style shows, etc.

The demonstrations to be given will be improved farm practices illustrated in such a way that each person present will be able to carry out that practice on his home farm. It will be the case of the boys teaching the man and at the same time developing in himself certain abilities which will certainly be valuable to him in his later years.

Judging from the interest shown in the meetings already held there will be a large number of these demonstrations given May 13th. The best teams will be selected to compete in a district contest at Williamsburg later in the month. From contest the winners will go to Junior week which is held in Lexington the second week in June.

Each club is also making definite plans for its summer tour of projects. These will be held in July this year. Each member's project will be visited by the entire club of that community and any other interested persons. The purpose is to give each individual an opportunity to show what he has been doing as well as to allow the others in the group to profit from his experiences.

A PARTY GAME

This is a game to loosen up the staid members of a party. You can buy these tiny play autos at any ten-cent store. Each player is given a car, which is wound up tightly. The players kneel on the floor behind their cars ready to go! They are off, at a given signal, each player shouting for his car to win. The one whose car wins the greatest number of times is the winner. It is nice to reward him with all of the toy autos which we can give to children. There are those who go in for wagers who place bets on the cars, using cinnamon candies, lollipops or chocolate drops as exchange.

Local Men Will Attend WOW Meet In Lexington

Burlington will be represented in the Head Camp convention of the Woodmen of the World Local Insurance Society meeting at Lexington on April 18, 19, 20 by two local members. Elected by their respective camps to represent our city at the meeting, the local delegates will meet with other Woodmen from all over the jurisdiction, which includes the states of Kentucky and Indiana.

Representing the Woodmen of this community are Stanley Ryle, secretary and C. G. Lamb, committee members, both of Camp No. 614 Burlington.

The Head Camp convention is one of the 25 such meetings being held all over the nation. Reports on the progress of the Woodmen of the World, addresses by national officers, a mass initiation of new members, and election of officers and delegates to the Sovereign Camp convention, are on the program.

Examination To Be Held For Walton Postmaster Position

Announcement was made last Thursday by the U. S. Civil Service Commission of an open competitive examination for the position as postmaster of Walton. The Walton position will pay $1900 per year.

Information may be obtained from either the Walton postoffice or from James L. B. Riffe, civil service secretary at the U. S. Post-office, Covington, Ky.

MINIMUM WAGE RECOMMENDATIONS ARE ACCEPTED

Frankfort, Ky.—W. C. Burrow, Commissioner of Industrial Relations, accepted the recommendations of the Minimum Wage Board for zoning the State of Kentucky, Monday in a radio address from Louisville. Only slight modifications were made in the recommendations of the Board.

The zoning plan accepted by Commissioner Burrow is as follows:

Zone 1 comprises cities of twenty thousand or more population and contiguous territory within five miles thereof, more or less within the discretion of the Commissioner. Employers in this zone must pay a minimum wage of at least twenty-five cents an hour for the first forty-eight hours within any one week and thirty-seven and one-half cents for all hours thereafter.

Zone 2 shall consist of cities of not less than four thousand and more than twenty thousand population and contiguous territory within five miles thereof, more or less within the discretion of the Commissioner. Employers in this zone must pay a minimum wage of at least 22.5 cents per hour for the first fifty hours in any one week and thirty-four cents for all hours thereafter.

Zone 3 shall consist of cities and towns of less than four thousand population and all unallocated territory outside thereof within the discretion of the Commissioner. Employers in this zone must pay a minimum wage of at least twenty cents an hour for the first fifty-two hours of any one week and thirty cents an hour for all hours thereafter.

A further regulation was recommended by the Board and accepted by Commissioner Burrow to protect employers in Zone 1 and 2 against employers who might locate outside of those zones in order to pay a lower minimum. That regulation is as follows: Whenever any employer maintains a business establishment in a zone in Kentucky and offers his goods, wares, merchandise for sale or maintains an agency or route within a higher zone, the wages paid by such employer shall be the wages governed by the Wage Order in the higher zone.

Commissioner Burrow stated in his address, "I want to better the conditions of the vast number of women and minor workers in Kentucky yet, on the other hand, there is no desire on my part to overburden any employer or group of employers in the Commonwealth." He stated that he believed that the zoning plan was necessary in order to prevent injury to the employers in the rural sections.

Clay A. Copeland, Supervisor, Minimum Wage Law, commended Commissioner Burrow on accepting the zoning plan by saying that he believed that Mr. Burrow had reached a happy medium which should be acceptable to all groups.

Growers Demonstrate New Melon Varieties

Melon growers in Petersburg and Grant communities will have an opportunity to grow three new varieties of wilt resistant melons, according to H. R. Fulkner, county agent. These varieties are Hawk-estbury or Grey Shipper, Stone Mountain No. 119 and Leesburg.

These new varieties will be compared with wilt resistant varieties previously grown and with non-resistant varieties. The seed will be distributed in small amounts through local community program project leaders.

One of the most hopeful and optimistic outlooks is that picture of a 93-year-old man, with head buried in a seed catalogue.

Turkey shipped nearly 45,000,000 pounds of seedless raisins to Germany last year.

KITCHEN KINKS

Use a solution of washing soda to remove foods that have been burned onto enamel cooking utensils.

Cook corn, beans and peas and add to white sauce and pour over toast, making a good luncheon dish.

Use scissors to remove seeds and pulp from green peppers when they are being prepared for stuffing.

The only sensible place for the refrigerator is as far from the stove as possible.

Add flavoring to foods when they are cool. If the food is hot, much of the flavoring will vanish in steam. This does not apply to baked foods, however.

Gayety Theater

News

Fri. and Sat.—"Prairie Moon"
Sunday and Monday—"Letter of Introduction"
Tuesday—"Storm Over Bengal"
Wed. and Thursday, April 12 & 13—"Magnificent Obsession"

Gene Autry, the screen's Number One Cowboy, and his pal Smiley Burnette, who is featured in all of Autry's pictures, gave some "feature-picture" actors the thrill of their lives during production of "Prairie Moon." The Autry starring picture which will be shown at the Gayety Friday and Saturday. In "Prairie Moon," Gene and Smiley undertake the task of reforming three young brats from the slums of New York who have come out west. There are plenty of thrills and excitement before the boys are finally convinced that honest is the best policy, and that the law is right. Thrills and sweet music from Gene Autry! Comedy from Smiley Burnette! A new kind of screen entertainment from filmland's most sensational child star, Tommy Ryan.

Adolphe Menjou, Andrea Leeds, Edgar Bergen (with Charlie McCarthy, of course) and George Murphy head the cast of Universal's "Letter of Introduction," to be shown at the Gayety Theatre Sunday and Monday. In strong support roles are Rita Johnson, Ann Sheridan, and Eve Arden, all accomplished players.

"Letter of Introduction" presents the famous Bergen-McCarthy team in their first stellar roles. Previously they had been seen in one production, "Goldwyn Follies," in what amounted to a group of specialities. In the current offering, a John M. Stahl production for Universal, Bergen has one of the pivotal roles of the drama. Menjou will be seen as an aging actor, whose vanity and fear of growing old contribute the main dramatic theme to the picture. Miss Leeds appears as his daughter, whose existence he keeps from the world, and with whom his relations bring a series of comic and tragic events.

Murphy is cast as a vaudeville dancer, in love with Miss Leeds, and Rita Johnson plays his dancing partner, in love with him.

Miss Arden portrays a hard-boiled show girl, while Ann Sheridan will be seen as the society girl bride of Menjou.

Clyde Cook, who enacts the role of Alf in Republic's "Storm Over Bengal," exciting story of the British legion which will be shown at the Gayety Tuesday, is one of Hollywood's real veterans. The players will include Patric Knowles, Richard Cromwell, Rochelle Hudson and others. Vast as the endless sands of the desert, an amazing spectacle—a gorgeous panorama of colorful far-off India. That is the picturesque background of this stirring tale of plot and counter-plot in turbulent Bengal.

More Foot Sufferers Relieved

N. TULCH
Foot Comfort Specialist
AT PEOPLE'S FOOT COMFORT
9th and Madison Covington

History—Mrs. N. H.—Housewife—Symptoms—feet and legs ached continually. Knees stiffened to such an extent she was unable to walk up or down stairs. Symptoms were similar in every respect to rheumatism and arthritis. After restoring perfect foot balance in the proper surgical shoe, correct posture resulted and normal articulation of joints in the feet and limbs was promoted. Pain and stiffness disappeared and Mrs. H. can comfortably resume her daily routine.

COMMENT. The above example illustrates just the extent of the havoc wrought when feet weaken and sagging arches allow pressure on nerves and blood vessels. The effect of poor posture resulting from sagging arches can so affect the general health, that not only discomfort and agonizing pain results, but time is lost from work and income is reduced.

If you are suffering from backaches, headaches, pains in the shoulders or stiffness in the knees and feet let foot comfort specialists help you to regain that long-sought comfort and foot health. Adv.

AT THE JAMES

WALTON, KY.

Friday and Saturday, April 7th and 8th—"Ice Follies of 1939" Joan Crawford, James Stewart, Lew Ayres. See two of your favorite stars in this picture of magnificent splendor. Ice scenes, songs, Joan. Everything about this picture will be a direct appeal to your appreciation.

Sunday, April 9th—"King of the Turf" with Adolphe Menjou, Dolores Costello, Roger Daniel. The thrilling, touching story that tells the finest thing a father ever did for his son. Heartbeats that tell the screen's greatest father-and-son history.

Monday, April 10th—"Say It In French" with Ray Milland, Olympia Branda. He gave her lessons in English... she gave him lessons in love. A little French doll comes to town to take over and make over her man... and gives you your most delicious romantic thrill in years.

Tuesday, April 11th—"King of the Airs" with Ken Maynard, Lucille Browne. If it's action you want—here it is. A roaring rodeo rider goes hot on the trail of a gang of desperadoes—A trail that leads from Sawdust to Alkali in a picture that will leave you breathless with excitement.

Wednesday, April 12th—"Mad Miss Manton," with Barbara Stanwyck, Henry Fonda. As usual these two stars give you your money's worth in heart thrills, excitement and entertainment.

Thursday, April 13th—"Ambush" with Gladys Swarthout, Lloyd Nolan. A nightmare of terror that might have happened to you. Two happy-go lucky people in love waiting for each other and no more caught up in a maelstrom of wild adventure—victims of a calm killer to whom a life means nothing. Terrifying, breath-taking drama—so real it might have happened to you.

BOONE COUNTY QUOTA SET AT FOUR FOR CMC CAMP

Enrollment in the Citizens Military Training Camps for Boone County for 1939 will be in charge of Mr. Rufus Tanner, Florence, Ky. according to announcement just made by Mr. Walter H. Wells, Infantry CMC Officer for Kentucky, Boone County has been assigned a quota of 4 reservations and only young men applying early are assured of being ordered to camp.

The camp will be conducted at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indiana, during the month of August. Mr. Tanner stated and all young men of excellent character and good physique between the ages of 17 and 24 are eligible to take the basic military training. All necessary expenses including care to and from camp are borne by the Government. Well balanced substantial meals designed to whet the appetites of growing youths are provided free as well as uniforms, and quarters in regular army bunks.

The purpose of the camps Mr. Tanner explained is to bring together young Americans from all walks of life and through 30 days of camp life build them physically and develop in them firmness and morally. Better citizenship is stressed and a number of conferences designed to inculcate them with sound Americanism are on the schedule of instruction. Military drills are conducted mornings while afternoon are devoted to athletics. The recreational program also has been carefully prepared as Army officers appreciate the necessity of play.

Mr. Tanner said he would be glad to discuss the camps with the parents of eligible youths and in closing emphasized that attendance carried absolutely no obligation for future military service.
